Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Have you stopped to think that you are a Minute Man, 1947 model, when you invest in United States Savings Bonds? The first shots in defense of your security were fired on April 19, 1775, on Concord bridge in Massachusetts. Today you stand guard over your security not with bullets but with your Savings Bonds which in the years to come will make your home the fortress it should be against financial distress. Equally important to you is the fact that your growing stack of Savings Bonds is available for attainment of personal or family goals such as a new home or education for your children. From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Here's to the Women-Folk!

There's a line at the heading of the Woman's Column in my paper that reads:

"Women through the years have stood Keepers of the flame ..."

Pretty easy to see what it means; whether it's the flame on the hearth, or the candle in the window, or the feeling of warmth that surrounds a home.

It's the women who are guardians of the things we cherish about homelife—who are tolerant of ashes on the rug; the rings a glass of beer can leave on tables; or the comfortable but too-worn chair that we can't bear to throw away.

From where I sit, those little satisfactions become more and more important in this world of strife and change. Smoke rings curling from a mellow pipe; a glass of beer; a comfortable chair before the fire. And I'd like to salute the housewives — "keepers of the flame" — whose tolerance and understanding helps preserve them!

Soap Powder

To convert bar soap into soap powder, be sure the soap is well dried. Cut it into small pieces and run them through the meat grinder. Then let them dry thoroughly and pulverize them.

Silage Practical Here

Legume silage is now practical on many Marshall County farms, County Agent Forbes said today. Many farmers may put part of their grass in silos because of insuffient mow space or curing troubles during wet weather.

A few years ago many troubles arose in connection with grass silage. The hay was hard to handle and adding a preservative meant extra work and trouble, Forbes says.

With field choppers, there is no need to pitch tangled hay into the cutter. Trials at Beltsville, Maryland, with alfalfa, show that preservatives are not necessary in curing. These experiments showed, too, that less dry matter and protein are lost and three times as much carotene is retained in silage as in hay.

This does not mean that silage can replace hay entirely, says Ralph Wayne, extension dairyman at University Farm. Some good hay is necessary.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture experiments indicate that there are certain essentials in making legume silage. They are:

1. Be sure silo is airtight and has smooth walls.
2. Wilt the crop slightly to 60-86 per cent moisture before putting in silo.
3. Set the cutter for ¼ inch for best results.
4. Distribute silage evenly and tramp thoroughly in top third of silo.
5. Put 4 to 6 feet of heavy, unwilted silage on top of wilted silage.
6. Level off top and keep well tramped near wall while silage settles.
7. Reinforce silo because pressure is greater than with corn.

Mr. and Mrs. and O. L. Johnson Gloria and visited at the Oscar Bottem home at Thief River Falls Sunday.

Mrs. Hazel Olson and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Tonnes Nelson of Thief River Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Erickson visited Mrs. Paul Olson and Dorothy on Sunday.

—WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS—

Braden Out, U. S. Shifts Policy; Approve Bill To Unify Services; Corn Borer Onslaught Foretold

Released by Western Newspaper Union

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

SWINGBACK:

Braden Quits

Spruille Braden, longtime advocate of and principal force behind this country's hard-handed attitude toward Fascist-inclined Argentina, has resigned as assistant secretary of state in charge of Latin-American affairs.

Armour

To succeed him in that post, President Truman was expected to nominate Norman Armour of New Jersey, top-flight career diplomat. Armour previously served as American envoy in the Argentine and is well known and liked there. Latin-American reaction to his appointment was expected to be highly favorable.

Braden

Acceptance of Braden's resignation by President Truman was generally regarded as a strong implication that the United States is ready to swing back to a policy of appeasement in Latin America. It was anticipated that the changed attitude would take the form of "just a little appeasement" of Latin-American Fascist dictators, particularly Juan D. Peron, president of Argentina.

Braden, long a foe of Peron and his methods, told Mr. Truman in a letter that personal responsibilities compelled him to return to private business. His resignation is scheduled to become effective June 30.

Departure of Braden from the state department followed closely on the heels of his being overruled by the administration on two basic issues in inter-American relations: Supplying of arms to Latin-American nations and formation of a military alliance with other republics in the western hemisphere. Braden had opposed both of those policies.

NEW DANGER:

Fear Corn Borer

Already impaired by constant rains and cool weather which have harried the corn belt this spring, the corn crop faces a new danger of infestation of corn borers because of the late season.

This year the damp weather did not permit much corn to go in during the normal May 20 to 25 planting period, so most of the corn was planted later. Wet, cold weather also held back the emergence of the first brood of borers; and as a result, the late planted corn which would ordinarily be safe from attack now will be subject to damage from the pests.

Last year the corn borer caused 37 million dollars crop damage throughout the nation. The borer threat now is so serious that special radio broadcasts have been set up to keep farmers aware of the pests' progress.

STEP DOWN:

Hague Leaves

Frank Hague, hammer-swinging political boss of New Jersey for more than three decades, has resigned as mayor of Jersey City.

One of the last representatives of the era of great American political bosses, Hague made it clear that he will keep his power as city, county and state Democratic chieftain and that he will remain as vice-chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Hague said that his nephew, Frank Hague Eggers, would succeed him in the mayoral spot until the next commission election in 1949.

Rail Crisis Looms

Fears of a minor crisis in railway shipping in mid-July have been expressed by federal transportation experts in view of an apparent slowdown in frieght car construction.

Contributing factors are mounting industrial production coupled with increasingly heavy wheat export movements, and officials predict that the "minor crisis" could swiftly develop into a major transportation block unless steps are taken to ease the traffic slowdown or prevent it from occurring.

With fate of the now financially embarrassed Office of Defense Transportation still undecided, the Interstate Commerce commission has been requested to assume full responsibility for continuing orders requiring full loading of boxcars in the event that congress does not extend the life of ODT beyond its June 30 expiration date.

Meantime, ODT has sent investigators to freight car building companies to probe reports that allocated steel tonnages have not gone entirely into the 10,000-a-month car construction program.

He'll Stay Put

Hungarian minister Aladar Szegedy-Maszak says he will reject Hungary's new pro-Communist government's order calling him home from his duties as envoy to the United States.

ONE HEAD:

Unified Services

Unification of the nation's armed forces advanced a step toward reality when the senate armed services committee approved a measure to put the army, navy and a new separate air force under the "unified direction" of a secretary of national security.

The proposed legislation has been placed on the congressional calendar for senate action this session, and debate on the measure was expected to begin in July.

High-ranking naval officers assailed the bill as "merger legislation," which the navy has consistently opposed. However, the unification bill specifies that there shall be no merger of the military services.

It would establish a "national security organization" under a secretary of national security with cabinet rank. The secretary, a civilian, would fix general policies and exercise general direction of the army, navy and air force. Those three departments would be headed by secretaries without cabinet status.

The measure also provides for a war council made up of the four secretaries and the chiefs of staff of the services, a research and development board and a munitions board.

TRAVAIL:

Labor and 1948

The hotly contested labor bill to impose restraints on strikes and unions, emphatically stamped with top-heavy congressional approval, poses for President Harry S. Truman possibly the most difficult decision he has faced since he took his seat in the White House.

To veto or not to veto—that is the question. And the answer undoubtedly will be reflected in the 1948 presidential election.

Backers of the bill, however, are certain that the measure will become law, regardless of the final presidential decision, because both houses of congress are able to muster enough votes to override a veto.

Some major provisions of the bill on which the fate of the next election may be riding would:

1. Authorize the government to seek injunctions to halt national emergency strikes for 80 days while mediation is carried out.

2. Ban the closed shop and forbid various kinds of "lesser strikes and boycotts.

3. Permit law suits against unions for unfair labor practices.

4. Create a new agency, outside the labor department, to mediate labor disputes.

LUCIFERS:

Not for Free

Things like this cannot be made light of:

Congress has been told by a large match company that the excise tax of two cents on 1,000 matches is "the beginning of the end of about the only thing our people get for nothing."

"The free distribution of 300 billion wooden and paper matches annually, about 60 per cent of total production, is fast fading from the American scene," the company complained.

BROTHER ACT:

Another Nazi

Adolf Hitler's foster brother, Joseph Mayrhofer, is no angel either.

He is going on trial shortly before the people's court at Vienna on charges of carrying on illegal Nazi activities and of profiteering under the Nazi regime in Austria. Mayrhofer will be the third of the late fuehrer's relatives to be prosecuted.

Hitler, when he was still Adolf Schickelgruber, was a ward of Mayrhofer's father, a farmer.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Good Strategy

Congressman Hatton Sumners, in my opinion one of America's greatest living statesmen, has announced his purpose to retire at the end of the 79th congress. This news first appeared as a dark cloud because men like him are sorely needed today, but in Washington last month I was shown the silver lining. Rep. Sumners is "retiring" to a more strategic theatre of war.

The people of America have a danger that is common to them all and a common duty to defend themselves against it. This nation's hope for a bright future depends on a few facts being seen by a great many people at once. Americans can be depended upon for action at any time the truth is not hidden from them or distorted beyond recognition. Mr. Sumners will soon start talking straight to them.

Powerful Truths

"I have watched what my own generation . . . has been doing to the greatest system of democratic government ever evolved through the processes of the ages," said the veteran lawmaker. "By ignoring principles and the lessons of history, accepting for our guidance the theories of men and political expedience, we have made dependents of our citizens and vassals of our states.

"By concentration of power and drafts on the Federal Treasury we now have a bewildering governmental agglomeration impossible of democratic control. Wasteful and inefficient, by nature it is the instrumentality of favoritism, oppression and corruption. It is the destroyer of self-reliance, self-respect and self-governing ability without which no people can remain free."

But There's Hope

A public awakening will save this country from any form of tyranny. Mr. Sumners does not doubt this. He said, "Washington is as sensitive to the changing currents of public opinion as a barometer is to record changes in the weather." If acts of congress fail to reflect public sentiment, it is because such sentiment is itself confused or indistinct to the majority.

Mr. Sumners is taking to the lecture platform. I wish him as wide a hearing as his profound experience deserves. Popular education is the right place to start winning for America a future of freedom. This man has seen Congress sweat under heat applied by political pressure groups. He sees the need to open a door and admit a cooling draft of public sentiment. And he can do it.

Remarkable Record

Born in Tennessee, Hatton Sumners turned 21 in Texas. His congressional district (Dallas) has kept him in Washington 34 years by electing him to the 63rd and all subsequent congresses. He is a sound thinker and an eloquent speaker. He is a nationally recognized authority on Constitutional Law. He is chairman of the House Judiciary Committee and has been for a long time.

In a brief and eloquent word-picture of official Washington, the retiring crusader for decentralization of power said of Congress: "The political backing of a well organized minority is consistent and dependable whereas the backing of an unorganized majority is fickle." That's clear. An enlightened public opinion must supplant loud and selfish minorities as guiding stars of Congress.

Simplified Shopping For Home Furnishings

GOOD news for rural families is the announcement that home furnishings in properly matching and contrasting colors soon will be available, the Rural Home Editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer points out.

More than 200 manufacturers have formed the Home Furnishings Style Council. All of them will use the same nine basic colors in designing certain lines of their merchandise.

For homemakers this means simplified shopping for everything from floor coverings through furnishings, drapery materials, linoleum, upholstery, Venetian blinds, paint and wall papers, points out this Capper's Farmer expert.

Colors were chosen according to those most popular for homes today and named after sections of the United States. They are green (Shenandoah Group), tan (Alamo Group), mauve (Prairie Group), rose (Grand Canyon Group), gray, (Great Smoky Group), cedar, (Santa Fe Group), blue (Great Lakes Group), burgundy (Adirondack Group), and beige (Cape Cod Group). Each group has been broken down into tones and shades from the lightest to the darkest values.

Washday for Lamp Shades Makes Rooms Brighter

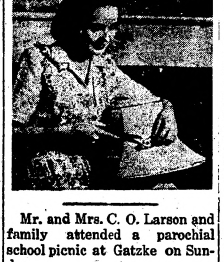
ROOMS will look brighter when you establish a washday for the lamp shades and light bulbs, the Rural Home editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer advises housewives.

"In the days of kerosene lamps it was part of the weekly housecleaning to wash lamp chimneys," she points out in the farm magazine read by 1,300,000 farm families. "But not everyone realizes that electric lighting calls for a regular cleaning program.

"Your lamp shades will give better service and look much better if they are kept clean."

Here are her directions for giving lamp shades a real soap and water treatment:

Remove a parchment or paper shade from lamp; go over it with a cloth rung quite dry from rich suds. Then go over the shade with a cloth wrung out of clear water. Finish by wiping it with a dry cloth. Examine the shade to see if bindings are glued or sewed on and if there are ornaments that might not be washable. These should be cut off before washing.



Make up a tub of good rich, lukewarm suds. Plunge the shade up and down in the suds. Rub obstinate spots gently with two well-soaped fingers. After the shade is bright and fresh looking, give it several rinses of the same even lukewarm temperature.

Stand the shade to dry on a bath towel, away from sunlight or direct heat. You can hasten drying by blotting the shade between the palms of your hands with another bath towel. When the shade is partially dry, reverse its position.

Don't forget, too, that electric bulbs should be cleaned regularly. Do not try to wash the electric bulbs in their sockets. The best way is to remove the bulb from the socket and wipe with a soft cloth wrung out of soapy water. Hold the bulb by the metal end while wiping the glass with the soapy cloth. This minimizes the risk of wetting the metal part. If the metal part of the bulb does get wet, be sure not to screw it back into its socket until it is completely dry.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Larson and family attended a parochial school picnic at Gatzke on Sunday.

Bert Childers was saying, it's funny how so many of our wartime habits stick with us.

Bert likes plenty of butter on his bread, but even now he can't get over spreading it like it was scarce as hen's teeth. And as a war-worker, Bert used to stick to a temperate glass of beer on time off; and he still holds fast to beer and moderation.

Same way with Bert's wife. She not only has no trouble saving used fats, and waste paper. She's learned from wartime necessity to save every single thing that might possibly be used again.

From where I sit, it's mighty good that so many of these common-sense habits like thrift and moderation have stayed with us. Because they belong in America—along with tolerance, and mutual respect for one another's rights. They're habits that have helped to make this country strong and neighborly and free.

Dr. Bratrud on Con. Committee

Governor Youngdahl is anxious to see whether propagation of game fish and other conservation services of the state can be improved. He appointed a Governor's Conservation Advisory Committee this past week made up of men with special knowledge of conservation and indicated that he would ask this committee to make a study from time to time of conservation problems and effectiveness of measures being taken by the state to meet them.

"I am anxious to determine among other things, for instance," Governor Youndahl said, "whether the policies we have been pursuing in rough fish removal and fish propagation are the most effective that could be adopted. I want to know what additional steps can be taken to improve fire protection and encourage reforestation. I think it essential that we examine other conservation measures from time to time to see whether we are doing all we can, within the means available, to preserve and develop the natural resources which mean so much to our people The advisory committee should be a big help in reaching proper conclusions on these problems,"

On the committee are Dr. Edwaad Bratrud, Thief River Falls; A. A. Burkhardt, Plainveiw; Earl C. Dutro, Minneapolis; Dr. L. V. Hartle, Worthington; Buck Hedman, Grand Rapids; Charles O. Less Danger of Forest Fires

With a total of 411 forest fires during April and May, which burned over about 12.000 acres, the fire danger for the spring season has dropped with adequate moisture and green vegetation that comes with June.

A. E. Pimley, in charge of fire prevention for the Division of Forestry, states that the 1947 total is much less than half of the 1946 spring total which was 1,032 fires. More moisture in the ground and timely rainfalls have prevented the lorge number experienced in the dry spring seasons of the last few years, he said.

Crazy Hat Wins Refrigerator!

One of those "Breakfast in the morning" radio shows came to Capitol City last week, and Sarrah Carey won first prize for wearing the craziest hat in the audience. It was a full-sized refrigerator! (The prize, not the hat.)

"Glad them hats of hers paid off at last," says Ed, treating the whole thing like a joke. But you could see he was proud of Sarrah.

From where I sit, there's another thing Ed can be proud of: the way he's put up with those hats of Sarrah's, with never a criticism; just as she's put up with Ed's pipe and the other little freedoms he enjoys.

They've got that refrigerator home now, stocked with beer; and we're going over tonight to drink a toast—not just to Sarrah's hats taking first prize . . . but to a happily married couple, who've learned to live with one another's differences in tastes—whether it's a taste for hats or beer!

Kidneys Must Work Well—
For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

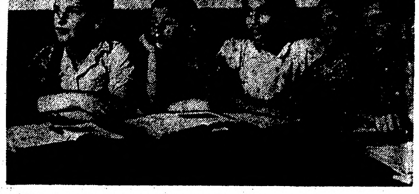
—WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS—

Sugar Rationing Ends in Nation; U.S. Denounces Hungary Grab; Record 1947 Wheat Crop Is Seen

Released by Western Newspaper Union

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



This bevy of school children are inhabitants of a Jewish detention camp on the island of Cyprus where they have been detoured to await admittance to Palestine under British quota. It is their first experience in school, most of them having spent the first years of their lives in Nazi concentration camps.

IT'S OVER:
Sugar Is Back

For the first time since April 28, 1942, Americans, and especially housewives, could go shopping without ration coupons as the government called a halt to the rationing of sugar for households, restaurants and hotels.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson announced the move, explaining that it was made possible by the appearance of larger supplies of sugar than previously had been thought available.

Price controls on sugar, as well as rationing of the product for industrial use will continue, however. All sugar controls are scheduled to expire October 31 unless congress dictates otherwise.

Three reasons which acted to bring about an end to sugar rationing were:

1. Allotment by the International Emergency food council to the United States of 350,000 tons of sugar from Cuba in addition to that which was allotted earlier in the year.

2. Presence of still more surplus sugar in Cuba, which will help cut down demands from other parts of the world.

3. About 200,000 tons of Javanese sugar now will be offered to world users.

Secretary Anderson said that he "did not dare" end rationing until he learned of the extra sugar in Cuba.

HARSH WORDS:
Note to Russia

The United States has accused Russia of using threats and coercion to instigate the recent Communist coup d'etat in Hungary.

A strongly worded note to the Soviet union charged the Soviet commander in Hungary with violating terms of the Yalta agreement which guaranteed that liberated nations would retain their sovereignty.

Implicit, but not specifically stated, in the note was a warning that the United States will call for a United Nations investigation of the circumstances under which Hungary's democratic regime was overthrown and Communist rule installed.

Main proposal embodied in the protest was that the United States, Great Britain and Russia make a joint investigation of the political situation in Hungary. Russia previously rejected two earlier American requests for such a probe.

The U. S. position is that Hungarian Premier Nagy was forced into exile and was compelled to resign in order to make way for the Communist seizure of power. Hungarian Communists were fully supported by the Soviets in this move, the American note claimed.

PUSHBUTTON:
Look, No Hands

"Pushbutton" automatic flight, a new field in aviation, was ushered in when a pilotless four-engine army transport plane landed at Wilmington, Ohio, after a 2,000-mile trip from Long Beach, Calif., during which no member of the crew touched the controls.

It was the longest flight of its kind to be completed wholly by means of the pushbutton automatic system, not to be confused with drone planes or remote control flight.

In the automatic flight set-up, all necessary flight data was fed electrically into a master control panel from within the plane itself.

WHEAT CROP:
Inconceivable

"Almost inconceivable" is the way grain men have described the prospective size of the 1947 wheat crop in the United States.

According to a government forecast as of June 1, a total wheat crop of 1,409,800,000 bushels is indicated this year, the largest on record. That compares with the 1,155,715,000 bushels harvested last year, which was an unprecedented high up to that time.

The forecast showed the winter wheat prospect to be 1,093,071,000 bushels and 316,822,000 bushels for spring wheat.

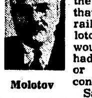
Unequalled winter wheat crops are in sight for all of the great plains area, as well as Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado. Although the cold, wet spring delayed growth and development of the crop in all but the Pacific coast states, losses from wet weather have been slight so far.

At the same time, however, the unseasonable spring weather was responsible for a reduced acreage of oats, the government report said. A crop of only 1,247,333,000 bushels is seen this year as compared with the 1,509,867,000 bushels harvested last year.

LITTLE CHAT:
With Molotov

United States diplomats might not be able to get a word in edgewise with Vyacheslav M. Molotov, hard-boiled Soviet foreign minister, but one of the "common men," M. E. Schroeder of Oelwein, Iowa, did so simply by calling him long distance at the Kremlin in Moscow.

Feeling in a convivial mood, Schroeder, a fireman for the Chicago Great Western railroad, decided to make the call at 2 o'clock one morning after coming in from his run.



Molotov

After explaining to a battery of minor officials in the Kremlin that he just wanted to be sociable, Schroeder finally got Molotov on the wire and suggested that they talk about railroads. He said Molotov sounded like he would hang up if he had advanced politics or world affairs as a conversational topic.

Said Schroeder: "I got in a good plug for Iowa's tall corn. He talked to me about three minutes and then turned me over to a secretary in his office. Two or three secretaries horned in then. . . . Everybody seemed very friendly and happy to talk."

UP AGAIN:
Meat Prices

Rapid, and in some cases unexplained, advances in the retail prices of meat have been reported from many sections of the country.

Some of the reasons offered for the price jumps were: Seasonal influences, higher feed costs, heavy foreign purchases. In a number of instances, however, packers admitted that they were puzzled over the sharp increase in retail prices.

Steak, which sold for 70 to 80 cents a pound six months ago, was being listed as high as $1.25 in Scranton, Pa., and a dollar in New York. In Chicago, retail meat prices experienced a general increase of 10 cents or more on popular and scarce cuts in mid-June.

There was one bright prediction, however: When the autumn beef run begins, prices are expected to drop as much as 25 per cent.

JOBLESS:
More in West

Since the end of the war, the national unemployment picture has undergone a remarkable geographic shift which finds the highest percentage of jobless workers in the western states, a recent survey has disclosed.

Although the problem of unemployed workers is not as serious in the West as it was before the war, their numbers are gradually increasing, according to a department of labor analysis of conditions.

In 1940 the heaviest unemployment in relation to the labor force was in the North. Now it is in the West. The South is in the same relative position as before the war.

Increasing unemployment in the West is attributed mainly to the tremendous migration of war workers to Pacific coast factories and shipyards. Most of the migrants stayed after V-J Day layoffs began, and subsequent expansion of peacetime industry has not been rapid enough to absorb all those who were laid off, together with the returning veterans.

SUPPORT:
From Canada

In a speech before the Canadian parliament in Ottawa, President Truman called for Canadian support of the "Truman doctrine" and received, in a thunderous ovation, the promise that the nation would go along with American foreign policy.

The President's address appeared to be another effort on his part to weld the nations of North America into a hemispheric fortress of good neighborliness and cooperation.

Pledging continued American efforts to protect weaker nations from outside force, Mr. Truman promised that the United States also would continue to assist in world recovery.

"We count Canada in the forefront of those who share these objectives and ideals," he asserted. Indorsing that idea, Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King said that Canada and the United States would continue their wartime cooperation in the interests of maintaining world peace.

Advocates Training

Dr. Karl T. Compton, chairman of commission on universal military training, told congress that plan for UMT was "conceived as a means of safeguarding liberty and not as a means of preparing for war."

MONGOLIANS:
Russia Blamed

Russia had another black mark scored against her when the Chinese government formally blamed the Soviet union for the invasion of Sinkiang province by Outer Mongolian troops.

By the time the forces from Outer Mongolia, which is under Russian domination, had captured the city of Peitaishan 200 miles inside the Chinese border, China's foreign office had decided that the conflict was more than an ordinary frontier incident.

Foreign office sources said the invasion had political rather than military implications, aimed at giving a pro-Russian special commissioner in Sinkiang complete control of the province.

Protesting to Moscow, China demanded immediate evacuation of Mongolian troops from the province and a guarantee against similar incidents in the future.

PARASITES:
New Wrinkle

"Parasite" fighter planes, escorts to be freighted to battle aboard the B-36 superbombers of the army air forces and then released to fight on their own, are being considered by AAF engineers.

Reason for the "parasites" is that the 100 B-36 planes now under construction at Fort Worth, Tex., have such a tremendous range that no fighter plane could accompany them on a complete journey.

INEXCUSABLE:
Depression Talk

Arthur D. Whiteside, president of Dun and Bradstreet, scored pessimistic predictions of a coming depression when he told a New York board of trade meeting that "We are not heading for a depression, and could not have one if we wanted to."

He deplored the nation-wide impression of pessimism he said New York was generating as the nation's economic center.

Farmers Profit From Their Egg Production

With demand for eggs continuing exceptionally strong this year, prices received by farmers for them on April 15 were the highest ever recorded for that month, the department of agriculture has disclosed.

At that time, the average price in the United States was 40.8 cents a dozen, nine and one-half cents higher than in April, 1946. During the succeeding month, prices changed little and on May 15 averaged 40.7 cents. Consumption per capita for the first quarter of this year exceeded that of the same period in any preceding year, despite the record prices.

Egg prices may not rise quite as much as usual this fall, the department's report said. Normally, they are 35 to 40 per cent higher in November and December than in May and June, but this year a smaller rise still will bring them above prices in the fall of 1946.

When the delinquent tenant saw the sheriff coming with the eviction papers, he locked himself inside the house and refused to answer the officer's summons. The sheriff slipped the papers under the door, whereupon the tenant picked up a bellows from the fireplace and blew the paper out from under the door.

The sheriff again slipped the papers under the door, and again the tenant blew them out.

Pocketing the document, the officer turned to his deputy and said, "Come on, let's take this back to the landlord. I wouldn't pay rent either if I had to live in such a drafty old house."

'Truman Doctrine' Termed Preventive Against Conflict

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—There is no imminent danger of war between the United States and Russia.

You've heard that before, and as far as I know, it is true.

There is a diplomatic struggle going on between the two countries, the scope and importance of which few people realize.

When I say "important," I mean important in all senses but one—human life — in which a real, shooting war is important. Certainly involved are the other two factors in the trinity of rights to which Americans believe they are heir—liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Baukhage

This has been clear to observers in Washington whether they merely look with their eyes at the external evidence, or scent with news-noses the currents which are wafted over transoms and under the big oak doors of the sanctum sanctorum of the sanctissimi.

Sharp words have tumbled over one another since the first verbal barrage, which was the Presidential message of March 12, 1947, sometimes described as embodying the "Truman Doctrine." May I remind you of a few of the barbed shafts in that message?

"The very existence of the Greek state is today threatened by the terrorist activities of several thousand armed men, led by Communists, who defy the government's authority at a number of points, particularly along the northern boundaries . . ." said the President.

"One of the primary objectives of the foreign policy of the United States is the creation of conditions in which we and other nations will be able to work out a way of life free from coercion. . . .

"We shall not realize our objectives, however, unless we are willing to help free peoples to maintain their free institutions and their national integrity against aggressive movements that seek to impose upon them totalitarian regimes. This is no more than a frank recognition that totalitarian regimes imposed on free peoples, by direct or indirect aggression, undermine the foundations of international peace, and hence the security of the United States. . . .

"The peoples of a number of countries of the world have recently had totalitarian regimes forced upon them against their will. The government of the United States has made frequent protests against coercion and intimidation, in violation of the Yalta agreement, in Poland, Romania, and Bulgaria. I must also state that in a number of other countries there have been similar developments. . . ." (He knew what was in the Hungarian cards.)

"One way of life is based upon the will of the majority, and is distinguished by free institutions, representative government, free elections, guarantees of individual liberty, freedom of speech and religion, and freedom from political oppression. . . .

"The second way of life is based upon the will of a minority forcibly imposed upon the majority. It relies upon terror and oppression, a controlled press and radio, fixed elections and the suppression of personal freedoms."

Strong words, those—all quoted from the Truman message.

Congress Follows Words With Action

Then came deeds. Congress implemented the President's message by authorizing the loan of three hundred millions to Greece and one hundred millions to Turkey.

Missions were sent at once to both countries.

The United States concluded with Britain arrangements for an economic merger of their respective zones in Germany regardless of Russian (and French) failure to go along.

Then came the expected coup d'etat in which the Communists, with the Red army backing them and the aid of the Communist-controlled secret police, took over the anti-Communist government of Hungary. Immediately there followed these steps:

A message of congratulation and support was sent to the Premier of Italy, Alcide de Gasperi, then in the process of forming a government without Communist co-operation and against Communist opposition.

Negotiations leading to the "unfreezing" of Italian property (including money) in this country were announced.

Hungarian credits here for surplus property supplies were cut off. There were indications that a loan earmarked for Hungary would be cancelled.

A Hungarian-Russian transport company was told that its planes no longer could fly over the American zone in Germany.

Senator Vandenberg made his ringing speech in the senate declaring that Soviet pressure on Hungary demanded a trial before the forum of the United Nations."

The United States pressed for settlement of demands on Yugoslavia for planes shot down by Yugoslavia last summer.

These and other steps which undoubtedly will be taken before this article is in print, and still others in the making, are part of a vigorous foreign policy by which we mean to block Communist aggression wherever it appears in the world. In other words we have undertaken a form of positive activity in the foreign field, the scope of which has never been paralleled in our history.

Supporters of this policy (the majority of congress) believe it is a preventive, not an aggressive step.

They do not believe it is a foreign policy which von Clausewitz, the German military authority, described as something the "extension" of which is war. They believe it can stop, will not start, military conflict.

Possible War Of Extermination

The policy is based on this theory, as nearly as I can absorb it from the people who know:

Unless economic conditions are restored to normal throughout the world, chaos will result, communism will engulf Europe, and eventually the clash between communism and democracy as we understand it, will mean war between Russia and the United States. Since it now is believed that Russia will have the atom bomb in from four to ten years (cf. report of the President's advisory commission on universal training), such a war would mean extermination, if not of the human race, certainly of civilization as we know it.

Granted this is true, the spread of communism in Europe (and elsewhere) must be checked now because:

If either France or Italy goes Red, Russia will not co-operate in a joint peace agreement for Germany and Austria. Without such agreement, Europe cannot be restored to normal. Chaos and communism will follow.

If Russia is stopped in her tracks—if we can prevent her from moving south into Greece, Turkey and the Middle East, and west of the line she holds at present from her German zone south through the Balkans to Greece, she will be forced to stop aggression in Europe; forced to co-operate with the western powers for her own preservation.

That as I understand it, is what some people call the "Truman Doctrine." It isn't quite fair to give it such an exclusive label when it never could have been put into effect without the yeoman service of men like Vandenberg and the other bi-partisan support it has received.

This does not mean that we have "lost faith in democracy" or its ability to compete in a fair field with communism. It means we are going to see that a fair field is maintained; that Russia will not be permitted to create chaos or to draw on the type of force and terror she has used so far (latterly in Hungary), to enforce her way of life upon the world.

I received a letter which said: "Dear Mr. Baukhage: Right now we are urgently seeking men with the necessary qualifications for training in air conditioning and refrigeration — and your name has been suggested . . . (signed) M. A. Gluck." With the Washington temperature at 92, it sounds like a glucky job.

Rabbits Damage Trees

Rabbits frequently cause serious damage to the trunks of fruit and ornamental trees. This damage can be prevented by painting the trunks and lower scaffold branches with a resin-alcohol mixture. One-hundred fifty to 200 two-year-old trees can be treated by dissolving seven pounds of resin in one gallon of ethyl alcohol. The pulverized resin is added to the alcohol and the mixture stirred occasionally over a period of 24 hours to dissolve the resin. Store the mixture in air tight containers.

Degree-Days

Degree-days are based on an outdoor temperature of 65 degrees, at which it is assumed that an indoor temperature of 70 degrees will be maintained without artificial heat. When the average of the day's temperature falls below 65 degrees, every degree of the fall is termed a degree-day. For example, a day when the temperature averages 50 degrees is said to have 15 degree-days.

Obituary of Mathias Lunke

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at the Nazareth Lutheran church for Mat Lunke, pioneer of this community, with Rev. T. C. Hanson of Roseau officiating.

Mathias Lunke was born in Guldbrandsdalen, Norway, February 8, 1867 and passed away Saturday, June 28, 1947 at the age of 80 years, 4 months, 20 days.

He was babtized and confirmed in Norway and at the age of 22 he came to Hillsboro, N. Dak.

In March 1896, he came to Minnesota and took up a homestead in East Valley township where he resided until the time of his death.

He was united in marriage to Miss Elise Jacobson December 17, 1896.

He leaves to mourn his passing his wife, one son Carl at home, and three daughters, (Ida) Mrs. Wm. Steinhauer, (Emma) Mrs. Lloyd Haagenson of Holt, (Julia) Mrs. Simon Moe of Duluth. Also one brother Ole of Holt, 8 grandchildren and several neices and nephews.

His parents two brothers and sisters preceeded him in death.

On September 1, 1946 he together with his wife and children and other relatives and friends celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. Lunke was a devoted husband and father and will be sadly missed by his family and all those near and dear to him.

He was a charter member of the Nazareth Lutheran Church in Holt and always willing to give a helping hand with all activities in the community.

A norweigan solo was sung by Mrs. O. K. Ose of Theif River Falls and two solos were sung by Marvin Sandberg of Holt.

There was a wealth of floral and In Memoriam offerings speaking silently of the esteem which this community held for the departed.

Carlson Funeral Services had charge of arrangements. Interment was made in the Holt Cemetary.

Pallbearers were Ole Larson, Oscar Furr, Arthur Conklin, Alfred Sorum, Johnny Nelson, and Anton Rodahl.

The passing of the sturdy pioneers brings to mind the challenge to the younger generation to carry on. Overcoming the hardships of pioneer life, Mr. Lunke, as well as others, left a heritage in the development of the community and his church into the fine things we now enjoy

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Seek To Abandon Farm Control; Gromyko Hits Disarmament Talks; Open Universal Training Hearings

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Secretary of the Interior Julius A. Krug (left), Undersecretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan (center) and Max W. Ball, director of oil and gas division of interior department, meet to probe nation's critical petroleum supply shortage. Experts forecast empty auto gas tanks, closed factories and chilly homes this winter because of tight oil situation.

FARM CONTROLS:
Opposition Grows

American Farm Bureau federation, powerful farm group which sponsored most of the agricultural legislation now in force, is considering recommendations for total abandonment of all farm price and crop controls by the government.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the federation, said the board is not satisfied with the old AAA, established during President Roosevelt's first term. He revealed that a better agricultural program than the one the farmers now have is being sought. The AAA authorizes payments to farmers for reducing acreages in the basic crops of wheat, corn, cotton, rice, tobacco and peanuts.

O'Neal

Farmers from the North and Northwest have consistently opposed federal subsidies, and sentiment was reported to be growing among the producers for letting farm products seek their own price level as a permanent policy.

In the South, however, cotton and tobacco growers are known to be satisfied with the situation as it stands, favoring tight controls if prices start to slip.

One of the federation's economists predicted at least a 10-year period of good prices for farmers at levels slightly below those prevailing now.

DEFIANCE:
Gromyko Again

In what was possibly his most defiant action since he walked out of the security council a year ago, Andrei Gromyko, Soviet delegate to the United Nations, acidly warned the U. N. disarmament commission that its refusal to include atomic control in the negotiations on general disarmament would bring about a total "collapse" of disarmament efforts.

He said the commission's refusal to link the two aspects of world peace plans was contrary to the wishes of the U. N. general assembly, but delegates of France, Great Britain and Belgium promptly denied the charge.

Ignoring previous Soviet warnings, the commission had voted down a long list of Russian and Polish proposals to tie atomic control with disarmament talks and approved an American-sponsored work plan to keep the two subjects separate.

FRUITED PLAINS:
Apple Outlook Rosy

Despite a late spring and some frost damage in eastern fruit areas, prospects continue generally favorable for this year's crop of apples and other deciduous fruits, a department of agriculture report has disclosed.

The 1947 strawberry crop is estimated to be nearly a fourth larger than the 1946 crop, but still a tenth below average. However, the peach crop in 10 early southern states is expected to set a new record of more than 25 million bushels this year, the third successive large crop from those states.

In California, the sweet cherry crop of 29,000 tons is 15 per cent smaller than last year, but still 16 per cent larger than the 1938-44 average. California's 92,000-ton plum crop is slightly below 1946.

Seek Pilate's Villa

Pontius Pilate, the procurator of Judea who gained an everlasting place in the annals of infamy by washing his hands and thus sanctioning the crucifixion of Christ, may have spent his boyhood and youth in a villa near what is now Canterbury, England. That, at least, is the theory of a party of British archeologists who now are excavating in the Roman ruins uncovered by Nazi bombings.

TRAINING:
Hearings Begin

Although congress is scheduled to adjourn July 28, the senate armed services committee has voted to proceed with hearings on universal military training.

But in a formal statement the committee added that if a report cannot be made ready by July 28, it will attempt to have a report prepared for congress when it convenes again.

Decision of the senate group was reached as the Very Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, a member of President Truman's universal military training commission, told a house committee that "the politburo in Moscow is not going to adjourn for the summer as its forces creep across Europe."

Father Walsh said that America is definitely on the Soviet agenda of conquest, and Russia will be ready to start her "shooting war" as soon as her atom bombs are in production.

TAX PLANS:
To Think Over

Congress has been presented with four tax-revision plans to think over until it gets ready to have another go at the income tax problem.

The treasury department has given the house ways and means committee studies of four plans to equalize federal income taxes on married couples in all 48 states.

One of the proposals would save 4,900,000 couples three-quarters of a billion dollars annually by giving those living in 38 states the same "income splitting" rights now enjoyed by couples living in 10 states which have community property laws.

Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder has indicated that the administration considers the proposed plans to be among the "right kind" of changes in the tax setup.

IKE TO STAY:
Denies Report

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will not resign as army chief of staff, at least this year.

Walter Winchell, in a copyright story in the New York Daily Mirror, had reported that General Eisenhower had tendered his resignation as chief of staff and would become president of Columbia university next fall. The story said that Eisenhower's resignation was in the hands of President Truman.

The nation's military leader, however, issued a firm denial: "I have no intentions of resigning as chief of staff during the current year, and in no event would I do so without first getting full approval of the President and the secretary of war."

Price of Warfare

How much does a war cost? Many answers are possible, says a review by the National Industrial Conference board, but the cost of any war cannot be determined definitely until at least a century after the end of hostilities.

For example, it was not until this year (1947) that the last pensioner of the War of 1812 disappeared from the United States budget. As another instance, the military cost of the Spanish-American war was a mere 582 million dollars; however, the continuing costs—interest on war debt, pensions and care of veterans — amounted to 2,400 million dollars during the 48 years ending June 30, 1946.

The continuing costs of World War I are already about 40 per cent greater than the military costs of that conflict. But the real payoff comes with World War II. On June 30, 1948, just eight years will have elapsed since continuing costs of World War II began, and on that date they will have amounted to more than the total military cost of World War I. Our latest war will have cost us about 700 billion dollars by 1972, and the government will still be paying pensions in the year 2076 as a result of the war which came to an end in 1945.

THE MANAGEMENT:
Money Talks

Under the 300 million dollar American aid program to strengthen Greece against inroads of Communism the United States will take over virtually the entire economic management of that country, an exchange of notes has indicated.

It was reported unofficially that the United States also will favor some political reforms in the Greek government—specifically, the admission of "liberal" elements to responsible governmental positions.

Notes between Washington and Athens setting forth a comprehensive program of economic reforms to be undertaken in Greece have been made public by the state department. They concern taxes, industry, government administration, trade, finance and agriculture.

Contained in the notes is a guarantee that Dwight Griswold, administrator of the aid program, will have effective supervision over all the dollars spent for Greece.

OPEN SESAME:
The Holy Land

The bitterly tragic puzzle of Palestine and the Jews appeared as insoluble as ever as the United Nations committee on Palestine opened hearings in Jerusalem.

Reporting at the committee's first open meeting, the Jewish agency for Palestine persistently demanded unlimited Jewish immigration into the Holy Land, contending that immigration was the key to the whole Jewish case.

The British previously had testified in a closed session from which the press and public were barred.

Moshe Shertok, head of the political department of the Jewish agency, asserted that it was impossible to estimate how many more Jews could be absorbed into Palestine, adding that while Jews now make up only one-third of the population, two-thirds of the local internal revenue comes from them. The bulk of Palestine's local budget is spent in a way to benefit the Arabs principally, Shertok said.

Mr. Whiskers

Rep. Chester Gross (Rep., Pa.) donned phony beard in the house chamber and invited his colleagues to attend sesqui-centennial celebration at Waynesborough, Pa., where male population stopped shaving last February to cultivate whiskers for event.

ANOTHER CRASH:
Fifteen Die

Fifteen persons were killed and another 10 injured when a Pan American Airways clipper carrying 27 passengers and a crew of 10 crashed to earth near the Euphrates river in eastern Syria.

The plane had left Karachi, India, the previous day and was en route to Istanbul as its first scheduled stop on a return trip to New York.

Identified as the Eclipse, the clipper had turned back at Gander, Newfoundland, on the outbound flight from New York after developing engine trouble.

A flight control officer in Cairo, Egypt, said that about two hours before the crash the plane had radioed that one engine was ablaze, and a subsequent message said that the pilot was trying to crash-land the craft.

G.I. BILL:
Curb Benefits

The senate has passed legislation stopping benefits under the G.I. bill of rights to those who enlist in the services after August 31. If the measure is approved by the house it will mean that future servicemen will not be eligible to receive educational allotments or on-the-job training grants.

At senate hearings on the legislation, the army and navy did not object to fixing the August 31 cutoff date but asked authority to set up a substitute program to encourage further enlistments.

Mines Still Deadly

Ships are still being sunk along the trade lanes of the seven seas as a result of floating mines which were sown in wartime.

Nearly two years after the war's end, the U. S. maritime commission reports, ships of American and foreign registry are either being sunk or damaged by mines at the rate of at least six a month. Since V-J Day, American minesweepers have gleaned a total of 12,014 mines.

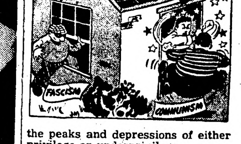
Battle of Isms

FASCISM is as evil or more so than communism. We have only recently concluded a war against the evils of fascism. Remember? Fascism usually develops among the strong and powerful, communism among the weak and underprivileged. And democracy is a way of life which would prevent the foment of either fascism or communism by leveling the peaks and depressions of either privilege or underprivilege.



With the hue and cry against communism in this congress and elsewhere in the nation, it is well to see what fascism is doing in the meantime. Monopoly is fascism in action. It is steadily gaining ground in this country and nothing is being done to curb it. Development of monopolistic cartels was a Hitler practice.

The program to divide the farmer and the city worker is fascism in action—the old Hitler theory of divide and conquer. The trend to weaken or destroy labor unions in the guise of correcting some labor abuses is fascism, one of Hitler's first steps in coming to power in Germany.

On several fronts the trend toward fascism is evident while the people are blinded by the waving of flags and the thunder of oratory against communism. Remember, both are equally evil in any form.

Street Scene

A large florid-faced man wearing black hat and string bow tie apologetically proffered three cents and a five dollar bill to a bus driver. "Think I can change a five spot?" snapped the bus driver. The passenger looked up and down the bus. Other passengers looked away. A little white haired lady fumbled in her purse and proffered a dime. The florid-faced man reluctantly took it and paid his fare. Tipping his hat, he said, "If you get up to the capitol, look me up. I'm Senator McKellar."

Retail meat prices soar above black market prices during the control days—and the department of agriculture says middle of June production was 217 million pounds above days when OPA went out the window. Yet congress is determined to end rent controls. Do we forget, or is it stubbornly intentional?

Fertilizer propaganda. Use more fertilizer to live longer. Dr. Firman E. Bear of the New Jersey agricultural experiment station told the American Plant Food council convention at Little Rock that fertilizer increases life expectancy. "Figures show that in proportion as our fertilizer tonnage is increased, so has our life expectancy," said Dr. Bear.

Struts 'Sitting Down'

IN THE PAST we have been pleased to laud the statesmanship of Senator Vandenberg of Michigan. Many here don't like Vandenberg. They say he is stuffy. One cynical member of the press gallery describes him as a man "able to strut sitting down." He is becoming irritable over the load he carries. He is charged with having opposed appointment of Mark Ethridge, conscientious publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal, to head the Greek mission because the President did not consult him beforehand.

Now he is being charged with holding up appointment of Francis Biddle, former able attorney general, as American member of the United Nations Social and Economic council for the same reason. The nomination was made by the President last January. No action. When asked for the reason Vandenberg said, "Action on Biddle is not one of the supreme dedications of my life." Is that "strutting sitting down"?

Big Guns Obsolete

The day of the coast artillery's big guns is past. War department spokesmen have acknowledged that the coast artillery is almost as obsolete as the horse cavalry and may be abandoned as soon as guided missiles are perfected by modern science. Testimony on the armed forces unification bill credited Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commander of army ground forces, with the assertion that the giant guns "had not fired a shell in 50 years" and had cost about one billion dollars

Odd Pool Blows Bubbles; Geologists Are Mystified

A curious pool of water the origin and activity of which have long mystified geologists is located near Gwadar, Baluchistan. Called "The Eye of the Sea," it is very deep, round and 15 feet in diameter.

Every five minutes, in a certain spot on its surface, a bubble forms, increases to the size of a grapefruit and then bursts.

"Advance-Design" Chevrolet Trucks Make Bow

The trucks that will bring true postwar design to the highways of America, Chevrolet's new "advance-design" line of commercial vehicles, will be introduced to the trucking industry June 28 by Chevrolet dealers across the country. Incorporating a variety of new features that assure greater operating efficiency, load-carrying ability and highway safety, the new trucks are said to be more rugged and durable than ever before. First units were built in Chevrolet's Janesville (Wis.) assembly plant, and were appropriately hailed. Here the "Queen of America's Dairyland," Miss Betty Gene Gardner, Ridgeway, Wis., christens the new vehicle as Gov. Oscar Rennebohm, Wisconsin's chief executive (right), and R. W. The Picnic Was a "Hug" Success!

Our local Wild Life League went on a picnic Saturday, and I went along to cover it for the Clarion. Monday, folks kept stopping me, and saying: "Must have gotton out of hand, that picnic!"

"Nonsense," I says. "It was mighty pleasant and congenial. Just beer and hot dogs, cheese and cider." And then they show me the headline reading: "WILD WIFE PICNIC HUG SUCCESS."

Of course it was Elmer, my typesetter, who had made the misprints: But is my face red! It's only because folks are so temperate and well-behaved in our town, that they could afford to take the whole thing as a joke.

From where I sit, even a newspaper editor's entitled to a few mistakes. And since I reported that they served a moderate beverage like beer, I'm sure nobody thinks the picnic was the least bit wild, or anything but a huge success—and I mean huge!

Marry Earlier

Young people today are marrying at an earlier age than did their grandparents, according to the University of California.

Behind the switch on your wall or your convenience outlet stands an organization of hundreds of well trained, efficient and hard working employees, who have dedicated their working years to bring you the best electric service at the lowest possible cost.

We fully realize that our service has not been adequate during the past several years due to the fact that we have been unable to secure generators, transformers, poles, wire, etc, fast enough to match the increased demand for electric service Work on three new large generating stations is well under way, and plans for the addition of still more units are in the making, in order to provide ample generating capacity for the rapidly expanding needs of our customers. We are also bending every effort to secure the necessary materials with which to build extensions to customers who are badly in need of service.

In the meantime, please bear with us.

CED Scans Reasons for Failures

Impartial Groups Attempt Study of Business Flaws

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—The favorite game in Washington today is a new version of "button, button, who's got the button."

Only for "button" read: Depression, recession, shakedown, readjustment or what have you—if you have anything.

Sen. Robert Taft, as chairman of congress' joint committee on the economic report, had a questionnaire sent out to a long list of business men. The gist of the report seemed to be that there was going to be a business recession, but it was going to be in the other fellow's business.

Baukhage

Frequently it is too much faith in the other fellow's failings and too little regard for one's own that causes business failures. This is especially true of small businesses. Locating some of these "failures" and preventing them was the job recently undertaken and reported on by the Committee for Economic Development, a non-government, non-partisan group which makes studies of this nature.

Just as this organization was completing its work, another somewhat similar group was setting a task for itself in the hope of straightening out some of the other kinks in the business world. This was the National Planning association, which is out to discover how the many firms which steadfastly year-in and year-out maintain good relations with their employees do the trick. Both propositions are highly interesting.

CED Furnishes Fair Reports

The Committee for Economic Development has for its chairman Paul Hoffman who, in private life, is president of Studebaker corporation. Directing its research and policy division is Raymond Rubicam, the well-known advertising man.

This organization is highly respected. It has a staff of top-notchers doing the research, and its members lean over backwards to be non-partisan. In fact, at a news conference called here to discuss the report's findings, one reporter became pretty riled because he couldn't get Hoffman to comment on the tax situation, one of the hot-spot political issues of the moment.

There are two reasons why CED's latest report (on small business) is significant. One: Like all CED reports, it represents the cooperative efforts of top men in the highly practical field of business and top men in the field of science—political economy; a cooperative effort whose sole purpose is to make America a better place in which to live. There are no axes to grind.

The second reason the report is important to all of us is that today more than ever, in a world of competing ideologies, the perpetuation of our democracy, our system, depends upon the fostering of small business.

Although small business needs assistance, that assistance is difficult to proffer, because small business isn't an "it"—it is three and a half million small business men, all highly individualistic; all as independent and hard to influence as a monkey at the top of a cocoanut palm. And these disunited, sink-or-swim, cock-of-the-walkers make up 98 per cent of the firms operating in this country today.

As the CED report puts it:

> "Small business is more virile and more durable than might be deduced from the hue and cry heard for many years as to the disadvantages under which it labors. Nonetheless, small businesses are confronted with special problems and difficulties that are very real. It is vital to all business and to all citizens that conditions unfavorable to small business be remedied wherever possible."

The report finds that the problems of the small business man fall into four categories: management, financing, taxes and competitive opportunity. There are very definite ways in which the business man might be helped in solving these problems, particularly the problem of management. The CED report mentions these: Through advice and counsel from his suppliers; through guidance available from the large trade associations; by means of programs instituted by his own community; through special services which could be provided by established counselling and market research agencies within the means of the small enterprise; more extended research supported by business men and foundations; special courses in universities, colleges and secondary schools, and expansion of the present services offered free by the department of commerce. These are graphically illustrated in the diagram.

Meeting Needs Of Business

But the greatest problem is how to place before the highly-individualistic, hard-to-get-at small business man the facts, both as to his needs and how to satisfy them. That is up to the individuals in each community who will take enough interest to read the report (available without charge from the Committee for Economic Development, 285 Madison avenue, New York City) and bring it to the attention of the local business men's clubs, chambers of commerce and similar groups.

The other proposition which is in the making, and which likewise has a purely objective aim, is being carried on by the National Planning association, which is also a non-political, non-profit organization. The NPA states as its purpose: "Planning by Americans in agriculture, business, labor and government."

Its study, which will probably take a year, is entitled "The Causes of Industrial Peace under Collective Bargaining."

The project is under direction of two special committees composed of both NPA members and non-members. One is a sponsorship committee composed of 40 business and labor leaders. The other is the research committee made up of 26 experts in the field.

The idea was explained to a group of us by Clinton Golden, who will direct the research.

Golden explained that what his committee was after was a different approach to the question of labor-management relations.

NEWS REVIEW

Labor Act Is Effective; Weather Hits Corn Crop

Verging on mental and political exhaustion after a bitter, two-day fight, weary senators voted 68 to 25 to override President Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley labor bill.

The action, sustaining a walloping 331 to 83 house vote to pass the bill over the veto, came on the heels of a final presidential plea to Sen. Alben Barkley (Dem., Ky.) to muster all possible forces in the senate "to prevent this bill from becoming law."

Opponents of the measure needed 32 votes to uphold the veto, and they waged a desperate, last-ditch battle to attain their objective. Final result, however, was a smashing defeat for Mr. Truman at the hands of the Republican-controlled congress.

Highlights of a tooth-and-tongue opposition fight to delay the senate vote as long as possible in order to gain support was an all-night session during which Sen. Glen H. Taylor (Dem., Idaho) held the floor for eight hours and 20 minutes and Sen. Wayne Morse (Rep., Ore.) talked for 10 hours and two minutes. It was the longest filibuster in modern congressional history.

The Taft-Hartley act, which constitutes a wholesale revision of the Wagner act of 1934, was termed by President Truman in his veto message a "shocking piece of legislation." He asserted that the measure would "cause more strikes, not fewer," and would put the country a long step on the dangerous road toward "a totally managed economy."

"This legislation would encourage distrust, suspicion and arbitrary attitudes," the President told congress.

PROTEST STRIKES

With the Taft-Hartley act in force only a few hours, scattered protest strikes suddenly blossomed into a full-scale walkout of 180,000 soft coal miners. At least 41 mines were closed in 10 states. The walkout appeared to be a spontaneous reaction on the part of the miners to the new labor law.

FLOODED OUT:

No Bumper Crop

Experts who recently predicted a three billion bushel corn crop this year were hastily revising their estimates in the light of continuing torrential rains and widespread floods which have transformed much of the Midwest into a soggy mass of mud.

Damage has been particularly heavy in Iowa, extending from one end of the state to the other. Flooding of river bottom lands is only part of the loss.

Thousands of acres of crops have been washed out, and the loss is considered irreparable. It is too late to replant with anything except forage crops and possibly buckwheat if seed is available.

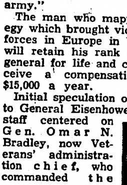
On upland farms, ponds and lakes overflowing their boundaries also will cut seriously into corn yields. All in all, a bumper corn crop is considered extremely unlikely, even with a favorable growing season up to October.

Some authorities have begun to believe that the government's grain export program should be re-examined in view of conditions existing on the nation's farms at present.

IKE RESIGNS:

Goes Academic

General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower has resigned as army chief of staff to accept the presidency of Columbia university in New York, effective early next year.



Eisenhower

His decision to step out as top man in the nation's military hierarchy to take the academic post was announced in a statement by Maj. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, chief of the war department's public relations division. The statement said that Eisenhower accepted the Columbia presidency with the approval of the President and the secretary of war. His resignation will become effective "at such time as his superiors may release him from active duty in the army."

The man who mapped the strategy which brought victory to Allied forces in Europe in World War II will retain his rank as a five-star general for life and continue to receive a compensation of about $15,000 a year.

Bradley

Initial speculation on a successor to General Eisenhower as chief of staff centered on Gen. Omar N. Bradley, now Veterans' administration chief, who commanded the army ground forces in Europe during the war. Other high-ranking generals under consideration for the position were Gen. Jacob L. Devers, army ground forces chief, and Lt. Gen. J. Lawton Collins, chief of army public information.

As president of Columbia, Eisenhower will be the successor to Nicholas Murray Butler who retired in 1945 and is now Columbia's president emeritus. The general has also been elected a member of the university's board of trustees.

RAPID GROWTH

Industry Expands in Far West

NEW YORK.—The Far West section of the United States has grown greatly in recent years in population, income, industrial stature and international importance, according to a study in the Index, a quarterly publication of the New York Trust company, just published.

"World War II," the study says, "telescoped into a few years an industrial expansion in the Far West which might have taken several decades to accomplish even at the relatively fast rate of development some parts of the area had been enjoying."

The war, it is pointed out, brought new factories and facilities to the region, accelerated development of its raw materials, expanded its power supply and increased its population, thereby adding both to its market potential and its labor supply. With its vast store of natural resources and its rapidly increasing population, the Far West looks forward to a continuing postwar industrial growth through development of new products and new markets."

The seven states included in the study are Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington.

"The Far West," according to the article, "made the largest relative gains in population and income of all the areas of the United States during World War II, and has grown faster than the nation as a whole since 1939, increasing its population by 31 per cent as compared with a 7 per cent increase for the entire United States. Factory jobs in the Far West in the same period rose 68 per cent as compared with 46 per cent for the nation. In food production, the increase in the Far West amounted to 25 per cent as compared with 23 per cent for the United States as a whole.

"Continued expansion of industry appears to be of primary importance to the progress of the Far West," the article concludes. "Its abundant natural resources, its climate, its forest riches, its excellent harbors and its scenic beauties have been the chief contributing factors to its rapid growth in the past. To accommodate and support a population increase in the future comparable to that enjoyed so far in this century and particularly in the World War II period, would seem to require the broader economy which its sustained industrial growth is furnishing."

Balzac's profound knowledge of human nature caused the great novelist to fancy himself an expert at reading character in handwriting.

One day an old woman brought him a little boy's copybook and said, "Master, what do you think of this child's possibilities?"

Balzac studied the scrawly, untidy handwriting.

"Your child?" he asked.

"No."

"Some other relative?" he ventured.

"None at all," the woman replied.

"Well," Balzac finally pontificated, "This child is slovenly and profoundly stupid. I fear he will never amount to anything."

"But, master," the woman cried, "that copybook was your own when you were a little boy."

The profound judge of human nature retired in confusion.

Benefits to Our Readers

THE PUBLIC nature of advertising benefits everyone it touches. It benefits the public by describing exactly the products that are offered. It benefits employees, because the advertiser must be more fair and just than the employer who has no obligation to the public. These benefits of advertising are quite apart from the obvious benefits which advertising confers—the lower prices, the higher quality, the better service that go with advertised goods and firms.

THEY STARTED THE WHOLE AFFAIR . . . Co-authors of the much-debated labor bill which occasioned one of the hottest battles in modern congressional history are Rep. Fred A. Hartley (Rep., N. J.) (left) and Sen. Robert A. Taft (Rep., O.). Sponsors of the labor reform measure are shown here as they met on the senate side of the capitol to discuss the final showdown on the bill which took place in the senate.

Prince Nawaf, all decked out in his regal raiment, visited the school in order to get a rough idea as to how American youngsters receive their education.

They were captured, with their mother.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Fish Bites Woman!

Willie Wells was coming home from Seward's Creek the other evening with a string of trout, when a stern looking lady (visitor at the Boxwood Inn) stops him, and tells him a man his size could be better occupied than catching fish.

Willie tells her off real good-naturedly by saying: "Perhaps you're right, but if these fish had kept their mouths shut, they wouldn't be here." (At that, says Willie, laughing out loud, she looked just as if a fish had bit her!)

Blabbing mouths never cause anything but trouble. Nobody who knew the facts would ever criticize Willie's right to go fishing on his one day off—any more than they'd deny his right to come home to a mellow glass of beer.

From where I sit, the slower we are to criticize—and the quicker we are to recognize another's tastes, the better we'll get along together—whether those tastes apply to beer or fishing.

Do We Realize Responsibility

Watching motorists rolling along the highways 50, 60, 70 miles per hour one wonders how many of them realize what it means to send a two ton weight hurtling along a road at that speed dependent on a frail human to keep it in straight path and avoid collision with other vehicles, to miss pedestrians, who too often are not paying strict attention to the traffic.

The modern motor car operates so easily and smoothly that one hardly realizes the speed it is traveling. The ease of operation is liable to lead a driver into habits of carelessness--not being alert at all times--in short not attending strictly to the job of driving.

Momentarily diverting the attention from the job of driving your car can spell disaster and may result in the death or crippling of the driver or of others. It would be well for all drivers to keep in mine the fact that the way a car goes depends on what the driver does, either consciously or unconsciously. Alertness at all times is essential to safe driving. Keep your mind on the job

Renew Your Driver's License

Drivers licences of a number of residents of Marshall County will expire in the next few months, and Edwin K. Rokke, Clerk of the District Court, suggests today that all drivers take a look at their cards so they will not forget to apply for renewal on time.

Reason for the large number of expirations is that all licences issued during the fall of 1943, after the four-year licence law took effect, will expire some time in 1947. The 1943 law provided that all licences issued prior to September 1 in that year would expire on the licencee's first birthday after that date, and licences thereafter issued would expire on the birthday of the driver in the fourth year after the licence was issued.

All licences issued from September 1 to December 31, 1943, will therefore expire on the licencee's birthday in 1947 and should be renewed before the date of the birthday this year. Licences issued in 1944 will on the licencee's birthday in 1948.

Earlier renewals are required in in case of change of name or address. Persons who change their names through marriage or otherwise and those who move to a new address, must apply for a new drivers licence within 30 days.

The 1947 law requiring examination of all new applicants for drivers licence will take effect January 1, 1948, and arrangements for giving examination at convenient places will be announced in due time. Applicants for renewal will not be required to take examinations.

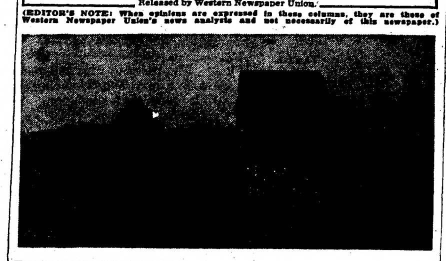
Plowing up West May Bring Dust; Truman Signs, Scores Rent Bill; Discord Marks Paris Conference

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



TWO-DOLLAR WHEAT

Return of Dust Bowl Is Feared

Thinking men—experienced ranchers, grain men and bankers in the West—are looking worriedly ahead to a revival of the dreaded dust bowl because transient farmers are plowing up thousands of acres of virgin range to plant wheat which will bring them two dollars a bushel.

Under the stimulus of the two-dollar wheat, buffalo grass is being turned over at an unprecedented rate, and the prediction is that when it quits raining the dust bowl will stage a savage comeback.

The West again has become a paradise for speculators who are buying up land for $15 to $25 an acre and planting it in wheat. One good crop will pay for the land and leave them a good profit besides. Suitable primarily for grazing, the land normally is priced at from $2 to $10 an acre.

"Suitcase farmers" roll in with their tractors, plows and drills, put in a wheat crop and then leave until it is time to harvest the grain. No one stays to check the inevitable wind erosion.

The current world food shortage offers some justification for expanding the wheat crop, but it would be difficult to maintain that rational outlook if resulting dust storms caused a recurrence of the mass ruin and exodus from the dust bowl of the 1930s.

RENT BILL:

Lesser Evil

Acidly pointing out to congress that he was only choosing "the lesser of two evils," President Truman signed into law an extension of modified rent controls until March 1, 1948.

He charged that a basic weakness of the act was the controversial provision permitting voluntary agreements between landlords and tenants to 15 per cent rent increases if the landlord gives a lease running through 1948.

"This is voluntary only so far as the landlord is concerned. Many tenants, however, will feel that there is no choice," Mr. Truman said.

In a stinging, 2,500-word message to congress, the President called for an investigation of the "real estate lobby" which he said had pushed the bill through. He attacked the real estate lobby as "this selfish and shortsighted group" permitted "by its brazen operations to block programs so essential to the needs of our citizens."

Under the extended law, Mr. Truman said, millions would be faced with substantial rent increases.

WORLD ARMY:

Figures Given

Members of the United Nations security council regarded as a heartening advance a tentative recommendation by the military staff committee on numerical strength of a world police force.

The group stated provisionally that the security council should have a basic force of 3,800 warplanes, 20 divisions of ground troops, three battleships and six aircraft carriers to enforce world peace.

Hewing to the line, Soviet members of the military staff committee declined to make any suggestions, holding to their contention that the security council must agree on general principles for the police force before dealing with actual numbers of troops, planes and ships.

The U. S. delegation, headed by Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, as well as the delegations of France and Great Britain, submitted their ideas in a report to the council. Official Soviet attitude was that the estimates were unofficial, thus having no significance.

DISCORD:

Paris Clash

Latest attempt to bring the opposing areas of the world into closer harmony by means of an international conference has resulted, as have all the others, in a complete, discordant, unharmonious cacophony.

It was the Paris conference of British, French and Russian representatives on Secretary of State Marshall's save-Europe proposal which went on the rocks this time, deepening the rift between Russia and the western powers.

MARSHALL ANGERED

Angered at Soviet criticism of his European recovery plan, Secretary of State George Marshall rejected as a "malicious distortion of the truth" the Russian claim that American offers to help put Europe on its feet are inspired by imperialist motives. He drew a stinging comparison between United States' efforts for world aid and Soviet aggrandizement in Europe.

Conflict arose over two main issues:

1. Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov opposed any plan by which the great powers could impose an economic program on the smaller nations of Europe, while British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, backed by French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, wanted to draft a broad scheme for reconstruction of all Europe.

2. Molotov placed his entire emphasis on the American aid aspect of the Marshall plan, but Britain and France primarily stressed a self-help program for Europe.

Result is that Great Britain and France probably will go ahead without Russia on a western European four-year reconstruction program of self-help, at the same time hoping for American credits and supplies.

STATEHOOD:

49th Star

The Territory of Hawaii got over another hurdle in its campaign to gain admittance to the union as the 49th state when the U. S. house of representatives voted 196 to 133 in favor of adding the Hawaiian islands as another star in the flag.

Senate action on the measure during this session of congress appears unlikely, however. The statehood bill approved by the house was submitted by Delegate Joseph F. Farrington (Rep., Hawaii). It would enable the people of Hawaii to draft a constitution and form a state government.

If the bill is approved by the senate and signed into law by the President, the people of Hawaii then must elect delegates to a convention to draft a state constitution, which subsequently must be ratified by the people and approved by the President.

Another election then would be held to select a governor and other state officials, two senators and two house members in congress. After that process is completed, the state would be admitted to the union by presidential proclamation.

FAIR OUTLOOK:

Corn Prospect

As July entered the Midwest's agricultural scene with a gush of warm air and sunshine, prospects appeared reasonably good for a fair-sized crop of corn in Minnesota and South Dakota this year.

However, in those states, as in the rest of the corn belt, a long period of favorable weather conditions is most essential. The frequent, heavy rains must stop in order that saturated fields can return to normal.

Planted acreage of corn in Minnesota and South Dakota is about equal to that of last year, but heavy losses have been incurred as a result of excessive rain. Most observers agree that while the growing corn crop is two to three weeks behind last year it still has time to stage a comeback, given favorable weather.

Such a shortened growing period, however, may result in reduced yields. Also, growers in the two states are reported to have turned, in the past year, to planting corn requiring a shorter growing period than formerly. Therefore, while the corn may mature relatively earlier than formerly, it will do so at the expense of a smaller yield an acre.

TREMOR:

St. Louis Rocks

It began with a low-pitched, subterranean growl. The earth trembled gently for about 11 seconds; sidewalks cracked; here and there a chimney toppled; in hundreds of homes dishes slid from shelves and pitched to the floor. Then, with a sharp bump, it was over.

St. Louis, already partially flooded and imperilled further by the ominous Mississippi cresting at 39.18 feet, had experienced its first earthquake since 1939 and one of the worst in the city's history.

No deaths or injuries were reported as a result of the temblor which was felt for a radius of 30 miles around St. Louis.

Although they received a minor shaking up, the levees holding back the worst Mississippi river flood in 103 years remained undamaged and intact.

SUNK:

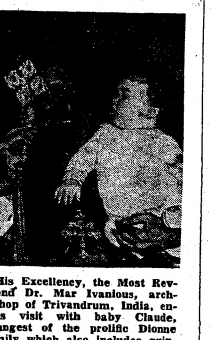
Sea Power

Striking members of CIO shipyard unions along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts have dealt a disastrous blow to America's position as a maritime power, it has been charged by Representative Weichel, chairman of the house maritime committee.

Weichel asserted that the strike will discourage and delay indefinitely new ship construction, and further will have the immediate effect of halting work on 55 ships which are either being repaired or converted for first-class service.

The strikers, 120,000 of them, were demanding a 13-cent hourly wage increase, six paid holidays and a three-week paid vacation.

Just Friends



His Excellency, the Most Reverend Dr. Mar Ivanious, archbishop of Trivandrum, India, enjoys visit with baby Claude, youngest of the prolific Dionne family which also includes quintuplets. The two met in Ottawa, Canada.

BUYING POWER:

Sharp Decline

For the first time in many months, a marked decrease in consumer purchasing power has become evident, it was revealed in a monthly survey of "real income" made by Investors Syndicate, an investment company.

Although the income of the average family at the present time is $1.18 for every dollar earned a year ago, prices have gone up to $1.23 for every dollar in the early summer of 1946. Thus, the "real income" index is reduced to 96 cents. "Real income" is the relation of income to living costs.

While fluctuations in "real income" have occurred at various times during the past six years, the current sharp break from the "real income" level of $1.02 a month ago and a level of $1.06 four months previous indicates a major falling off in purchasing power.

All types of income and all phases of the price structure have increased over a year ago, the survey showed. Wages are up to $1.22 for each dollar, salaries are up to $1.20, farmers income to $1.14. Price of food is now $1.33 for each 1946 dollar, shelter is $1.03.

Statistics Disclose Hazards of Housewifery

It's downright dangerous to be a housewife.

That, at any rate, is the conclusion reached in a study on disability by the Research Council for Economic Security at Chicago.

Of the 300 million weeks lost each year through some form of disability (sickness or injury) in the United States, some 29 million housewives lose 72½ million, or about 24 per cent of the total number of weeks lost. Almost 1,400,000 housewives are confined to the sidelines each day because of disability.

Compare these sets of averages: Employed workers lose only three days apiece each year; those at school lose four days, and temporarily employed workers or those on emergency work only five days. Housewives lose 12 to 13 days each year, or more than twice the time lost by the second largest group.

When Your Back Hurts -

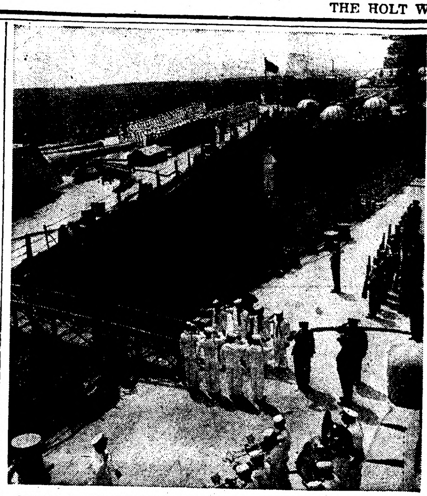
It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

DOAN'S PILLS



TWO U. S. BATTLESHIPS RETIRED . . . A certain amount of pomp and circumstance must accompany even the decommissioning of a naval vessel. Here, Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid, commander of the Atlantic reserve fleet, is piped aboard U.S.S. North Carolina.

EMPTY BARGES IN THE OLD CANAL . . . Coal barges lie desolate and empty along the Allegheny river at Harmarville, Pa., a mining community near Pittsburgh. In background of photo is the tipple (that's a coal screening plant where cars are unloaded) of Wheeling Steel's Harmar mine.

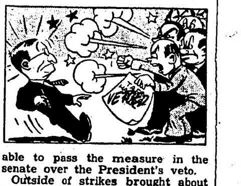
ELEANOR EXPRESSES HER OPINION . . . Members of the press clustered around Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt for a news conference before she addressed 2,500 delegates to the 56th annual convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in New York. Mrs. Roosevelt confided to reporters that the Taft-Hartley labor act "will undoubtedly create disunity in the country instead of unity—and women are vitally concerned."

THE HOME TOWN REPORTER IN WASHINGTON

WALTER SHEAD, WNU Correspondent

No Drastic Upheaval

WHATEVER censure or honor accrues, depending upon the point of view, from passage of the Taft-Hartley labor bill, must be assumed by both parties. The measure was fostered and pushed through both branches of congress by the Republican party leadership and it was vetoed by the President. But it was those same 20 southern Democratic senators who have worked in the past as a coalition with the GOP senators who were able to pass the measure in the senate over the President's veto.



Outside of strikes brought about by resentment of labor unions, there likely will be no upheaval in management-labor relations for several months to come. Many collective bargaining agreements have months to run before expiration. When these agreements expire, then will come tests of the law, both as to its fairness, justice and constitutionality in the courts. Employers instituted test suits of the Wagner act early in 1935 and got a Supreme court opinion in 1937, two years later. It may take longer on this law.

* * *

Sen. Harley Kilgore of West Virginia said the new labor law reminds him of a Rube Goldberg cartoon. "I remember one," said Senator Kilgore, "in which a trained elephant upset a bucket of water, which in turn disturbed a bunch of bedbugs and they in turn disturbed a human being who was asleep in bed and that person upon rising put out a fire in the next house. However, all those cartoons ignored certain laws of physics and certain laws of human conduct." Amendments already are being offered in both the house and the senate to the new law.

* * *

Circumvent Act

One objective of the congressional reorganization act of 1946 was to curb the number of congressional committees. It cut from 81 to 34 the number of standing committees in house and senate. A recent survey shows, however, that instead of naming special committees, both branches have named 146 sub-committees. So far only four special committees have been named, an improvement over the past.

* * *

The story is told that Sen. Glen Taylor of Idaho, the guitar strumming "Hamlet" of the senate, refused to sign the senate payroll because he would have been required to make affidavit that he was not a member of any organization which approved striking against the government. The senate clerk finally ruled Taylor would not have to sign the affidavit. Taylor holds an A. F. of L. card.

* * *

Another Dilemma

When President Truman "reluctantly" signed the rent control bill, which permits a 15 per cent increase in rents, he was in the same box as he was in on OPA last year at the same time. On both occasions the law was scheduled to expire on June 30. It was a case of the President taking the law before him or none at all.

* * *

Almost a quarter century ago the name of Robert L. Owen rang through the halls of congress. From 1907 to 1925—a period of 18 years—he was a member of the senate from Oklahoma. Today, at 92, white haired, blind but spry and alert, he has perfected a global alphabet by which any language in the world can be learned within a few days.

* * *

Congressman Clifford Hope of Kansas told the Dairymen's league recently that farmer cooperatives constitute the soundest approach to the solution of the farm problem. The tax equality league and some other business organizations don't think so and are attempting to put cooperatives out of business through various curbs and restrictions.

* * *

Third Party Talk

Political gossip here in Washington is that a third party movement on a national scale next year is not a probability. Although many are taking the third party talk seriously, the best informed believe that Henry Wallace may threaten the Democrats but that he prefers to stay within the ranks of the Democratic party. It is possible that third-party movement in states where laws permit, may get under way but only in state elections.

Thin The Vegetable Garden Row

It is next to impossible to sow vegetable seed thinly enough so that the young plants do not crowd each other in the row when they come up. This is particularly true when the seeds are very small.

Carrot seedlings, for example, should be thinned to stand about an inch apart when two to three inches tall. Otherwise the roots cannot develop as they should. Radishes are of better shape, too, if the plants are thinned to stand about an inch apart while still tiny seedlings. Green onions can be thinned by pulling and using the extra spears for the table when they come up too quickly.

Beet seed should be planted at least 1½ to 2 inches apart for each little pellet usually contains two to four seeds. When the plants are four to five inches tall, every other one can be pulled for greens. If this is done at intervals while tops and roots are small, space will gradually be left for some of the roots to reach good size.

Sowing leaf lettuce seed sparsely helps to avoid the extra work of later thinning. Even when the stand is fairly thick, instead of thinning the plants some home gardeners prefer to cut the larger outer leaves, leaving the inner ones to grow. If you like to use each lettuce plant intact, thin to about two inches apart when small. Then, as they become large enough to use, pull up alternate plants and leave the others to grow.

Bush beans should be planted two to four inches apart and just enough seedlings removed from the row so that the remaining ones are four to five inches apart. Beans usually produce more abundantly when the plants do not crowd each other.

Turnips usually do better and grow more rapidly to table size if given three or four inches in which to spread. It is important that turnips grow to eating size quickly to avoid being tough and fibrous. Of course the thinnings make delicious greens when young and tender.

Water is hard on leather. Shoes should be protected from rain and snow by rubbers or overshoes. Wet leather gets out of shape and wears out more rapidly than dry leather. From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Sam Helps with the Dishwashing

Dropped in at the Abernathy's just the other evening—and there was Sam, out in the kitchen with an apron on, helping his missus wash the supper dishes. (And then I learned later he'd helped cook the supper, too.)

Of course, Sam could have settled into his favorite chair, enjoyed his evening glass of beer, and left all the messy kitchenwork to Dixie. But he kind of likes her company — and she in turn certainly appreciates his help.

In fact, sharing the housework and the mealtime chores is sort of a bond between them . . . like sharing that friendly glass of beer together, when the work is done. It's one of those little all-important things in marriage.

From where I sit, the time that a man and wife can spend with each other in this busy world today is all too precious. And the more things they can do together, the better.

New Telephone Poles & Wire

Hartley Peterson last week erected two new telephone poles, one near the telephone office and one near Lorentson's Service Station. Mr. Peterson has replaced several poles and wiring, and has plans for new wiring throughout the village and hopes to accomplish it in the near future. The task of keeping telephone service in order has not been an easy one with materials for repairing almost impossible to obtain and the telephone operators here are to be commended for the efficient service they have given to Holt patrons.

Frozen Meat
Busy housewives who do not have time to thaw frozen meat products before cooking are assured by researchers that they do not spoil flavor, reduce juiciness, or increase shrinkage. The only factors to consider are that thawed meats cook quicker than still frozen meats; that unthawed meat is more apt to spatter fat when braised and less likely to hold an egg and crumb mixture in frying. If roasts are cooked in the frozen state, 10 minutes more must be allowed per pound than for thawed roasts. A two-inch frozen steak needs 15 minutes more cooking time than a thawed one of the same thickness.

Liquor Sales Vote August 25

Marshall County voters will decide on the quesaion of legal liquor sales through operation of municipal liquor stores on Monday, August 25, petitions calling for the special election being filed yesterday with Levi G. Johnson, county auditor, by officers of the Marshall County Municipal Liquor Control association.

The petitions carried 1,778 signatures, this number being approximately 300 more than the minimum required. The required number of signatures on the petitions is 1,436.

Here to present the petitions calling for the election were Mayor Sig Silnes, Warren, chairman; Mayor H. F. Hedquist, Argyle, secretary; and Mayor Clarence Kroke, Stephen, treasurer of the Marshall County Municipal Liquor Control association. Marshall county has been legally dry since 1915. In 1933 voted against repeal of the national prohibition act and as a result remained in the dry column under an act of the state legislature. There has been no direct vote taken on the question since.

Indications are that a big fight will be made by both sides, those favoring prohibition in the county and those favoring legal control through municipally operated dispensaries. Each village will decide for itself whether or not they wish to establish a municiple store should county prohibition be repealed.

An old set of bookshelves painted to harmonize with the surroundings makes a convenient place for children to store toys, according to the Rural Home editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer. The playthings are kept in better condition than if thrown helter-skelter in a box.

Red Cross Comm. Oganized

The organization of the Marshall County Red Cross Disaster Preparedness and relief Committee has been completed with the naming of members in each village and township in the county.

Should a disaster occur in any part of the county it will be the duty of the Committeeman in that township or village to notify the county chairman or the National Red Cross Representative. He will also supervise granting of any relief that may be necessary until National Red Cross officials reach the scene of disaster. Committeemen selected for the Holt area are: Hartley Peterson, Geo. Fricker; Excel, Fred Voth; Holt Twp. John Bennet; Agder, Ted Sampson; East Valley, Chas Skoglund; Spruce Valley, John Isaacson. Donald Sinclaire of Stephen is County Chairman.

Farm Fire Fighting
The first five minutes are the most important in fighting farm fires. Engineers of the department of agriculture say that in fire fighting on farms, five minutes or less may be all the time available to rescue the family, send out the alarm, and fight the fire before it gets beyond control. Every farm family needs a simple fire fighting plan, according to engineers. The plan needs to include quickly removing all persons to safety, prompt signaling for help, skillfully fighting a small fire before it spreads, protecting other buildings, livestock and property, and fighting the fire with neighborhood cooperation.

—WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS—

Prevent Red Uprising in Greece; Hartley Lashes Mine Contract; Oil Exports to Russia Defended

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

FOILED:
Nip Red Plot

Striking with lightning rapidity, Athens security police arrested more than 2,000 persons in and around the city in a series of raids designed to forestall a threatened Communist uprising in Greece.

Action followed swiftly after police had intercepted a message from Gen. Markos Vifiades, commander of guerrilla forces in northern Greece, to Communist leaders in Athens directing them to put into effect immediately "Plan F."

"Plan F" is reported to have been a campaign of violence in Athens, including general sabotage, seizure of important ministries and "the murder of political leaders." Government officials said the uprising was intended to influence world public opinion on the Grecian situation during United Nations security council hearings on the Balkan situation.

ANY CONNECTION?
On the day preceding the mass arrests in Athens, Russia leveled a bitter attack in the United Nations Balkan hearings against the United States and Great Britain, charging that their intervention in Greek affairs was the cause of friction in the Balkans. The Soviets asked withdrawal of foreign troops from Greece and United Nations supervision of the 300 million dollar U. S. loan to that country.

Among those taken into custody were Demitrius Partsilliades, Communist secretary-general of the E.A.M. (National Liberation Front) and Mrs. Rosa Timvriote, chief of the educational division of the Communist party. All Communist party leaders in the Athens-Piraeus district were reported to have been arrested.

The Greek government began immediate hearings for all of the suspects, and those found to have been implicated in the uprising plot were sent into exile.

ROMANCE:
Royal Road

Princess Elizabeth, 21-year-old heiress presumptive to the throne of England, and Lt. Philip Mountbatten, 26, former Prince Philip of Greece, are formally engaged to be married this autumn, probably in October.

King George VI and Queen Elizabeth cleared the road to royal romance by giving unqualified approval to the match and announcing the engagement in a traditional court circular.

Princess Elizabeth

Lt. Mountbatten is a second cousin to the king and a great grandson of Queen Victoria. As the husband of Princess Elizabeth, he will be Britain's first prince consort since Queen Victoria's husband, Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg. He cannot become king, but probably will be given a dukedom shortly before the wedding.

King George is expected to ask parliament to increase Princess Elizabeth's income and perhaps give her husband a special allowance.

In the meantime, even the royal family is troubled by the housing shortage, and the princess and her husband probably will start their married life in a way familiar to everyone—by moving in with her parents in Buckingham palace.

FARMERS PROSPER

Both farm assets and farm income have expanded tremendously since the outbreak of World War II, according to a late report released by the National Industrial Conference board.

Total assets increased about 90 per cent from 53.7 billion dollars at the beginning of 1940 to 101.5 billion dollars six years later. Gross income from agriculture shot up 124 per cent over the same period.

BETRAYED:
Mine Pact

Rep. Fred A. Hartley (Rep., N. J.), co-author of the Taft-Hartley labor act, has charged big business and big labor with betraying the public in negotiating the latest John L. Lewis coal mining contract.

Hartley's attack followed shortly after southern coal operators followed northern and midwestern operators in signing soft coal contracts with the 400,000-member United Mine Workers.

He told the house that "at least one clear violation of the law" was contained in the contracts, referring to the section providing for a "checkoff" from the miners' wages.

The Taft-Hartley law, he said, permits a checkoff only for union dues, but the contract calls for a checkoff of initiation fees and union assessments. Hartley added that other sections of the contract "violate the spirit and intent of the law."

Noting that the contract afforded a "prime case history of the evils of industry-wide bargaining," he said that there was evidence of "collusion between the mine operators and the UMW with the intention of violating the law."

OIL EXPORTS:
Supply Russia

A special export license for the shipment of petroleum products to Russia was granted by the department of commerce hours after Representative Weichel (Rep., O.), chairman of the house merchant marine committee, demanded the license be refused.

Weichel previously had telephoned William C. Foster, undersecretary of commerce, urging him to halt the movement of 248,000 barrels of petroleum being loaded aboard three tankers on the West coast.

Explaining his action to the angry Weichel, Foster said that the department did not believe that exports of petroleum and petroleum products "should be prohibited or drastically curtailed. To do so would upset the world system of distribution and make petroleum a source of international friction."

He implied that the exporting of oil has little or no effect on this nation's domestic supply because, under any circumstances, the U. S. must import oil to supplement its domestic production.

NAVY RESIGNATIONS GROW

Higher pay and a more satisfactory home life are the two main lures which have drawn the most bright and capable young career officers from the navy and army into civilian jobs at what is called "an alarming rate" during the past year.

In the last 10 months more than 1,700 naval officers have resigned commissions won at Annapolis to take higher paying civilian jobs. During the same period, the army lost only 259 West Point officers via the resignation route, but they are men whom the service can ill afford to spare.

The bug has even extended to the Federal Bureau of Investigation whose agents, numbering 5,000 at the end of the war, dropped off to 3,200 by the beginning of 1947. The total now is back only to about 3,400.

One of the main reasons cited for the wide difference between army and navy resignations is worry among the younger naval officers over drastically reduced appropriations for the department and the unification bill now before congress. Some navy men believe unification will hinder their careers.

VETO ATTACKED:

Evidence is growing that there is under way in the senate a quietly organized bipartisan movement to reduce or eliminate the veto power through which Russia has blocked virtually every important United Nations program.

Still in its early stages, the movement is interpreted as a reflection of strong apprehension in congress that the United Nations cannot continue to function under existing rules.

No Labor for Labor

SECRETARY OF LABOR Lewis B. Schwellenbach, a sad-faced man at best, is more mournful than ever these days. For the former U. S. senator, judge and law school dean finds himself heading a department of labor with little to do about labor and, as a matter of fact, with little to do about anything.

The long gray stone building on Constitution avenue, which houses the cabinet agency set up to promote the welfare of the workers of the nation has been fast emptied of its agencies. First the U. S. employment service was turned over to federal security. The retraining and reemployment administration to help veterans also was transferred to security. The Taft-Hartley bill makes the national labor relations board an independent agency and the federal conciliation service also is divorced from the department. The labor standards bureau has been made impotent by lack of appropriations.

Left for Schwellenbach to operate with an under-secretary and three assistant secretaries are the women's division and the bureau of labor statistics.

* * *

When members of congress get back to main street at the end of July they will be asked by veterans what happened to their 350 bills introduced; by housewives—what has happened to prices; by farmers — what happened to the farm program; by school teachers—what happened to the teachers federal aid bills; by veterans and tenants—what happened to the housing programs and by the taxpayers—what happened to that six billion dollar appropriation cut.

* * *

No Uncertainty Here

Labor will not have to ask congress what happened to labor. They know. The portal-to-portal pay bill and the omnibus Taft-Hartley bill are on the law books. Labor calls the measure a "slave labor bill." Industry dubs it a "Magna Charta for labor." And in the meantime, the president, who vetoed it, and the NLRB who must administer it, say they will give the measure a fair administration to make it work. It is almost certain, however, that some provisions will be declared unconstitutional.

* * *

The national council of farm cooperatives doesn't want any tinkering which will change the purpose and operation of the farm credit laws. Witnesses told a senate committee considering H.R. 3756, already passed by the house, that the bill would "seriously damage" the present system by making it a direct government lending agency.

* * *

As adjournment of congress nears, the senate civil service committee still is playing politics with appointment of some 700 postmasters which have been awaiting confirmation for six months. It may take a last-minute log-rolling to get them through, if at all, before the gavel sounds for congressional recess.

* * *

'Sneak Attack'

A PARADE of witnesses, lobbyists, attorneys and big guns of the private power industry have been testifying before the house interstate commerce committee in behalf of a seemingly innocent measure introduced by Congressman William J. Miller of Connecticut.

This bill, however, is not innocent. In effect it would take most of the huge power trusts from under control of the federal power commission by repealing important provisions of the law creating the commission. Opponents of the measure brand it a "sneak attack" at the governmental policy of power regulation.

There is no denying the fact that the private power interests are finding the 80th congress a sympathetic one in their attempts to evade the anti-trust laws, to slap down public power which is giving cheap electricity to millions of users.

* * *

Action Delayed

The first six months of the 80th congress finds nothing done on President Truman's proposals for health insurance, universal military training or river valley developments, although in this latter category the record-breaking floods along the Missouri and Mississippi rivers have given added proof of urgently needed action. Likewise, there has been no action on federal aid to the needy, anti-poll tax or anti-lynching legislation.

TESTS show that Champion Farmer Renk's Firestone Champion Ground Grips will clean up to 100% more effectively, pull up to 62% more, last up to 91% longer, and roll smoother over highways than any other tractor tires.

Only Firestone Champion Ground Grips are made with connected curved traction bars. The curves . . . and the connections . . . give the bars far greater strength than those on any other tractor tires. They eliminate the excessive bending and wiping and rapid tread wear of broken center tires. The curved bars cut into the soil with a sharp, plowlike action. Mud and trash fall freely from tapered openings between these powerful traction bars. The continuous contact of the connected curved bars with the highway insures a smoother ride.

Like Champion Farmer Renk . . . and other cost-conscious farmers . . . you will get more pulling power and longer life if you specify Firestone Champion Ground Grips for your new tractor . . . or buy Champions for your present tractors.

LOOKING AHEAD

by GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

It's Up to Us!

Today it doesn't require a genius of a Barney Baruch to look into the future and see that America faces a great crisis. It doesn't require the wisdom of Solomon to know that if present conditions continue we are headed right into a deep and shocking depression so great that it might affect the fundamental pattern of our economy, and hence the entire future of the nation.

We can, if only we would, prevent a serious depression for many years. But to do so would require three things we now definitely lack. These proper things will not likely be done and the depression will likely come. In the midst of a sobering depression, however, we might muster sufficient courage to do the right things and thereby shorten its duration.

What If It Comes?

I want to outline three necessary steps which could prevent depression if taken now, and which would shorten a depression if taken after it is upon us. In the first place, there is required a brand of bold, courageous, farsighted, non-political executive leadership beyond anything Washington seems likely to display.

In the second place, it would necessitate a lot of new, daring, venturesome, resourceful industrial activity, which because of unfavorable tax rates, industrial strife, and general want of vision, we seldom see. In the third place, it would require from labor leaders in general a very genuine, honest, sincere, and effective effort to remove all practices and policies that hinder maximum production per man-hour, and that needlessly add to the cost of goods, construction, and so on, of which we likewise see but little.

Toward Real Raises

These three steps would bring about three conditions necessary if we are to prevent depression, unemployment, and mediocrity. One of the first things this formula would lead to would be real understanding and cooperation between industry and labor, which is an essential to the continued welfare of this nation. We have not fooled ourselves into the foolish belief that these great segments of industry must ever be at cross purposes.

In the second place, these things would lead to an increase of at least 40 per cent in actual amount of goods produced without increases in labor costs. At the same time there would be no decrease in rate of wages earned. This would rapidly increase the effectiveness of competition and would bring cuts in prices ranging from 20 to 25 per cent, thus giving a real raise in standards of living for the entire public, labor as well as others.

A Simple Formula

In the third place, these lower prices would increase demand for our goods. American industry has, more nearly than that of any other nation, reached the mass markets. Our industry has produced goods that make the least of us veritable kings. And the end of this is nowhere in sight.

This advice sounds extremely simple, and it is just that simplicity that makes the formula worthy. This simple formula for prosperity of the entire nation requires only honest, intelligent, unselfish, courageous citizenship and leadership. May God raise up the leadership for the sake of this nation, our posterity, and the world.

May we, individually, exercise the intelligent citizenship the days ahead will require.

Production Cost Study Rates Plant Food As 'One of Best Buys' Farmer Can Make Plant Food Pays Dividends in Higher Yields.

CHICAGO—Fertilizer was called "one of the best buys a farmer can make" in a statement by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee based on a study of farm production costs issued by Purdue University's Department of Agricultural Extension.

"Although prices of numerous other goods and services used in farm production have increased from 25 to 226 per cent compared with prewar levels," says the statement, "the cost of fertilizer per unit of plant nutrient has risen only 15 per cent."

The extent to which other farm cost items have jumped since the 1935-39 period is indicated by the following Purdue compilations:

Farm wage rates are now 226 per cent above prewar averages. They have increased more than any other farm production cost. Prices of seeds are up 92 per cent. The annual operating cost of a tractor is 44 per cent more than before Pearl Harbor. Farm machinery prices have increased 25 per cent. The annual operating cost of an auto or truck is 72 per cent higher. Building materials, excluding housing, have risen 50 per cent. The annual operating cost of machinery other than tractor, truck and auto, is 54 per cent more.

Present building costs for farm buildings and farmstead improvements when skilled labor is considered, are around 200 per cent above prewar levels. The cost per head of keeping horses is up 85 per cent.

'Green Pastures' Will Provide Cheap Feed To Cut Higher Dairy Production Costs

Good Pasture Promotes Heavy Milk Flow by Dairy Cattle.

CHICAGO—"The green pastures" can help dairy farmers cut steadily rising production costs by providing low cost fodder to pinch hit for high-priced corn and other feed grains, according to a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"Production costs have gone up faster than market prices for dairy products since the war," says the statement. "Farmers are paying more for corn, feed grains, milk cows, cream separators and other materials. Farm wages have reached an all-time high.

"Before V-J Day, one pound of milk would buy 1.22 pounds of cattle feed. Today it will buy only 1.2 pounds. During the war a pound of butterfat would buy nearly 26 pounds of feed. Now it will buy only 22.4 pounds.

"The cheapest and best feed a farmer can get comes from pasture. [illegible] in pasture improvement that boosts the output of legumes and grasses per acre, can help farmers reduce production costs and boost profits.

"There is no short cut to good pasture, however. You have to feed the soil so it can feed the crop. Liming, based on soil tests, plus the use of manure is one of the essentials in getting a good catch of deep-rooted legumes in the rotation. The application of commercial fertilizer containing phosphorus and potash is equally important in providing nutrients vitally needed by legumes for sturdy growth.

"A good stand of legumes and productive grasses has a twofold value. It supplies a low cost and abundant source of proteins, minerals and vitamins to promote a heavy milk flow by dairy cattle. The legumes increase the soil's nitrogen resources, open and aerate the soil, rebuild the organic matter supply and improve the soil's tilth."

"Not Responsible For Wife's Debts"

A young man came rushing into the Clarion office the other day and wanted me to print an ad—"right quick"—saying he won't be responsible for his wife's debts from now on, as he's leaving her for good immediately.

I allowed as how the forms were all closed up, and it was too late to take his ad. He says: "All right, Monday then"—and we agreed on Monday.

Of course, the forms weren't closed. But I had kind of an inkling of what might happen. Then Sunday he phones me, and says, kind of sheepishly: "You can forget that ad. Me and the missus have everything all patched up. And we're having a friendly glass of beer, right now."

From where I sit, if you give folks time enough to think things over, those hasty quarrels that come so often from misunderstanding will give way to tolerance and common sense.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Greeks Repel Invading Forces; Truman Pushes Flood Control; U.S. Proposes Plan for Ruhr

Released by Western Newspaper Union

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

HOT FIGHT, COLD SHOULDER

U.N. Denies Debate on Greece

The United Nations security council, which has yet to meet a tough problem head-on and overcome it, rejected an American appeal for an emergency debate on the Balkan situation, despite reports of increasing strife in Greece.

When Herschel V. Johnson, deputy U. S. delegate, warned that the crisis developing in Greece "may burst into explosion any day," Andrei Gromyko, Soviet delegate, protested that an emergency debate on the issue was unnecessary and France added that the United Nations "must not act too hastily."

JOHNSON

However, the council did schedule two special meetings in response to an American request to speed up the discussion of trouble in southeastern Europe. Russia objected to this, too, charging that the U. S. was attempting to "prove that an extraordinary situation had been created in Greece."

Main U. S. proposal for working out the difficulty in Greece calls for establishment of a powerful 11-nation border patrol with authority to scout both sides of the borders separating Greece from the Communist-dominated countries of Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania.

Yanks Are Coming

The conservative Athens newspaper Elinikon Aima has reported on "excellent" authority that United States troops will aid Greece halt further invasions such as the one government forces now are fighting. The newspaper quoted an American spokesman as saying, "The United States are decided to contribute to the safeguard of Greek freedom and independence, even with American armed forces."

War Again

As additional troops were sent up to reinforce both the invading leftist guerrillas and the Greek government forces, the swiftly developing battle in the rugged heights of northern Greece began to take on a cast reminiscent of the Spanish civil war.

The war ministry disclosed that six strong guerrilla units had been concentrated along the Albanian and Yugoslav frontiers of Greece and that all were poised to join the original invasion force of 2,000 which government troops had so far been able to repel.

Napoleon Zervas, defense minister, told a press conference at Ioannina that several of 20 prisoners taken by the defenders were unable to speak Greek and wore the Red Star insignia of the Soviet Union.

In the meantime, a war department announcement said that one invading force of 2,000 had been gripped in a pincers nine miles from Albania and that a battle of annihilation was in progress. A second column was halted in its drive toward Ioannina and surrounded by the government troops.

FLOOD CONTROL:

10-Year Program

Terming the problem one of "desperate urgency," President Truman, in a special message to congress, proposed that a swift start be made on a 10-year, 250 million dollar program to control floods in the entire Mississippi basin and change the character of the river from a destructive giant to a productive force.

He strongly implied that the present congress should undertake the immense, long-range task before its adjournment. A number of senators immediately threw their support behind the President's proposal.

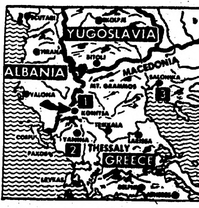
In general, the construction program as outlined by Mr. Truman would provide a coordinated system of storage reservoirs in all the major tributary basins of the Mississippi, coupled with levees, floodwalls and diversion channels to protect cities, towns and farms in those basins.

Also, he proposed that soil conservation measures be put into effect farther up-river on the tributaries of each major basin in order to retard the flow and run-off of waters from heavy rains and reduce topsoil loss.

Mr. Truman recommended harnessing the flood waters for productive use, adding that "the major opportunity of our generation to increase the wealth of the nation lies in the development of our great river systems."

Despite the urgency of Mr. Truman's message, it became rapidly apparent that congress was disinclined to pass any flood control legislation during this session. Also, house appropriations leaders were said to be clutching the federal purse a little tighter when the tremendous project was mentioned.

The Battleground



Map shows where guerrilla invaders penetrated into Greece from Albania, striking first toward Konitsa (arrow). While Greek government forces were bottling up the leftist "international brigade," an additional six guerrilla units were massing along the borders of Albania and Yugoslavia.

High I. Q. Helps

Contrary to popular supposition, child prodigies do not inevitably wind up as skid-row deadbeats or forlorn, clerkish gnomes slaving their lives away in penurious obscurity.

On the contrary, as a general rule it pays to be gifted, according to Dr. Lewis M. Terman, Stanford university psychology professor, who has studied 1,400 child prodigies since 1921.

RUHR PLAN:

Britain Objects

Abandoning as unworkable the Potsdam proposals for control of the German Ruhr, vital industrial district, the United States has put forward its own plan which would:

1. Give the U. S. dominant control over the Ruhr, now under the British military government.

2. Postpone a decision on future ownership of Ruhr coal, steel and other industries for five years.

3. Have the United States furnish the industrial equipment needed to repair and modernize the damaged mines and factories in order to raise the level of German industrial production.

The entire project is designed to make restoration of the Ruhr industries the fulcrum of the Marshall plan to provide leverage in raising Europe from its economic bog.

Great Britain, however, is thoroughly alarmed over the American proposal which, the British believe, is an open move to deprive them of their supremacy in the Ruhr. Moreover, if, as the U. S. wishes, decision of ownership of Ruhr industries is postponed, the British government would have to put off until 1952 its proclaimed policy of socializing basic German industries.

Early developments indicated that a major British-American crisis may be in the making as a result of this divided opinion.

RACKET:

Training Hit

Dr. Allan Bates, a Chicago scientist, testified before a house armed services sub-committee that universal military training has become "a vicious political racket" and will be "a horrible cancer on the United States."

He cited the fate of European nations in the last war, declaring that despite assurances from their top army leaders that universal training would safeguard them from invasion they all fell before the Nazi blitzkrieg.

As an alternative to universal military training, Bates said the United States should concentrate on a strong striking force, a large air force, strong reserves and a well organized national guard, all backed by adequate scientific and industrial research.

SCIENTIFIC:

Bill for Research

Indicating its awareness that the United States must, for the sake of self-preservation, retain its war-won supremacy in science research and development, the house has passed a bill intended to coordinate scientific research for national defense, medicine and engineering projects.

The bill was sent to the senate, which previously had approved a measure similar to the version passed by the house.

ON THE CUFF:

Rail Fares

More than 50 of the nation's major railroads on September 1 will institute the sale of railroad tickets on the installment plan.

The scheme will put the current pay-as-you-go method of rail travel on a pay-after-you-get-back basis.

Not limited solely to tickets, the plan will apply also to all necessary travel expenses, including cash for clothing and equipment needed for vacation trips. Payments for tickets and other expenses will be made on a monthly basis for as long as a year.

No down payment will be required, nor will any collateral be asked. Signature of the would-be traveler will be sufficient. Anyone using the plan will go to the ticket office of one of the cooperating railways or to a travel agency and apply for credit. A routine credit inquiry will be carried out within the ensuing 24 hours and the application approved or rejected.

AUTOMOTIVE:

Ford Prices

Prices of the new Ford cars will not reflect increased production costs, Henry Ford II, top man in the Ford automotive dynasty, told dealers from 11 states in session at Chicago.

Ford said that higher coal costs mean higher steel costs, which total about $10 for each car produced. The buyer, however, will not be asked to pay the extra $10.

The auto maker disclosed that new passenger car models may not be introduced until 1948, although new truck models may be brought out later this year.

John R. Davis, vice president and director of sales and advertising, predicted that it would be two or three years before the car market will be free enough so that buyers can get an automobile on demand.

Peak Toppers

Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Washburn of Cambridge, Mass., who climbed Mt. McKinley in Alaska with six other members of a scientific expedition, appear happy to be back in Boston. Mrs. Washburn was the first woman to reach the summit of the 20,270 foot peak.

Atom Lab

With efforts to set up world controls over nuclear energy in complete stagnation, the United States is taking steps to put its atom bomb program on a permanent basis.

The atomic energy commission announced that plans are under way to "permanentize and effectively modernize" the war-built town of Los Alamos, N. M., where the first atom bomb was made and tested two years ago.

Household Hints

Put newspapers under grass or fiber rugs to prevent dirt from seeping through. On cleaning day remove the newspapers which have caught the dirt.

Soap and water won't harm furniture; not if you wring a soft cloth out of warm soapsuds and wash furniture with it. When furniture is wiped dry, polish with a good furniture polish.

If hands are lightly dusted with talcum powder before doing fine sewing, knitting, crocheting during hot weather it will eliminate stickiness of hands.

Place a piece of adhesive paper over the crack in the outside wall. If it remains unbroken for a time you may rest assured the settlement which caused the crack has about reached the limit. Repairs can then be made.

Greasy containers can be easily cleaned by rubbing with dry cornmeal.

Coarsely woven or braided, brilliantly colored table mats in clear ruby red, emerald green, cerise or chartreuse will be a smart vogue for summer tables. Simple china and clear glassware are especially effective with these mats.

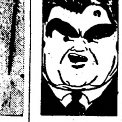
THE HOME TOWN REPORTER IN WASHINGTON

WALTER SHEAD, WNU Correspondent

Powerful Allies

WITHIN the dignified grey stone United Mine Workers building in a paneled baronial hall, John L. Lewis watched the tycoons of Big Business form in line and meekly sign the most favorable labor contract in the history of union labor. It was dramatic and the mine boss was in his element.



But he had two powerful allies in out-maneuvering and out-smarting Big Coal, Big Steel and proponents of the Taft-Hartley labor law. These allies were politics and greed for profits. Politics dictated to industry that the Taft-Hartley law must not be tested at this time against the miners. Greed for profits dictated to sign almost any wage figure for coal and steel will reap millions in profits this next year.

So Lewis adroitly by-passed the provisions of the new labor law and with the union monopoly at one end and steel and coal monopoly at the other, the general public was squeezed between them to pay the freight in increased prices of those commodities.

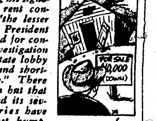
Study in Morals

PERHAPS it was reaction after bitterly contested political fights over taxes, labor, appropriations or reciprocal trade, perhaps the Russian situation or some other cause brought it up, but the house of representatives gravely listened to speech after speech on morals in government. Brooks Hays of Arkansas, Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, Everett Dirksen of Illinois, George Sadowski of Michigan, John Hestleton of Massachusetts and others joined in the verbal barrage. The parade was climaxed by a speech by Cong. Charles J. Kersten of Wisconsin. He said in part:

"We should constantly let it be known to the world that ours, the finest government in the world, is based on a recognition of the fact that men are essentially equal the world over, that their fundamental rights—the right to life, the right to liberty, the right to seek and live a happy life—these rights and others are given to them by their God. No dictator, no president, no court gives them these rights. Laws and governments, not based on human nature will wither away. But laws and governments which recognize that a human being is a king made in the image and likeness of his Creator, that he has rights and a dignity given him by his Creator, right, and dignity that no state can take away—those laws and that government shall stand the test of centuries."

* * *



Already rent increases are going into effect, reportedly in some instances as high as 400 per cent. In his message to congress accompanying his signature on the rent control bill as "the lesser of two evils," President Truman called for congressional investigation of the real estate lobby as "a selfish and short-sighted group." There is no question but that this lobby and its several auxiliaries have been the most bumptious and brazen operating in Washington.

Rural Life Threatened

With most of his budget lopped off, Dillard Lasseter, administrator of Farmers Home administration, declared that family life in some rural areas is impossible without federal aid. He is closing 575 county and 23 state offices. He reported that FHA had loaned $1,035,088,889 to 1,050,000 farmers since October 31, 1946, and 76 per cent already had been repaid with two-thirds of borrowers more than four installments ahead of their repayment schedule. One-fourth of farmers with poor credit must have government aid to survive, he said.

Out of His Element

Sen. Robert Taft is one of those men no one would ever think of slapping on the back. But newspaper men caught him in one of his rare moods of good humor recently after his first victory in the senate since he became GOP leader—passage of the Taft-Hartley bill. He grinned from ear to ear and actually appeared affable and seemed to be enjoying himself as he quickly and easily answered questions. But he has the faculty of never remembering a face or a name.

Who Owns Business?

"Who owns American corporations?" That was the lead sentence of an Associated Press story released the other day. Point of this story was that the people own business. Stockholders of five big companies in representative fields added together number 1,684,868, or enough people to make the fourth largest city of the United States. That is correct, the people do own our corporations. It is right for people to own our business.

I have often contended that in America you have the people owning the wealth and resources of a nation in much more direct and complete manner than you could ever have under any of the socialistic dream Utopias. This is the straight answer to the Communistic dodge that the people are the state to which must be added the fact that in totalitarian countries the state owns the people. In America the people, in a very real way, own the wealth and resources of the nation.

"Vested" Interests

If you were to combine the population of Nevada, Wyoming and Delaware, according to the Associated Press story, you would still not have as many people as own the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. A city composed of the 700,000 A.T.&T. stockholders would be the tenth largest in the country. Moreover, it is significant that this corporation's stockholders far outrank in number its 500,000 workers.

This is generally true of American corporations, and when you add the stockholders to the employees, you strengthen your picture of America as a place where the masses have "vested" interests in the wealth of the nation. The stockholders of the richest railroad in the land, the Pennsylvania, outnumber the employees almost four to three. They live in every state of the union, and on the average own 60 shares representing an individual investment of $1,200.

We're All Dependent

We think of General Motors, biggest automobile manufacturers, as having a lot of employees. Yet, except for a brief period at the peak of armament work during the war, General Motors stockholders have outnumbered employees for 17 years. More than a third of General Motors individual stockholders have holdings of 10 shares or fewer. No single person owns more than 1.5 per cent of all General Motors stock.

While it is remembered that sometimes large blocks of stock will be owned by other companies, it must be kept in mind that these companies in turn have many stockholders. Notable also is the fact that many educational, charitable, and religious institutions, as well as non-profit associations and foundations, are on the rolls of "big" business. No one knows just how many persons may be dependent upon the successful operations of our corporations. In the truest sense, all of us are, either directly or indirectly.

Most of the nation's wealth has its source in the enterprise of a carefully conducted business. Natural resources must first feel the hands of men at machines. I cannot imagine why any free American would wish to trade what we have in this country for any part of the vague economic systems that have produced only failure. Not only have these other systems failed to produce real blessings for their people in the form of higher living standards, but they have brought slavery instead of economic freedom.

Thrilling finishes, like that above, are predicted for all events at the big four days' auto race meet at Minnesota State Fair, August 23, 24 and 31, and September 1. Forty of the nation's top dirt track drivers will compete for awards and championships, first two and last two days of the state fair. Two Thrill Days, August 29 and 30; and four days of harness races, August 25, 26, 27, and 28; complete the afternoon grandstand program. Three hundred stars of circus, stage and screen will present this year's spectacular night show and fireworks extravaganza.

AIR POWER
AAF

HELP BUILD AMERICA'S AIR POWER on AIR FORCE DAY, AUGUST 1ST

No one today questions the fact that the whole future of the United States may rest in the very clouds over your head. And the new, reorganized Air Forces give thousands of eligible young men an opportunity to take an active part in building America's air power. . . on the ground as well as in the sky.

You may, for example, enlist in the Air Forces for three years. If you have a specialty which will qualify you, you may also be able to enlist in a grade at higher pay.

If you have had Air Forces experience, you may join the Air Reserve and continue your military aviation training outside of business hours.

Or, you may join the Air National Guard and perhaps become eligible for advanced technical training at special Air National Guard schools.

On Air Force Day, make a point of finding out everything about your Air Forces — especially the new Aviation Career Plan described below. Full details can be obtained at your U. S. Army Recruiting Station.

NOW—THE WORLD'S GREATEST OPPORTUNITY FOR A CAREER IN AVIATION

Today the Army Air Forces offer high school graduates an unprecedented opportunity to get the finest aviation schooling on earth — and select your school or course before you enlist.

The AAF Career Plan is unlike anything ever offered before. It permits selected high school graduates to apply and qualify for AAF specialized courses of their own choice. Simply go to your U. S. Army Recruiting Station, advise the Recruiting Officer the kind of aviation training you want and he will provide you with an application blank and a complete list of available courses.

When you are selected to attend the course of your choice, you enlist in the Army Air Forces for 3, 4 or 5 years. After your basic training period you are guaranteed the education you have selected to make you a specialist in the type of work you want.

Get a list of all the schools and courses open to you under the AAF Aviation Career Plan at your U. S. Army Recruiting Station.

Freeze Fruits to Get Summer Treats All Year

Frozen berry purees over ice cream make tasty sundaes in winter or summer.

BERRIES make mighty tempting summer desserts—and just as tempting winter ones. For by freezing the finely flavored berries you can have summer treats the year around, writes Donald K. Tressler in Capper's Farmer, a leading magazine.

"To preserve the good taste that fresh berries have," he points out, "one should allow them to fully ripen on the bush, and handle them gently in preparing them for the freezer. Avoid extra handling in washing by placing them in a colander or basket with small openings and swish it through water containing ice until berries are clean. The ice water keeps the berries firm and shapely, prevents bleeding and waterloogging of the fruit.

"When several pounds of berries are washed, stemmed or capped, you are ready to mix them with sugar or cover them with sirup—depending on your preference and whether or not you want to use the frozen berries for dessert sauces.

"In filling containers for the freezer, allow ¾ inch space at the top of each one for expansion during freezing. Follow the manufacturer's instructions for closing or sealing various types of containers.

"Berries or any fruit covered with sirup tend to rise to the top. To keep them in the sirup, crush a piece of wax paper and place it between the fruit and the lid of the freezing container.

Jane Cupper's "Daring" Bathing Suit

The Cuppers showed me some tin-types of their nineteen-ten vacation—picnicking on the beach with beer and pretzels, in bathing suits that made them look like they were dressed in street-wear.

Dee was smothered in a long-sleeved pull-over with knee length shorts, and looking embarrassed—as if he thought Jane's costume of a heavy blouse, two copious skirts, and long black stockings was a little daring.

We laughed a lot at those costumes . . . but come to think of it, as Dee says, we'll probably look just as funny twenty years from now, in what we call our "Modern" clothes. Only thing that won't change in the picture is that mellow, wholesome glass of beer.

From where I sit, tolerance that lets us wear sensible, decent clothes—to give us sun and air and freedom—will keep that wholesome glass of beer a part of the American tradition.

40th Anniversary of Creamery

Sunday, August 17th., will mark another milestone in the history of Holt and community when the Farmers Cooperative Creamery Company will observe the 40th. anniversary of the founding of the creamery here by gathering at the Holt School grounds for a picnic.

The present Board of Directors and manager are sponsoring the celebration and are very anxious that all present and past patrons, past board members and wives, and past managers as well as customers and friends of the Creamery get together for an old fashioned all around social gathering.

The present well organized and progressive creamery is a good example of what can be accomplished by the cooperative spirit that has always prevailed, and Holt is proud of being "The Home of the Biggest Cooperative Creamery in Marshall County".

The program arranged for the afternoon will consist of talks by "old timers" as well as musical selections. P. L. Anderson of Crookston, one of the first butter makers, will be here to speak and shake hands with old friends. Gunder Sorter of Middle River and C. L. Heinze of Thief River Falls have the distinction of delivering the first two cans of cream to the creamery. They will be present.

Much could be said about the history of the creamery but we will leave that to the speakers of the day.

There will be free ice cream for the kiddies and coffee for the adults.

Rail Quiz

What is remote control in railway operations?

Remote control is a term used to designate the control, usually by electricity, of railway signals, switches and other devices from a tower room or other point located some distance away from the actual scene of train operations. A remote control system may be confined to a yard or terminal, or it may apply to main line operations over more than 150 miles of road.

U.S. Plans Atomic Experiments; Kravchenko Tells Spy Activities; American Aid Is Denied Poland

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

MORE TO COME:

Atomic Action

"The atomic energy commission is establishing proving grounds in the Pacific for routine experiments and tests of atomic weapons."

To a world which is bobbling its newly found power of nuclear fission like an amateur juggler, those words, appearing in the U. S. atomic energy commission's report to congress, held a tremendous portent.

In them was an implied warning that the United States, home of atomic energy, intended to continue experimenting with the bomb, and an implied acceptance of any challenge any power might issue to an atomic armament race.

The commission also announced that:

1. A joint army-navy agency, headed by top military officers in the field of nuclear fission, has been devoted to "development of atomic weapons of all types."

2. "We mean to maintain and increase the pre-eminence of the United States in atomic weapons until — acceptable international agreements" are reached and appropriate control measures established.

Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, wartime head of the Manhattan district, and Rear Adm. William S. Parsons have been selected to direct the armed forces special weapons project, of which the Sondia base in New Mexico is the principal field installation.

READING PUBLIC:

49 Per Cent Heard

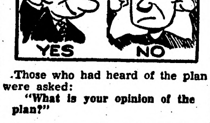
It is probably a safe surmise that Secretary of State George Marshall was shocked clear down to the bottom of his briefcase when a Gallup poll revealed that only about 49 per cent of America's voting population had heard or read of his celebrated plan for repairing and rebuilding Europe's shattered economy.

On the other hand, he could take some consolation from the fact 57 per cent of those who were aware of the Marshall plan also approved of it.

(The plan, in simple terms, was a suggestion to the European nations that they get together to work out their economic salvation on a cooperative, self-help basis. Playing a major role in financing the recovery would be American money—obtained through taxation of both the 49 per cent who had heard of the plan and the 51 per cent who hadn't.)

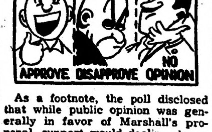
Here is the first question which Gallup pollsters asked:

"Have you heard or read about the Marshall plan for helping Europe get back on its feet?"



Those who had heard of the plan were asked:

"What is your opinion of the plan?"



As a footnote, the poll disclosed that while public opinion was generally in favor of Marshall's proposal, support would decline sharply if taxes had to be raised in order to put it through.

SPY SCARE:

Red Espionage

Victor A. Kravchenko, former member of the Soviet purchasing commission in the United States who rejected the Communist cause he once served, testified before the house committee on un-American activities that this country is shot through with Red spies operating in the guise of responsible representatives of the Soviet government.

He added his opinion that war is inevitable if Russia keeps to its present international course and that the death of Josef Stalin would result in no change in Soviet policy.

Kravchenko, author of the best-seller "I Chose Freedom," declared that:

1. "Every responsible representative of the Soviet government in the United States may be regarded as an economic or political spy."

2. As the postwar period develops, the world will see an intensification of Russian espionage.

3. During the war, Communist espionage agents obtained "enormous" masses of secret documents on submarines and the American aviation industry and sent them to Moscow.

4. Russia is lavishing "material, manpower and money to get the atomic bomb."

He opined that while 75 per cent of the people of Russia are dissatisfied with Communist rule, there is no possibility of a revolution because opposition is not organized.

Blaming Russia for the apparent futility of the United Nations, Kravchenko said that if the U.S.S.R. does not alter its policy it will leave or be expelled from the U.N.

Dog Eat Dog

In New York, Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate to the United Nations, made this lusty comment on Kravchenko's testimony:

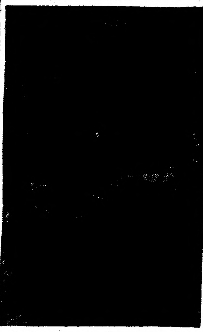
"When a dog has nothing to do, it licks its underbelly. Sometimes this attracts spectators."

WALLACE:

Reds Pushing?

Henry A. Wallace was lined up in the sights of the house committee on un-American activities when Walter S. Steele, chairman of the national security committee of the American Coalition of Patriotic Civic and Fraternal Societies, testified that Communists are "pushing" for a third party which Wallace might lead.

What Price War?



A little boy, in the manner of all bewildered children, looks wonderingly at his grandmother as they rest in one of the streets of Yenan, China. Yenan, once the capital of Communist China and called the "heart of democracy" by Communist ruler Mao Tze-Tung, is now in hands of Chinese Nationalists.

POLAND AID:

Canceled

Following a report by a U. S. survey mission that Poland has enough food to meet her minimum requirements at least for this year, the state department canceled Poland's share of the 350 million dollar American relief program.

In its announcement, the state department said that special items, such as medical supplies and supplementary foodstuffs for particular groups, could be supplied Poland through private relief agencies and other organizations.

The announcement added:

"In view of the above and of the fact that funds available are sufficient to meet only the most urgent relief needs, it has been decided not to undertake a relief program for Poland."

Next on the list, according to indications, might be Hungary, where better crop prospects are in sight.

The state department said that the decision to cut off relief to Poland was based entirely on the relative needs of European countries. No official comment was made on the fact that Poland is well within the Soviet sphere of influence and that Hungary is definitely Communist-dominated.

NEW SPLIT:

Peace Treaty

Russia's rejection of the United States proposal for drafting a Japanese peace treaty is showing up as another breach in the already badly weakened structure of American-Soviet unity.

In addition, it may delay indefinitely work on a peace treaty for Japan which, the United States contends, is an absolute necessity if the conquered nation is to get back on its economic feet.

MEDIATION:

Which Umpire?

As Dutch troops, led by armored units, raced across northern Java in their campaign to "police" the Indonesian Republic, faint calls were heard for outside mediation in the earth's newest war.

The United States, Australia and China were seen as the principal, although somewhat reluctant, contenders for the role of umpire.

Representatives of the Indonesian Republic appealed to the Australian government to act, while at the same time U. S. Secretary of State George Marshall's advisers were said to be urging him to start mediation proceedings on the grounds that the war is a threat to the world's economic health. Sources in Nanking reported that China would soon submit a formal offer to mediate the conflict.

In Washington, however, Marshall's advisers were sharply divided over whom he should favor if the U. S. steps in to do the arbitrating. The difference in opinion is along a well-defined line, with the men who have dealt with the Dutch in Europe siding with the Dutch, and the aids who handle U. S. affairs in the Near East taking the other side.

There seems to be no thought that the United States could assume a position of complete neutrality (a condition which is connoted by the term "mediation"), but would have to favor one cause or the other if it intervened in the war.

For the time being, the United Nations—established to do just such jobs as this—maintained its aloof, uncritical attitude.

GUN TOTER:

Coincidence

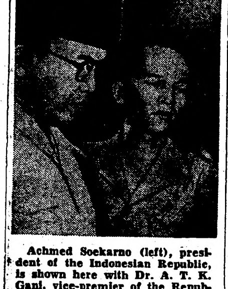
For a few minutes Washington police thought they might have a would-be assassin on their hands when they picked up a man carrying a gun inside the capitol just after President Truman had made a visit to the senate chamber.

But Clifton R. H. Spires, 39, of Augusta, Ga., arrested on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, appeared more confused than anyone else about the affair. He seemed to think that he had a grudge against "the big shots in Washington," but apparently held no animosity toward the President.

Later, he was sent to a Washington hospital for observation.

The coincidental appearance of President Truman in the senate chamber was the result of a dare which he took while having lunch with some of his former colleagues from the senate. He spoke for five minutes from the seat he held as the senator from Missouri, dwelling largely on the "auld lang syne" theme.

Indies' Leaders



Achmed Soekarno (left), president of the Indonesian Republic, is shown here with Dr. A. T. K. Gani, vice-premier of the Republic which is currently engaged in a shooting war with Dutch forces. Dr. Gani has been taken into "protective custody" by the Dutch.

KNICK-KNACKS:

Lower Tax

Possibly marking the beginning of a downward trend from the wartime excise tax schedule, the house voted to cancel the 20 per cent tax on jewelry items selling for less than $25.

If the bill becomes law—and there is some doubt as to that—it will be the first major reduction in the excise rate list since the war.

Senate approval of the measure was considered questionable by a number of congressmen. The house passed the bill without any objections at a time when many members were not on the floor.

Removal of a luxury tax would erase the levy completely on a large portion of ornamental jewelry and on flatware sold in individual pieces. The bill also provides for removal of the excise on the first $25 of the price of more expensive items.

Do You Smoke?

The 1947 tobacco auctions in the Georgia-Florida belt got under way —with the usual amount of chanting—as farmers poured into marketing towns visualizing a total crop worth possibly $60,000,000.

Warehouses in 21 markets virtually were overflowing with millions of pounds of the fine, cigarette-type leaf, and experts said quality and production this year exceeded that of any previous season.

Hollow Earth Theory Had An Entrance at North Pole

John Cleves Symmes, in hundreds of lectures between 1818 and 1829, attracted world-wide attention with his claim that the earth was a hollow sphere whose interior was inhabited and could be reached through a large opening at the North Pole, since known as Symmes' Hole, says Collier's.

Of several globes made to illustrate his theory, one is preserved in the Academy of Natural Sciences in Philadelphia.

Holes in Your Macaroni A Delicate Machine Job

Who makes the holes in macaroni? No one, they are made by machine. The macaroni dough is forced through metal dies containing numerous small holes that have a central core—something like a needle valve of a carburetor. This needle valve forms the dough into a tube.

Then this tube of dough is dried, with the hole left by the "needling," still in it.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

At Leduc, Alberta, Canada, these days horses are grazing in the skeleton shadows of oil derricks because what was once an important agricultural area recently has come to be an even more vital source of petroleum. Ten oil companies already have launched major operations near Leduc and five wells have been brought in. First oil strike in the region was made in February.

WHO AND WHAT IS THE

MARSHALL COUNTY MUNICIPAL LIQUOR CONTROL ASSOCIATION

This organization was formed by duly elected municipal officials of the incorporated municipalities and other responsible residents in Marshall County for the purpose of seeking better control of the liquor traffic. Almost everyone, wet or dry, admits liquor is a most evil social problem confronting not only Marshall County but the state and nation as well.

There are no liquor interests supporting this association in any manner, shape or form. The association has gained its support only through voluntary contributions from businessmen, professionalmen and farmers living in all parts of the county who believe that county prohibition has failed in Marshall County. These people have no interest whatsoever in any type of liquor establishment whether it be distiller, wholesaler or retailer. They are simply interested in securing the best possible control of liquor sales to the consumer with efficient law enforcement and at the same time keep the profits, if any, at home.

Drive Out The Bootlegger

Liquor is being sold in Marshall County today - it has been sold all during the time that prohibition has existed in Marshall County. These bootleggers are buying their supplies from legal sources from across the line in neighboring counties or in adjoining states. They reap the profits -- we gain nothing except see the destruction of morals of our people -- men, women and children. The bootlegger cares not to whom he sells, or what hours or days he does business -- just so he can have his unjust gains.

WHY ISN'T HE ELIMINATED?

Simply because the individual who buys from him will not provide the evidence to law enforcement agencies to bring action into courts.

There Will Be No Trick Question In Marshall County

Marshall County's ballot for the liquor control election on Ausust 25 is simply worded --

"Shall the sale of intoxicating liquors be permitted within the county through the establishment of municipal liquor stores?"

Yes.....
No......

By voting "Yes" you will permit municipalities in Marshall County to control the sale of liquor through municipal stores only.

By voting "No" you will authorize the continuance of the present method with its everlasting bootleg problem.

Watch for further discussions of this weighty problem in future issues of this newspaper.

We Urge An Overwhelming "Yes" Vote August 25th

Locker Plant Successful

The local locker plant is now a busy place. The meat, chicken, fish, etc, has a tender flavor and is a wonderful success, according to those who are using it. Many are picking and freezing those luscious blueberries. Then some are storing all their garden vegetables in their locker, instead of the old canning method, which is a "wife saver". Imagine having garden fresh peas and fresh blueberries on Christmas Day. Those using it find it very handy, as they can get into their locker at any time when they happen to come to town. On Sunday after Church services, you will see slip in their for a nice jiuey steak. the lockers in Holt are going fast but at this writing there are still some available for rent.

40th Anniversary of Creamery

Sunday, August 17th., will mark another milestone in the history of Holt and community when the Farmers Cooperative Creamery Company will observe the 40th. anniversary of the founding of the creamery here by gathering at the Holt School grounds for a picnic.

The present Board of Directors and manager are sponsoring the celebration and are very anxious that all present and past patrons, past board members and wives, and past managers as well as customers and friends of the Creamery get together for an old fashioned all around social gathering.

The present well organized and progressive creamery is a good example of what can be accomplished by the cooperative spirit that has always prevailed, and Holt is proud of being "The Home of the Biggest Cooperative Creamery in Marshall County".

The program arranged for the afternoon will consist of talks by "old timers" as well as musical selections. P. L. Anderson of Crookston, one of the first butter makers, will be here to speak and shake hands with old friends. Gunder Sorter of Middle River and C. L. Heinze of Thief River Falls have the distinction of delivering the first two cans of cream to the creamery. They will be present.

Much could be said about the history of the creamery but we will leave that to the speakers of the day.

There will be free ice cream for the kiddies and coffee for the adults.

Circle 4 of the Nazareth Ladies Aid will serve lunch after the program.

A deal was closed recently whereby John Payne became the owner of the Ole Ellingson house occupied by Mrs. Fred Larson and her son Ludvig. After remodeling and redecorating they moved into the house from the local parsonage. Mrs. Larson and son will move out to their farm soon.

DON'T FENCE ME IN!

It had been a wonderful party. As the life of it tacked down the street, listing heavily to starboard, he chuckled happily as he recalled the merry time he had had. He was so preoccupied with his thoughts, in fact, that he didn't notice the vertical iron rods that formed a circle of protection for the trunk of a tree growing by the curb. He collided with them rather heavily but managed to grasp one of them to keep from falling.

He surveyed the situation for a moment then grasped the next rung and cautiously followed the rods until he had toured the tree four times.

Finally he halted and looked despairingly through the rods. He spied a man across the street and shouted, "Hey, lemme outta this thing, will ya?"

A USUAL PLAYER

Two ghosts were playing poker when a knock came at the door.

"Who is it?" they asked.

"Rigor Mortis—may I sit in?"

Perilous Place

It was the freshman's first day on the campus of a big college. As he passed the chemistry laboratory, he saw four students carrying a fifth one.

"What happened?" asked the freshman excitedly.

"Oh, he took chloroform," a student explained.

"Gee whiz!" exclaimed the freshman, "if these courses are as dangerous as that, I'd better go back home."

Experienced

At a parent-teachers' meeting one aggressive woman insisted on holding the platform minute after minute. Time dragged on. Finally one bored man turned to the one beside him.

"Can't anything be done to shut that woman up?" he growled.

"I've been trying for 20 years without much success," replied her husband sadly.

WITH WRINKLES

Howard was very fond of raisins, and whenever his mother brought rolls from the bakery, he would pick all the raisins out when he thought no one was looking.

His uncle caught him at this trick one day, and thinking it would break him of the habit, told him they were bugs.

Several days later, Howard and his mother were having dinner at a downtown restaurant. The man at a table opposite was eating a dish of prunes. Much to the embarrassment of his mother, Howard asked in quite a loud voice, "Mother, can I have some of those GREAT BIG BUGS like that man is eating?"

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

British Economy Faces Disaster: Russia Vetoes Balkan Proposal; Hughes Investigation Shapes Up

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

THE KALEIDOSCOPE

Economic Picture Develops

Like a kaleidoscope in which several apparently unrelated chips of glass shift suddenly from a meaningless jumble of color into an understandable pattern, so at least some of the whirling segments of the world's intricate economy have begun dropping into place to form a coherent unit.

For masses of Americans, to whom economics could be boiled down into a matter of "you either have it or don't have it," the international hysteria of monies, credits, loans, spending, inflation at home and crises abroad began to take on some meaning.

Within a matter of hours came a sudden spate of developments, starting in England and ending up on virtually every farm in America. Having no ostensible connection on the surface, each fresh turn of events was linked inexorably with preceding occurrences. To philosophers, as well as economists, it was a perfect chain of causes and effects.

This is how it began:

1. Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chief of the British imperial general staff, suddenly was called home from a tour of the Far East.

Montgomery returned to Great Britain to advise the government concerning drastic curtailment of the nation's military establishment, cost of which (3.6 billion dollars a year) could no longer be borne by the threadbare British economy.

2. In London, Labor government officials, no longer able to stave off a frank admission, told the world that England's plight was desperate, that the tight little isle was on the sharp brink of ruin. Prime Minister Clement Attlee, assailed with charges of "bungling" and "failure to act," nevertheless was given a vote of confidence when he sketched out a plan which would have British miners work an extra hour each day to increase England's coal production, key pillar in its economic structure.

The British crisis was born out of four factors: Shortage of American dollars (the U. S. loan will have been used up by Christmas); shortage of coal (not enough to permit industries to operate and rebuild stockpiles); shortage of manpower, and inflation.

3. Morally weakened under the threat of domestic political and economic crises, the London stock market broke swiftly, as sharp selling hit all sections.

And, although U. S. state department observers scoffed at the idea that developments in England had produced a reaction over here, it appeared to be something more than coincidence that:

4. Shortly after London stocks broke, wheat prices on the Chicago board of trade showed losses of nine to nine and one-fourth cents a bushel, while corn and oats dropped off from three to four cents. Industrial stocks also receded somewhat on the New York stock exchange.

At the same time, it became apparent that the U. S. government, faced with high prices of grain and food and continued shortages abroad, would issue a call for another big wheat crop this year instead of reducing wheat production goals as was planned previously.

As the picture began to take shape, the dominating motif appeared to be economic insecurity.

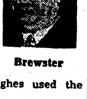
Charmed, He's Sure

Georges Bidault, French foreign minister, plants a Gallic token of esteem on the hand of Senora Eva Duarte Peron, wife of the Argentine president, after a ceremony during which a new commercial accord between France and Argentina was signed. Looking on in the center is Julio Roca, Argentine ambassador.

QUICKSAND:

Brewster Stuck

For Sen. Owen Brewster (Rep., Me.) the Howard Hughes war contract investigation was swiftly becoming a dangerous stretch of quicksand in which he was sinking up to his senatorial armpits.



Brewster

Himself a member of the senate war investigating committee, Brewster was caught squarely in the limelight of the investigation when Hughes made public a charge that Brewster had offered to squelch the inquiry last February if Hughes would agree to merge his Trans-World airline with Juan Trippe's Pan American World airways. Hughes used the term "blackmail."

It was a startling turn of events that raised the 40 million dollar war contract investigation from a comic opera scene to the level of serious drama on a national scale.

Moreover, the development stripped some of the hocus-pocus from the proceedings and revealed what probably was the motivating force behind the whole affair: The long-standing, bitter, undercover struggle among American air transport companies as to who should hold the chief monopoly on international air lanes.

Heart of the issue is Pan American's stand that, as pioneer of international air routes, it should be granted a monopoly as the single American flagship on present overseas air lines. Washington split into two factions on the question—one side advocating the single air line plan, the other favoring retention of the present system whereby different lines serve different international areas.

Senator Brewster has long been on record as a supporter of the "single flagship" theory; but whether or not he has any material connection with Pan American, no one, for the time being, cared to say.

DEATH ROAD:

Safety Report

Compared with 1946, death is taking a back seat on the nation's highways this year, the semi-annual report of the National Safety council has shown.

For the first six months of 1947 the cross-country death toll stood at 14,480. That figure is 9 per cent below the 15,890 fatalities recorded for the same period last year. At the same time, travel was 11 per cent heavier this year.

ELEVENTH VETO:

Eleventh Hour

Russia used her veto for the 11th time in the United Nations security council, giving the back of her hand to an American plan to keep peace in the Balkans, thereby precipitating the council into what the United States termed "a very grave situation."

Branded by U. S. deputy delegate Herschel Johnson as "a simple abuse of power," the veto killed a majority-approved scheme for the re-establishment of amicable relations between Greece and her northern neighbors, Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, with provision for a U.N. commission of all 11 security council members to keep a parental eye on the frontier area.

In the council's final vote on the U. S. proposal, Russia and Poland lined up against the other nine members, producing the immediate effect of leaving U.N. at least temporarily impotent in the matter of settling the current strife between Greece and the Soviet-dominated nations to her north.

Although stunned by the suddenness of the Russian veto, which came as a shock to the entire council, Johnson declared that the United States would not drop the contest "by default," but would return with another attempt to dispose of the problem.

The original U. S. plan presented before the United Nations group grew out of a report on the Balkan situation submitted by security council's Balkan investigating commission.

More Meat—Maybe

American housewives will find meat cheaper and more plentiful this fall—"unless the policy of shipping large quantities abroad is continued," according to a recent forecast by a house agriculture subcommittee, which currently is investigating food shortages.

The report said meat supplies should increase by 15 per cent in the fall and winter months if the export program doesn't interfere.

Teamwork Vital In Safety Work

"Are YOU doing your part?" will be the theme of the Traffic Safety Conference called by Governor Luther W. Youngdahl to be held in Duluth September 5. Calling of the state conference follows recommendations by the President's Highway Safety Conference held in Washington in June.

Reports will be made on accomplishments since the Governor's Traffic Safety Conference held in August, 1946. It is expected these reports will show that legislation has been enacted along the lines recommended in the action programs adopted by the national and state conference in 1946, that substantial progress has been made in promoting safety education and driver training courses in the schools, and that traffic law enforcement has been stepped up on all levels. Reports are further expected to praise the effective volunteer work done by newspapers, radio and civic organizations.

Questions- Answers

* * * *

Q.—Could potato dumps be responsible for late blight on potatoes?

A.—Yes, right now these dumps are the chief cause of the blight. Spray all plants in such dumps with a good weed killer that will kill all the plants. In the future avoid such dumps.—R. C. Rose, extension plant pathologist.

* * * *

Q.—How large is our fall pig crop expected to be?

A.—U. S. farmers saved 5,152,000 sows for fall farrowing this year. This is 9 per cent over 1946 but still 32 per cent below the 1943 record. With average size litters, a fall pig crop of 32.5 million head is expected.—D. C. Dvoracek, agricultural economist.

* * * *

Q.— Is Sudan grass the only plant that poisons livestock?

A.—No such roughages as sorghum, Sudan grass and Johnson grass, when drought stunted, trampled, frosted, developed a second growth, or grown on heavily fertilized soil containing a large amount of nitrates may become poisonous from prussic acid. Cattle and sheep are most susceptible to this type of poisoning. Avoid pasturing Sudan before it is 18 inches high or after it is drouth-stunted. Young plants dark green in color are most dangerous to feed while the pale, yellowish plants are much safer.—A. F. Sellers, veterinarian.

* * * *

Q.—When should iris be transplanted?

A.—Transplant iris in August. If your iris clumps are overcrowded and filled with weeds, transplant them to a new location where the soil has been enriched. In dividing the old clumps, discard any diseased portions. Set this iris plants so the rhizome is just covered with soil. Cut the leaves back to about 4 inches from the ground.—L. C. Snyder, extension horticulturist.

Painless Method?

In one month's operation the new Minnesota cigartte tax of 3 cents per package has brought $1,039,913 into the state treasury. It isn't exactly a painless tax to the heavy smoker but by and large there is little kick about it and it certainly is an easy way to raise money.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

Karlstad Dentist Leaving

We are indeed vey sorry to have to state that Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Mehlum are leaving town.

Mrs. Mehlum has not been too well for a long time and now her doctors have ordered her to go to a higher and drier climate and so the move was made necessary. They will go to Phoenix, Arizona and Doc was there last week and aranged for an office and he is going to confine his work down there strictly to children's teeth—Karlstad Advocate.

SOMETHING CORNEY
ABOUT THE WEATHER

The old song "What a Difference a Day Makes" applies to Minnesota's annual corn derby, sparked by many days of ideal weather. Mankato's first entry, from Alfred Seppman's 28-acre field, scaled 7 feet 2 inches. Three days later along comes August Schwartz of Sleepy Eye with an 8 foot 6 inch stalk.

Delano—This community was shaken from the county sheriff in all directions by a report in The Delano Eagle that Arctomys Monax, with a long record of violations, had been trapped and clubbed to death. A lady saw Monax and a companion acting in a suspicious manner near her chicken coop, phoned the police, police, and waited; but the culprits disappeared. Police rigged a clever trap and next day, forced from hiding by hunger, Monax walked right into the police trap. Though fighting desperately he was finally clubbed to death, and buried under his better known alias, Woodchuck.

Greenbush Receives Doctors Applications

Before our local hospital got under actual construction the medical committee had tried in vain to locate a doctor who was willing to come here and open up a practice. It seemed that there was a scarcity of doctors and no one was interested in a new location. Apparently the woods are full of doctors seeking new locations, and apparently they have heard from far and near that we are soon to have a hospital applications are now coming in. The present day doctor is interested in locating where there is a hospital, and we cannot blame them. Most of the medical cases are now taken care of in hospitals, where they receive the best of care, and the relatives are relieved of a great amount of worry. The prospects are now good for securing the services of an M. D. but as long as we have waited, we should be able to wait a little longer, if by so doing we can secure the man that will adequately fill the bill.—Greenbush Tribune.

4H Leaders' Council

The Leaders Council met at Argyle on Monday, August 4. Plains were made for Achievement Day. The final achievement day is to be held September 20 at Warren. The Eastern Marshall group will hold an achievement day before this time. The winners in the Eastern Marshall group will show at the final achievement day in Warren on September 20. State Fair plans were also made. The plans for the final phase of the wastepaper drive were discussed and the final plans will be made at the next leaders council.

Preferred Stock Offered For Sale

Midland Cooperative Wholesale, which serves and is owned by over 400 local cooperatives in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Northern Iowa, this week announced a $1,000,000 offering of its Preferred Stock D, which has been registered with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission. The proceeds from the sale of this stock will be used for operating capital, principally for accounts receivable and inventory, because of an anticipated 40% business volume increase, stated A. J. Smaby, genearl manager. This rate of increase has been exceeded the first half of the year. The stock is being offered at its par value of $100 if purchased during the first quarter of the year, at $101 during the second quarter, at $102 during the third quarter and at $103 during the last quarter. The stock is entitled to an annual dividend of $4.00 a share to be paid as of December 31.

Wheat was 50c a bushel, flax $1.13, surreys $75, high-wheeled farm wagons $43, bicycles $55.

NATURE NOTES
HERE AND THERE

Largest snapping turtle on record in Minnesota was subdued with a club near the chicken house of Mrs. Alma Magnuson, at Isanti—88½ pounds of soup in the shell. On a high ledge of a downtown building a Minneapolis pigeon was photographed in the act of holding up a wing while the sun worked on her setting of two eggs. The last survivor of a setting of eight wild duck eggs on a farm near Fairmont vociferously demands her regular afternoon snack, regardless of company, or any other factor.

Lost Leg

Jos. Hirsch, well known Red Lake Falls township farmer, residing north of the city met with an unfortunate accident about 3 p.m. Tuesday afternoon which cost him the loss of his left leg below the knee and a fracture of the right leg. Mr. Hirsch had started cutting a field of oats directly east of his farm residence. He was operating the tractor and his hired man, Ev. Rewerts, of St. Hilaire was operating the binder attached with a power hitch to the tractor. In some unknown manner his foot slipped and his overalls became caught in the power take-off which twisted his leg into the machinery mangling it badly.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

A Pastor's Opinion of the Liquor Issues

By Rev. Ernest J. Vick

On Monday, August 25, the voters of Marshall County will decide for or against the establishment of Municipal Liquor Stores. As a minister of the Gospel, I feel it my duty and privilege to voice an opinion with reference to the issue at hand.

Let me first of all compliment the residents of Marshall County in view of the fact you have herebe been able to keep Marshall County a dry-county. Being a new citizen of your county, I may not be conscious of all the problems that the "bootlegger" has caused caused you, however, if Marshall County should vote to become wet, I can assure you your problems are going to multiply by the score. I was raised in the southern part of this state in a wet county. I have seen the results of so called liquor control through municipal liquor stores. They are the biggest curse and most destructive business that has ever entered into any city or village. True, the revenue has been great. The city treasuries are bulging and city improvements have been made. However, some people think only in terms of money and material wealth. On the other hand the picture is not so bright. The bottle is empty, the coffers are full, but what about the untimely deaths, the souls of individuals, the broken hearts, the broken homes, and the broken lives? These money cannot replace—these money cannot mend. "What shall it profit a man (or a county or a village) if he (or they) shall gain the whole world and lose their souls?" Mark 8:36. The prophet Habakkluk wrote "Woe to him that buildeth a town with blood and stablisheth a city by iniquity." Hab. 2:12. Liquor revenue is blood money— it is an abomination in the sight of God. A few individuals may choose to make their living in this way, but let us not make every citizen of our cities and villages a shareholder in this debauchery and damnable business.

From my own experience in my pre-conversion days, I know what liquor can do to the individual. When I accepted Christ I took my stand on God's side against Satan. Because I'm against Satan, I'm against sin, and because I'm against sin, I'm against evil and I'm against liquor because it is evil. It is one of the devil's cunning devices to lure the people of today. I cry aloud against this evil. I raise my voice in opposition to letting its tentacles grip the county in which we live. I trust there is enough red blood of decency and courage flowing through the veins of the voters of Marshall County to go to the polls and vote an emphatic NO to this issue.

May God help us to lift up the Banner of the Cross and the flag of righteousness across Marshall County. He can do it if you as a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ will take your stand against that which is evil and uphold that which is righteous. Of Christ it was said, "Thou hast loved righteouness and hated iniquity." Heb. 1:9. Can that be said of you as one of His followers?

"Righteousness exalteth a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people." Proverb 14:34.

GOOD NEIGHBORS
ON THE JOB AGAIN

Pipestone.—Albert Lindeman had more than his share of bad luck when a tornado swept his farm and a few days later he was thrown from a horse and badly injured. So the neighbors gathered. Once to cultivate 65 acres of corn in only two hours. Again to cut and store 15 loads of hay. And the third time to cultivate the corn again.

To All Sincere, Honest Thinking Citizens

OF MARSHALL COUNTY

The Following Questions Should Be Completely Answered Before You Vote Mon., Aug. 25

1. Are you SURE your taxes will be reduced by legalizing liquor?
2. Are you SURE drinking will be reduced by legalizing liquor?
3. Are you SURE that the moral standards for our youth will be improved by legalizing liquor?
4. Are you SURE that there are more bootleggers here than in "wet" counties?
5. Are you SURE that law enforcement will be improved by legalizing liquor?
6. Are you SURE that all statements made by the "wets" are FACTS?

We challenge the proponents of legalized liquor to discuss the issues of this important matter in a public forum at any place and time they may decide

VOTE "NO" on AUGUST 25

Marshall County Anti-Liquor League

Carl A. Johnson, Warren, President; A. O. Gudim, Newfolden, Secretary-Treasurer.

"Shall the sale of intoxicating liquors be permitted within the county through the establishment of municipal liquor stores?"

That is the question the voters of Marshall County will be called upon to decide at a special eection called for

Monday, August 25th

This is Not a Wet or Dry Issue

No matter what your sentiments and no matter how you vote Marshall county will still be wet. But your vote will help determine whether our municipalties can control the sale of liquor. Vote No on Election Day, August 25th and we will continue with the present outlawed liquor situation, with its bootlegers selling to minors and others at all hours.

Vote Yes and local city and village councils will have control through municipal stores. They will determine how liquor shall be sold and to whom it may be sold.

VOTE YES

Is Marshall County to be the Only Outlaw?

Throughout Minnesota, county after county, is repealing prohibition because it is recognized prohibition is unenforceable. The voters have been played suckers long enough, while the bootleggers ride the gravy train.

In June Pennington county voted out prohibition. while on July 28 Polk county voted 2 to 1 to outlaw their county prohibition law!

In one Minnesota town recently two bootleggers were accused of attempting to bribe the mayor to oppose a municipal liquor store. They didn't want liquor control by constituted authority. They wanted their own brand of control.

The People Should Have Control

Who should control liquor sales in Marshall County---You, the people through your elected offi als, or the bootlegger and the black market operator?

A NO vote means outlaw liquor sales. A YES means legalized liquor sales.

We honestly cannot conceive how any advocate of good government can be hoodwinked into support an outlawed cause as opposed to putting liquor under lawful supervision.

The Legalized Sale of Liquor is the Bootleggers' Worst Enemy

This County is Wet

This county is wet now. Voting No and for Prohibiiton won't make it dry. Voting Yes and for repeal won't make it wetter.

DON'T BE AN OSTRICH

With legalized liquor sales on all sides of Marshall County and illegal sales within the county, isn't it about time Marshall County Voters get their heads out of the sand? The only solution is legitimate liquor sales through Prohibition Repeal.

National Prohibition

National Prohibition was repealed, not to promote the sale of liquor, but to get it under control. The same is true about county prohibition.

Support Good Government . . . VOTE YES

Liquor Issue Aired

Warren, Minnesota
August 15, 1947

Friends of Marshall County:

Ever since the question of municipal liquor for Marshall County became an issue. I have been asked by wets and drys of my stand on the question: Will legal liquor increase consumption, or not? Almost to a man it is conceded that it will increase. That alone is reason enough to fight legalization.

It seems a few church people stand alone in the fight against liquor at present. Years ago many labor organizations and lodges fought it. Now they serve it. Did it cost too much ridicule, or is the vision lost?

Has it ever occured to the voters why it became so urgent to have these elections all over Minnesota now? We were getting along pretty well with our bootlegging nasty name until Governor Youngdahl started his clean-up drive and, lo and behold, the man intended to make enforcement uniform. How was enforcement taken care of before? We left our cities to govern themselves and the sheriff was allowed to take care of those outside our cities. It so happened that some of our most influential citizens and in some cases, official were buying illegal liquor in our counties. Occasionally an official was told to crack down on somebody, but no real effort was made in recent years to make enforcement uniform. The threat of the Governor scared these handlers of liuor to the point where many dared not sell it. With the old haunts gone the cry came, Where shall I get my drinks? I don't want to drive to a neighboring city, nor do I want to buy from a street vendor at his exhorbitant prices. By the way, you will have the street vender with you even if you have a liquor store to take care of those persons controlled out of the store.

The actuality of a municipal store became urgent because of this desperation. That is why we have it presented to us so beautifully at the present time. If Marshall County elects to remain dry we can expect much better control under Governor Youngdahl then we have had for many years, or maybe ever.

You ask what have the drys been doing all these years of illegal sales? It so happens that most of us are peace loving and follow the old adage, "If possible, as far as depends upon you, live peaceably with all." Many of us also take the realistic view that people will drink after they have become reprived (another nasty word, but anybody who craves his liquor is just that) and bootlegging. or buying outside the county is the lesser of the two evils. Besides who wants to be a Saltau anyhow? We are here to help people; not to push them down, and I do count among my friends many liquor addicts.

Now then, more liquor. more crimes, more accidents, more broken homes, more relief, and as a result more county expense. As a farmer, I ask the question, "Where does that leave me?" The cities own the liquor stores and they reap the profits, if any. The county as a whole pays the bill in added taxes on county property holders.

Before God and man, liquor stands condemned and any man who handles it becomes a part of it. Abraham Lincoln said, "Liquor has lots of defenders but no defense."

For the sake of the good of our community let us talk abstinence instead of moderation. General Grant's son, also an army officer, was a moderate drinker. His friends asked him why he had become a teetolaler. His answer was "as long as I drank at all, some friends always urged me to take another drink until at times I became intoxicated. Now when I am asked to take a drink I answer. "I never touch it," and I get along so much better.

If you must drink, God pity you. Man won't: For the sake of the person who hasn't started to drink, and the man who is trying desperately to quit, as well for the future of Marshall County, vote "NO" against a liquor store in your community.

Yours for a better future

40th Anniversary of Creamery

The celebration on Sunday was a huge success. People came from far and near to observe the 40th anniversary of the founding of the Farmers Cooperative Creamery Company. A very fine program was given. A history, was written and read by Mrs. Johnnie Nelson, which recounts the facts in a vivid way as follows

Now 40 years is a long way back. For most folks to recall. As tho' it wasn't that long at all. Way back in July, of 1907, A group of farmers together planned, A creamery they'd be havin'. The first guy who did test their cream, Ole Hagen was his name. Never knew what a prospering business he was starting, Or how it would flourish or goals it would attain. They sold shares to city folks and farmers. alike, For 25 bucks apiece. That was a mighty big sum for folks to find, More like $150 in times like these.

Now on this day when they first opened shop, The first farmer would be given number one. That would be quite an honor each farmer thought, For that I'll get up before the sun. So Charley Heinze, who lived north of town, Got up early and to the Creamery did race. To his horrer he found Gunder Sorter was there in his place.

They got another fellow to to handle the cream. Sort of youngish, and handsome, every maiden's dream. A Dapper Dan if there ever was one, Trouble never bothered him it seemed. By now you must have guessed it No one else but good old Pete, You could count on him through thick and thin, In victory or defeat. He went off to the war for a couple of years. Bill Lindahl took his place. But he came back and married Bunny, A fine family they did raise. He saw our Creamery through the lean years Helped build a solid foundation for it to stand. We owe a lot to Pete Anderson. You can't fiind a finer man. Of course he didn't always work alone, Chas Horien, Sam Reierson, Harry Knutson and Walter Larson did their share. They tell me too Mons did pinch hit for each one, Whenever they needed a spare.

After Pete we had Hans Wahlin, He too really knew his stuff, I didn't know him very well. He was a good sure enough. Shaffer was his helper and Walt helped out too. The creamery progressed swell. A credit to me and you.

After Hans there was a swede Who was in the picture before, He was only a helper in the days gone by, But not any more. He He up and took hold of the helm and steered right out into the stream. No problem was too hard for him. To go ahead was his dream. We sailed into the Land O'Lake's, In the year of '21 I know the job had pains and and aches, But he never let them get him down. Though he has a heart as big as all outdoors. He really is a pest. You always have to be on your toes. If of him you're going to get the best. Of course you all know who I mean. He was with us so many years. No one else but Walter Larson. To him we give three cheers. He too with a faithful wife, A fine family did raise. To them we say thanks a million, For being with us all these years

Walter Larson, too, had helpers. Bill Davis, Oscar Fosholm and Tony Rhen. Willard Yonke was his last handy man, All good men we do claim.

Now we have a new man, As operator after Walt. He too will guide us onward, Ever forward never halt. John Payne is our leader. We think he is tops. May his steady influence be with us, Many years before he stops.

Not only to operators and helpers, Go the credit for our creamery's success There are patrons, directors and town golks. Young and old alike I guess. We've all pulled hard together. Cooperation is our theme, As long as we stand together, Forty years isn't as long as it seems.

Editor's note - They tell me Gerry wrote this song, From facts gotten Saturday night a eleven. She finished the ditty, Though she slept all night long. Early Sunday morning at seven. Now isn't Holt proud of a patron so keen, Kind words, wit, and what have you, to the letter. How about crowning her Creamery queen, Of the festival, who would be better.

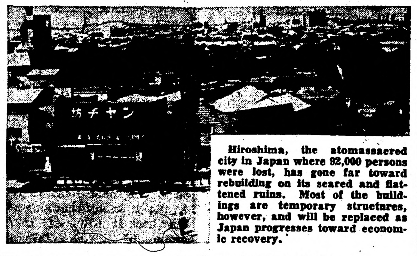
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Second Atomic Year Observed; Attlee Outlines Crisis Program; Hughes, Brewster Fight It Out

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



Hiroshima, the atomassacered city in Japan where 92,000 persons were lost, has gone far toward rebuilding on its seared and flattened ruins. Most of the buildings are temporary structures, however, and will be replaced as Japan progresses toward economic recovery.

CLARION CALL:

British Crisis

Prime Minister Clement Attlee has offered a program based on self-sacrifice and self-reliance as a possible solution to Great Britain's domestic crisis.

Attlee

Involving new and more stern restrictions on even the essentials of living, the plan is possibly more severe than anything the country experienced during the war.

At the same time, however, Attlee was criticized sharply by parliament on the grounds that his scheme is far from equal to meeting the desperate requirements of the situation. One prominent Laborite called the prime minister's announcement "a clarion call on a penny whistle."

Mixing a deeper shade of purple into the already somber picture, Attlee said that the U. S. loan of 3.75 billion dollars, which was supposed to have lasted until 1950, will be used up by the end of this year.

THE DEBUNKERS

Both Conservatives and left-wing Laborites attacked the Attlee program on the ground that it was "too little and too late," charging specifically that the government was coping with the crisis too hurriedly and had waited too long, that the plan was not detailed enough and that the government had not given the country a full statement of the danger it faces.

Hence, one of the secondary factors in the Attlee program will be an effort to get the U. S. to relax some provisions of the loan. Secretary of State Marshall already has consented to a high-level conference on that subject.

Some principal points in the plan are:

1. Monthly cut of 48 million dollars in food imports.

2. Withdrawal of 133,000 overseas troops by the end of December and reduction of the armed forces by 420,000 by March in order to offset Britain's lack of industrial manpower.

3. An extra half-hour of work a day for British coal miners.

PAINLESS:

Dental Paradise

This is it. Paradise has been regained.

Shining vistas promising the painless drilling of teeth have been opened by a new and revolutionary anesthetic which can be applied simply by painting it on the molar—no hypodermic injection needed.

Dr. Gustav Rapp of Loyola university, Chicago, told the American Dental association meeting in Boston that preliminary experiments with the anesthetic, known as topocaine, were successful in three or four patients. Anesthesia by the drug is brought about by blocking nerve impulses to the brain.

Explaining (somewhat superfluously) a fact of which virtually every adult is agonizingly aware, Dr. Rapp said, "While the control of pain during extractions and other such radical procedures has been eliminated with varying amounts of success, the problem of controlling pain during cavity preparation is still something of an enigma."

THE GOOD LIFE

Record production and good prices which have prevailed in recent years not only have resulted in higher incomes for farm operators, but also in improved living conditions for their families, it has been shown in a study released by the bureau of agricultural economics.

Families of United States farmers, on the average, enjoyed a 25 per cent better living in 1945.

ANNIVERSARY:

Bells Tolled

In Hiroshima, Japan, the bells tolled. People of the city stood silently in prayer for a moment, then went on about the business of living.

It was the second anniversary of the radiant, consuming flash of the world's first atomic bomb.

Hiroshima, which saw 92,000 of its citizens immolated in that uncontrollable outburst of energy in 1945, was perhaps the one place on earth where the bomb could be thought of as a reality. Everywhere else it was a nightmarish, Damoclean sword; but in Hiroshima the people were paying it a sort of fantastic and bewildered adulation.

They tolled bells, and they planned the building of a modern city with a peace memorial at the spot over which the bomb had been dropped.

At other points across the globe, the atomic age was living up to its awful reputation by wringing fearsome comments and predictions from men who are supposed to know about it.

Robert M. Hutchins, chancellor of University of Chicago, said that two atom bombs which now could be manufactured would make the United States uninhabitable if exploded simultaneously. He made it a complete Jeremiad by adding, "We know that some other country will have the atomic bomb within five years. We know that when that happens we are all set for the final catastrophe."

In a constructive moment, Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, atom pioneer, said that usable electrical power derived from atomic energy may be available by 1952.

But everybody knew that the United States was stressing development and production of the atomic bomb to build a stockpile for utter destruction. And everybody knew that Russia was laboring furiously toward the same ends.

The people of Hiroshima did well to toll bells two years after they felt the bomb. It brought to mind an old, poetic question:

Did the bells herald a wedding or a funeral?

HUGHES FIGHT:

Like Hollywood

Elliott Roosevelt and Johnny Myers, rotund, balding publicity man for Howard Hughes, had had their innings before the senate war investigating committee which wallowed for two days in expense accounts and party stories.

Nobody learned very much from that session. It was mostly a matter of Elliott's denying vigorously that he had accepted any money or favors from Meyers and announcing from time to time that someone was trying to besmirch the reputation of his father, Franklin D.

Then came the second round of the battle between Howard Hughes and Sen. Owen Brewster (Rep., Me.). Hughes echoed his original charge that Brewster had tried to blackmail him by saying he would call off the war contract probe if Hughes would agree to merge his Trans World airline with Pan American.

Brewster, who waived his congressional immunity to appear as a witness before his own committee, denied everything and accused Hughes and others of attempting to lay "a trap" for him.

Sniffed the senator: "It seems inconceivable to me that anyone could seriously contemplate that one who had been in public life as long as I have could, on so short an acquaintance with Mr. Hughes, have made so bald a proposition as he here describes. It sounds a little more like Hollywood than it does like Washington."

CROP INSURANCE:

Moving to put crop insurance in the nation on a more conservative basis, President Truman has signed legislation reducing the federal crop insurance program and changing the cotton insurance set-up from a nationwide scheme to an experimental one in not more than 56 counties.

Congress undertook to pass the bill after Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson had advised that the cotton insurance program had resulted in heavy losses.

THE Family REFRIGERATOR

MOM: My Seaco is so big, so beautiful, so easy to keep clean. That 9 cubic feet of storage space really protects a lot of food . . . no trouble to get the family to eat 'fresh' left-overs now.

SIS: The family is really swoony about my salads . . . they are lots of fun and easy to make especially with crisp, juicy fruits and vegetables from the Seaco fresheners.

DAD: Hot days are easy to take with our Seaco . . . there is room for 16 quarts of liquid around the ice-maker . . . takes tall bottles too.

GRANDMA: That new Seaco is the most practical machine I have ever seen . . . works on 110 volts or 32 volts . . . we never had conveniences like that.

SONNY: Me and the gang raid the Seaco all the time . . . plenty of loot too . . . fruit juices, and once in a while a big watermelon . . Yumm-m-m.

Yes, the whole family really enjoys the New Seaco

YES - - A THOUSAND TIMES - - YES

Is it the purpose of those village and city officials and other public minded men and women, who have petitioned for a special election to determine whether municipalities may establish municipal liquor stores, to improve the control of liquor and prevent its sale to habitual drunkards and minors? YES!!

Do you or your neighbors get any benefits from the control of the sale of liquor, through municipal stores established here, rather than by having it brought across neighboring county and state lines where it may be legally purchased? Yes!!

Does the bootlegger who is in our midst today, and has been with us since the days county option began, oppose the establishment of a municipal liquor, where cleanliness, santitation, control and legitimate prices are maintained? YES!!

Should we be permitied to establish municipal liquor stores in Marshall County when we know, from the experience of national prohibition and conditions in our own country, that prohibition cannot be enforced? YES!!

THE ANSWER IS "YES"

On August 25, you as a citizen will be given an opportunity to answer this question: Shall we have controlled legalized sales of liquor through the establishment of Municipal Liquor Stores instead of continuing illegally wet?

The Farmer and the Businessman

We recognize the FARMER as the most integral part of our community. We respect his judgment on all matters of importance, whether economic or political We do business with him every day, and endeavor to build up our villages, our stores, and stocks, to be able to take care of his many requirements.

We also know most farmers are able to think and judge for themselves. We know that most of them will not be misled by the statement that the city will be the only one to profit in the establishing of Legalized liquor stores.

WE BELIEVE—there can be no doubt in their minds as well as ours—that they will profit in the results of such a measure. They see eye to eye with us on this singular FACT:

Marshall County communities need more improvements, such as more and better hospital facilities, sanitation improvements, public buildings, recreation centers, etc. Other communities are using Municipal store profits to build such facilities which bera fit all of the people in the trading areas. So can we.

As usual, and, as a last resort, the Drys are again trying to drive a WEDGE between the farmer and businessman, by saying the farmer will not benefit in the matter of municipal liquor stores. What we would like to ask the Drys is this: WHO is making the Profit now on the Liquor being consumed in this County and just how much have the Drys done to Curb that Evil? Think this over in your mind when you vote next Monday.

REAL PROHIBITION Has Never Existed Here

Despite all that has been said by those opposed to legal liquor about bringing in liquor or bringing it back, IT IS ALREADY BACK AND IS HERE ON ALL SIDES. The real question is "Shall we have Blind Pigs or shall we have legitmate, well-controlled municipal liquor stores?"

We all know that Marshall County is "ILLEGALLY WET," and there is no way of keeping liquor out of the county with liquor being sold legally in surrounding counties. We contend that liquor should be sold legally here through Municipal stores and not illegally as at present.

We contend that the total consumption of liquor by residents of this county would not be increased under he proposed sale by legal stores. We are thoroughly aware of the evil effects of excessive use of liquor as we see it at the present time, but we feel that it would be properly controlled and the evils would be lessened, especially as far as over-indulgence and sale to minors is concerned.

The so-called "Bootlegger" operating today is really a BLACK MARKET Liquor Vendor. He buys from his only source— legal establishments from "across the line", and sels at DOUBLE the regular price in order to warrant the risk. A local Legal Store, selling at CEILING prices will force him out of business.

CITIZENS: Do Away With Silly Pretense of This Being "Dry"

VOTE:

IF YOU BELIEVE IN CONTROLLED LIQUOR SALE — NOT ILLEGAL SALES. YES

IF YOU BELIEVE IN LIQUOR SALES REVENUE FOR YOUR HOME COMMUNITY—NOT FOR BOOTLEGGERS and OTHER COUNTIES. YES

IF YOU BELIEVE IN THE NON-SALE OF LIQUOR TO MINORS. .... YES

IF YOU BELIEVE IN STRICTER CONTROL OF SALES TO ADULTS. YES

IF YOU BELIEVE IT IS THE BEST METHOD YET PROPOSED TO CONTROL LIQUOR. YES

There is no other answer but . . . YES

What Is More Honest?

To vote for a continuance of the present "dry" status where we permit the flow of illegal liquor, close our eyes on it, and by our indifference, nourish a state of HYPOCRISY right in our own community?

OR

To vote for legalized liquor sales and ACCEPT our responsibilitie as sober minded citizens to put its sale on a sound Control basis where we don't have to CLOSE our eyes on certain liquor evils, but actually put a Controlling Brake on these evils which have existed so long?

EX-SERVICE MEN: This will probably be your first opportunity to vote on an Elective Issue sinces your return to Civilian status. Make the most of your privilege by going to the Polls and VOTE according to your OWN judgment.

Frenchman Came Upon Radioactivity by Accident

Radioactivity was discovered by accident. Henri Becquerel, a friend of Madame Curie, placed a little uranium on a photographic plate, covered it with some black paper and left it overnight. The next morning the plate was foggy. Experiments proved that X-rays had not fogged the plate. The mystery intrigued him so, he kept working away at it until he discovered the Becquerel ray or radioactivity.

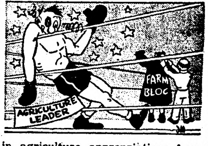
On the Farm Front

DESPITE the fact that the economy drive of the 80th congress was made largely at the expense of the farmers and the consumers in the country, there was ample evidence in the closing days that a new leadership in behalf of the farmers of the nation was evolving from the struggle for economic survival insofar as government cooperation with agriculture is concerned.

Actually, although some 228 million dollars was slashed from the agriculture appropriation bill and an all-out fight was made against farm credit and farm cooperatives throughout the session, agriculture leaders won at least a moral victory, (1) by reducing the GOP cuts in agriculture appropriations from 40 per cent to 18 per cent, (2) by keeping farm credit banks on an independent basis, and (3) by again staving off the attempts to impose various forms of taxation of farm cooperatives.

GROGGY...BUT STILL ON HIS FEET



While the brunt of the battle against submerging agriculture was borne by such senators as Russell of Georgia and Hill of Alabama and by such congressmen as Flanagan of Virginia, Cooley of North Carolina and Rees of Kansas, several new figures have emerged as farm champions. Aiken of Vermont always has been considered a friend of the farmers.

New names which have forged to the front are Young of North Dakota, Bushfield of South Dakota, Dworshak of Idaho and Thye of Minnesota.

Same Old Cycle

Farmers, according to reports, are withholding wheat from market in the hope of higher and higher prices although the price today is at an all-time high. Reports are that the growers are piling up the new wheat crop throughout the West and Southwest in backyards, on empty lots, on streets, in empty buildings wherever possible. This is reminiscent of the meat situation just about a year ago. Whatever advantage the farmer gained by withholding his meat from market was lost in subsequent higher price of living. The same thing will be true in withholding wheat from the market.

• • •

The big money lobbyists, absent in force for the past 10 or 15 years, had both feet in the door at the end of the first session of the 80th congress. When the second session starts on January 6, 1948, the predictions are that they will move all the way in for the kill. If this happens, we will see a reversion to the governmental policies of the 1920s.

• • •

Menace to Rights

THE hysteria evident in the 80th congress over communism has led to a state of affairs, even to introduction of bills such as the Rees bill, which are reminiscent of the infamous alien and sedition laws of 150 years ago. The alien and sedition laws, passed in the wake of the Revolutionary war, sent thousands of good American citizens to jail and even to death, for saying what they thought under the constitutional right of free speech. Newspaper publishers likewise were jailed under these laws. This hysteria or obsession in congress had driven men out of the government service and branded them as disloyal for no reason save they had independent or unconventional ideas.

The Rees bill, passed by the house although not by the senate, would even deny men charged with disloyalty the age old right to confront their accusers and answer specific charges. It substitutes the whispers of stool pigeons for evidence admissible in court.

Test Case Due

The Taft-Hartley labor bill already faces a severe test in the advance notice given by several unions among United Automobile Workers that they will strike to obtain guarantees in their contract against provisions of the new act. These are the same guarantees that John L. Lewis wrote out in his contract with coal and steel industries. If it can be done legally in coal and steel, why not in other industries, say union heads.

Good Citizens of Marshall County:

Let's Be Sensible and Fair As Well As Sincere and Honest!

You Have Been Asked To Answer Some Questions By Those Proposing The Retention of county prohibition. Under the special election to be held in Marshall County the sale of liquor, if aproved by the people, will be handled exclusively through municipal established liquor stores. The questions proposed, instead of referring to "legalizing liquor," should read, "by municipally established and controlled liquor stores." Le us put the shoe on the other foot and see what the result is

You have been asked the following questions. Under each we ask you to honestly answer the opposite side of the question

1—Are you sure your taxes will be reduced by legalizing liquor? (Through the establishment of municipal liquor stores.)
Do you think they will be reduced by trying to enforce prohibition which even the Federal Government, with all its resources, failed to do? If not, do you want liquor handled by bootleggers instead of well managed municipal stores?

2—Are you sure drinking will be reduced by legalizing liquor? (Through the establishment of municipal liquor stores.)
Do you think it will be reduced by bootleggers reaping huge profits from the illegal sale of liquor who are willing to sell it to anyone at any hour or day who has the price to pay for a bottle?

3—Are you sure that the moral standards for our youth will be improved by legalizing liquor? (Through the establishment of municipal liquor stores.)
Do you think the moral standards will be improved by having bootleggers selling liquor on the sly at every public dance and gathering where there are young people? Were they improved under national prohibition?

4—Are you sure that there are more bootleggers here than in "wet" counties? (To be fair this question should read: Are you sure there are more bootleggers here than in counties handling the sale of liquor through municipal liquor stores?)
Do you think bootleggers would take the chances they do in competition with municipal liquor stores selling at a fair price? Bootlegging flourishes when there is no competition from legal sales at fair prices

5—Are you sure that law enforcement will be improved by legalizing liquor? (Through the establishment of municipal liquor stores.)
The Federal government, after the dismal failure of national prohibition and its alarming growth of gangsterism, thought so. So do three-fourths of the counties of this state. Are they all more interested in liquor than in law enforcement?

6—Are you sure that all statements made by the "wets" are facts?
Do you think the duly elected municipal officials who have sponsored this election are all "wets?" Are the statements made by those seeking to retain county prohibition "facts?"

Let Us Use Reason Instead of Emotion In Deciding This Proposition:

We all favor temperance. Experience has shown us that prohibition, either on a local scale or on a nationel scale, is an impossibility. Is it not better to control the sale of liquor through legally established municipal liquor stores than to permit its illegal sale by bootleggers who have no interest in the community or in the individual to whom they sell liquor? Can anyone who is willing to face the facts honestly say that we have either prohibition or law enforcement today?

Typha Plant Remodeled

O. T. & Ness son have recently had the entire cat tail plant remodeled. The building is now a fine looking structure with a "Typha" sign painted on the front. Following is a story written by Leonard Ness which explains the history and use of the product.

Typha is the technical name for the common cat-tail. Typha was introduced by the late Dr. Burgess of Chicago. Dr. Burgess, by inquisitive, inventive and far sighted actions, developed Typha from a common field and marsh weed into a valuable commercially-available fiber. [illegible]

From 1910 to 1932 various studies were made of Typha but nothing definite was done until 1942 when our sources of Kapok were menaced by Japanese aggression.

Because of its remarkrble characteristics of buoyancy, thermal insulation, sound insulation and warmth, Typha fiber is adaptable for use in quite a numbe of materials. For instance, life preservers, beach balls, ring buoys and cushions filled with Typha will support 20 times its own weight for 265 days.

As an insulation material, according to tests made by the Riverbank Laboratories, Typha is able to meet aircraft requirements for sound insulation. In regard to wall insulation, Typha is 90% as warm as wool and a lighter weight fiber. Because of this, many uses are immediately suggested for typha as a filler where both light weight and warmth are desired such as: house jackets, lingerie containers and others. Typha has also been widely accepted as a filling material for toys and dolls made of cloth, as it packs easily and has the added value of being water resistant. enabling these objects to be washed or wiped clean with a damp cloth. Manufactures of hard and soft balls have found Typha has a complete or center filler.

This summer considerable improvements have been made on the plant. The south wing is still going to be used as a processing room; the north wing will be used as an experimenting room. In the north room, we have the batting machine which will take in the processed cat-tail and put it out in finished bat form, which will be sold as insulation.

The office of the building is occupied by repairs and other parts for machinery.

Mr. Ness recenly stated that operation will commence around the first of October. Having in the building approximately 400 tons of raw material yet to be processed, time will be spent experimenting and developing new methods etc.

We know that the coming of this new product has been a great asset to our community. We know that with all the qualities this product has, in time, will prove to be a very important and useful product.

In conclusion, the fact should be mentioned that Typha can be blended with other fibers such as wool, cotto and rayon, thereby giving added properties to these to these fibers.

Editors Note - There is no doubt of the possibilities of Typha. Watch for another article on the experiments being conducted in extracting oil from the seed of Typha. Who knows, perhaps Holt has "acres of diamonds in our own back yard".

LOOKING AHEAD

A Present Threat

America today needs thinkers if any nation ever did. We not only have the responsibility of the world, but we have a debt of $2,000 for every man, woman, and child. This means a debt of $8,000 for a family of four. Just to pay the interest on that debt takes more federal income than the nation ever raised from taxes in any year before the war. We have, also, the added costs of war pensions and expenditures for veterans.

Moreover, we must keep strong armed forces as a hope of not soon being in another war. Again and again we shall be called upon for relief and assistance to foreign countries. The $400,000,000 for Greece and Turkey is only a beginning. The total demand over the next two years may run as much as $3,000,000,000 above all present obligations. Demand is everywhere, at home and abroad.

Essentials to Health.

To meet all of these heavy demands we must have a healthy economy. This is not optional. It is a must. President Truman, Mr. Bernard Baruch, and others are calling for some of the essentials to a healthy economy. They have recently stressed longer hours, and higher productivity on the part of labor; lower profits and lower prices on the part of industry; and maximum production on the part of agriculture. These are good. They are essential, and I endorse all of them.

But one equally important item is being overlooked. It is so important, that I believe unless corrected properly it will act as a brake on our economy and prevent the very prosperity we all crave. I refer to taxes on incomes in the high brackets. The contention that we can keep the present high tax rate on big incomes and maintain a healthy economy is in my opinion fallacious.

Desire to Venture

A dynamic economy like ours requires that a lot of men each year must not only dream dreams of achievement, but that they actually must venture into business in an effort to satisfy American consumers. This is an obligation upon men who have large amounts of capital. But men in the high brackets now are being taxed up to 85 per cent of their net income. The take from income is so great as to threaten their willingness to risk. A man who could keep only 15 per cent of any additional income would not likely find it advisable to undergo the required risk necessary to increase his income.

Politics and Courage

Naturally, it is easy to say that those in the high brackets are the ones most able to pay, that they are the last ones to deserve any tax relief. It is also good politics to appeal to the many, with a determination to keep taxes on those "able to pay." But it is very bad for the future of the nation. Any policy that keeps competitive capital from going freely into the tools of production to make goods and provide jobs is, in the long run, going to reduce the national income, reduce the number of good jobs and reduce wages.

Sustained high investment of private capital in the tools of production is the only possible road to sustained high wages and full employment. May we have the courage and the wisdom to correct this dangerous threat to our future before it is too late, regardless of immediate political repercussions. May we look to the welfare of the many, and keep America ever the land of the free.

The Special Election held in Marshall County on Monday on the question „Shall the sale of intoxicating liquors be permitted within the county through the establishment of municipal liquor stores?" resulted in a majority of the voters voting No. Holt voted 47 for Yes and 27 for No.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Curtiss Lindberg and Mrs. Mabel Hanson were visitors at the county meeting of the R. F. D. Mail Carriers held at the home of Mr and Mrs. Elmer Hylland at Grygla. They accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lindberg and Mary Hams of Karlstad. After the meeting they visited at the Torrance Lillevold home where they were supper guests.

Mayor Peterson, O. H. Nohre and John Sorum were busy Tuesday cleaning up and leveling off the northeast corner lot on main street. Mr. Peterson suggested planting bushes and perhaps flowers on vacant plots which would be an easy thing to accomplish if each public spirited citizen (women too) would do their bit.

Peanut Candy Sugar Saver

The heavily laden shelves of the preserve closet tell the story of summer canning, but the near-empty sugar bin tells the tale, too. There will be a parade of jam, jellies, conserves and fruits this winter, but the troubling question of what for dessert tonight is the stickler right now. Ideas a-plenty, yes. But a glance at the sugar bin narrows the choice.

That's when the homemaker, familiar with peanut confections and the roll they play in dessert making, sails ahead on an even keel. You can have care-free, dessert planning moments, too. Here are some simple recipes that'll give them to you.

Chop peanut brittle and sprinkle on graham crackers. Pop them into the oven until brittle melts. A nutritious candy cookie, nice for a simple luncheon dessert.

How to Lengthen Life of a Sweater

Fall is sweater time again and they still seem to be an important part of every girl's school and sports wardrobe. When it comes to maintenance, there is no problem in most instances. First rule is never to let them get really badly soiled if you can avoid it. Frequent trips to the drycleaner are called for. Poor quality work for the sake of low prices is no economy. Sweaters should be dry cleaned or wet cleaned—whichever is in order—with an abolute minimum of mechanical action.

Honey of a Baked Apple

Wash and core the apples, leaving part of the core in the bottom of the apples to act as a plug. Fill the cavity with honey, using as much as the tartness of the apples requires. For variety, add a bit of lemon juice or a few cinnamon candies. The cavity may be stuffed with raisins and dates or other fruit combinations, if you like. Bake in a moderate oven until tender.

New Use Offered For Picture Frame

Frame a bouquet of small posies with one of those old metal picture frames which has an easel back. Polish the frame or paint it flat white. Place water container in back of frame and stick the flowers into water through front of frame.

Treatment Suggested For Big Fireplace

Try this treatment for a fireplace which is too large for room or badly proportioned. It will fade into wall if painted the color of wall. Place this paint on mantel, bricks, hearth and even the inside bricks of fireplace.

How to Brighten Up the Inside of Stove

Keep your kitchen stove clean inside as well as outside. Go over the oven and broiler with a damp soapy cloth. Use a brush for the corners, and along the grooves which hold the shelves.

Serve Citrus Juices Without Straining

Since pulp as well as juice contains vitamin C, it's vitamin-wise to serve orange and grapefruit juices unstrained. Better still, eat the fruit simply halved, sliced or sectioned.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Seek Conspiracy in High Prices; U.N. Warned on Greek Situation; Tax-Exempt Co-ops Are Studied

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Plane builder Howard Hughes sat aloof and alone amid a forest of chairs in a senate caucus room after the investigation of his aviation contracts had been abruptly and mysteriously called off. Hearings were scheduled to resume November 17.

CONSPIRACY:
Probe Prices

Many Americans who have had to empty their pocketbooks to fill their larders probably have entertained, from time to time, the theory that current astronomical costs of living were a conspiracy of some sort.

Now Attorney General Tom Clark has been struck with the same idea, and he is dead serious about it—threatening jail sentences for anyone who can be proved to have conspired to keep prices of food, clothing and shelter in the stratosphere.

Assuming a "get tough" attitude, the justice department ordered a full scale investigation to determine whether there is any subterfuge behind high prices in the nation, as industry spokesmen hurried to point out that their records were unblemished and that they would welcome the uprooting of any existing evils.

In the meantime, the CIO full employment commission urged that congress be summoned into special session to restore price controls and roll back prices to where they were when OPA expired. Congressional committees were already looking into price increases in the East and Midwest.

The justice department's anxiety and its proposed drive to combat monopolists was one of the strongest indications yet that the government is gravely concerned with the possibilities of uncontrollable inflation in the nation.

MORE TROUBLE:
UN Warned

The United States has put one more iron in the international fire as a result of the red-hot Balkan situation.

In a bluntly worded ultimatum, the U. S. told the United Nations security council that it would take direct action to defend Greece from Communist domination if the council and general assembly are unable to do the job.

MAY SEND TROOPS

U. S. state and war departments have been reviewing the possibility that American troops ultimately may have to be sent to Greece, although officials do not believe such a move is necessary at the present.

That development followed a deadlock brought about two weeks previously when Russia vetoed an American plan to have a U. N. commission keep order along the northern frontier of Greece.

And it came on the heels of a report that a seven-nation subcommittee had been unsuccessful in finding a way to resolve the stalemated Russian and U. S. stands.

Delivered to the security council by Herschel V. Johnson, deputy U. S. delegate, the warning said:

"The continued failure of the security council to take effective action in this case because of the Soviet veto cannot, in the opinion of the U. S. government, preclude individual or collective action by states willing to act, so long as they act in accordance with the general purposes and principles of the United Nations."

What other nations might be willing to join the United States in "collective action" against Communist inroads in Greece was not immediately evident, however.

New Insecticide Found

Benzene hexachloride — call it BHC—is a chemical compound that has been known for 125 years, but only recently has it come to the fore as a lethal weapon in man's war against insect pests.

Dr. Kenneth E. Maxwell of Richmond, Calif., attests that BHC used in a kerosene-type fly spray is about 10 times as toxic as DDT to the ordinary housefly.

RED SAUCERS:
Soviets Curious

Those flying disks were fun while they lasted, but by this time everybody has practically forgotten them.

Well, almost everybody.

Latest report having to do with the aerial chinaware is that Soviet agents in the United States have been ordered to solve the mystery of the disks. Presupposing the report to be true, it means, at least, that the saucers were not of Russian origin as many at first believed.

Soviet espionage agents here are said to have been advised that the Kremlin believes the flying saucers might have some connection with army experiments on methods of knocking out enemy radar during bombing raids.

CO-OP INQUIRY:
Two Questions

Although the public is not too well informed about it, one of the most important and fiercely waged domestic post war battles is that being fought between private business and cooperative enterprises.

Crux of the feud is the fact that cooperatives are tax-exempt, while private business is not. From this evolve two basic questions:

1. What effect does tax-exemption have upon growth of the cooperatives?

2. Is tax-exemption a factor of discrimination against private business?

A house small business subcommittee has begun an attempt to find the answers with an investigation of the cooperative community enterprise at Greenbelt, Md. In the Greenbelt case, business groups have charged that the government has aided the cooperative in keeping private business out of the development area.

This hearing, as well as others on the west coast, is being conducted by Rep. B. Walter Riehlman (Rep., N. Y.) as acting chairman of the subcommittee.

In view of the theory that taxes will remain high, compared with the past, for at least 50 years, according to economists, the tax-exemption feature of co-ops' existence will grow increasingly important.

DOUBLE TALK:
Inter-American

Indications at the outset were that the 21-nation inter-American conference at Rio de Janeiro, officially called for the purpose of working out a permanent mutual defense treaty among American republics, might find itself more concerned with economic aid discussions.

U. S. policy, as guided by Secretary of State Marshall, will attempt to hold down to a minimum any Latin American hopes for United States loans. The North American delegation was expected, instead, to stress the fact that U. S. capital investments in South America are more available and healthier than outright loans.

Although some South American governments are slowly trending toward that same idea, public opinion is lagging, particularly because of Communist and nationalist-inspired anti-U. S. propaganda.

In the meantime, other of the republics were thinking in terms of a "little Marshall plan" for American aid to Latin America.

All in all, it looked like another exciting diplomatic period.

WAGES:
Building Trades

Making the biggest jump in any single 12-month period since 1920, wages of union workers in the building trades rose 15 per cent in the past year, according to a report by the bureau of labor statistics.

That increase worked out to about 25 cents an hour for nearly 500,000 workers in seven major construction crafts, with most of the hourly pay boosts coming after wage controls were removed.

First New England Pumpkin Pie Wasn't a Pie at All!

When the early New Englanders made the first pumpkin pie, it just wasn't a pie at all. It was made by slicing off the top of the pumpkin, scooping out the seeds, filling it with milk and spices, and sweetening the mixture.

The pumpkin was then baked in hot ashes in a brick oven, and the filling was eaten from the shell.

Jackson Caused Treasury Building to Jut Into Street

The Treasury building in Washington, D. C., juts out into the street in the way of everybody because in the 1800s, during a discussion about the new location, President Andrew Jackson strode forth, stuck his cane in the ground and said: "The building shall be here."

And so today the Treasury building stands where it completely shuts off the view of the White House from the Capitol.

Cars, trucks and tractors shouldn't smoke, either

DOG JUMPS STAND ROCK . . . In the early 1880s, Henry H. Bennett, pioneer photographer, made first action shot of his son leaping across the gap between mainland cliff and towering Stand Rock landmark at Wisconsin Dells, Wis. An accident to a guide in the 90s caused the owners of the scenic property to prohibit further jumping. Recently, however, Bennett's grandchildren trained a large dog to make the leap (see inset) for benefit of amateur photographers.

Peaches Down Georgia Way

GEORGIA is a land of clay roads and peaches. But you'll be willing to drive over red clay roads, even in rainy season, if they lead you to an old Southern inn for supper—it's always "supper" after 6 P.M. in Georgia. Baked ham and grits, corn bread and country butter and probably a steamed peach pudding for dessert—these things linger longer in memory than nine-course hotel dinners elsewhere.

The above dessert, by the way, is probably the great-grandmother of the new Peach Mousse as they make it in the East, but it is a worthy ancestor. Here are recipes for each of these desserts, and they can be made in April as well as in peach-time.

Two Peachy Desserts

Steamed Peach Pudding, Southern Style: Sift two cups of flour, four teaspoons baking powder and one teaspoon salt. Work in four tablespoons shortening and add seven-eighths cup of milk to make a soft dough. Drain one No. 2½ can of peaches well and cut in rather large slices. Put in the bottom of a well-buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with two tablespoons of brown sugar and put the dough on top. Steam one hour, being careful not to lift the cover of the steamer in that time. When done, turn upside-down so that the peaches are on top. Serve with plain cream.

Peach Mousse: Whip two cups of heavy cream. Drain the juice from a No. 2 can of peaches and mash well, or run through a food chopper. Add to the cream. Add one cup of confectioner's sugar and one-fourth teaspoon of ground cloves, and fold in the stiffly-beaten whites of two eggs. Pack in molds or in the ice-cream container, without the paddle. Surround with salt and ice, using two parts ice to one part salt. Let stand for four hours.*

They go together...

Barbecued ribs...French fried potatoes ...and a glass of refreshing beer

Beer belongs... enjoy it

Egg Values

According to food specialists, Grade A eggs are best for boiling, poaching, or frying, but Grade B eggs are entirely satisfactory for cooking and baking. They report that lower grade eggs have just as much food value as the better grades.

THE START IS IMPORTANT IN PROFITABLE FEEDING

Get those chicks or poults off to a good start—and when egg-laying season, or the holiday turkey marketing season comes along, you'll be in there for more than your share of profits. The same thing's true of feeding hogs—the start determines the entire life of the animal.

Mrs. Sorter Grows A-1 Flowers

A flower garden spot well worth your time to drive out to see is at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Sorter. Mrs. Sorter raises flowers as a hobby and has perfected some gorgeous flowers. She has had some huge oriental poppies earlier this summer, among other varieties, and right now the place is a riot of color with large yellow and purple dahlias, sweet peas of all colors and dark purple petunias and red moss roses.

We asked Mrs. Sorter how she can make her flowers grow like that and she answered jestingly, "I talk to them" There is something apout being able to commune with nature that is an art all in itself and people who do so never weary of that type of work.

Donald Mark, 3 months old son of Rev. and Mrs. Sorensen, was taken quite ill last week, and had to be taken to St. Lukes hospital at Thief River Falls. Mrs. Sorenson stayed with him and they returned home Tuesday

A. O. Aspelin and daughter Caroline visited relatives at Moorhead and Wolverton Sunday and Monday.

Wages and Baskets

A real basket of food, according to the American Federation of Labor, is a good unit to use in measuring income. That is, how many baskets of food will your wages buy? The Federation's "Monthly Survey" for July has put together some interesting figures comparing wages in America in 1940 with wages in Europe in 1940. These figures are in terms of baskets containing items for adequate nourishment. An American family of five would need about four of these baskets a day.

One hour's work by a factory worker in the United States in 1940, according to the A. F. of L., would buy 2.83 baskets. In Britain an hour of work would buy 1.26 baskets. In France, 1.11; in Germany, 1.02; in Italy, .65; and in Russia, only .40. This means that the American worker could buy with his wages seven times as much food as a Russian could with his in 1940.

Measure of Freedom

These figures are in keeping with personal observations in Europe in 1936 and again in 1946. The amount of food a worker could buy with his wages was in direct proportion to the amount of freedom that a worker enjoyed in his own country. Russia had the least individual freedom and the lowest wages. America had the most freedom and the highest wages.

More than 20 years of Communism in Russia, under a totalitarian state which owns and operates the tools of production, has failed to change the ratio in comparison with America. The "Monthly Survey" is right when it comments that history has proved that "free enterprise under a democratic form of government provides the highest living standards for workers." Workers are becoming aware that their best opportunities lie in preserving individual opportunity—freedom to own property and to create and operate an industry or business.

Threats Today

I fear, however, that the American public does not understand some of the threats being made upon this very essential factor in the American way of life. I am interested in seeing industry pay the highest possible wages. America must continue to provide the best for the most. But I see dangers threatening the very things that enable Americans to buy more baskets of food than the workers of any land.

1. High taxes are cutting off investment of new venture capital. This will prevent expansion and growth. New tools and new industries will not be available to provide jobs.

2. An extravagant federal budget continues to spend and to create inflation. This restrains men from venturing and investing.

3. Industrial relations are unsteady. This instability again makes capital afraid to venture.

Way to Confidence

Taxes must be lowered enough that the ordinary man can keep a larger percentage of his earnings, and so that men will be inspired to invest and venture into business enterprise. We need to overhaul the federal budget, to get rid of wasteful and inflationary government spending. We need firm but friendly industrial relations.

If these things were achieved, they could do much to preserve the essential ingredient of our system of high wages and high standards of living in this land of the free.

Mrs. I. D. Tisher from Abilene. Texas, visited at the Pat McCullough home Sunday and Monday. She is a sister of Mr McCullough.

Sunday dinner guests at the Pat McCullough home were Mrs. Mary Wagner and boys and Mrs. Nancy Burrell from Rosewood and Mrs. I. D. Tisher from Abilene Texas.

Using Deodorants

The safest time to use non-perspirants or deodorant preparations is after undressing at night. Care should be taken not to drop any of the liquid preparations on underwear or night clothes or to use so much of the creams that they get on fabrics. Powder applied over these preparations at night and again in the morning helps protect clothes. Shields may be as useful in protecting against these chemicals as against perspiration.

Canal Zig-Zags

The Pacific entrance to the Panama canal is actually more easterly than the Atlantic entrance, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica. The canal does not go, as is generally supposed, from east to west. Instead, it runs due south, turns sharply east and then follows a southeasterly course.

Thawing Frozen Foods

When frozen foods are allowed to thaw at room temperature, there is danger that bacteria may attack the food — mainly because foods are often allowed to stand too long after thawing is complete.

Dr. Frances Van Duyne, foods specialist at the University of Illinois, recommends that vegetables should not be thawed before cooking.

They should be taken from their containers and placed immediately in a pan with just enough water to last through the short cooking period. Boiling time is counted from the moment the water returns to boiling after the frozen vegetables are added.

Frozen fruits should be thawed in the refrigerator and the castons left unopened until serving time.

How to Lick Worry About Fishbones

When your local market man is dressing the fish, tell him not to shear off the fins level with the body. Rather have him leave the fins on. Then you know the exact location of the fin bones and may easily remove an entire section very easily after the fish is cooked. The center bone should present no problem at all. When cooked, open the fish just as you would a book. Lift out the bone and you have a filleted fish. If you wish the fins removed at the market, make sure the dresser cuts deeply on either side of the fins and removes them entirely.

Utilize Abundant Almond Supply

There are going to be plenty of crisp, crunchy almond meats for everyone this year. Not only that, but the almonds are of superior quality, fairly bulging with rich, delicious goodness. Almond quick breads ar popular for sandwiches, be they for the children's school lunch or for mother's afternoon tea.

These are good when made merely into bread and butter sandwiches; but are ultragood with most any kind of filling. The flavor and texture of the almonds is dependably predominant, giving the sandwiches a special party touch.

Home-Dyeing Made Easier

New, improved all-fabric dye greatly simplifies home-dyeing without rise in retail prices. Product ends need of knowing kind of fabric you plan to dye, since it dyes every fiber made, including the man-made ones like "Celanese," nylon, rayon, and mixtures of synthetic and natural fibers.

Saving Bath Towels

In these days of shortages and high prices, it pays to add to the life of your heavy bath towels by binding them along both sides with one-inch tape. This is the part subject to greatest strain, where the first tear usually appears.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

See Aid to American Nations; Huge Budget Surplus Predicted; Terms of British Loan Relaxed

Released by Western Newspaper Union

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

John Snyder, secretary of the treasury (left), explains statistics to President Truman as James Webb, director of the budget bureau, looks on at the yearly budget seminar. Mr. Truman predicted record government surplus of 4.7 billion dollars for current fiscal year.

THE AMERICAS:

Aid Promised

"We must reject an encroachment upon the fundamental rights of the state. I am confident that we all agree that the state exists for man, not man for the state—and that we abhor any limitation upon the freedom of expression of men throughout the world."

Thus, in his first address before the inter-American conference at Petropolis, Brazil, U. S. Secretary of State George Marshall issued a reaffirmation of democratic principles in the western hemisphere and then bulwarked his expression of idealism with specific assurances of U. S. economic aid to Latin America.

He told the delegates that the U. S. government "will continue to take up economic questions with its sister republics and seek a sound basis for practical cooperation."

Marshall at Rio
". . . the state exists for man . . ."

That was interpreted as meaning that the U. S. is willing to help solve Latin America's economic problems through a series of bi-lateral pacts. There was also a hint that the big northern neighbor is counting on sending down its capital.

Although the ostensible purpose of the conference was to arrange a joint hemispheric defense treaty, little was said about that at the outset. Also somewhere in the background was the U. S. plan for standardization of arms in the Americas. Many of the smaller and poorer nations are in opposition to the arms standardization proposal, however, because they feel that there is a greater need for economic rehabilitation than for armaments.

SURPLUS:

Budget Review

President Truman's budget business made big news again when the chief executive (1) forecast a record treasury surplus next June of nearly five billion dollars, and (2) hurt Republican feelings by telling the nation that congress trimmed the 1947 budget estimates by only 1.5 billion dollars.

His mid-year budget review estimated tax receipts this year at $41,667,000,000, which is 2.1 billion dollars more than any previous forecast.

Mr. Truman made his announcement coincidentally with a bureau of labor report which indicated that the U. S., far from being in for a business depression, can look forward to a period of prosperity continuing "indefinitely."

The present jolly outlook for the state of the budget is based upon an expectation of continued high prices, taxes, incomes and employment, all of which precludes a depression.

From the Republican point of view, however, the President's budget review was a snide attempt to play politics. Sen. Styles Bridges (Rep., N. H.), chairman of the senate appropriations committee, said the new estimate of greater tax receipts proves that the nation was "robbed of a tax reduction by purely political vetoes."

It was a sure sign that the Republicans would renew their tax reduction fight when congress reconvened in January. Equally certain appeared to be the probability that the President would meet such a measure with another veto.

RELAXED:

Loan Terms

Groggy and hanging on the ropes, dollar-starved Great Britain was given a reprieve from economic doom when the U. S. agreed to suspend the controversial "free convertibility" clause of its 3.75 billion dollar loan to England.

That particular clause, a major drain on the English dollar supply, required that Britain surrender dollars on demand to any country which held English pounds. In other words, foreign countries having a supply of pounds could turn them in to Great Britain and get dollars in exchange.

As the action was taken, Britain announced that it would withdraw between 150 and 200 million dollars more of the 850 million dollars remaining of the original loan. Cancellation of the "free convertibility" clause, British leaders hope, will enable them to stretch their swiftly dwindling credit.

Actually, few persons outside of the monetary technicans handling the matter, understood the details of the transaction. It was, in the words of Robert A. Lovett, acting secretary of state, "a terribly complicated matter."

CRYSTAL BALL:

Next President

General Douglas MacArthur will be the next president of the United States.

That, at least, is the occult prediction of a 75-year-old Japanese fortune teller, Kakudo Tomioka, who eulogized: "MacArthur has a glorious future in store for him."

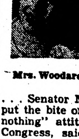
Tomioka, who is said to have a record of several accurate predictions, placed the general on a plane with Mohandas Ghandi in the field of social welfare.

"There presently are two living men who have succeeded in realizing a peaceful revolution," he said. "They are MacArthur and Ghandi. But, then, Ghandi's mission is over. And MacArthur has his most glorious task to accomplish for the world in the future."

It was not immediately known whether MacArthur would use Tomioka's recommendation as a plank in his platform if he runs in 1948.

Headliners

IN DALLAS . . . Mrs. Warren J. Woodard, 24, housewife, got up in arms about legs. She organized the "Little Below the Knee club" for women who oppose the long skirt now in style. The girls organized a parade and ankled through Dallas streets to give emphasis to their protest.



Mrs. Woodard

IN LAS VEGAS . . . Senator McCarthy (Rep., Wis.) put the bite on congress for its "do nothing" attitude toward veterans. Congress, said he, "did foully by our disabled veterans, their widows and dependents."

IN BALMORAL SCOTLAND . . . Princess Margaret Rose of England, just turned 17, received as a birthday present her first military title—colonel-in-chief of the Highland light infantry.

IN SEATTLE, Secretary of Commerce Averill Harriman, former ambassador to Russia, had a harsh word for his former stamping grounds. Soviet leaders, he said, are counting on a U. S. depression to give them "an opportunity to push forward and expand the areas of their domination."

Fuel Shortage Seen World Wide This Winter

It looks like this will be a long, cold winter.

An unprecedented demand has been tagged by the Anthracite institute as the chief cause for what will probably develop into a worldwide shortage of all types of fuel this year.

The institute pointed out that no reclaimed coke will be available as during the war years, domestic coke will be in short supply, less wood is available for fuel and it is probable that the demand for soft coal will exceed the supply.

With one-third of the 1947-48 coal year completed, the institute said, the anthracite industry was already 8.1 per cent behind in production on certain sizes as compared with last year. An increase in daily production of approximately 25,000 tons, or 15 per cent, is needed to make up the 4.7 million tons difference.

DP SHUFFLE:

Truman Acts

President Harry Truman, in a renewed effort to alleviate the "tragic plight" of Europe's displaced persons, ordered a three-way shift in the top command of the U. S. immigration and naturalization service.

In addition, it was disclosed that administration officials in Washington have resumed their review of the problem of displaced persons.

Most important personnel shift involved the transfer of Ugo Carusi from his post as commissioner of immigration to a position in the state department where he will survey all "critical" problems relating to displaced persons, particularly their resettlement.

This is expected to result in added stress being placed on a directive Mr. Truman issued in December, 1945, calling for coordinated action by federal officials to admit as many displaced persons as possible within quota limitations.

Watson B. Miller, federal security administrator, succeeds Carusi as commissioner of immigration, and Oscar Ross Ewing, New York lawyer, replaces Miller.

President Truman's action was taken in the face of congress' refusal to act on his proposal to relax immigraton quotas.

DEFINITION:

Long Felt Want

Rep. Forest A. Harness (Rep., Ind.) suddenly became aware of a long felt want for an accurate and distinctive definition of a couple of much-used words — "propaganda" and "information."

His concern stemmed from the fact that he is chairman of a house expenditures subcommittee currently investigating government publicity and propaganda; hence, he felt impelled to explain to Secretary of State Marshall that he has no intention of interfering with spreading proper information, only with "unlawful and improper" influencing of legislation for propaganda.

Thus, the need for definitions, which Harness phrased this way:

"INFORMATION: The act or process of communicating knowledge; to enlighten.

"PROPAGANDA: A plan for the propagation of a doctrine or a system of principles."

Just how, if at all, the subtler types of propaganda can be sharply and immediately distinguished from information, and vice versa, Harness did not say. The definitions were his brainchildren, and the accurate application of them appeared likely to become his headache.

New Superbomber

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower inspects the bombardier's compartment of the new Boeing B-50 superbomber. Upon landing after a flight in the giant plane, General Eisenhower said, "It's a beautiful thing."

DANGER:

Report on Russia

Flatly rejecting any theory that the U. S. should touch off a preventive war with Russia before that nation has full knowledge of atomic bomb secrets, a special survey by library of congress experts nevertheless warned that relations between America and the USSR have "deteriorated dangerously" since the end of World War II.

The report described Soviet foreign policy as intolerant, suspicious, distrustful and keyed to a program of world revolution, even at the risk of a third world war.

Communist leaders, it was charged, are ready "to play any card available" in their campaign to bring about a complete change in the world's political, social and economic structure.

This is how the report summed up Soviet foreign policy: "The summit of Communist hopes and aspirations is, in the latest analysis, today as in Lenin's time, a complete change of the world's political, economic, social and cultural setup, and at the base of Soviet foreign policy lies the desire to make the world safe for Communism or Sovietism."

THIRD DIMENSION

Three-dimensional photographs—giving the illusion of depth—have been developed by a New York engineer who claims they are practicable for commercial display and advertising purposes. Harold A. Backus, the inventor, used two transparent screens, one in the camera and the other placed over the developed negative, to produce the three-dimensional effect. Standard camera and lens were used.

15 Stripes in Key's Flag

The Star Spangled Banner that Francis Scott Key watched "through the perilous fight" had fifteen stripes. From 1795 to 1818 the American flag had fifteen alternating red and white stripes. Two extra stripes stood for the two newest states in the Union, Vermont and Kentucky, admitted in 1791 and '92.

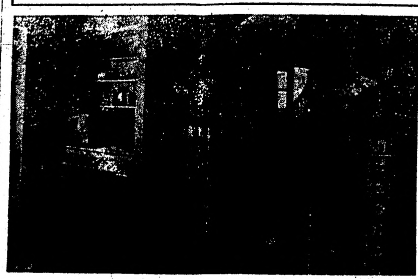
Decorative Glass Streamlines Modern Room



Glass blocks around a fireplace surmounted by a mirror add sparkle to large, modern living rooms.

"WHETHER you're planning to build or remodel, you'll be interested in the new ways glass can bring beauty into your home," says Betty Swan in an article in Capper's Farmer, a leading farm magazine.

"Glass blocks and decorative flat glass, now so popular, may be used to streamline any room," she declares.

"As windows, doors, partitions or partial screens they are practical as well as ornamental. They let in light from outdoors, or another room but cannot be seen through readily. They are easy to clean.

"Used as a semipartition or in archways, glass blocks give a modern touch and reflect light.

Frozen Meat

Busy housewives who do not have time to thaw frozen meat products before cooking are assured by researchers that they do not spoil flavor, reduce juiciness, or increase shrinkage. The only factors to consider are that thawed meats cook quicker than still frozen meats; that unthawed meat is more apt to spatter fat when braised and less likely to hold an egg and crumb mixture in frying. If roasts are cooked in the frozen state, 10 minutes more must be allowed per pound than for thawed roasts. A two-inch frozen steak needs 15 minutes more cooking time than a thawed one of the same thickness.

You are hearing a lot these days about free enterprise. What is it? What does it mean?

Briefly, it means the best possible service at the fairest possible cost to the consumer through the cooperation of the stockholder, who puts up the capital; management which directs and plans and the employees who do the work.

This combination has given America industrial and commercial leadership. No other system has ever successfully been able to beat it.

And it it all predicated upon public confidence and support as expressed in the attitude of the consumer. To merit this confidence we are bending every effort to improve and strengthen our system as rapidly as materials and equipment can be procured, so as to render the best service possible.

We also wish to acknowledge with gratitude all the favorable publicity given our cause by the newspapers of this territory.

We recognize that there are still many problems unsolved and we urge the whole-hearted co-operation of all of our people in the righteous solution of the same.

Seeks Origin Of Holt

Following is a letter received by Walter Peterson. Anyone knowing anything about the origin of Holt please contact him.

Lycke, Sweden,
August, 10, 1947.

The Hon. Mayor of Holt,
Holt, Minnesota.

Dear Sir:

May I herewith ask you for a great favour. In the swedish-american weekly "Minnesota Stats Tidning" of January 20th 1937 it was reported that the city of Holt, Minn. was named after a well known and prominent physician in Crookston, Dr. H. H. Holte, who died in Crookston in January 1937 at the age of 79 years.

Now I would like to know if that assertion is right, and if Dr. Holte was of Swedish descent?

I am engaged in a historical investigation about the origin of swedish place names in America and would therefore be greatly indebted to you if you kindly would give me some information on the questions mentioned.

If the first question should be correct and if Dr. Holte was of Swedish descent, I would be very happy to know his full name, when he was born and where he was born, when he came to America, names and addresses of his children etc.

Hoping this letter, when falling down on your desk, will get a favourable receipt. I am, with best wishes to you and your city,

Yours most respectfully,
R. Landelius.

The cost of new construction underway and planned for the near future will cost considerable over one million dollars in this area and the resultant increase in tax contribution in the entire area will be appreciable.

I wish to take this opportunity to state that the newspapers in our district have been very understanding of our problems and have been very cooperative in presenting facts about the electric utility business to our patrons and to theirs.

Frozen Turkey

If you're buying a frozen turkey, look for one that is frozen hard with no discoloration. To defrost the bird, unwrap it and leave it in the refrigerator for about 24 hours or place it under a stream of cold water for four to six hours. Don't refreeze your turkey after it has been defrosted. A defrosted bird can be kept safely for one day if you wrap it loosely in waxed paper and keep it in the refrigerator.

Otter Tail Rebuild Power Lines

The Otter Tail Power Company is expanding and improving its power plants and lines in the Crookston District, a brief outline of which follows:

The company is installing a steam turbine- electric power plant at Crookston of 5,000 KW capacity. The building is designed for a second unit of the same size or larger for near future installation. This plant will be the base load plant for northwestern Minnesota from Moorhead to the Canadian border and for the northeastern corner of North Dakota.

At the present time, the company is preparing for the installation of a 1,000 KW Diesel electric generator at the Hallock Plant which will give us standby and peak load capacity for the northwestern corner of Minnesota and the northeastern corner of North Dakota. Our schedule calls for completion of this unit in November, but we are at the mercy of uncertain deliveries of equipment and material.

The steam turbine unit at Crookston will go into service within a year from now and will supply generating capacity much needed because of unprecedented post-war demand for electric power.

At the present time the company is constructing new transmission lines and is rebuilding some of the old lines in order to increase line capacity, in view of new power plant output at Crookston and Hallock. A new line has been constructed between Cavalier and Pembina which will connect with Crookston and Devils Lake plants thru the northern area via Hallock, Pembina and Langdon, North Dakota.

We will shortly start construction on a new line connection, 33,000 V line at Warren with 41,000 V line at Oslo, Minnesota. This will provide a more direct connection between the Crookston and Devils Lake plants and will permit an interchange of power between systems in North Dakota and Minnesota, which will result in many sources of power into the systems. The system in this area is also served by our Bemidji plant and we have a standby connection with the Grand Forks plant of the Northern States Power Company.

New and larger conductors are being installed between Crookston and Hallock on the present 33,000 V line. This will permit more efficient distripution of power from the new Crookston plant into the Argyle-Stephen to Crookston-Pembina areas.

All the above construction should be completed by the end of 1948 and will assure all Otter Tail Power Company towns in this area of greatly improved service, which is the aim of the Otter Tail Power Company and its employees.

To the employees, who deliver the local service, a large share of credit is due for the good service which has been provided in the past in spite of exececssive storm conditions during recent both winter and summer seasons.

The company has expended considerable sums of money in hiring expert tree trimming companies to trim trees on transmission and distribution lines and our patrons owning these trees have been very understanding in the matter of tree trimming permits and this should also result in service improvement.

Lutheran Welfare Workshop

A Lutheran Welfare Area Office will be established in Thief River on March 1, 1948, to give quicker and more direct service to this and neighboring counties. The announcement was received this week by Henry M. Hanson, Warren, Lutheran Welfare Campaign Chairman for Marshall County.

The importance of this development and other new phases of Christian Welfare Work will be told at the Lutheran Welfare Workshop, Monday, September, 15, from 10 A. M. to P. M., Trinits Lutheran Church, Thief River Falls. The workshop is open to everyone.

A special speaker on the topic of of European War Orphans will be Miss Henriette Lund, Consultant, Division of Welfare, National Lutheran Council.

The Honorable Oscar R. Knutson, Judge of the District Court, Warren, Minn., will outline the challenge of the climbing divorce rates to church homes. According to Judge Knutson, in the past 50 years divorces have increased from one in every 12 marriages to one in every four.

Accorring to the Rev. John G. Simmons, President of the Society, a 60 per cent increase over last year's offerings is needed if the Society is to help all who ask it and and maintain proffessional standard. Present trends indicate that over 660 children will be cared for this year, 200 will be placed for adoption, 230 unwed mothers will be helped, and 15,000 hospitalized persons visited by Lutheran Welfare pastors.

Mutual Defense

James Monroe, fifth President of the United States, had his say, in spirit, at least, at the inter-American defense conference at Petropolis, Brazil, in August, 1947.

When the conference agreed on a mutual aid treaty for North and South America and their territorial waters, and set up a vast, North Pole-South Pole hemispheric security zone, the celebrated Monroe doctrine was developed to its logical conclusion 124 years after its inception.

This was the burden of the Monroe doctrine in 1823: "It is only when our rights are invaded or seriously menaced that we resent injuries or make preparations for our defense . . . in this hemisphere . . ."

Today, the Americas are making preparations for hemispheric defense in advance of any menace or invasion of their rights. The mutual defense treaty embodies three main points:

1. In the case of armed attack from outside the hemisphere, all nations have the automatic right to meet the attack with military measures.

2. If military attack occurs inside the hemisphere, American nations may go voluntarily to the aid of the victim, with consultations to follow.

3. If attacks occur both inside the hemisphere and outside the security region, immediate consultations will be called.

Thus, despite the opposition of some Latin American nations to the U. S.-espoused "Monroe doctrinism," it appeared certain that the "hands off the Americas" policy was in for a big revival in the atomic age.

TORRID ZONE:
Corn Declines

Thermometer-happy Americans, struggling feebly in the moist clutches of a record heat wave, could take cold comfort from the fact that temperatures were being exceeded in height only by the price of corn.

With abnormally hot weather prevailing over most of the nation, grains continued to deteriorate from lack of moisture and prices of both corn and oats hit new record highs. September corn was selling at $2.45 a bushel and September oats zoomed to $1.08¾, breaking a record for oats futures set in May, 1920.

The grain market prices went through the roof following a department of agriculture report that the country's heat-seared corn crop would produce only 2,437,000,000 bushels, a 223 million bushel drop from the August 1 estimate.

Although agriculture department officials had hoped earlier this year for a 3 billion bushel corn crop to keep food production high, weeks of hot, dry winds shrivelled that hope, and the corn crops of Iowa and Illinois, major producing sections, continued to decline steadily.

HEADLINERS

IN WASHINGTON . . . John Sampson Kirby, 69, (above) of Tennessee was placed under observation after police had nabbed him packing a pistol in the capitol building and declaiming loudly that he had "just been elected president of the United States."

IN NEW YORK . . . Virginia Walton Brooks, 14, just returned from an African hunting trip with her parents, proudly revealed that she had shot not only an elephant and a lion but also such esoteric creatures as a kongoni, two gerenuks, an oryx, a bat-eared fox, an impala, two dik-diks and a klipspringer.

IN CHICAGO . . . Mrs. Anna Metzger, 47, had had a pain in her leg for 40 years, finally became curious, pressed the irritated area and pulled out a two-inch sewing needle.

IN LOS ANGELES . . . Mrs. Eva Craft had the reputation for liking cats, but her neighbors complained to police that she liked them too much and liked too many of them. The officer who came to investigate lost count before he got to the 53 the neighbors claimed existed there.

IN MINNEAPOLIS . . . James M. Shields resigned as a national labor relations board regional director because "I cannot conscientiously administer the Taft - Hartley act" which "seeks the complete destruction of organized labor."

FRAUD:
New Probe

All is not quiet on the war contract front, and the intermission which followed the petering out of the Hughes investigation is just about over.

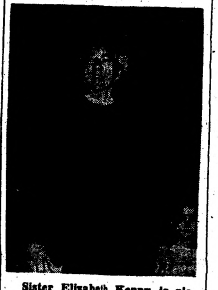
Charging that "fraud and overpayments" involving millions of dollars have been found in war contracts, Rep. George H. Bender (Rep., Ohio) announced bravely that his house sub-committee on expenditures will investigate.

For his opening barrage, Bender sighted on the justice department which, he said, has "failed to prosecute" 93 fraud cases referred to it.

First witness scheduled to appear as Bender's group prepared to open public hearings was Lindsay C. Warren, comptroller general, who will testify concerning evidence discovered by the general accounting office that fraud and overpayment existed "in more than 5 per cent of all the cases which it has audited under the contract settlement act."

The hearings probably will not turn into another three-ring circus like the Hughes affair, although anything can happen. Sen. Owen Brewster's war investigating committee has nothing to do with this one.

Midwest Clinic



Sister Elizabeth Kenny is pictured as she dedicated the Sister Elizabeth Kenny clinic for infantile paralysis at Centralia, Ill., the first such institute to be established outside of Minneapolis, Minn. Clinic was made possible by popular subscription of $125,000.

FASCISM:
Acting at Home

Doctrine of Fascism, officially defeated in World War II, remains as a possible danger both in the United States and abroad.

That was the gist of a congressional survey, "Fascism in Action," compiled by the legislative reference service of the library of congress and released to the public only after months of altercation and controversy.

While the main body of the bulky report dealt with Fascism abroad, Rep. Wright Patman (Dem., Tex.) in a foreword to the document, said bluntly that "There are many strong symptoms of Fascism in our own democratic society," although they may masquerade under less odious names.

Correctly defining Fascism as "a philosophy and a way of life which requires that its followers serve the state with an unwavering faith," Patman asserted that the best weapons with which to combat it are education, full employment, increased income and an alert organized labor movement.

He might have added, also, that it is a state of mind which flourishes in many homes and neighborhoods as a result of powerful environmental influences arising from ignorance, bigotry and race-hatred.

THE SWIFT:
Oysters Lose

Oysters simply aren't fast enough to get away from predatory snails whose pace has been clocked officially at .00363005 miles an hour.

Plodding along on a treadmill at the University of Maryland fish and wildlife laboratory, a test snail covered 22 feet and ½ inch in 11 hours and 30 minutes — a pace swift enough, at least, to overtake an oyster.

Good-By Private

There will be no more privates, corporals or sergeants in the U. S. army air forces by 1949 if present AAF plans are realized. A new system of ratings will be established, when the air force gains autonomy under the new national military establishment, giving all enlisted men and warrant officers the ranks of "airmen," "senior airmen" and "chief airmen." Pay will be based on individual technical skills.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

PRAYER AMONG THE CROSSES . . . Row upon row of white crosses stretch out behind this woman who stands, with tears in her eyes, before the grave of an American at the Henri-Chapelle cemetery, Belgium. Bearing no relationship, except that of human compassion, to the soldier, she clenches her rosary tightly and prays silently.

CLAIMS SMALLEST CALF IN STATE . . . William Gahl, a farmer living near Huntington, Ind., claims that this midget member of the bovine species is one of the smallest calves ever born in Indiana. The calf, a mixed Guernsey-Shorthorn breed, is 17 inches tall, 21 inches long and weighs only 15 pounds. Photo shows Gahl holding a normal size calf while the little fellow is dwarfed in the foreground.

HUNTRESS AND THE RHINO . . . At an age when most girls are just beginning to take jobs as baby-sitters, Virginia Walton Brooks, 14, of Memphis, Tenn., is already a veteran African big game huntress. While on a safari in Kenya Colony, East Africa, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Berry Boswell Brooks, the girl knocked over this fearsome-looking rhinoceros. She also bagged a six-ton elephant, the largest shot since the war, plus a zebra or two.

Dog Enters Arena and Bull Fight Becomes a Comedy

A recent bullfight in Madrid was unexpectedly turned into a comedy by a dog sent into the ring to arouse the anger of a bull that refused to fight, says Collier's. Shortly, both animals were in such a belligerent mood that they started a real battle.

This was climaxed by the dog when he sank his teeth in the bull's tail and held on, until rescued several minutes later, despite the desperate efforts of his astonished and enraged antagonist to shake him off.

MILLIONS OF AMERICANS ARE TAKING PART OF THEIR PAY IN MONEY THAT GROWS

Millions of my nieces and nephews are increasing their take-home pay by the simple, automatic Payroll Savings Plan. Let's take one example. Suppose you tell your employer that you want to take $6.25 of your weekly pay in Bonds. In three weeks the accumulation of $18.75 will buy one $25 Savings Bond. Merely by holding these bonds to maturity in 10 years you are raising your take-home income $2.08 every week. It is obvious that the so-called deduction for Savings Bonds is not a deduction but a way for you to store up and increase your earnings for your future use.

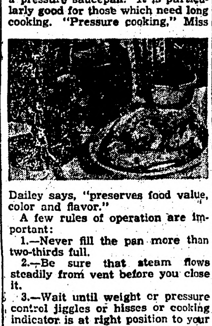
Pressure Saucepan Saves Time and Fuel

IN A comparatively short time the pressure saucepan has won an assured place in farm kitchens, according to Laura Dailey, in an article in Capper's Farmer, one of the best known farm magazines.

It saves time and fuel. Many different foods may be prepared in a pressure saucepan. It is particularly good for those which need long cooking. "Pressure cooking," Miss Dailey says, "preserves food value, color and flavor."



A few rules of operation are important:

1.—Never fill the pan more than two-thirds full.

2.—Be sure that steam flows steadily from vent before you close it.

3.—Wait until weight or pressure control jiggles or hisses or cooking indicator is at right position to your directions before you start counting time. Then reduce the heat and let cook for specified time.

4.—Reduce the pressure as each recipe indicates.

5.—After pressure is reduced, be certain to remove the weight, or lift the pressure control, before removing cover.

Some farm women are doing a limited amount of canning in their pressure saucepans, Miss Dailey points out.

REDDY KILOWATT POWER
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

You are hearing a lot these days about free enterprise. What is it? What does it mean?

Briefly, it means the best possible service at the fairest possible cost to the consumer through the cooperation of the stockholder, who puts up the capital; management which directs and plans and the employees who do the work.

This combination has given America industrial and commercial leadership. No other system has ever successfully been able to beat it.

And it it all predicated upon public confidence and support as expressed in the attitude of the consumer. To merit this confidence we are bending every effort to improve and strengthen our system as rapidly as materials and equipment can be procured, so as to render the best service possible.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Yes, I'm Guilty!

Folks sometimes criticize us small-town editors for the way we often play up "little things" ahead of big . . . human, local news in place of world events.

I can't deny it. Read the Clarion and you'll learn about the Martins' golden wedding anniversary . . . about the community sing down by the river . . . the husking bee at Sober Hoskins', where neighbors helped husk the corn, and later drank sparkling beer together.

"Little things?" Maybe. But from where I sit, they add up to the bigger things we call America: The friendliness of small towns . . . the helping hand . . . the respect for one another's rights. And above all the love of fellowship and freedom—whether it's freedom to speak one's mind or choose between a glass of beer or buttermilk.

I figure that if everybody looks after the "little things," maybe the bigger things will take care of themselves.

Scholarship in Co'op Study

St. Paul, Minn.—Ten four-year college scholarships in cooperative study are being offered to childern of Northwest famers by the Famers Union Grain Terminal Association, it was announced by M. W. Thatcher, general manager.

Five of the scholarship awards are for the four-year term beginning in 1948. Five more scholarships will be awardee for the four-year period beginning with the 1949 Fall term.

The scholarships are for Valparaiso University, Valpariso, Indiana. Each scholarship is for $2,000. The winners will receive $500 each of the four years they are in school. Applications for the first five scholarships will close October 17.

The awarding of the scholarships for co-perative study was termed by Mr. Thatcher to be frankly an experimental venture. The purpose is to encourage an objective study of co-operatives and to encourage colleges to offer a broader study of co-operatives as a part of their curriculm.

Brandt's Views of Farm Prices

Despite recent headline stories about a record 1947 income for American agriculture, farmers are not wallowing in great prosperity, and when the final figures for the year are viewed in terms of net, rather than gross income, 1947 may well prove to be less profitable for farmers than many previous years.

That statement was made today by John Brandt, president of Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., who said that agriculture seems to be the one industry singled out whose income is presented in terms of gross rather than net return.

"When reporting the financial affairs of the steel mills, the banks, the automobile companies, the telephone companies, food distributors and hundreds of other business activities," he said, "reports are made in terms of net income, and comparisons with previous years are made on that basis.

"In fairness to the public, farmers included, it would seem that government officials and economists should make their analyses to present the farm picture on a basis of net income. If such a picture were presented, crop failures and high costs of operation would count in the final tabulation and would change the picture materially from the standpoint of how the public views the situtation.

The president of Land O' Lakes, which is a dairy and poultry marketing association owned by 100,000 Upper Midwest farmers through their local cooperative creameries and dairy plants, said that it is that farm prices have taken a spectacular spurt during the last hafe of 1947.

"One of the items that I here most about," he said, "is the present price of butter. Letters, telephone calls and direct conversations by hundreds are directed to me regarding rising butter prices, and - as in the case of so many other advancing prices - each tries to lay the blame on someone else.

"To the query as to why butter prices are high, my answer is invariably that the condition now exists where people have more money with which to buy butter than there is butter produced to sell."

As for the average price of dairy products for 1947, Brandt said, if net figures are used, the income to the dairy farmers would be the lowest in several years.

"Considering butter prices again, the average price for 1947 will be less than 50 per cent above the level that prevailed during the period of 1929 to 1929 Comparing the two periods and taking into consideration all wages earned and items purchased by consumers, can you find any item that has not risen more percentage-wise than butter

"Wages and incomes have also advanced over 1921 to 1929 level more than the average increase in the price of butter."

Brandt said that the prices of things which cannot be classified as necessities have gone up far more than food products.

In analyzing the farm situation let's not blame agriculture for all the high cost of living. You can take a milk bottle and fill it full of water and, under present methods of distribution, you could not sell it for less than 10 cents a bottle.

"Why are prices so high? It is simply because we have more money than goods. We have a great productive force in the creation of money. The field is well fertilized with borrowings and increased indebtedness, and let us hope that we will soon wake up to the fact that we cannot eat money.

"If, in our borrowing for the future, we increase the crop of money and at the same time wilt the crop of ambition in the human race to create for themselves rather than be dependent on handouts of money or increasing monetary flow for their efforts, the spiral of inflation will go merrily on."

Brandt said that the American farmer, through his long hours of hard work and high production, is trying to produce for the entire world, as well as for the American people, and he cannot be blamed for the fact that the consuming public wants more goods than he can produce.

"The American farmer," Branrt said, "can say to the world that he is making his contribution to its rehabilitation, and if others - not only in America but in the countries that are receiving American assistance - will do likewise, we will soon have more goods, lower prices, fuller stomachs and a more peaceful world"

Pinwheel Biscuits Will Brighten Table

Homemakers looking for something new to brighten the breakfast table will find biscuits in pinwheels just the thing, writes Marjorie Griffin, Rural Home editor of nationally circulated Capper's Farmer.

Flavorsome topping combines raisins, corn sirup and cloves, she points out in the magazine read by 1,250,000 farm families. Just divide dough into eight pieces and shape into strips. Rolling and cutting aren't necessary.

RAISIN PINWHEELS

2 C. flour	¾ to 1 C. milk
3 tsp. baking powder	½ C. seedless raisins
½ tsp. salt	2 tbsp. corn sirup
¼ C. shortening	½ tsp. cloves

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening. Add enough of the milk to make a soft dough. Divide dough into 7 or 8 pieces; shape each piece into a strip. Coil strips into pinwheels and place them in a greased pan. Mix together raisins, corn sirup and cloves. Sprinkle mixture on biscuits, pressing raisins into dough. Bake biscuits in hot oven (425° F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 7 or 8 large biscuits.

Mrs. Louis Wegge of Thief River Falls visited at the John Sorum and John Hagberg homes last Wednesday.

Helping Melvin Bottem celebrate his birthday on Wednesday were Mr and Mrs. John Doran and Mrs. O. B. Hall of Newfolden. Mrs. Bottem served a delicious lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Ness entertained for dinner on Sunday Mr. aud Mrs. Melvin Bottem and family and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Holmstrom and son.

Mrs May Lansing and Mrs. Joe Turner of Bookings, South Dakota, visited last week at the H. D. Inman home.

Kill Morning Glory

The proper mixture to kill morning glory is one pound of lead arsenate (dry powder) to 30 gallons of water. This same solution can be used against trumpet vine. Be careful not to contact other plants as it will kill them too.

Pilgrims Did Not Land On Rock, Nor on Dec. 21

America's oldest legend, still widely believed, is that the Pilgrims aboard the Mayflower made their first landing in this country on December 21, 1620, on a rock in what is now Plymouth, Mass., says Collier's. Actually, they first came ashore on Cape Cod the previous November 11.

The rock story is not substantiated by any historical records and did not start until 121 years later.

Farm Income Shows Big Gain; New European Crisis Looms; Rail Workers Given Pay Hike

Released by Western Newspaper Union

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

First U. S. troop replacements, sent to Italy because of Russia's delay in ratifying peace treaties, are pictured as they disembarked at Leghorn. Russia since has signed the treaties, but troops now must remain in Italy until ratification of Italian treaty is 90 days old.

FARM INCOME:

Great Gain

Latest round in a heavy barrage of statistics apparently destined to make the American farmer feel that he is an unbelievably fortunate man was an agriculture department report that the nation's farm owners are taking in more money than ever before.

It was estimated that total farm cash receipts during the first eight months of 1947 were 17.4 billion dollars, a 21 per cent gain over the same period of 1946, itself a record year.

The report said that the average farm operator realized a net income of $2,541 from agriculture and government payments in 1946, and this year farm income skyrocketed still higher as a result of continuing unprecedented demands for produce.

"An increase of 24 per cent in prices," was singled out by the report as the chief reason for the booming income.

But the picture has another side—that of farm expenses. Operating costs continue to increase and, although no estimate was made for 1947, the farmer's expenses went up 9 per cent in 1946. Nevertheless, if the agriculture department's estimates are accurate, the increase in farm income greatly outweighs the simultaneous rise in expenses.

CRISIS AGAIN:

Transfusion?

Life these days, Secretary of State George Marshall has discovered, is bounded on all sides by one crisis after another.

No sooner had he returned to the U. S. from Brazil with the mutual American defense treaty tucked safely under his belt than he was beset with calls for succor from debilitated Europe, which, apparently, was sliding swiftly down the ways toward utter ruin.

Insiders said the European situation really was desperate. Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett had sounded the first alarm shortly before Marshall's return when he said that Europe's economic structure was cracking up faster than anyone had expected.

The fear blowing in on the winds from Europe intensified. Precariously balanced Britain remained at the heart of the trouble, but more grief was added by the news that bad weather had struck hard at crops in many European countries this year. Most nations had been forced to use their meager produce for domestic consumption rather than for export. There was no profit in that, they said.

Grave doubts were expressed that Europe could stave off complete economic failure until next spring, when the Marshall plan is scheduled to go into effect.

In the U. S., it began to appear more likely that a special session of congress would be called this fall to study the situation and perhaps set up the apparatus for another economic transfusion to give strength to the weakening old world.

RAILROADS:

Steamed Up

American railroads and their employees, generating a full head of steam, were getting ready to pull out for a long haul along the inflation route—or at least it looked that way to some economic experts.

First of all, a million railroad workers, members of 17 non-operating brotherhoods employed by 130 class 1 roads, were awarded 15½-cent hourly wage increases by an arbitration board. The unions had sought an increase of 20 cents an hour.

Pointing out that the wage boost will cost railroads an additional $438,340,000 annually, the Association of Western Railways found itself a loophole by asserting that greater revenue now would be needed to offset the pay increase.

It was immediately apparent where the "greater revenue" would come from. Major railroads, which already had presented the interstate commerce commission with a request for an average 17 per cent freight rate increase, were thinking strongly of asking for an even larger boost on freight rates.

One of the more ominous notes sounded by the railroads was the report that they were considering an increase of 5 to 10 per cent a ton on the cost of hauling coal.

BONDED

Vets Cash In

Draft time had rolled around again for millions of ex-G.I.s, but this time it was more in the nature of a bank draft as veterans all over the nation fell happily into line to cash their terminal leave pay bonds.

Virtually every city reported that hordes of veterans had descended on banks in an unprecedented rush to convert their hard-won bonds into coin of the realm. Millions of former Joes stuffed millions of dollars into their pockets.

Treasury department requests that veterans hold their bonds until they mature at 2½ per cent interest in five years were of little avail. The department feared the inflationary impact if all nine million vets cashed their 1.8 billion dollars worth of bonds at once.

What would they do with the newly acquired money? A few put it back into savings accounts; others bought clothes, furniture and similar necessities; much of it was squandered immediately. But one surprising fact developed: A great many ex-G.I.s—family men now—were using the store of cash to get out from under worrisome debts. For them it was a case of "dire need."

ISOTOPES:

U. S. Offer

Radioactive isotopes—products of American atomic research—have been offered in limited amounts to all foreign nations for use in mankind's world-wide and unending fight against disease.

The gesture, marking the first sharing of the fruits of U. S. atomic ovens, loomed more significantly on the uncertain frontier of global peace than any loan or economic aid so far conceived.

Described as the most important medical research tool since the microscope, the isotopes—radioactive forms of basic elements—are utilized in the same manner as machine gun tracer bullets. Introduced into the body or blood stream, they can be used to trace life processes and plot the course of various diseases.

They are of paramount importance in current cancer research and one day may provide the clue leading to control and cure of that disease

Erosion Peril

If the present rate of soil erosion continues, one-fourth of the nation's crop lands might be damaged beyond repair by 1960, soil conservation officials have predicted, adding the further warning that another 25 per cent of the land faces permanent injury between 1960 and 1975. Continued retirement of broad areas from cultivation each year was recommended as a possible solution to the problem.

Fielding Record

Buddy Kerr, shortstop of the New York Giants, holds the record for fielding in professional baseball. Between July 26, 1946, and May 25, 1947, he played in 68 games and fielded 384 balls without an error.

Punctilious Shaw

A producer of a radio show in America, wishing to broadcast a scene from George Bernard Shaw's "Heartbreak House," phoned Shaw's home in Ireland.

"I'm sorry, sir," Shaw's maid replied, "but Mr. Shaw never answers the telephone before 6 p. m."

At 6:15, the producer again put in a transatlantic phone call to Shaw's house. This time the maid replied: "I'm sorry, sir, but Mr. Shaw never answers the telephone after 6 p. m."

"But I phoned earlier, and you said Mr. Shaw doesn't answer the phone before 6 p. m. Now you say he doesn't answer the phone after 6 p. m."

"That's right, sir," replied the maid. "Mr. Shaw said to tell you that he answers the phone only at 6 p. m."

Australia to Standardize Rails Over 18,000 Miles

Australia's independent state railroads now plan to adopt the standard gauge, which means relaying the 18,000 of the 24,000 miles of tracks that are using other gauges. This chaotic situation, which requires passengers and freight to be transferred from one system to another as many as four times between certain cities, has existed for 94 years, incurred an economic loss of $2,400,000,000 and will cost to correct nearly $800,000,000.

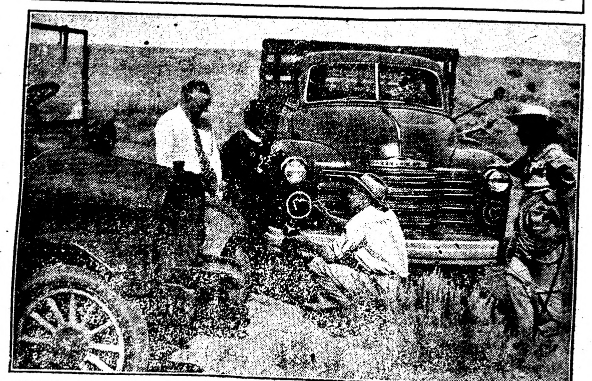
Frozen Turkey.

If you're buying a frozen turkey, look for one that is frozen hard with no discoloration. To defrost the bird, unwrap it and leave it in the refrigerator for about 24 hours or place it under a stream of cold water for four to six hours. Don't refreeze your turkey after it has been defrosted. A defrosted bird can be kept safely for one day if you wrap it loosely in waxed paper and keep it in the refrigerator.

Contest Winner "Brands" His Prize



A pioneer of the auto industry, hunted throughout the nation in a contest to discover the oldest Chevrolet truck in America, turned up, appropriately, in the possession of a Montana homesteader. The venerable vehicle, vintage of 1918, was still serving Rancher Leslie A. Storey, of Jordan, Mont., whose ranch lies 18 miles from a typical "last frontier" town. The award for owning the oldest licensed and operating truck was a new Chevrolet "advance-design" model, which Storey "brands" here with his distinctive Circle-Heart brand. It was presented to him by J. W. Burke, manager of Chevrolet's truck department, as Mrs. Storey and Montana cowgirl Merle Spears (right) look on. Nearly 7,000 old-time Chevrolet trucks were entered in the contest won by this vehicle, which was one of 384 built by the division in 1918, its first year of truck production.

From the Bottom Up

A look at the backgrounds of today's leading American business executives reveals that an impressive number have come "from the bottom up"—a fact which should prove heartening to young men who may have been led to believe that advancement comes only through "pull" or political preferment.

Typical of the large corporations which point with pride to the records of their top executives is Cities Service Company. A survey of its key personnel just completed by Cities Service Company shows some interesting data to support the claim that the American way of competitive advancement is still the best.

In presenting the record of the first jobs and first rates of pay of its top men, the company said:

"Two ideas are at grips throughout the world today. One is that managers of business enterprises can be discovered and appointed by the State. From the top down. The other is that managers of business enterprises can more surely be discovered by the public as they compete for the job. From the bottom up.

"The first way is that of Socialism, Fascism, Communism; the second, the sound American way, whose economy supports the highest living standards of all time.

"All the 512 top level managers of Cities Service came up from the bottom. This company is no exception to the rule. A very wise President of the United States once said:

" 'The Government cannot supply the wisdom necessary to direct the business activity of the nation. The experience to guide business cannot be elected or appointed. It has to grow up naturally from the people. The process is long and fraught with human sacrifice, but it is the only one that can work. Edison and Ford are not government creations.'

"The spirit of rivalry is in the American blood. It is first evidenced on the baseball lot, and prevails throughout man's active life. It has made this nation the envy of the entire world. It will continue to be the support of the world so long as it is permitted free play."

The following tabulation shows how some of the key executives of the Cities Service Company started.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

We All Need Fun!

Nobody in Our Town is exactly lazy (even though Pete Swanson's missus claims he sleeps till seven A.M.). But the hardest working man of all is Doc Hollister—on call, morning, noon and night.

Funny thing, Doc's favorite prescription to his patients is: You ought to have fun. The pace of modern living, even on the farm, demands some relaxation.

And as Doc says—fun is a personal thing. For the missus it may mean a movie or a good book; for Dad, a mellow and refreshing glass of beer; and for the kids, parcheesi or the radio. Doesn't mean everybody has to like the same thing—so long as they relax, have fun, together, in the home.

Doc doesn't have much time himself. After a hard day, he'll relax before the fire with a glass of beer—and wait for the phone to ring again. And from where I sit, Doc deserves each well-earned minute of that relaxation.

Trapping Permit Regulations

Three permits will be issued for trapping of muskrats and one permit will be issued for trapping of predators.

Preference will be given in the following order: 1: Veterans who were previous landowners within the refuge area. 2. Previous landowners within the refuge area. 3. Veterans who are local residents. 4. Residents of Marshall County. 5. Residents of other counties in vicinity of Mud Lake Refuge.

Be Patient About Your Baby's Growth

~~IF YOU'RE concerned about how~~ your baby is growing, just give him the best possible care and be patient, advises Beulah France in an article in Capper's Farmer, one of the leading farm magazines. He will develop only as rapidly as nature intends.

"How fast your baby grows depends on 2 things," she writes in the magazine read by 1,300,000 farm families. "One is heredity—traits he inherited from both sides of the family. The other is environment—baby's surroundings—which include the food he eats and the treatment he receives."

In the early months, once a week is often enough to weigh your baby, she says. Later, once a month will be sufficient. Baby usually doubles his birth weight in 6 months. At one year he should weigh about 3 times his birth weight.

Your baby may begin to sit alone for a moment or two at a time when he is 7 months old. But he must not be propped and left that way. He will sit without support and walk alone when his bones, nerves and muscles are ready for the effort. Between 12 and 18 months he will try to walk. By a year and a half he may be toddling. Between the ages of 2 and 3 he'll become an accomplished walker.

Some babies repeat a word or two as early as 10 months. But they generally don't know what they are saying. By a year, your child may call several things by name, including his father and mother. But do not expect a child to use phrases before he is 18 months old. Even babies of 2 years may not speak clearly.

"Don't use baby talk with your child," Miss France cautions. "Speak slowly, correctly, as you want him to speak when he grows up. It's unfair to teach a child a language he must later discard."

He Misunderstood

The Washington Biological Survey has changed the wording of the metal bands used to "ring" birds released in connection with its researches into American bird life. It now reads: "Notify Fish and Wild Life Services, Washington, D. C."

The old inscription was the abbreviated: "Wash. Biol. Surv." and the change was made after an Alberta farmer sent in a complaint to the U. S. government.

"Dear Sirs," he wrote, "I shot one of your pet crows the other day and followed instruction attached to it. I washed it and biled it and surved it. It was terrible. You should stop trying to fool the people with things like this."

Corn Estimate Reduced Again; Swift Aid for Europe Urged; Set New Housing Investigation

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

REPEAT:

Less Corn

The 1947 corn crop, estimates of which have been shrinking like a $10 suit ever since August, was reduced by another 33 million bushels in the department of agriculture's September report.

Total estimate cuts since August 1 were 256 million bushels, and the expected outturn this year now has been placed at 2,403,913,000 bushels.

There was more potential bad news, said the department: In case an early frost should blanket the corn belt, another reduction would be likely.

Crop reporting board said that "it now seems likely that at least 75 per cent of all corn in the 12 corn belt states will have matured by the average date of the first killing frost," but warned that if it were a week early, it would catch about 40 per cent of all corn at an immature stage. If frost came a week later, only a 15 per cent loss would be registered.

Latest estimates also foretold a sharp reduction in the record wheat crop. Output was set at 1,408,602,000 bushels, as compared with the August 1 prediction of 1,435,551,000 bushels.

MEAT SUPPLY

Meat production can be maintained at a high level in the next year, despite the curtailed corn crop, animal feeding authorities declare. Extensive and efficient use of vegetable oil meal and other products will enable farmers to produce pork freely at less cost than if corn were used exclusively in feeding.

URGENT:

Stopgap Aid

George Marshall, U. S. secretary of state, was trying his best to pile up pressure for a special session of congress this autumn to finance immediate interim aid to keep Europe on its feet until Marshall's 20-billion-dollar, long-range rehabilitation plan begins functioning.

Stymied by Republican leaders who were either downright opposed or indifferent to an emergency session before January, Marshall was taking his case to the people, attempting to rally public opinion behind him.

Intolerable cold and hunger are the immediate threats facing Europe, he said. The crisis calls for "urgent consideration."

What would it cost this time? Marshall said that there was as yet no estimate of stop-gap needs, but he didn't deny reports that William L. Clayton, undersecretary of state, had cabled from Europe a request for a special session of congress to vote 2.5 billion dollars for aid now.

The special session was far from assured. If it came to a showdown, GOP leaders probably would oppose it openly, and they could, if they wished, stifle any economic aid legislation.

ON AGAIN:

Housing Probe

Another in a long and distinguished line of housing shortage investigations was being organized in Washington by a joint house-senate committee.

First step, said the group, would be an attempt to discover basic causes of "skyrocketing" costs and shortages of material and labor. The congressmen also would look into reports that middlemen are receiving unnecessary pay-offs for their distribution of materials.

Conferring with housing officials, the committee learned that the U. S. needs 1.5 million new housing units annually; that materials in the coming year will be too scarce to allow construction of even a million units, and that more than two-thirds of available construction laborers are engaged in work other than the building of homes.

It was a gloomy beginning, even for a congressional investigation. Further complications were likely to arise from the fact that government officials are reluctant to take any drastic remedial steps, preferring to explore first the more orthodox (and futile) avenues to increased building.

Millions of ill-housed and unhoused Americans, hearing of the planned investigation, wondered idly whether this would be another case of "same song, umpteenth verse."

Farm Machinery Costs

Farmers spent approximately 800 million dollars last year for new farm machinery other than tractors, the department of agriculture has estimated. That was about twice as much as their annual average expenditure for the same machines between 1935 and 1939, and 12 times as much as they spent for that type of equipment in the depression year of 1932. The 800 million was 5 per cent of 1946 income.

He Admits It

Convinced that race for Republican presidential nomination is a "wide open" contest, Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, announced that he will make his formal entrance in the campaign at a Milwaukee rally November 24. Stassen is probably the only politician in the country who openly admits he wants to be president in 1948.

GOP VICTORY:

Straw in Wind?

Jubilant Republicans were making much of Franklin H. Lichtenwalter's resounding victory over labor-supported Phil H. Storch, Democratic candidate, in a special election to fill Pennsylvania's eighth district seat in congress.

The issue, naturally, was the Taft-Hartley labor law, and the outcome was a two-to-one acceptance by the voters of the law and what it signifies. If Pennsylvania is as much a political weathervane as it is claimed to be, the Lichtenwalter victory forecasts a cold, bleak wind from the north for Democrats in 1948.

Republican hoop-la called the vote "a smashing rebuke to the radical labor bosses who chose to make the Taft-Hartley labor management act the paramount issue of the election."

The Democratic line, however, caught another meaning: "We carried seven of the eight wards (in Allentown, Pa.) where we concentrated our forces. We've just begun to fight. We don't consider the vote as a repudiation on the Taft-Hartley labor law issue."

ATOM TRUST:

Soviet Line

Possibly ordered by the Kremlin to get his diplomatic dander up and turn on the theatrics, Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet U. N. delegate, made one of the harshest speeches of his career before the United Nations atomic energy commission.

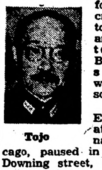
Gist of his oratory was that the U. S. is to blame for failure thus far to attain international control of atomic energy. He charged the United States with attempting to establish a world atomic trust. To U. N. delegates who listened, it was a familiar line.

Cause of the flow of Soviet vitriol was the atomic energy commission's report which calls for international operation and control of dangerous atomic activities. Russia has consistently opposed any plan for inspection of atomic armament operations.

HEADLINERS

IN NEW YORK . . . Margaret Truman, coloratura soprano, was unanimously approved by the board of governors for membership in the American Guild of Musical Artists (AFL) as a junior vocalist in good standing.

IN TOKYO . . . Hidekei Tojo, former Japanese premier, now on trial for his life as a war criminal, peered into the future, chose an epitaph for his tombstone: "By Buddha's grace all sins committed while living are absolved."



Tojo

IN LONDON . . Elliodor M. Libonati, visiting Legionnaire from Chicago, paused in front of No. 10 Downing street, the prime minister's residence, wickedly waved a handful of dollar bills in the air, attracted no takers.

IN TALLAHASSEE . . . Sen. Claude Pepper (Dem., Fla.) opened his mouth to say that if the Democratic party should feel that he could render "greater service in some other way, I would be greatly influenced by that feeling," turned around to find that his friends were booming him for vice-presidential nomination.

IN MILWAUKEE . . . Mrs. Lucy Nostrand stepped from a bus at a busy intersection, was knocked to the pavement by a hit-and-run cow, a refugee from a meat company shipment.

Gagged Nagging Women

Women in the Seventeenth century were often tried for nagging. If they were convicted, they were led through the streets wearing iron muzzles over their heads with mouthpieces that formed a gag.

With the Roar of a Lion Steam Organ Was Born

An Englishman by the name of Dennis invented a musical instrument which, when it was first tested in 1859, frightened people to such an extent that they thought the Day of Judgment had arrived and fell on their knees in the streets to pray. It was the steam organ "calliope," meant to give music "the real strength and force it deserved."

A trial performance was arranged at the Crystal Palace in London. There, a clumsy iron construction stood on the platform; on its left side it had huge metal cylinders in which hot air and steam were produced by burning charcoal. This hot air and steam were forced through the pipes of the organ, and the tones were tenfold the strength of tones from an ordinary instrument. Critics said the music was comparable only with the roar of a lion, and considered it unnecessary to impress music upon listeners with such force.

PROSPECTOR:

Lend-Lease

Latest idea to come from British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, who seems to be full of surprises, was that the U. S. revive its wartime lend-lease program to give Europe the economic shot-in-the-arm it so badly needs.

Coming as it did on the heels of his enigmatic proposal that the U. S. redistribute its 22-billion-dollar gold hoard in Fort Knox, the lend-lease angle was a real show-stopper.

And Bevin began to appear to the American mind like the old prospector, lost in the desert, dying of thirst, who drags himself toward a mirage, crying hoarsely for water.

His reference to the revival of lend-lease was as brief and cryptic as was his proposal concerning redistribution of the gold. No one, on either side of the Atlantic, was able to say whether or not he was serious.

England would carry on, though, he added; and, in a watered-down imitation of Churchill's fighting prose, thundered: "We may be short of what is called the balance of exchange, but we have character, we have a tradition; we will win through. We won't let you down."

IKE BOOM:

Gathers Force

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, currently the army's chief of staff, is due to become president of Columbia university in January.

Whether or not he will become President of the United States on the following January is developing into a matter of burning urgency, at least in the minds of some optimistic Republican politicians.

Ike, of course, disclaims any presidential aspirations, but he can't escape the fact that the Eisenhower for President boom is gathering considerable force, particularly in the Midwest. The spontaneous wave of Eisenhower sentiment sweeping the nation is genuinely phenomenal, politicians say.

Eisenhower

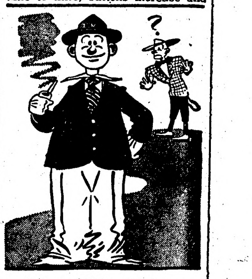
Loudest booming is in and around Kansas City, Mo., where Roy A. Roberts, publisher of the Kansas City Star, stated unequivocally that Eisenhower is available. Alfred Landon, 1936 GOP nominee, has lined up behind the general too.

MEN'S FASHIONS

No High-Waters

Men, who, everyone admits, are more functional than decorative, have not permitted any major changes in styling of their clothes since the day when they skinned out of their cast-iron coveralls and slid into velvet knee-breeches and weskits.

Lapels expand and contract from time to time, buttons increase and decrease, belts in the back come and go, but otherwise the male habit remains in status quo.



Drape of Things to Come

In view of all that, and on the unimpeachable authority of Gerald Brosner (he's chairman of the style committee for the national association of retail clothiers and furnishers) the vicious rumor that men's pants will be shortened this year so as to display an endearing expanse of sock between shoetop and cuff is nothing but a vicious rumor.

As a rumor, he says, it is someone's horrible attempt to compensate for the longer dresses the girls will be wearing.

These—not short pants—are the new developments in store for the well-dressed caballero: Three-button coat, with less shoulder padding, slit in the back so that it has coattails; broader shirt collars; larger knots in ties.

That's all. No short pants.

INCOME:

Personal

Americans, in a constant state of wonderment as to where their money is going, were told by the department of commerce that personal income in the U. S. reached the unprecedented annual rate of 197 billion dollars in July. That was almost two billion dollars higher than the June rate, which was a new record in itself. At the same time, national employment rate also continued at a peak level.

Jenny Lind's Concert Tour Created Greatest Furor

America's greatest furor was that created by Jenny Lind, the Swedish singer, during her concert tour (1850-1852) says Collier's.

Its extent is indicated by a collection of Lindiana owned by the New York Historical society which contains, among its thousands of items, scores of the countless articles on which her name and portrait were used as a trademark or decoration, such as bonnets, beds, whiskies, wallpapers and even men's fancy vest buttons.

SEVENTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS from 50 acres of single cross hybrid seed corn! That was one of the accomplishments last year of Champion Farmer John J. Gannon and his father, William P. Gannon, on their 785-acre farm near Valeria, Iowa. Hog sales totalled over 400 head. In a recent month, 16 purebred Guernsey cows, three of them dry, returned $504.78 over feed costs. Seventy head of purebred Aberdeen-Angus cows, and their calves, provide a profitable outlet for roughage. So does a flock of sheep. The Gannons bale 7000 bales of hay annually. Careful pasture management, manure and commercial fertilizers, and a soil conservation program keep the farm highly productive. For economy and efficiency in operating their farm equipment, Champion Farmer Gannon has found it pays to depend on Firestone tires. When he and his father buy new tractors, they specify Firestone Champion Ground Grips. In the photograph, Sheila Ann Gannon with her grandfather, William P. Gannon, and her father, Champion Farmer John J. Gannon.
For more information about Champion Farmer John J. Gannon, write to The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, O.
Champion Farmers Specify Firestone CHAMPION GROUND GRIPS
TO GET extra pulling power . . . longer tire life . . . and smoother riding, Champion Farmer John J. Gannon and his father specified Firestone Champion Ground Grips for their new tractor.
Tests show that Firestone Champion Ground Grips clean up to 100% more effectively, pull up to 62% more, last up to 91% longer, and roll smoother over highways than any other tractor tires . . . important facts to cost-conscious farmers.
Only Firestone Champion Ground Grips are made with connected curved traction bars. These bars clean with a plowlike action . . . giving the Champions more pulling power. Extra tread rubber in the bar connections gives them a "Center Bite" in the heart of the traction zone. This, too, means more pulling power. The extra rubber in the connected tread increases tire strength . . . lengthens tire life . . . money-saving points you can't overlook when you buy new tractor tires. So when you buy . . . buy the best . . . buy Firestone Champion Ground Grips.

Cooking Game

As wild meat is naturally drier and tougher than domestic meat, the general rule is to cook game for a longer time at a lower temperature than other meats. While domestic meat is not usually cooked in a covered pan, this method is often better for wild meat. The covered roaster is best for long, slow, moist cooking.

Creole Has Varied Meaning

The word, Creole, does not necessarily imply a person of mixed blood nor does it show distinction of color. The meaning has local variations, applying to descendants of non-aboriginal races born and settled in the West Indies, various parts of the United States, and in certain places settled by the Spanish, Portuguese and English.

How to Defrost and Clean Your Home Freezer

HOME freezers can be easily defrosted and cleaned if a few simple rules are followed, points out the Country Home editor of Capper's Farmer, one of the best known farm magazines.

Here are some of her suggestions:

For a complete cleaning, remove foods and place them in a cardboard container, or wrap them in newspapers. Scrape the frost from strips and liner walls with a spatula or piece of hard wood. Do not use an ice pick or any other pointed sharp instrument.

Clean the exterior regularly with a mild soap and water or a liquid wax which adds luster and protects the surface. Once a year—perhaps in the late spring—clean the surface of the condenser with a stiff brush or vacuum cleaner attachment.

To shut down a home freezer, turn it off. Remove the contents. Defrost and clean the interior, mopping water from the bottom. Leave the lid open so air circulates inside.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

"It's Living That Counts"

I stole the title of this column from a magazine article that said a whole lot better than I can what farm and country life can mean.

We talk about farm profits, production, research, and mechanical improvements ... but isn't it true, what we really value is the life country living offers us? ... the chance to be close to our families and neighbors ... children sharing in the chores ... working with our own hands at a worthwhile job.

And country pleasures are simple: good talk at day's end, and a glass of mellow beer with friends ... the companionship of man and wife, unruffled by distractions of the city ... the mutual tolerance of one another's tastes—in choosing a friend, or a glass of beer, or a candidate for Governor.

Mind, I'm all for material improvements. But from where I sit, the real goodness of our country life is that spirit of tolerance, moderation, and good fellowship.

CHOICE is the keynote of today's career

Would you go to Europe, Japan or Korea? Or would you stay near home? Any man who has had prior service in the Armed Forces may elect to do any of these things if he enlists in the Army now for 3 years or more. He can choose to be assigned directly to duty in Europe or with one of five famous Infantry divisions in the Far East. Or he may choose to be stationed near home for the first full year of his enlistment (where there are vacancies). Men with or without prior service may choose one of the famous combat divisions in Japan or Korea.

Would you select a career in aviation? This you can do, and be guaranteed the training you choose before you enlist! Only requirements beyond regular physical and mental examinations are that you be a high school graduate, or that you are in the Air Force and can qualify. It's today's great opportunity to write your own ticket in the Air Force.

Would you want to learn to fly? If you are single, 20 to 26½, and have had two or more years of college education or the equivalent, you can become an Aviation Cadet with the U. S. Air Force. Nowhere else can you get better training, for nowhere else is aviation advancing as fast or as far as in our own Air Force.

Would you go to a leadership school? If you have qualities of leadership, would you want to develop them to their fullest? U. S. Army Leadership Schools are now selecting likely candidates from servicemen to take these valuable courses.

The Army and Air Force are doing everything possible today to help each individual develop along the lines that he picks for himself. Army and Air Force training is thorough and take-home pay is better than most civilian jobs. Opportunities for advancement are wide open to every man in uniform. Make your choice today at your U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Station.

We are in a country in which there is much of a lot of things, including things we could get along without and still not hurt our well being. Other parts of the world are short of grain. Yet we are using a lot of it to make alcoholic beverages. We could dispense with the liquor for a time so that all of this grain could go to feed someone that is hungry. We can help a lot of people by diverting the grain from whiskey vats to flour sacks.

Otter Tail Power Co. Asks Cooperation in Use of Electricity

Mr. C. G. Wright, Vice President of Otter Tail Power Company, has issued a request this week to all its customers to refrain as much as possible from the use of electricity during its peak-load periods for the next five months. During the fall and winter months the peak or heaviest loads are experienced between the hours of 11:00 A. M. and noon, and between 5:00 P. M. and 6:00 P. M. Mr. Wright states this action on the part of the power Company is necessary because the load on its own system has grown faster than it has bean able to provide additional generating capacity to handle it. The company states that in 1946 its load increased 15% over the 1945 maximum, and in 1547 the average increase over the same months in 1946 has been approximately 20 percent.

The Company placed orders for additional generating equipment as soon as the War Production Board granted it authority to proceed. This was in May, 1945 and it was anticipated that much of this additional capacity would be available for service this fall. However, completion schedules have not been fulfilled because of manufacturing delays and the major part of the new equipment will not be available until the spring of 1948. Mr. Wright states, however, that a new 5000 KW generatiag unit is scheduled to "go on the line" early in October.

The Company announces also that it is necessary to place restrictions on the addition of some types of new load, and they have requested electrical appliance dealers to refrain from selling electric ranges (except as replacements), and have asked that water heaters be sold only for "off peak" use.

Customers planning to add new commercial loads are requested to discuss their plans with the Company's nearest district office before going ahead so that if they cannot be served because of their effect on the peak loads, plans may be modified accordingly.

Mr. Wright emphasized that the situation is temporary and that there will be continuing improvement in service as the installation of new units are completed and this additional capacity is added to the lines.

The Company expects to place in service during 1948 new additional generating units totaling 25,000 KW. The public is asked to give its whole-hearted cooperation to the conservation of electricity over the peak-load periods in order that service will not be impaired during those hours.

O. T. Ness, Walter Peterson Hartley Peterson and George Fricker were guests at a banquet in Warren last Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Gunheim, attended the funeral services for Mrs, Arness, Mrs. Gunheims sister, at Oslo last Thursday.

—WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS—

Marshall Asks U. N. Reshuffle; U.S. Reduces Grain Exports; Tension High Throughout Italy

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

SHOWDOWN:

Russia's Choice

Secretary of State George Marshall sounded like a man who was getting a lot of things off his chest. What he said in an address before the U. N. general assembly of 55 nations amounted to a call for a showdown with Russia.

The Soviets, he intimated, have held to their stubborn, veto-bound course in the United Nations long enough.

To make the delinquents come to time, Marshall proposed a four point plan of action to the general assembly:

1 He suggested creation of a new assembly committee of 55 countries which would operate without veto and would remain constantly in session to consider world security questions and function as a board of appeals. Potentially, the committee would be a rival to the security council.

2 He announced that the U. S. was ready to relinquish, in all but the gravest cases, its veto privilege and implicitly challenged Russia to do likewise.

3 He blamed Russia for the U. S.-Soviet deadlock in Korea and said that America would submit the case to the general assembly for action.

4 He blamed Russia for using vetoes to protect Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria from being pronounced guilty of meddling in Greece. He said the U. S. would ask the assembly to vote guilt for the three satellites and to demand that they refrain from interfering in Greece.

Undoubtedly, it was strong medicine—too strong, according to some jittery U. N. delegates. It apparently left Russia with a choice of two possible courses: Either cooperate in the U. N. or get out of the organization.

Many feared that hard-headed Muscovites in the Kremlin would choose the latter.

PRICE BATTLE:

Exports Cut

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson had a "Captain at the bridge" air about him as he announced that the government had made a drastic cut-back of grain and flour allocations for export in November.

The move generally was accounted as another noble stand against the forces which are causing domestic food prices to spiral dizzily. This one, however, had the blessings of the grain trade as "a step in the right direction."

Reducing the export allocations for November was in line with the government's surprise revision of the nation's 1947 export goal from some 450 million bushels of grain down to 350 million.

Export officials, still striving to meet the original, higher goal, were caught flat-footed by the sudden cut-back, but it had become clear that the U. S. administration now was trying to effect a program whereby western Europe's minimum food needs could be satisfied without aggravating the inflation trend at home.

(In a significant sidelight, Anderson scoffed at the prospect of returning to rationing by pointing out that such a program could not be put into effect before the need for it would be over.)

Next move, it was hinted, would be an attempt by Secretary Anderson to put through a sharp reduction of total food exports—not just grain—as the only practical way of pulling down prices.

The U. S. state department, however, committed to its "save Europe" program, no doubt would object vehemently to any such action.

HEADLINERS

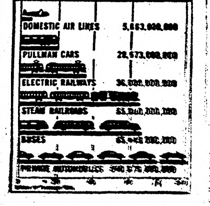
IN LOS ANGELES . . . Prince Hamid Riza Pahlavi, 16, of Iran, told police that he had flown the coop from his Washington, D. C., school because it didn't have any girl students and because he was "homeseeck."

IN ARLINGTON, VA. . . . Inmates of the Arlington county jail, righteously indignant when two fellow prisoners escaped and left them behind, pitched in and lent a hand while a locksmith put a new padlock on their cell-block.

IN NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. . . . Myrtle, a turtle, believed to be a Civil war veteran, dined lavishly on grasshopper minestrone, potatoes delmonico and chocolate, burped once, died quietly, of indigestion or old age.

IN RIDGELEY, W. VA. . . . Charles Rockwell felt tired, sat down in the mouth of the Western Maryland railroad's Knobmount tunnel, succeeded in delaying two trains before police raised him ungently from the tracks and jailed him.

Traveling Public



Americans traveled eight times as far in automobiles as in any other form of transportation during 1946, an Investors Syndicate survey has shown. Total number of passenger miles traveled in automobile was three times the total of all other forms of public transportation.

ITALY:

Trouble Grows

Italy was threatening to erupt. Communists, using Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito as their front, were trying to take over, or at least seriously harass, the recently established free state of Trieste. They also were hard at work on their campaign to seize complete power in the Italian government.

Along the Trieste-Yugoslav frontier, Yugoslav troops were threatening all of the 34 American outposts. Armed clashes were not considered impossible. Aggressive troops of Marshal Tito were forcing incident after incident along the line. Trieste itself was ugly with tension as Communists ordered 10,000 striking shipyard workers to stay out in defiance of American-British military government orders.

In Rome, Communists turned on the heat by issuing an outright demand that Premier Alcide de Gasperi resign to make way for a cabinet with Communist and left wing Socialist members.

The position of de Gasperi, who put the Communists and Socialists out of his cabinet almost four months ago, was precarious, as the Reds continued their program of strikes, instigation of social turmoil and threats of force.

U. S. officials harbored growing fears over the situation, for if the Communists were to take over Italy, heavy repercussions would be felt in France and the Marshall plan would be seriously crippled, if not wholly destroyed.

SPEED-UP:

Forrestal In

Forrestal

James V. Forrestal wasn't due to be sworn in as U. S. secretary of defense for another week, but President Truman manifestly alarmed over the trend of world events, ordered the former secretary of the navy to jump the gun in taking over his new job.

Mr. Truman observed that in view of conditions abroad, the nation should have its secretary of defense in office and functioning. The conditions, which he did not specify, probably were the current unrest in Trieste and the U. S.-Russian stalemate in the United Nations, topped off by Secretary of State Marshall's challenging speech before the general assembly.

Now presiding over the unified army, navy and air forces, Forrestal is the armed forces' only representative on the President's cabinet.

FIRE LOSSES:

New High

Fire losses in the U. S. during the month of August were estimated at $51,359,000, an increase of 28.3 per cent over losses of $40,019,000 in August, 1946, the national board of fire underwriters has reported.

August losses brought the total fire destruction for the first eight months of 1947 to $469,992,000. That figure marks a 24.2 per cent increase over the first eight months of 1946 when total losses amounted to $378,323,000.

ROCKETS SOON:

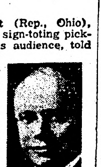
Naval Weapons

Editors of "Jane's Fighting Ships," authoritative directory of naval power, predict in their latest edition that rockets will supplant 16-inch guns as the chief weapons on newest battleships "in a year or two."

The 1946-47 edition of Jane's, recently published, claimed that both Great Britain and the United States were revamping their navies for a possible era of atomic warfare.

WHOSE FAULT?

Taft Talks



Taft

Sen. Robert Taft (Rep., Ohio), who had to crash a sign-toting picket line to get to his audience, told a Republican rally in Los Angeles that if President Truman had not jumped the gun in scrapping price controls the current inflation spiral might have been delayed a while longer.

Exactly how Taft arrived at that rather hazy conclusion was not immediately clear. The senator himself last year was denounced by Mr. Truman for his part in writing a price control extension bill which the President branded as being worse than no controls. Mr. Truman's subsequent veto of the bill allowed price controls to expire automatically.

Nailing down the first plank in what apparently is designed to be his campaign platform for the 1948 presidential nomination, Taft assailed the administration's record on taxes and spending.

"The country must elect a Republican president next year if it is genuinely interested in reducing taxes and spending, Taft observed. Existing tax rates are so high as to contribute to inflation, he charged.

SLIGHT FUMBLE:

War Unwanted

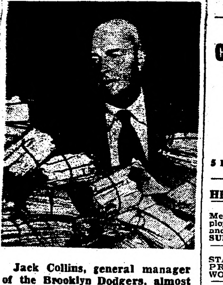
"If history teaches us to have confidence in anything, it is in the almost infinite capacity of statesmen to fumble."

Author of that realistic statement was Justice Robert H. Jackson of the Supreme court, who was chief U. S. prosecutor at the Nazi war crimes trial at Nuernberg.

He made the remark while outlining his ideas on the world situation, which is "so tense with competition, a slight fumble on either side might provide the 'incident' that would precipitate an unwanted war."

And it would be an unwanted war because "despite outward appearances, circumstantial evidence seems convincing that the Soviet leaders want, at all hazards, to avoid actual war with the United States, at least in the near future."

World Series Deluge



Jack Collins, general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, almost buried behind great stack of mail containing applications for World Series tickets, said if Ebbets field had a million seats and rubber walls he might be able to accommodate everyone.

WIND:

Heavy-Handed

Southern Florida had waited for its hurricane for almost a week. Nervous residents followed with painful attention the tumbling path of the giant storm as weather forecasters traced it from the Atlantic.

Thousands of refugees were fleeing from Florida's east coast when the hurricane struck with heavy-handed fury. Winds of up to 120 miles an hour churned across the tip of the peninsula, from Palm Beach on south. Torrential rains flooded roads, endangered bridges and isolated some areas completely.

Worst damage was concentrated around Palm Beach, Fort Lauderdale and the Miami area. Property damage ran into millions of dollars, and the havoc wrought among citrus and vegetable crops added more millions to the toll.

As the storm passed out into the Gulf of Mexico, looters and scavengers got busy in Miami. One man was killed by police while robbing a liquor store; others prowled around attempting to make off with merchandise in stores whose windows had been broken.

War Brides Counted

Bureau of immigration has reported that a total of 72,707 war brides have entered the United States in the postwar period up to last July 1.

Although no breakdown of figures by nations was available, most of the brides came from Great Britain, France, Italy, Australia and New Zealand, the bureau said. Wives of American citizens, they were not subject to immigration quotas.

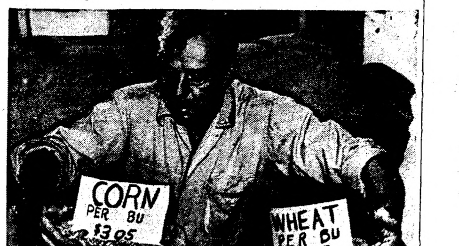
PISCATORIAL DYNAMITE . . . Brand-new industry in eastern Canada, started just a year ago, the trapping of 800-pound tuna is called the most thrilling commercial fishing industry in America. At Hubbards, Nova Scotia, a unique colony of 100 men has been established to snare the giant fish for canneries. Picture shows a boatload of "elephants," as the Nova Scotia fisherman calls the big tuna.

AMERICAN MUNITIONS EN ROUTE TO GREECE . . . Cases of shells, grenades and land mines are shown as they were loaded from a lighter aboard an army transport in New York harbor. They were part of the military supplies being sent to Greece to help the Greek army defend the little nation in the event of attack.

1947 STYLES FOR D.P. KIDDIES . . . Children are pretty generally accepted as being universally interesting, particularly so if they're as cute as this pair, who are a couple of displaced persons living in a camp at Hanau, Germany. Here, they are modeling the latest thing in D.P. children's petticoats and pants, made from American Red Cross hospital bedside bags and ditty bags. D.P. camp workers are converting them into clothing—enough for an outfit for every child in the 411 camps.



GRAIN PRICES BOOST LIVING COSTS . . . Department of agriculture economists attributed soaring food prices, now at all-time high level, to high income, coupled with tremendous demand and prospect of small corn crop. Samuel Williams, a miller at the department's Beltsville, Md., experimental farm, is shown with bags of corn and wheat, retailing for $3.05 and $2.95, respectively, per bushel. These peak prices will cause poultry prices to continue rising.

Sisters and Brothers Bear The Closest Relationship

A person is more closely related to his sister than to his mother. From the standpoint of eugenics and biology brothers and sisters bear a closer relationship to one another than they do to either of their parents. Parent and child have one-half common blood; a brother and sister have all common blood.

TO ALL OUR CUSTOMERS:

Since the end of the War, new electric appliances, new homes, new [illegible] have been connected to our lines faster than our ability to provide additional generating capacity. We find our peak loads have increased over [illegible] during the post-war period, but our new construction, though begun in [illegible], will not catch up to our present peak load requirements until in the early spring of next year.

For that reason it becomes necessary, as a temporary safeguard, to ask you to refrain from use of electricity as much as possible during the peak load hours of each day until approximately the first of March, 1948. This is necessary in both your homes and in all places of business. We do not ask that you change your dinner hour if it would cause great inconvenience, or adjust your business if it would result in unnecessary loss of time or added expense, but we do ask that all of you consider the possibilities of adjusting your use of electricity so as to reduce the demand on our generating plants between the hours of 11:00 A. M. and noon, and from 5:00 P. M. to 6 P. M. each day, particularly the latter hour as that is the period of greatest demand during the winter months.

During The Remaining Hours Of Each Day No Curtailment Is Necessary As We Have Ample Capacity To Carry All Loads At All Times But The Two Periods Indicated.

We believe restrictions must be placed on the addition of some types of new load, also. We have, therefore, requested electrical appliance dealers to refrain from selling electric ranges (except as replacements.) We have also asked that electric water heaters be sold only for "off peak" use. These two electric appliances, more than any others, tend to increase our peak loads sharply. As to new commercial loads, we request that your plans be discussed with our nearest district office before going ahead, so that if they cannot be served because of their effect on our peak loads, you will not be dissapointed at the last minute when you are ready to go.

We sincerely regret the necessity for requesting your cooperation in this matter, but please remember - - - the necessity is confined to only two one-hour periods each day, and it is only temporary. We anticipate completion of several generating plant additions totaling over 25,000 KW of capacity during 1948. Until then your continued tolerance through the next critical months will be appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
C. G. Wright. Vice President.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

"It's Living That Counts"

I stole the title of this column from a magazine article that said a whole lot better than I can what farm and country life can mean.

We talk about farm profits, production, research, and mechanical improvements ... but isn't it true, what we really value is the life country living offers us? ... the chance to be close to our families and neighbors ... children sharing in the chores ... working with our own hands at a worthwhile job.

And country pleasures are simple: good talk at day's end, and a glass of mellow beer with friends ... the companionship of man and wife, unruffled by distractions of the city ... the mutual tolerance of one another's tastes—in choosing a friend, or a glass of beer, or a candidate for Governor.

Mind, I'm all for material improvements. But from where I sit, the real goodness of our country life is that spirit of tolerance, moderation, and good fellowship.

Joe Marsh

WE'RE STRAINING EVERY MUSCLE

To bring you service but . . .
Material shortages still delay us

New installations need poles, meters, transformers insulators, wire . . . . all essential - - but very difficult to obtain. National statistics show the demand for these items to be the greatest ever experienced in this country, so it is understandable that our most difficult task is just getting these materials. Slowly but surely the results are being obtained but your continued patience will be greatly appreciated.

Soils Clinic at Grygla Oct. 16

A soils clinic will be held at Grygla on Thursday Oct. 16. The purpose of the clinic is to give farmers a chance to have samples of their soil tested, and to discuss use of commercial fertilizers and its application to the soils of Eastern Marshall County.

A similar soils clinic was held in Warren last year for Western Marshall County at which over 250 samples of soil were tested for acidity, phosphate, potash, and nitrogen content.

Paul Burson, soils specialist from University Farm, will be present at Grygla to make tests and discuss soils and fertilizer research which he is actively engaged in at the present time.

Any farmer can bring a sample of his top soil to the clinic to be tested. These tests will not tell how much plant food is readily available, but will, in most cases, indicate types of fertilizers to use. Mr. Burson will give some valuable suggestions on rates of applications to make per acre, as well as improving hay and pasture for livestock.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College Searcy, Arkansas

Planner's Dream

"With more miners at work and more machinery, Britain is producing 15,000,000 tons less coal per year than in 1941." This statement by Mr. Churchill aptly describes the results of nationalization. It is striking that whereas England used to export large quantities of coal, she is now importing as much as 600,000 tons from the United States in the present quarter. This is the picture 18 months after nationalization of Britain's coal industry was begun.

Last summer in England I had a conference with Mr. Michael Young, head of the research department of the Labor Party, and their chief economist. Thirty or so years of age, tall and slender, Mr. Young expressed great confidence in England's program of nationalization of industry. He hoped the program would proceed rapidly to include all industries, and he was confident it would bring full employment, high productivity, and greater prosperity. Mr. Young's hopes remain in the dream stage.

What Results?

High British officials came to Washington last month. They wanted to discuss new terms on the American loan. A London report of their interview with Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder tells of Mr. Snyder asking the British officials "Why nationalization had not produced more coal and if it has hampered output." Mr. Snyder was also firm in inquiring whether Britain, under the scheme of nationalization, was "still going to be a solvent concern."

With England sitting on vast coal reserves, yet importing coal, one can understand that Secretary Snyder is a bit dubious about the results of nationalization. In coal mining under nationalization there was at first an upward surge of output. But soon the gain wore off, and turned into a dramatic loss. This experiment in government management of ment in government management of industry simply did not come through. Other industries are learning in the same manner.

The Labor government, which has urged more construction of houses, now finds it necessary to reduce its quota of new houses by 80,000. The use of petrol is to be cut down by one-third; foreign travel is to be reduced by one-half. An individual can now buy only 20 cents worth of beef a week. The fact that the food situation is extremely critical plus the failure of nationalized industries to get production led to the passing of Britain's Crisis Bill.

Dictator Law

The British Press described the Bill as giving the government power to:

1. Direct labor within an industry or from one industry to another.
2. Replace inefficient managements in any industry by government nominees; which will mean, in effect, taking over the business.
3. Divert investments into certain channels, and prevent them going into others.
4. Control hours and conditions of work, and even rates of pay.
5. Send supplies and raw materials to certain industries, and keep them from others.
6. Order goods to be exported to given markets, and prevent them going to others less profitable to the nation.

These dictatorial powers are the true offspring of a government managed economy.

Make Soil Better 'Blotter' for Rain With Organic Matter

CHICAGO — Midwestern farmers were urged to make their soils better "blotters" for rainfall by following conservation methods that will increase the supply of organic matter, improve the soil structure and reduce losses from water runoff.

"With more water to 'drink' crops can make better use of plant foods so vital to healthy growth and maturity," a statement by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee points out. "One or two inches of rain soaked into the soil late in the growing season can make a 10- or 15-bushel increase in corn yields.

"Most farmers can make their soils better 'reservoirs' of rain if they will follow conservation practices," the statement points out.

"These practices include a few simple, common-sense steps," the statement adds. "One is the growing of deep-rooted legumes in the rotation, using lime as determined by tests. Others are the use of plenty of plant food, contour cultivation and the return of manure and crop residues to the soil."

Mayor Peterson Appoints Comm

With the program for the reinterment of World War 2 dead about to become a reality, Colonel Robert P. Bell, has asked the aid and support of all citizens and especially members of patriotic organizations, to insure a proper and fitting reinternment of the bodies of those men who made the supreme sacrifice and gave their lives for their country It is estimated that the entire program will require 24 months with the first shipment expected October 10th.

To insure the success of this program, Governor Youngdahl has dispatched personal letters to the mayors of 900 Minnesota cities suggesting that each appoint a committee to supervise each local interment. This committee will work with all Veterans Organizations of a locality to insure that our hero dead may be accorded full military graveside honors when so requested by next of kin.

Committee members as appointed by Mayor Walter Peterson are Chester Larson, Ludvig F. Larson and Myron Gunheim.

Next of kin of those whose remains are to be reinterred are advised that they will receive ample notification as to the time of arrival of the body. When such notification is received they may contact any committee member for assistance in making proper and timely arrangements for military honors.

Ruhr Noted for Mining And Industrial Output

The problem of the Ruhr district, under consideration at world conferences, concerns a small area whose enormous coal wealth and industrial development have made it one of the Old World's key spots.

The area straddles and takes its name from the winding Ruhr river in northwest Germany, near its junction with the Rhine, notes National Geographic society. The Ruhr's main stretch is only 40 miles long, yet there is found Europe's outstanding concentration of mines, mills, power plants, manufacturing centers, canals and railways.

Much of the iron ore consumed in Ruhr factories also has been mined in the vicinity, a valuable supplement to imports from France and Sweden. After coal mining, iron and steel making is the second industry of the region. In normal times, it was an important factor in meeting Europe's heavy-industry needs.

In 1938, rolled steel from the Ruhr nearly equalled that of the rest of Europe, with exception of Russia and England. Tools, engines, farm implements, ship frames, bridge steel and locomotives, along with safety pins and roller skates, all figured in the district's output lists.

Truman Plans Food Conservation; U. N. Takes on Difficult Agenda; Taft Hits Labor Trouble in West

Released by WNU Features.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

FOOD PLANS:

Conservation

It wasn't hard for President Truman to figure out: Europe is in desperate need of food from the U. S., but the U. S. will leave itself wide open for even greater price spiralling if it boosts its exports much higher.

The answer, he told a special press conference, is food conservation by all Americans. It is not a matter of eating any less, he said, but of wasting less.

In line with that, he announced the setting up of a citizens food committee to develop a food conservation program in the nation. Charles Luckman of Cambridge, Mass., president of Lever Brothers, was named president.

Regarding Europe, Mr. Truman said the food and fuel situation there is too critical to allow time for detailed study. Thus, apparently in an emergency frame of mind, the President called together congressional leaders to discuss possible steps that could be taken immediately to aid the starving continent.

If possible, he said, he would not call a special session of congress if stop-gap aid for Europe could be pushed through without resorting to that step.

Americans could start preparing for a heavy barrage of food conservation propaganda.

ELEANOR:

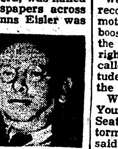
An Old Note

"Dear Sumner — This Eisler case seems a hard nut to crack. What do you suggest? Sincerely, E. R."

That, Sumner Welles, former undersecretary of state, told the house committee on un-American activities, was a note he received from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in 1939 when the then first lady was interested in obtaining an open hearing on the passport application of one Hanns Eisler, Austrian refugee from Hitler.

The note, an almost forgotten memento of the prewar era, was hailed resoundingly in newspapers across the land because Hanns Eisler was accused of being a Communist. He is the brother of Gerhart Eisler, No. 1 agent of the Kremlin in the U. S.

Mrs. Roosevelt



Hanns Eisler

Eisler and his wife finally were issued visas in Mexico City to cover their entrance into this country. He has taken out naturalization papers and is a song writer in Hollywood.

In 1926, Eisler told the committee, he had applied for membership in the German Communist party, but had dropped out. A department of labor report made in 1938 said of him: "The evidence establishes preponderantly that Hanns Eisler is a Communist."

Mrs. Roosevelt's attitude toward the affair was lackadaisical. The note to Welles on behalf of Eisler was strictly routine, she said, adding that she neither knew Eisler nor remembered the note.

TOUGH AGENDA:

No Dodging

United Nations general assembly proved at least one thing in the first week of its current session—it isn't going to dodge any issues.

After riotous preliminary sessions in which they heard the U. S. and Russia flay each other verbally and U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie call for an end to feuding, the delegates voted doggedly to take on the entire list of tough, almost insoluble problems standing as a barrier to world accord.

Among the items admitted to the agenda were the partition of Palestine, peace in the Balkans, independence of Korea and Marshall's proposal to reorganize U. N. machinery to hold a tighter rein on the turbulent peace.

Soviet delegate Andrei Vishinsky's resolution calling on member nations to take criminal action against warmongering propagandists was whole-heartedly admitted to debate; probably because it will provide a chance to mull over the concept of freedom of the press.

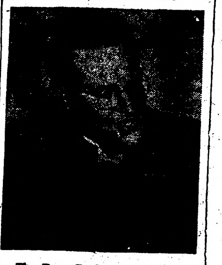
ATOMIC CROP:

Above Normal

In Japan, much to the wonderment of practically everyone, the radioactive soil around atom-bombed Nagasaki has been reported to be giving out with huge crop yields 50 to 300 per cent above normal.

A Japanese agricultural expert estimated the wheat crop to be about twice normal and the cotton crop three times average. Pumpkins, sugar beets, tomatoes and similar produce had a 50 per cent increase.

Fasts for Funds



The Rev. G. A. Gaines of Conyers, Ga., vowed to go on a fast until he obtained the $9,000 necessary to finance the haven for homeless children that he is determined to establish.

HARD TIME:

Taft's Tour

Way out west, where pickets are pickets and carry insinuating signs to prove it, Sen. Robert Taft of labor law fame was finding the going a little rugged on his political junket.

But in Seattle, labor stronghold of the Pacific Northwest, he was treated to new heights of heckling. Physical pain was the senator's lot, too, when a jittery chauffeur, unnerved by milling demonstrators, slammed a car door on his hand.

The labor element was, in short, downright inhospitable. Massed pickets booed Taft enthusiastically as he entered Seattle's Eagle auditorium to deliver his address. Inside the auditorium there were more boos, mingled with Republican cheers.

"Eat less," cried some of his vociferous critics in the audience.

Undaunted, Taft made his speech: "We are proud of our Republican record in congress," he said, to a motley accompaniment of more boos and cheers. He characterized the Taft-Hartley law as a "bill of rights" for union members, and called upon voters to render "gratitude" to congressional backers of the act.

Wilbur Zundell, president of the Young Men's Republican club of Seattle, had a word for the senator's tormentors: "Communists," he said, adding that a Communist demonstration was expected when Taft took the rostrum.

WARNING:

Consequences?

That the aggravated situation in Trieste rapidly is becoming intolerable to the United States was emphasized in a state department note to Yugoslavia that her "exceedingly dangerous" activities at Trieste may produce "most serious consequences."

The U. S. protest deplored the "irresponsible Yugoslav actions" in demanding changes in the Trieste-Yugoslav boundary, and asked the government "to issue immediate instructions to end this practice."

Yugoslav troops had been forcing a number of "incidents" all along the border in attempts to bluff American troops into letting them encroach on Trieste and Italian territory.

Not easing the situation at all was the fact that Yugoslav authorities were holding to their refusal to release an American officer and two enlisted men they had seized.

It was a tense, bitter situation, and it was straining to the danger point the all too tenuous threads of physical peace in the Balkans.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON. SIN
For the wages of SIN is death: but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. Romans, 6:23 and 10:9. Commit to memory.

YOUNG VISITORS TO "FREEDOM TRAIN" . . . Whole classes of Philadelphia's school children form long lines to await their turn to go aboard the "Freedom Train" to view the historic documents that are the foundation stones of American liberties. The train will carry its precious cargo on a swing around the entire nation this fall, visiting some 300 communities.

ATHLETIC CLUB IN ACTION . . . Jaded photographers aboard the U.S.S. Missouri carrying President Truman from Rio de Janeiro to the United States were considerably cheered when the "Truman Athletic club" was organized. Pictures of the President of the United States working off excess avoirdupois by leading a group of perspiring would-be athletes in calisthenics are not exactly run-of-the mill.

NEW YEAR'S HORN SOUNDS . . . Rabbi Isaac Israel, 76, of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob in New York makes this impressive picture as he blows the ram's horn, or "shofar," signifying the end of the Jewish New Year celebration. The "shofar" also is sounded to introduce the New Year period, this year marking the beginning of the year 5708 in the Jewish religion. Observances this year were marked by memorial services for Jews who died through persecution.

ALMOST BEFORE SHE COULD WALK . . . Dixie Lee Bertolino of San Diego, Calif., 10 years old, amazed veteran airmen when she took over the controls of a Piper Cub plane after 45 minutes of instruction and flew the craft for 21 minutes. In the plane with her is Howard Albright, veteran flyer, who went along for the ride and also as added protection to make sure that Dixie got back on the ground

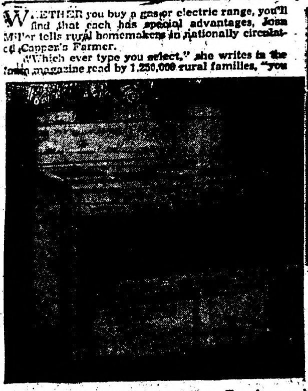
Fur Collar

The part of the fur garment which touches the back of the neck is subject to both perspiration and oil, from skin and hair which produces a center where dust and grime can accumulate and "work in" with wear. What's more — a soiled coat collar may soil not only the skin, but also the blouse or dress under-

Modern Gas and Electric Ranges Stress Convenience



A deep-well cooker plus large unit and two of average size give ample space for meal preparation on top of electric range shown above. Automatic timer may be set to snap oven heat on and off. Staggered automatic-lighting burners, including an extra-large one, are a feature on range for either gas or liquefied gas shown at left. Broiler has metal tray which may be used for serving.

WHETHER you buy a gas or electric range, you'll find that each has special advantages, Joan Miller tells rural homemakers in nationally circulated Capper's Farmer.

"Which ever type you select," she writes in the farm magazine read by 1,250,000 rural families, "you will find that generally the new ranges are convenient for quick meal preparation. They are good looking pieces of equipment which are easily kept clean.

"Purchasing a range made by an established, reliable company is your insurance of a good quality product, she continues. But it pays to notice or ask about these construction points:

Top-of-range burners or heating units should be spaced far enough apart so they'll accommodate large pans or kettles.

The oven should be placed where most convenient to reach and use.

The broiler also should be conveniently located for placement of food.

For ease in cleaning, look for porcelain enamel, inside and out.

Toe space is important at bottom front edge of range for greater comfort when standing in front of it.

In gas ranges look for Certified Performance models which are automatic.

In liquefied gas ranges, check on whether the specified fuel has been odorized. This makes for easy detection of leaks.

Egg Values

According to food specialists, Grade A eggs are best for boiling, poaching, or frying, but Grade B eggs are entirely satisfactory for cooking and baking. They report that lower grade eggs have just as much food value as the better grades.

Short Cuts Save Time in Pickle Making

FULL-FLAVORED pickles can be yours this fall without long hours of work is the cheerful news to housewives imparted by the Rural Home editor of nationally circulated Capper's Farmer.

"There's a short-cut method for pickles," she writes in the magazine read by 1,250,000 farm families. "It calls for shorter drainage and cooking time, less cooking liquid and uses distilled white vinegar as the preservative. Recipes developed with the new method require little sugar.

"For cucumber pickles made this way the brining period is omitted entirely. Vegetables for relish are salted down, then drained only 2 hours; then the cooking period is shortened and the amount of spiced-vinegar solution decreased.

"The pickles may taste rather mild when first packed. But flavor continues to penetrate during storage. By the time you want to serve these pickles at club meetings next winter they will be as spicy and sharp as you like them.

"With individual sandwich loaves, other relishes and coffee you'll have the tempting afternoon snack pictured above. Decorate plates with slices of green pickle."

CURRY PICKLES

4 c. white vinegar
2 c. sugar
¼ c. salt
1 tsp. curry powder
1 tbsp celery seed
¼ c. yellow mustard seed
18 medium cucumbers

Heat vinegar, sugar, salt and spices to boiling. Add washed and cubed cucumbers to solution and boil gently for 10 minutes. Pack while boiling into hot sterilized jars; fill to one fourth inch from top. Be sure solution covers cucumbers. Seal each jar immediately. Yields 8 pints.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

How to Tell You're Getting Old

Doc Walters gave me this formula: It's a sure-fire sign you're getting old when you resent other people having a good time.

And the Doc means it hasn't much to do with age. There are old folks in our town who get a big kick out of seeing other people enjoy themselves—seems to keep them young in spirit, with a twinkle in their eyes!

And there are some others who resent the young folks going fishing; who feel that community games and dances are just a waste of time; or who criticize temperate people for enjoying a mellow glass of beer with friends.

They're often well-intentioned folks, too. But from where I sit, the minute we criticize our neighbors for enjoying wholesome pleasures—like a game of horseshoes, a glass of beer, or an afternoon's fishing—it's a sure sign we're growing old (in spirit anyway) no matter what our age is.

Minn. Bankers Win Award

For encouragements to farm youth, for active cooperation with the Agricultural Extension Service, and for the high caliber of service given farmers by the banks of the state, the Minnesota Bankers Association received for the ninth consecutive year the 1000 Point Award of the Agricultural Commission of the American Association.

Robert E. Pye, Secretary of the Minnesota Bankers Association, reports that the award was made today at the 73rd annual convention of the American Bankers Association here, by C. T. O'Neill, chairman of the A. B. A. Agricultural Commission.

State leaders who have shared in the responsibility for an organized program for the Minnesota Bankers Association include, in addition to Mr. Pye: Arthur W. Sands, presibent of the Association for 1946; J. Brogger, chairman of the Agricultural Committee; and P. E. Miller, Director of Agricultural Extension at the University of Minn.

"Each year the A. B. A. Commission rates banks in all states on activities which benefit agriculture," Mr. Pye explained. "In the numerical evaluation of these activities points are given for 'regular' and 'extra' services rendered by the banks. Consideration is given for work done by individual banks as well as programs carried out by the agricultural committees of the state bankers association.

"The banks of our state received special recognition, "Mr. Pye said, "for outstanding cooperation with the Agricultural Extension Service at the state university. Our programs for farm youth were considered especially praiseworthy. "The regular services in which our banks compare well with banks in other states include the extension of adequate credit to meet the needs of our farm customers." Mr. Pye said.

Credit was given, too, for individual bank projects encouraging farmers to keep debts at a safe level and, at the same time to build financial reserves.

Americans Exhorted to Conserve Food as 'Waste Less' Push Opens; Yalta Talks Recalled in U. N. Row

Released by WNU Features.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

DIATETICS:

Waste Less

Lips that sincerely frame the words "food conservation" will not touch such sturdy edibles as meat, poultry and eggs quite so often hereafter.

Charles Luckman, head of President Truman's citizens food committee, opened the widely heralded "waste less" campaign by calling on the American people to cut their consumption of those three items, thereby effecting a conservation of grain for Europe.

At the same time, it was disclosed that stop-gap aid for Europe this winter may run as much as 800 million dollars—220 million more that Mr. Truman had estimated earlier.

The appeal for Americans to cut down on the amount of foods requiring grain feeding was couched in a five-point program which, if followed, will eliminate the traditional race for the last chop on the platter—it won't be there.

Those five diatetic commandments were: 1) Buy cheaper meat cuts) 2) Don't serve too much; 3) Don't overcook meat; 4) Use leftovers; 5) Save wheat in all other possible ways.

In the future was the possibility that a voluntary program of meatless days and a reduction in the size of bread loaves would be put into effect.

Rationing?

President Truman's voluntary food conservation program has assumed new weight and significance because behind it suddenly loomed the specter of nationwide rationing, threatening to become an unpleasant reality if the conservation campaign fails to meet the export requirements for hungry peoples abroad.

Schwellenbach

Possibility of a return to rationing was hinted by Secretary of Labor Lewis Schwellenbach, who observed that if the "waste less" program is successful "more drastic action" will not be necessary.

Predicted Schwellenbach expansively, "But I am confident that the people of this country would overwhelmingly support more drastic action, even rationing of essentials . . . to meet the need of starving people abroad."

Meanwhile, key congressional committees were preparing to meet to consider what steps which might be taken to solve what Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (Rep., Mich.) called "the immediate question . . . of elemental human survival in a free society."

For the time being, prospects of a special session of congress remained vague.

NEW FIGHT:

Recalls Yalta

In the U. N. another scarehead of possible failure and collapse of that organization arose as the U. S. and Russia plunged into a new skirmish.

The issue: Which nation shall succeed pro-Russian Poland on the security council. Poland has represented eastern Europe and the Slav bloc for two years. Russia wants the Ukraine, which, although an integral part of the Soviet Union, have a separate U. N. delegation. U. S. contention is that the Ukraine is not a sovereign nation, therefore does not rate a separate status.

In the background of the affair was the Stalin-Roosevelt Yalta agreement which gave the Soviet Union three votes in the United Nations. Russia proper, the Ukraine and White Russia each has one.

How the U.S.S.R. came to get three votes probably happened something like this: Both the Ukraine and White Russia, intensely nationalistic, did not like to lose their identities by being merged with greater Russia. The Communist politburo, therefore, as a sop to their nationalism, granted the two territories a sort of nominal independence.

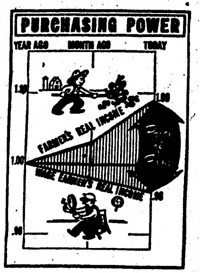
At Yalta, then, Stalin told Roosevelt that he wanted the Ukraine and White Russia to be represented in the U. N. for "internal reasons." F.D.R., being an old politician and sympathetic with "internal" difficulties, agreed.

Thus, the stage was set for one of the most serious battles yet to develop within the United Nations.

Income Disparities

"Real income" of wage and salary earners continues to drop, while farmers' income still is rising, it has been revealed by a monthly Investors Syndicate survey of purchasing power. "Real income" is the relationship of revenue to living costs.

Wage and salary earners now have only about 96 cents of buying power for each dollar a year ago, while farmers have about $1.09.



KOREA:

Suggestion

Problem of Korea, subject of the most bitter wrangling between the U. S. and Russia, may be on the road to settlement.

United States officials in the U. N. revealed that they would ask the general assembly to set a date for withdrawal of both Russian and American troops from Korea and to create a special commission to supervise the evacuation.

Korea has been an outstanding example of the "personal" differences between nations which have been interjected into United Nations proceedings to the detriment of the U. N. Settlement of that problem, and other similar ones, would go a long way toward improving operation and efficiency of the United Nations.

The American proposal was considered an answer to Russia's recent challenge to the United States to withdraw all foreign occupation forces from Korea by the end of the year.

It was indicated also that the U. S. would suggest that the U. N. special Korean commission supervise early elections as the first step towards Korean independence, thus abandoning former plans to place Korea under trusteeship.

The plan bears a marked similarity to the U. S. proposal for a U. N. commission to patrol and keep peace in the Balkans to insure the functioning of democratic processes. Russia opposed the Balkan scheme; how she would react to the same plan applied to Korea was an open question.

HEADLINERS

IN SAN ANTONIO . . . Lady (above), a small terrier of indeterminate origin, gazed modestly wide-eyed at C. A. Taft, San Antonio fire chief, as he presented her with an American Humane association medal for her heroic action in arousing two families with her barking last June and enabling them to escape safely from a burning building.

IN DENVER . . . Richard Lucero sought $10,000 in damages from a furniture warehouse because a falling rocking chair conked him on the head; said Lucero, "Ol' rockin' chair got me."

IN LOS ANGELES . . A beautiful tradition succumbed to male vanity when the city's firemen voted to cast aside their red suspenders, wear belts with their uniforms instead.

GOP IN '48:

Says Taft

Still junketing out west, Sen. Robert Taft (Rep., Ohio) went out on what could be a limb with a prediction that the Republicans will win full control of the government in 1948 because the people are tired of "regulation."

Bringing his guns to bear on the opposition, Taft labeled the Democrats as "an unnatural party" and scathingly referred to what he termed the "totalitarian aspects" of the Truman administration.

Although the Ohio senator obviously is bidding for western support in next year's GOP presidential nomination, so far in his tour he has refrained admirably from mentioning the name of Taft and the office of president in the same sentence.

Explaining the "totalitarian" aspects of the present administration, Taft said, "The philosophy of totalitarianism is still more taxes levied by the government, more spending by the government and more regulation by the government." Those, he said, are three reasons why Republicans will win in 1948.

Bus Driver's Story

A man ran for a bus, waving his arms and hoping it would stop at a nonstop corner. The kindly driver did.

The man fished a $10 bill from his wallet.

"No change," said the driver.

"Any one split a ten?" asked the man of the other passengers.

"Two fives," spoke up a lady.

"No better," said the driver. "Pay another time."

The man picked up a discarded paper and read until arrival at his destination. He put the paper in his pocket and asked the driver, "Can I get a transfer?"

The driver snorted, "Mister, all you can get on this bus is off!"

Unusual Filling

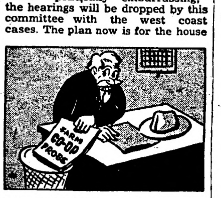
THE HOME TOWN REPORTER IN WASHINGTON

WALTER SHEAD, WNU Correspondent

Another Probe Boomerangs

THE inside story is that since investigations of farm cooperatives conducted by the house small business committee, chairmaned by Congressman Walter Ploesner (Rep., Mo.), have become "politically embarrassing," the hearings will be dropped by this committee with the west coast cases. The plan now is for the house ways and means committee to take over any further probes concerning farm cooperatives.



The chances are that American farmers are more ruggedly individual than any other class of citizens in this country. And you cannot be a rugged individualist and believe in either socialism or communism.

This being true, the fact that a half million more farmers became members of cooperatives the past year, bringing total membership to 5,010,000, may be a refutation of the charge from the small business committee that co-ops are either socialistic or communistic.

On top of increased memberships, although the number of co-ops remained the same at 10,150, business of farm marketing and purchasing co-ops was upped almost a half billion dollars from $5,645,000,000 to $6,070,000,000.

Speaking of cooperatives, the golden jubilee of the Independent Telephone association, held in Chicago on October 14, showed that a large proportion of 6,000 independent companies are mutual or cooperative companies.

* * *

Better Roads Foreseen

Under the federal highway act of 1944 enacted by the 79th congress, approximately 350,809 miles of farm-to-market roads have been designated for inclusion in the federal-aid secondary road system.

The public roads administration reports, however, that of this huge mileage only about 4,600 miles were completed during the 1947 fiscal year at a cost of $55,334,000, of which the federal government contributed $28,768,806. At close of the fiscal year, June 30, work was under way on an additional 12,970 miles which, when completed, will cost $270,420,784, of which the federal government will pay $133,535,561.

The act of 1944 provided appropriations of 150 million dollars in federal funds in each of the first three postwar years for this class of farm-to-market roads and, according to federal officials, it is expected that approximately 430,000 miles of this type of roads eventually will be included in the system.

So it would seem that although the machinery in this federal-state matching road program is moving somewhat slowly the prospects for better farm roads are looking up.

* * *

POLITICAL FACTS—

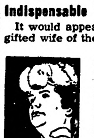
Only three Democrats have been elected to the presidency since the Civil war—Cleveland, Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Every Republican president since the Civil war, except Hoover and those taking over the White House from the vice presidency like Theodore Roosevelt and Coolidge, were either born in or elected from Ohio. These include Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, McKinley, Taft and Harding.

* * *

Indispensable Woman

It would appear that Martha Taft, gifted wife of the senator from Ohio, grabbed off more publicity on the western tour of the Tafts than did the sober, precise senator. Mrs. Taft is considered a much more accomplished speaker than the GOP boss of the senate and, as a matter of fact, is much better liked in official Washington than is the senator himself. However, Mrs. Taft always has campaigned in the senator's bids for office and, recognizing her abilities, he considers her indispensable to his political welfare.



* * *

Farm Fire Toll

In connection with the annual fire prevention observance, the National Board of Fire Underwriters points out that annual destruction by fire of farm and rural property amounts to approximately 90 million dollars. Increases in the use of gasoline-burning farm machinery and electrical equipment have created additional fire hazards. Lightning, however, continues to be the leading cause for farm fires, being responsible for one out of every three rural blazes.

Law on Stolen Aircraft

The U. S. government had no law that specifically applied to persons involved in interstate flights of stolen aircraft until September 24, 1945, when the National Motor Vehicle Theft act was amended to cover such cases.

Russia's First Railroads Carried 'Church Cars'

For several decades after Russia's first railroad began to operate between St. Petersburg and Moscow in 1851, the trains running on Sunday and holy days carried, for religious services, one or two "church cars" whose special equipment included stained-glass windows and sacred paintings.

The railway will complete this month the construction of 500 top grade boxcars, and will begin building a similar number when steel is available.

A LOOK AT THE RECORD

The farmer is Great Northern's biggest customer. The railway is, to a very large extent, geared to the transportation requirements of the man on the land.

Those requirements appeared insurmountable to many "experts" just before the harvesting of the tremendous and exceedingly vital 1947 grain crop in the Northwest and Pacific Northwest.

Grain producers heard that, because of the boxcar shortage, a breakdown of railway transportation was inevitable... that a pitifully small amount of their so acutely-needed grain would be marketed this Fall.

But, what actually happened? A look at the record shows that Great Northern, one of the nation's principal grain-hauling railways, loaded and moved a total of 20,542 carloads of wheat, barley, oats, rye, corn and flax in the month of September.

Moreover, September's loading and movement of grain on Great Northern was the heaviest for that month on the railway in the 19-year period beginning in 1929.

And, that record movement was accomplished with a minimum of switching and unloading difficulties in terminal grain markets served by the railway.

Combining of grain in the railway's territory contributed to the blocking of many elevators before the harvest was in full swing. On September 1 there were 388 blocked elevators along Great Northern. The number of blocked elevators had dropped to 119 by October 1, and a substantial reduction in that figure is anticipated by November 1 because of the improved boxcar supply and the now-diminishing volume of grain moving from farms and ranches.

Great Northern's biggest customer is getting record-making railway service for his 1947 grain crop through unbeatable team-work. The Car Service Division of the Association of American Railroads is fulfilling its pledge to provide adequate equipment; shippers and receivers of grain are giving equally superb cooperation in quick loading and unloading of cars; and, Great Northern's "know how" is completing the job.

The railway industry has the "know how" and the team-work. Give it encouragement and fair consideration, and in return it will continue to give America its most efficient, economical and dependable transportation.

Mystery of the Missing Farms

Yep, the number of farms in America is shrinking (by a quarter-million in the last five years!). What's happened to the missing farms? The land has been taken in by other farms, increasing the average size by twenty acres!

Does this growth mean farming's no longer a family enterprise? Just the opposite! More families own farms today than ever—only with labor-saving equipment they can handle more land, more work.

That's as it should be. The family farm is a fortress of democracy—where our free, American life [illegible] secure. Where every member [illegible] operates and shares the work [illegible] living together in temperance and tolerance—temperance that offers a moderate beverage [illegible] and tolerance for a taste that may be different from one's own.

From where I sit, our Family Farms (and they're [illegible] farms) are something that this country can be proud of!

GOOD FELLOWSHIP goes with Good American Beer

Life is good when you start out a-hunting on a misty morning—when the reeds are barely stirring beside a quiet lake—when your heart is happy and your hand is sure on the trigger and only the birds are noisy in a gray and tranquil world.

But life is just as good when the day is over and companions gather in front of a roaring fire. That's when the call is for Good American Beer—to contribute, as it always does, a final touch of enjoyment to hours of good fellowship.

Such pictures are truly American—typical of a happy land where men choose their own work—their own pleasures—their own way of living.

Spanish Colonists in Clouds Couldn't Keep Infants Alive

When the Spaniards conquered Bolivia in the 16th century, says Collier's, 20,000 of them established a colony in Potosi (altitude 13,600 feet) where, owing to the thinness of the air, they not only suffered from oxygen deficiency, but were unable to keep infants alive.

In fact, for more than 50 years, no child born among them lived longer than two weeks; and the colony therefore had to maintain its size by recruiting young Spaniards from lower levels.

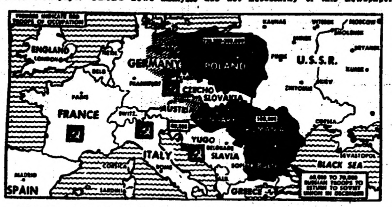
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Food Program Off to Wobbly Start; Comintern Brings Jitters to U. S.; Railroads Get Freight Rate Boost

Released by WNU Features.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



The nine countries indicated here have been listed by Moscow as having representation in the organization of a re-established Communist international (Comintern). Black areas are Soviet satellites, shaded areas are Russian-occupied sections of Germany and Austria, and countries marked with Soviet symbol are included by the Russians in what they believe to be their rightful sphere in Europe.

SIX MONTHS
How Long No Meat?

Amid a certain amount of weeping and wailing and less gnashing of teeth than usual, President Truman's program involving meatless Tuesdays and eggless Thursdays lumbered tentatively through its first week.

Even the most ardent optimist could not call this phase of the food conservation drive to help Europe an instantaneous success; however, it might improve with time.

And it was in the handwriting on the wall that there would be considerable time, for administration experts predicted that the days of voluntary self-denial would last for at least six months.

President Truman himself has set the dates for the interim emergency aid to Europe campaign—from December 1 to March 31—although that time limit was imposed specifically for the raising of 580 million dollars in cash. Regarding the food conservation aspect, Charles Luckman, head of the citizens food committee, said "Our only idea is to do the job until it is done. No time schedule has been set."

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson was a little more definite. He pointed out that conservation to save grain might be necessary until the winter wheat crop, now being planted, begins to come in next June and July. Then he offered a faint hope with a hollow ring:

"Meatless days are not in the picture indefinitely," he said.

The Eating Public

Public opinion, it developed, was far from united on a solid front behind the food conservation plan.

Restaurant operators said their customers were grousing about meatless and eggless days.

Millions of Americans resented the suggestion of a voluntary meatless Tuesday since they already are going without meat four or five days a week because they can't afford to buy it oftener than that.

The poultry industry pointed out that if every one of the 140 million residents of the U. S. were to eat one less egg a week, the government would have to buy 600 million dozen eggs under the law requiring government support of parity prices; and the government already holds in storage several million cases of surplus eggs purchased to support farm prices.

SOIL RESOURCES: Depletion?

Hard cash isn't the only cost involved for American taxpayers in the government's program to export a half billion bushels of wheat and feed grains annually to Europe.

The invisible price which this nation is paying is the possible depletion of the soil resources on which our future food supply depends.

During the war years, only about half of the nitrogen taken from the soil was replaced, according to recent studies. Only about half of the phosphorus removed was put back, and less than one-thirtieth as much potassium was added in the form of commercial fertilizers as was removed by harvested crops.

Those facts denote a trend which ultimately might lead directly to untold acres of sterile soil incapable of producing the food in the amounts necessary for maintenance of the American standard of living.

Already, the heavy drain on the mineral supply in the earth has reached the point where yields on many soils depend on the fact that minerals are being replaced constantly.

Supersonic Flight

British engineers have produced a small, pilotless rocket plane which, on its first test run, attained a speed estimated at 900 miles an hour.

The plane was the first of a group to be used in experiments with supersonic speed, in an effort to determine what happens when a craft crashes the "supersonic barrier"—that is, travels at a rate of speed greater than the speed of sound in air.

SECURITY RISKS:
No Peace of Mind

Communism, particularly since the revival of the Comintern in nine European countries, is taking its toll in the U. S. by undermining the American peace of mind.

That obvious fact has been given added significance by the state department's disclosure that summary dismissal faces state department employes who are "habitual or close" associates of persons even "believed to be" Communists.

In plain language, that is a reversal of a fundamental principle of Anglo-American law—that a man is judged innocent until he is proved guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

In fact, the state department, in a "security principles" document recently made public, says specifically that if there is a "reasonable doubt" about a worker's loyalty the "department will be given the benefit of the doubt and the person will be deemed a security risk."

While idealists could quibble at length about abridgment of "constitutional rights," few would deny that the state department simply was playing it safe in the face of a manifest danger.

10 PER CENT:
Freight Boost

Freight transportation costs quivered delicately and prepared to take off like big birds as the Interstate Commerce commission granted U. S. railroads an emergency 10 per cent increase in freight rates.

The boost, which applies to all commodities except coal, coke and iron ore, on which increases of 10 to 11 cents a ton were granted, was pretty much what the railroads wanted and will give them an additional 125 million dollars in revenue during the rest of 1947.

ICC authorized the 10 per cent raise as a kind of "stopgap aid" until the board can act on the railroad's major request for an overall boost of 27 per cent which has been pending since September 5.

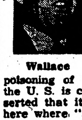
The carriers said the increase was needed to offset higher wage and equipment costs. Principal U. S. railroads recently granted a 15½ per cent wage boost to a million non-operating employes, and they are faced with similar demands by operating personnel.

Meantime, the consumer-public knew who would get the bill.

POISON:
'Internal Life'

Henry Wallace, who, unlike most politicians, has an opinion on every conceivable thing under the sun, came out with a new idea on the strained relations between the U. S. and Russia.

This mutual ill-feeling, he said, is a disease which is poisoning the "internal life of both countries."



Wallace

The former vice-president called the recently established Comintern the "most unmistakable symptom we have had yet of the split between the United States and Russia." That split is what he called a disease.

As far as the poisoning of "the internal life" of the U. S. is concerned, Wallace asserted that it has reached a point here where "millions of people are afraid to speak their minds, even in private." That, he intimated, is a forewarning that "thought control" may be on its way "with alarming speed."

SOLD GOLD:
Second Time

Badly bent economically, although not yet quite broke, Great Britain, in the latest phase of her desperate quest for dollars, has sold 120 million dollars worth of gold to the U. S. in exchange for an equal amount of ironmen.

It was the second such sale from Britain's now dwindling gold reserve. Early in September 80 million dollars worth of gold was sold to the U. S.

Boy Helped Solve Problem Of Bridging Niagara Falls

When the first bridge over Niagara Falls was planned in 1848, the problem of getting a cable from the American to the Canadian side was solved by offering $5 to the first person who could make a kite carry a string across the 800-foot chasm.

After this had been accomplished by a boy, the string was used to pull over a small steel cable which, for several years, enabled persons to go back and forth, two at a time, in a little wire basket.

The original steel suspension bridge thrown across the river just below the American falls had a span of 820 feet, and was long considered to be a feat of engineering.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

"Take Pen in Hand"

This column has been running for so long that its readers, in towns like ours all over the country, are beginning to "take pen in hand" and write us what they think.

Some of them take me over the coals for what I say—like the column I ran on planting alfalfa. Others write, "I liked your column yesterday, but . . ." All of them have different points of view.

From where I sit, that's the way it should be. Everybody's entitled to an opinion—and it's those very differences, and friendly criticism, that make for tolerance and better understanding—whether it's ideas on planting alfalfa or choosing between beer and cider.

The more folks air their differences right out in public, with a neighborly respect for the other person's liberties and point of view, the closer we are to the American principle of individual freedom—whether it's in a choice of crops or beverages.

Pigs in China

China has 85 per cent as many cattle as this country, 35 per cent as many sheep and its hog population exceeds ours by 25 per cent. Pork is the favorite meat but is usually found only on the tables of the wealthy families. Mutton is widely used in some parts of China. Pork and other meats must be sold shortly after slaughter because of lack of refrigeration.

Marshall County State Bank of Holt Has Given 25 Years Of Service to Holt And Community

Thursday, November 6, 1947 will mark the 25th anniversary of the opening of the Marshall County State Bank of Holt, and and on that date will have Open House. Its many customers and friends are invited to drop in and meet the officers, directors and employees who will be on hand to greet its many customers. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

The Marshall County State was organized by Mr. John W. Black and associates of Minneapolis, and opened for business on November 6, 1922. Holt was at that time without a bank and the new bank was welcomed in this community. Deposits for the opening day were small although certain depositors of this opening day have been continued depositors of the bank for the past 25 years. The News has been advised that the first depositors of the Bank were: O. J. Backlund, Albert Bennes, E. A. Erickson, T. B. Folden, Free Mission Church, C. H. Gunheim, Sam Mickelson, Olaf T. Ness, Rev. M. B. Ordahl, Reier Reierson, Gunder P. Sorter and O. E. Sovde. You will notice that Gunder P. Sorter was the first man to deliver cream to the Holt Creamery and also one of the first depositors of the new bank. Gunder P. Sorter always worked for the welfare of his community.

The first president of the bank was John W. Black who served until March 1933. The first cashier was Robert J. Lund, who served until May, 1925. Mr. Lund had the responsibility of restoring confidence in banks, in a community that had just had a bank close its doors in May 1922 and despite all these adverse conditions, the totals of the bank did reach $90,000.00 before Mr. Lund resigned in May 1925. Much credit should be given Mr. Lund for starting the bank on a sound foundation.

Mr. George Fricker, the present cashier of the bank, has served the bank since May 1922, twenty-two and one-half years. During that period of time, there have been bank failures around us, but the bank has continued to grow and Mr. Fricker has seen the bank grow from totals of $90,000.00 to an all time peak on October 22, 1947 when totals of the bank reached the million dollar mark. Deposits in the bank reached some over $940,000.00. 1947 also marked the all time peak for loans when on August 22, 1947, the loans were over $200,000.00. On that date, the Marshall County State Bank had 836 check account customers and 392 savings and time certificate customers which alone proves that the bank serves a vast territory in Eastern Marshall County.

In March, 1933, during the national bank holiday, the bank ran into difficulties, but through the efforts of Mr. Arvid Carlson, Mr. A. L. Carlson and associates new capital was replaced and the bank continued in operation without any loss to its depositors. Mr. Arvid Carlson has served as President of the bank since March 1933 and it has been thru his efforts that the bank has been able to take care of the needs of this community. Much credit is due Mr. Arvid Carlson for the way the Marshall County State Bank has operated during the past years.

Mr. Fricker, who has served the community all that time, has always been sincere and honest in his dealings with the people, and much of the success of the steady progress of the bank is due to his untiring efforts to help each individual customer. His advise and opinion is widely sought and the good standing of the Marshall County State Bank with other banks and business institutions in this territory can be credited to his ability and cooperative spirit.

Other officers of the bank since its opening date have been as follows:

Vice Presidents

A. M. Nieter	1922-1923
O. E. Sahre	1923-1924
Louis Wegge	1924-1933
A. L. Carlson	1933-1943
O. H. Nohre	1943-1947

Assistant Cashiers

Clarence Erickson	1922-1925
Caroline Aspelin	1933-1947

Miss Aspelin has served the bank for over 14 years and has been a faithful employee who has seen the bank reach the million dollar mark. She is noted for her efficiency, and courteous service.

Others who had a hand in building the Marshall County State Bank of Holt were F. D. Voth, P. L. Anderson and the late Guy A. Anderson. These men acted as Directors of the bank during the dark days of the thirties and at all times had the safety of the depositors in mind. It was thru their efforts that the bank was able to operate during the troublesome days preceeding the National Bank Holiday. Other employees of the bank during the past 25 years have been as follows: Russel Olson, Shirley Magoris, Dorothy Fuller, Bernice Hobbs Anderson, Dennis Wegge, Howard Swanstrom, Stilaf Anderson, Reuben P. Carlson, A. W. Carlson, Orlin T. Ness, Vivian Sagstuen and Delores Engen.

The present officers of the bank are as follows:

President, Arvid Carlson
Vice President, O. H. Nohre
Cashier, Geo. Fricker
A. Cashier, Caroline Aspelin
Teller, A. W. Carlson
Bookkeeper, Delores Engen

Directors are, Arvid Carlson, A. L. Carlson, A. W. Carlson, O. H. Nohre, O. T. Ness and Geo. Fricker.

The News congratulates the officers and directors of the Marshall County State Bank on its 25th anniversary.

—WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS—

Use Force if Necessary: Byrnes; Lewis Loses in AFL Controversy; German War Plants to Be Stripped

Released by WNU Features

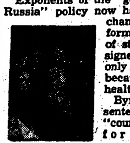
(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

MEMOIRS:
No Patience

James F. Byrnes, who, when he was secretary of state, was a veritable personification of "patience on a monument" in his dealings with Russia, stepped down from his pedestal and announced that it was time to start slugging.

In his published memoirs, "Speaking Frankly," Byrnes proposed that the U. S. reply to Russia's "obstructionism" on atomic energy and German peace treaty agreements with "better and more" atomic bombs and a decision to drive the Red army out of Germany, by force if necessary.

Exponents of the "get tough with Russia" policy now have a sturdy champion in the former secretary of state, who resigned that post only last January because of ill health.



BYRNES

Byrnes presented a 10-step "course of action for restoring peace, basis of which must be the conclusion of a satisfactory German peace treaty. At the same time, he conceded that the plan of action conceivably could lead to World War III if Russia refused to co-operate.

First of all, said Byrnes, the U. S. should ask the Big Five to call a full-dress conference of all nations on Germany "early in 1948." If Russia refuses to participate or if she boycotts the conference, the other nations should proceed without her.

> What Do They Want?
>
> Apprehensive of the constantly expanding area of Communism in the Old World, many Americans want to know just what it is the Russians are after. James Byrnes stated flatly, "I do not doubt that their ultimate goal is to dominate, in one way or another, all of Europe."

Then comes the stinger which Byrnes advocates. If Russia refuses to sign the treaty and likewise refuses to withdraw Red troops from western Germany, other nations should ask the U. N. security council to order her out. And if Russia vetoes the security council order, then the U. S. must drive her out of Germany by force.

However, Byrnes is firm in his belief that the U. S. probably will not have to resort to warfare. He thinks Russia will withdraw her troops from western Germany upon completion of a peace treaty.

BELABOR:
Lewis Downed

"On this issue I don't think the federation has a head. I think its neck has just grown up and haired over."

Thus spake John L. Lewis, he of the king-sized eyebrows, at the American Federation of Labor convention in San Francisco. The issue to which he so lustily referred was that of whether the AFL should vote to wipe out its 13 vice presidents, of which Lewis is one.

And despite Lewis' name-calling and hammy, mane-tossing histrionics, the AFL did vote to abolish its vice presidents in a move to make the entire federation eligible to use the national labor relations board under the Taft - Hartley law.

The action, which leaves only William Green, president, and George Meany, secretary - treasurer, as top federation officers, was taken in order to permit the AFL officers to sign non-Communist affidavits for AFL federal unions which have no national officers of their own. No union may have access to the facilities of the national labor relations board under the Taft-Hartley law unless their officers sign the affidavits.

Lewis previously had adamantly refused to sign the non-Communist affidavit on the grounds that he would be making a concession to the Taft-Hartley law, much reviled by labor.

TWO AND TWO:
Significance?

Maybe this is why mathematics always was such rough going in school: The President's scientific research board has warned that instruction in common arithmetic is faulty in U. S. schools and must be improved if the country is to develop the large number of scientists it will need for security and advancement. The battle for competence in science probably is won or lost in the lower grades, the board says.

Green of AFL

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, is shown addressing the recent AFL convention in San Francisco with great gusto. He favored the signing by union officers of non-Communist affidavits. John L. Lewis also spoke.

REPARATIONS:
Germany Pays

European aid took a different turn with an announced plan by British and American military governments to dismantle 682 German industrial and war plants in their two zones for reparations.

Purpose of the move, slated to be carried out as swiftly as possible, is to expedite European economic recovery. Most of the factories are metal, chemical and electrical engineering, shipbuilding and power plants.

The announcement points up the problem, still not fully solved, of whether completely to destroy Germany's war potential by cancelling out her industrial strength, or to rebuild the German industry for peaceful production.

Obviously realizing the possible adverse effects which the dismantling of the plants might have upon the German people, the U.S. and Britain issued a joint statement emphasizing that they would consider suggestions from the Germans for substitution of equivalent individual plants.

Meanwhile, German public officials and trade union leaders have denounced the reparations policy as a blow to German economic revival and a source of unemployment.

EMERGENCY:
On Account

Realistic U. S. government officials admit that everything they can do might turn out to be inadequate to pull Europe through this dreaded winter, but that dark outlook has not stopped President Truman from trying.

His latest move in the desperate gamble was to make another 50 million dollars available to hungry, Communist-infested France to give the nation a new, temporary lease on survival.

This time the payment was not a loan, however. Mr. Truman advanced the money as an early payment to France of funds still owing for the procurement of supplies in France by the U. S. army during the war. France claims that a total of 80 million dollars is due it in such repayments. The 50 million was written off as a payment on account.

At the same time, it was disclosed that when congressional committees open hearings on November 10, the administration will have ready for them the entire long-range Marshall plan for aid to Europe as well as urgent pleas for immediate stopgap assistance.

However, it was in the wind that congress was preparing to debate violently and at great length on the European relief program, and few members were ready to commit themselves.

REFUGEES:
From Soviets

Streams of refugees are reported to be coming through Russia's iron curtain to the southeastern coast of Sweden.

Reason for their flight, they say, is that the Baltic lands where they made their homes, now under control of the Soviet Union, are being combed by the Russians for men and women to be deported to Siberia.

A secret transportation route out of the Soviet zone manages to spirit the refugees to Sweden. Cost for such a journey — 2,500 German marks.

According to two Latvians who reached Sweden by sea from Red-held German Pomerania in a war-surplus American rubber dinghy, the current "epidemic" of escapes is the result of a Soviet order that all Balts in the Red zone of the Reich must be registered.

This is interpreted as the first move toward their deportation as slave labor to Siberia and the Arctic island of Novaya Zemla, where huge contingents of Balts already have been shipped. Most of the refugees are skilled workers and are readily finding work in Sweden.

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

SHADES OF THE PHARAOHS . . . Eddie Niederhauser, golfer, is not trying to drive the ball over the 5,000-year-old great pyramid of Gizeh—especially out of a sand trap. He's merely trying out the new nine-hole golf course near Gizeh, Egypt, and probably wondering if the old pharoahs are spinning in their graves like egg-beaters every time they hear a cry of "Fore!"

AT LAST—A TWO HEADED CALF . . . Marvin Koch and his daughters, Anna and Mary, are shown with the two-headed calf which was born on his farm near Easton, Pa. It is eating well and drinks about five quarts of milk a day, using both of its mouths at different times. The animal has only two ears and a single skull, but it is generously equipped with four eyes, two mouths and two noses.

ANYTHING FOR A THRILL . . . Some people will do a lot for publicity. Take this guy, for instance. He probably has a wife and three sweet children waiting for him at home. Chances are his ulcers don't bother him too much. He has a good job. He has, in short, everything to live for, but still he goes skinning around on this vicious looking rock. (It's part of Big Slide mountain in the New York Adirondacks.) Worst of it is, he doesn't even get his name in the papers.

IDENTICAL TWINS, IDENTICAL RECORDS . . . John (left) and Louie Buchholz, identical twins of Defiance, Ohio, ended the senior softball league season in their town with identical batting averages of .385. They were at bat 78 times each, scored 27 runs apiece and got 30 hits each. Louie is catcher and John plays outfield for one of the local teams. With their records, they could qualify to play with Brooklyn.

Learn to Meet Emergencies by Reading 'Practical Instructions for Home Nurse'

When Illness Strikes
Mother Becomes Nurse

BEWARE of rusty nails. Particularly, if one has punctured the skin for it can be treacherous.

For emergency treatment, cleanse wound with soap and water and pour in peroxide to boil out particles of rust and dirt. Soak in hot, strong epsom salts solution. If you live some distance from a doctor, you should know how to meet home emergencies—burns, nosebleed, fainting, convulsions.

Champion Farmer McKINLEY Uses
Firestone CHAMPION GROUND GRIPS
. . AND HE GETS UP TO 100% MORE EFFECTIVE CLEANING
62% MORE DRAWBAR PULL · 91% LONGER WEAR

More than Seven Million Pounds of Produce! That is the production record Champion Farmer H. L. McKinley (on tractor), and sons Don, Phil, Hal and Keith (not shown) made last year on 1100 acres of rich farmland near St. Ansgar, Iowa. Their record includes 2¾ million pounds of potatoes from 135 acres, and a nearly equal poundage of choice cabbage from 100 acres. The McKinleys keep their soil highly fertile by a five-year rotation and the application of 170 tons of fertilizer annually. An extensive steer and hog feeding program turns corn and roughages into cash, and builds additional fertility in the soil. The farm is highly mechanized. All eight tractors roll on Firestone Tires.

ECONOMY-MINDED farmers like Champion Farmer H. L. McKinley find costs go down when they use Firestone Champion Ground Grips.
Tests show that Firestone Champion Ground Grips clean up to 100% more effectively, pull up to 62% more, last up to 91% longer, and roll smoother over highways.
The reasons are simple. The curved bars cut deeply into the soil. Mud falls easily and cleanly from the tapered openings between the bars. Because the traction bars are connected, they're stronger, they have more tread rubber to push into the ground and pull. This extra tread rubber also lengthens tire life . . . makes tires roll smoother.
Although judged best by leading farmers everywhere, Firestone Champion Ground Grips cost no more than ordinary tractor tires. Specify the "Champion" when you order your new tractor, or when you buy replacements for your tires. See your nearest Firestone Dealer or Store today.

Remove Blackheads

For the removal of blackheads, try this nightly treatment—dip your washcloth in hot water and press against your face until the skin is pink and glowing. Work in a generous lather of soap, and with a complexion brush or washcloth scrub with upward, outward motions, giving particular attention to the nose and chin.

Heat Values

The actual heat units in the different fuels are approximately as follows: anthracite, 12,500 per pound; oil, 140,000 per gallon; natural gas, 1,000 to 1,100 per cubic foot; manufactured gas, 550 per cubic foot; mixed gas, 700 to 800 per cubic foot. In each case the heat values given must be multiplied by the actual operating efficiency of the heat generator (boiler or furnace) to obtain the actual number of heat units.

Rail Quiz

What is a "hump" in a freight yard?

In many large freight yards certain tracks are constructed at steep grades to enable cars to be released and shunted by gravity into various tracks for reclassification. The cars are pushed to the highest elevation of the track, or "hump," and released one at a time or in groups and sent rolling down the incline. The "hump" track branches into many classification tracks. A towerman switches each car into its proper track.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Sam's a Matrimony Expert

Sam Abernathy never intended to be a matrimony expert, but he hit the nail on the head the other day when he said:

"What marriage really needs is more open minds and a lot fewer open mouths."

Sam may not think much of his missus' choice of hats or her habit of serving watercress and cream cheese salad. But he keeps his mouth shut (I mean, he just uses it to eat the salad). And the missus never criticizes Sam's affection for that worn-out chair before the fire, and his mellow glass of beer and pipe at the end of a long day.

From where I sit, that prescription would apply to most human relationships. Criticism rarely rouses anything but resentment. But an open mind—whether it's applied to a woman's choice of hats, or a husband's preference for a pipe and a moderate glass of beer or two—leads to the conclusion that there's right on both sides.

Deaths in U. S.

Twenty or more countries had lower death rates among persons aged 35 to 64 than the United States before the war.

To All Our Customers:

On October 1st we issued an appeal to all our customers to curtail the use of electricity until about March, 1948 during the hours of —

11 A. M. to Noon and from 5:00 P. M. to 6:00 P. M.

We want you to know that the response has been most heartening.

Here are some of the suggestions that have come voluntarily from our customers:

1. Quite a number of Commercial Clubs and similar organizations have suggested that business establishments could close at 5:00 or 5:30 P. M. If it is customary to remain open certain evenings each week, stores can be re-opened after the supper hour and remain open as long as they wish.
2. Sign lighting, window lighting and special display lighting can be kept off during the early hours of each evening.
3. Many garages and manchine shops have indicated that welding and use of large motors can usually be arranged for off-peak hours.
4. Elevators and feed mills can re-arrange their operations to schedule their heaviest loads during off-peak hours. We have already noticed many ads by feed mills notifying their customers that no feed grinding will be done after 4:30 P. M.
5. Creamery operators have indicated that they can arrange their operations to reduce their load to absolute minimum during the peak hours.
6. Meetings held with our REA friends have brought out many constructive suggestions for the rural customer to follow, such as pumping water, arranging milking time, making use of feed grinders, welders, and similar equipment during off-peak hours, and keeping that big yard light turned off between 5:00 and 6:00 P. M.

Many other suggestions have been made, and a little study on everyone's part will indicate other ways by which work can be re-arranged so that it is accomplished during hours of the day other than the peak-load hours.

If our customers continue to show the spirit of cooperation already evidenced, and we are sure they will, we anticipate that our peak loads will be reduced to the point that they can be carried successfully.

Certainly, our sincere thanks are due all of our customers for their splendid cooperation.

Sincerely yours,
C. G. Wright
Vice President.

Creamery Has Sidelines

A creamery is more than a butter making plant in Minnesota today. In many cases it is also a poultry and egg marketing plant, a feed and seed store and even a locker plant, says O. H. Dankers, extension economist at University Farm. Many Minnesota creameries are in the midst of a fundamental change in their operations. First many dairy plants are being equipped to manufacture more than one product. Second, many are adding other types of business or sideline services for patrons.

A study published at University Farm Business Notes for October 31 by E. Fred Koller, agricultural economist, reports that the average sidelines sales of the creameries studied in 1949 were $75,750 or 17.1 per cent of all sales. In 1934 the sideline sales of these same plants averaged only $9,183 or 8.8 per cent of all sales. The largest sideline business in terms of volume is the handling of eggs and poultry which made up 56 per cent of the total.

Stockholders to Meet

Notice of a special meeting of the Stockholders of the Farmers Cooperative Creamery company of Holt has been issued by Oliver Grondahl, secretary of the Board of Directors, to be held next Wednesday evening, Nov. 12. The purpose of the meeting is to act upon a resolution involving the corporate period and Incorporation Articles. The meeting will be of special interest and really a good way to learn what the creamery is doing for the community.

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Special Session of Congress Called; Chile, Brazil Break Off With Russia; France Moves Toward Major Crisis

Released by WNU Features.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

THE BREAKS

Chile, Brazil Kiss Russia Good-By

Acting almost simultaneously, two South American nations—Brazil and Chile—curtly announced severance of diplomatic relations with Russia because, as they both implied, they couldn't stand it any longer.

Brazil, which beat Chile to the gun by a few hours in breaking relations, had the less valid reason for its action, on the surface, at least. Stated reason for the move was given as the "extremely outrageous and even calumnious" articles in the Russian press attacking Pres. Enrico Gaspar Dutra and the Brazilian army.

Russia's Literary Gazette had called Dutra an incompetent soldier and a Fascist. It was the same magazine that had compared President Truman with Hitler, to which the U. S. strongly objected but took no further action.

Chile, however, had a more deep-seated grievance. Communist infiltration in the nation's southern coal zone, leading to recent labor difficulties there, undoubtedly spurred the decision to sever relations.

Chilean Pres. Gabriel Gonzalez Videla previously had accused the Communists of planning to cripple Chile's production of copper, nitrates and other strategic materials and hamper defense of the western hemisphere and the United States. He also had announced his intention to "end once and for all" what he called Communist dictatorship over Chile's mine workers.

And in a burst of thoroughness, Chile also ended diplomatic relationships with Czechoslovakia.

If no other end is accomplished, the action by Brazil and Chile at least may answer the question of whether Communist penetration into a nation actually can be halted by breaking diplomatic relations with Russia.

TRUMAN CALLS

Congress to Meet

Congress, summoned by President Truman, will convene in special session at noon, November 17, to deal with:

1. "The alarming and continuing" high prices at home and,
2. The pressing need for rapid-fire emergency need abroad.

President Truman's summoning of congress a month and a half before it normally would have reconvened marked a definite climax in U. S. domestic events for 1947. Although doubt existed for a long time as to whether a special session would be called to meet the two problems which have been screaming with urgency all year, it was the only really logical step to take.

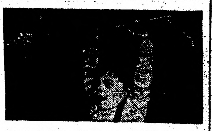
Mr. Truman took it decisively. He conferred with his cabinet, and he conferred with key congressional leaders of both parties. He did not ask their advice on a special session; he informed them simply that he was calling one.

"It is urgently necessary," he said, "for the congress to take legislative action designed to put an end to the continued rise in prices ... and to meet the crisis in Western Europe!"

Concerning prices, the President would not ask for consumer controls, but for authority for allocation of certain materials. European relief, scheduled to be given priority over the price muddle in congressional action, was highlighted by the growing desperation in France and Italy.

One other fact came out. The 580 million dollars previously cited by Mr. Truman as the amount needed for emergency aid to Europe before the Marshall plan could go into effect next March had been revised upward. Emergency dollar relief now was being considered in terms of from 800 million to a billion dollars.

HEADLINERS



IN LYONS, ILL. . . . Jackie Devorshak, 2½, (above) dangled sturdily from a trapeze, admitted that he knows his ABC's, can spell out his name, address and phone number, enjoys a cigar now and then.

IN JERUSALEM . . . Henry A. Wallace, vacationing from the U. S. political scene, opined that if Gen. Dwight Eisenhower "ran on either the Republican or Democratic ticket, he would win hands down in the 1948 presidential election."

IN BUCHAREST . . . Romanian newspapers, facing the facts, decided that stars and constellations were no longer informative, announced that they would cease publishing daily horoscopes.

IN BALTIMORE . . . Government agents announced that they had run across an elaborate still on the grounds of "Shangri-La," Maryland mountain retreat of the President.

IN COPENHAGEN . . . Startled Danes muttered, "Flying saucers," when seven mysterious balls of fire zoomed simultaneously through the night.

FRENCH CRISIS:

High Stakes

France was sliding rapidly toward a major political crisis in its precarious postwar existence.

Premier Paul Ramadier, whose cabinet had resigned following France's municipal elections in which Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Rally of the French People party achieved a surprising victory, warned his people that the existence of the nation was at stake.

"To face a grave political situation, we found it necessary to form a concentrated government in order to give it needed authority in this hour."

Ramadier was referring to (or trying to justify) the fact that, after the resignation of his cabinet, he formed another only half as large. It was possible, however, that he had been unable to gather together a full-sized cabinet.

Significant was Ramadier's failure to include in his new group anyone representing the two strongest political organizations in France—De Gaulle's party and the Communists. Ramadier clarified that omission, however, with the accusation that General De Gaulle and the Communist party were following policies that can lead only to the destruction of France.

Meanwhile, the premier had more immediate worries: His streamlined cabinet was scheduled to go before an extraordinary session of the national assembly for a vote of confidence. If it fails, Ramadier and his government would resign.

NEW ATTACK:

Zhdanov's Turn

"Down with the Marshall plan" was the substance of the most lately revealed Russian verbal attack against the U. S., this time made by Andrei Zhdanov, member of the all-powerful Soviet politburo.

Zhdanov, who can be considered an authoritative mouthpiece of Soviet foreign policy, told the recent nine-nation Communist congress in Poland that the U. S. is trying to "extend its power"—thus simply restating the standard Russian wolf cry of "American imperialism."

More sobering was his declaration of Russian intention to block and destroy the Marshall plan, which he described as the chief instrument of American "imperialist policy" and as hostile to the Soviet Union.

Revelation of Zhdanov's speech in Poland makes it appear certain that the recent reestablishment of Communism on an international basis in the guise of the "Cominform," the Communist information center with headquarters at Belgrade, was carried out for the immediate purpose of destroying the Marshall plan in Europe.

Of equal significance is the fact that Zhdanov has brought the U.S.-Russian struggle for influence in Western Europe clearly into the open. By denouncing the Marshall plan and U. S. policy as imperialistic and stating Russia's intention of nullifying them, Zhdanov was admitting tacitly that Russia wants Western Europe for herself.

THERMOSTAT:

Food Control

Most persons, when they get hungry, don't stop to wonder what makes them that way. They just eat—if they can afford it.

Despite this colossal indifference, Yale medical school researchers have reported that an "appetite thermostat" exists in the brain which not only tells you when you should eat but controls your food intake so you don't put away too much and put on too much fat.

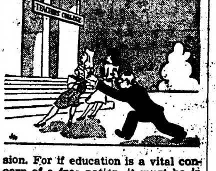
Schools Beset by Ills

IN SETTING out the school prospectus for the 1947-48 school year the National Education association points out that although the teacher shortage has been somewhat abated, there still are many ills which beset our public school system.

"The great need now," says the association's brochure, "is to encourage some of our ablest young people to enter the teaching profession. For if education is a vital concern of a free nation, it must be in the hands of thoroughly able, well prepared, well paid, emotionally balanced teachers."



"Salaries in most states have been raised during the past two years to a minimum of $2,400 for qualified teachers, but there still is a distinct shortage of elementary teachers in rural areas and a "grave shortage of quality teachers."

Another vital question is that of rehabilitation of the school plant, long neglected during the war years. It likely will take from six to eight billion dollars in the next decade to bring repairs and replacements up-to-date. People will have to decide whether to build roads or schools. NEA points out that roads can wait but children's minds can't wait.

A Detroit writer put the blame for the sorry condition of the school system directly upon the parents. This writer said:

"Don't sit around with other parents discussing the disgraceful educational results that we're getting from our schools unless you have done something about it. Have you ever met any of your kid's teachers? When parents give a whoop, education will come into its own." And there's more truth than fiction in that.

• • •

Ballyhoo in Bulk

The voluntary plan to save food likely will be the most publicized public appeal ever made by the government in peacetime. From radio, newspapers, magazines, billboards, posters and all other publicity media will go forth appeals from the citizens food committee to conserve food.

While this peacetime appeal may lack the patriotic appeal of wartime, even when tied in with whipping public resistance against high prices, seriousness of the foreign situation is such that even though only a little, comparatively, is saved, officials believe the results will be worth the ballyhoo.

• • •

Russia has said "no" to an assistant secretary of state and several senators who wanted to visit the United States embassy in Moscow. Last July several congressmen were denied admission to Russia when they were refused visas to study education and labor there. Senator Knowland of California, in retaliation would limit the number of USSR visitors to the exact number of American citizens allowed to enter Russia. Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (Rep., Mass.) urges deportation of all Russian agents in the U. S. and confinement of Soviet embassy and U. N. officials to "areas of official business."

• • •

Pepper in Reverse

Although Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida maintains that he has not done an about-face in his belated support of the Marshall plan, there is considerable talk here that criticism of him by Florida newspapers may have been one reason why the senator changed his mind.

It will be remembered that last August Senator Pepper condemned the entire range of President Truman's foreign policy, particularly the Marshall plan, as loaded with "insupportable conditions" aligning western Europe alongside the U. S. in opposition to Russia. Now he says he will go along, adding that the plan has no evidence of political strings he had feared would be attached.

Labor Law Changes

Sen. George D. Aiken (Rep., Vt.), a farmer who specializes in fruits and flowers, says he intends to offer an amendment to the Taft-Hartley Labor law to eliminate the provisions requiring communistic registration and the section affecting political comment of union newspapers. Senator Aiken, liberal on domestic issues, and a former isolationist, is unpredictable, but a force in the senate. He spent nothing in one campaign; 30 cents in another.

Estimating Board Feet

You can estimate the number of board feet in a 16-foot log quite closely by subtracting four from the diameter at the top end of the log and squaring the number obtained. For instance, take a 16 foot log measuring 24 inches. After subtracting 4, the remainder 20 is squared and the answer is 400, which is the number of board feet in the log. Other lengths are judged proportionately. An 8 foot log would contain half as many board feet as a 16 foot log, and a 12 foot would contain three-fourths as many.

Fire Fatalities

Since 1900, according to statistics of the National Fire Protection association, 16 major fires accounted for the lives of more Americans than were killed at Iwo Jima. Over 4,000 Americans made the supreme sacrifice during World War II's bloodiest battle, yet 4,971 Americans have died needlessly in only a small fraction of fatal fires that have ravaged this country since the turn of the century.

Rail Quiz

How many streamlined passenger trains has Great Northern Railway on order, and where will they operate?

Nine, including five Empire Builders for service between Chicago, the Twin Cities and the Pacific Northwest. The others will operate as follows: Two between Seattle, Wash., and Vancouver, B. C., one St. Paul, Minn. and Grand Forks, N. D., one Great Falls, Mont. and Havre, Mont.

'Don't Shoot'

Although it is generally believed that the expression, "Don't shoot until you see the whites of their eyes," or "don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes," was original with Putnam or Prescott at Bunker Hill, as a matter of fact it dates back many centuries in military history and is known to have been in use in military terminology as early as the reign of Henry IV of France who died in 1610.

Square Biscuits, Yet!

I see by a neighboring paper, that the round biscuit is on the way out. Yes, sir, home-management specialists have found that the square biscuit lends itself to assembly-line production and easy storage better than those customary ovals.

Well, we're all for progress, but that's one new idea we just don't cotton to. A round biscuit, spread nicely amidships with snappy country cheese, looks like a biscuit! And accompanied by a mellow glass of beer, it's a combination that you can't improve on!

So at the risk of being called old-fashioned, I'm voting for round biscuits, that fit a hungry man's mouth like no square imitation ever will ... and for American beer served in the good old-fashioned way, in tall, cool mugs or ordinary glasses, with frosty sides and bubbles winking at the brim!

Think I'll step out to the kitchen for a snack right now!

Clamping Down Drunken Drivers

The report of the State Highway Department shows that 317 drivers of motor vehicles had their licenses revoked during September and 1,043 suspended. The records show that in 290 of the 317 revocations, the driver was under the influence of intoxicants.

That is following the right system. A fine frequently can be waved aside by a drunken driver with but little, if any, personal inconvenience, but the revocation or suspension of his license is another story. It has been suggested that in cases where the man is found to be driving his car while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, that the car be put out of circulation for a certain time, that is arrest the car as well as the driver. This policy might bring the members of the family of the offender into action in striving to keep him away from the steering wheel after he had been driving.---Princeton Union.

Going to shoot your own Thanksgiving dinner?

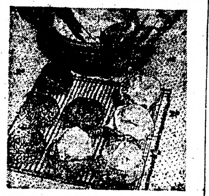
Be certain that November 27 is a day of Thankfulness by handling your gun carefully while hunting, warns National conservation Bureau. It's a grim fact that over 2,900 persons died last year as a result of accidentally discharged firearms. November was the most fatal month of the year.

Care with a gun doesn't end when the hunting trip is over, the Bureau said. Many of last year's accidents occured while guns were being cleaned or handled in the home.

C. L. Heinze of Thief River Falls was a Holt visitor Wednesday.

The following families gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sagstuen Wednesday evening to give the latter a birthday party: Ray Sagsuuen, H. Peterson, L. Sagstuen, and A. Sannes.

Little Spiced Cakes Are Tempting Dessert



Little spiced cakes provide tempting variety for the dessert bill-of-fare, says the Home Cooking editor of Capper's Farmer, a publication of national circulation.

These cakes require only ½ cup of sugar and are topped with a toothsome frosting that uses no sugar at all.

- ½ c. shortening
- ½ c. sugar
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 c. molasses
- 3 c. flour
- 1 tsp. soda
- ½ tsp. cloves
- ½ tsp. cinnamon
- ½ tsp. nutmeg
- 1 c. sour milk
- 1 tsp. grated lemon rind
- 1 c. raisins

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs and molasses. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with milk. Add lemon rind and raisins. Bake in greased cup cake tins for 20-25 minutes or a 2-pound loaf pan, for 40 minutes, in moderate oven (350°). Makes 3 dozen cup cakes. Frost with Fluffy Frosting:

- 2 egg whites
- 1 c. light corn sirup
- ¼ tsp. salt
- ½ tsp. vanilla

Beat egg whites and salt until frothy. Add corn sirup in fourths, beating until frosting is thick and holds a peak. Beat in flavoring. The stiffness can be controlled by adding more or less sirup.

Foreign Aid and Its Effects

An understanding of human nature will tell us that when we stop giving aid to European nations, most of the countries there will become angry at us. The more aid you give to an individual and the longer you give it, the more disgruntled he becomes when you stop. This seems to be true of nations. Naturally, now that we have hinted at a little less liberality toward Europe, some have yelled "selfish" and "unsympathetic" at us.

The more we give and the longer we give it, the greater will grow this scorn toward the giver. When finally we have to stop the flow of our money toward Europe, anger will be the reaction. That was true after World War I. America had been very liberal, but when aid was halted, up went the tariff barriers. England campaigned: "Buy Within the Empire." Depression followed.

What Results?

Following World War II, America again has been extremely liberal. We have spent some 10 billion dollars during each of the past two years. Help we gave to England during the war and since will total nearly 40 billion dollars. We have not been stingy with our food, our goods, nor our dollars, although this drain on our resources has helped to make things tougher for the average American breadwinner.

All the Lend-Lease, all the UNNRA relief, all the goods, all the dollars—what are the results? England is not even on her feet, much less Europe. The crises seem to mount, with England right now facing her greatest crisis since the war. All of these facts must lead us to re-study our aid to Europe and the possible effect of continuing handouts to so many outstretched palms.

Europe's Problem

Obviously, we cannot keep on giving at the rate of 10 billion dollars a year to Europe for the next ten, twenty, or thirty years. Then what can we do? It is plain common sense that the best thing we can do is to help Europe figure out how she can help herself. We must help Europe to get up on her own feet and off the necks of American taxpayers. That is the only kind of aid that will ever be worth much to Europe.

The sooner we get Europe to thinking in terms of helping herself, the better it will be for all of us. We might send her food and money till doomsday, but it would only make America poor and would not make Europe rich. Europe must understand that the problem of rehabilitation is her own problem, first of all, and not entirely ours. We must try to re-educate Europe in the principles of American enterprise and initiative. Hard work and self-dependence are among those first principles.

Europe needs production. We can supply machinery on the basis that it may be paid for with goods produced. We can keep down our trade barriers and buy from Europe. Only in that way can those nations get on their feet and buy from us. There are definite ways to help war-torn Europe without imposing the serious injury of continued, outright aid. The sooner our help gets on this basis, the better for everybody.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Meat and Wheat Bode Ill for 1948; Marshall Plan Ready for Congress; Public Backs 'Tough' U. S. Policy

Released by WNU Features.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

FOOD PUZZLE

Meat vs. Wheat

Domestic food situation in the U. S. is entering a critical stage, with two aspects standing out in sharp opposition to each other:

1. The government, determined to ship 500 million bushels of wheat to Europe by next June, is campaigning to save a major portion of that amount by cutting down on the feed consumption of cattle, hogs and poultry. That line of reasoning holds that smaller flocks and feeding to lighter weights will save more grain than any other single effort.

2. The supply of meat is going to be considerably less than it has been and the demand will be greater. Meat prices are expected to go much higher in 1948. Further curtailment of meat production by saving grain at the feed trough will intensify that already serious situation.

There is no danger of a bread or food shortage of any kind this winter because of the nation's bumper wheat harvest. The pinch, if it comes, will appear after the middle of next year, precipitated by a currently threatening drouth and failure of the winter wheat crop. Added to that is the fact that domestic uses, plus exports, will leave from this year's harvest of 1.4 billion bushels only a 100 million-bushel carryover by the time of the next harvest — too small a volume in the event of a short crop.

Meat, which right now is a little cheaper than it has been because more animals are being slaughtered, will continue in great demand next year because consumer buying power will remain high.

The supply, however, will be less. The agriculture department estimates there will be only 21.5 billion pounds of meat produced in 1948, compared to 23.2 billion pounds this year. There will be 4 million fewer cattle on farms next January than last January, smaller hogs will be sent to market and there will be no increase in the stocks of sheep, which are at an 80-year low.

FINAL TOUCHES:

Marshall Plan

After caroming from praise to criticism to condemnation for the past few months, the celebrated Marshall plan to help Europe regain its feet is being whipped into final shape under direction of Secretary of State George Marshall, its progenitor.

One known fact loomed large in the mind of the American taxpayer: The plan may cost up to 20 billion dollars for the four-year period during which it will be in effect.

Marshall, who abandoned temporarily his debating in the U. N. general assembly, returned to his Washington office to put the finishing touches on his plan, which will be laid before congress when the special session opens November 17.

The Marshall plan, subject to late revisions, may be outlined broadly in these main points:

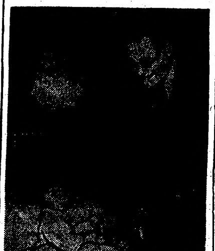
1. U. S. would make available to Europe next year a combination of relief and recovery supplies totalling about six billion dollars. Relief supplies (food) would be free; recovery supplies (machinery) would be financed with loans.

2. Because of shifting conditions, it will be impossible accurately to forecast the amount of help Europe will need beyond the first year.

3. Sums from the U. S. would decrease each year as recovery progress was made.

4. The plan would be administered in the U. S. by a new government agency and in Europe by an organization representing the 16 nations which drew up their estimate of needs at the Paris conference.

Time Out From Crises

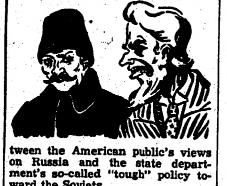


Paul Ramadier, French premier, chats with a bed-ridden tot during a tour of a Paris hospital. Possibly feeling that he would like to be in a hospital himself, Ramadier is sorely beset with economic crises and cabinet crises, as well as a more recent political crisis brought about by the sudden ascendancy of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Rally of the French People party.

GET TOUGH:

U. S. Approves

Soviet leaders, who cry "warmonger" every time an American diplomat splits an infinitive, are gravely in error if they suppose there is any major cleavage between the American public's views on Russia and the state department's so-called "tough" policy toward the Soviets.



That conclusion was brought out in a recent Gallup poll which indicated that, actually, the predominant mood of public opinion today favors an even tougher policy than the state department is following.

Answers to the question, "Do you think that in dealing with Russia and other countries the U. S. is insisting too much on having its own way?" were: Yes, 12 per cent; No, 78 per cent; No opinion, 10 per cent.

Further, 62 per cent of the American people believe that the U. S. is being too soft in its policy toward Russia. Only 6 per cent think it is being too tough, and 24 per cent say our official attitude toward the Soviets is about right.

PLAGUE:

Egypt Stricken

Cholera, the dreaded black plague is spreading so swiftly in Egypt that a total of 6,000 dead has been predicted by year's end.

With many stricken villages isolated by troops, other small communities are ringed with bonfires day and night in the belief that fire will keep out the disease.

Meanwhile, neighboring nations were taking steps to prevent the spread of cholera from the upper Nile valley. Greece, Italy and Palestine have discontinued international traffic, while private shipping lines will bypass Egyptian ports and air travel is diverted away from Egypt.

Outside help in combatting the disease is at a minimum in Egypt. Swiss scientists alone were said to be helping local health officers. There is a desperate shortage of vaccines, DDT and medical specialists.

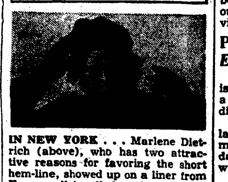
LOW EBB:

Russian Trade

Two years after World War II, trade between the U. S. and Russia, wartime allies, has dwindled to the extent that shipment of U. S. goods to the Soviets is expected to reach the lowest point in 10 years before the end of 1947.

The United States today is sending a smaller percentage of American-made machinery and equipment to the Russians than it did in the years before Pearl Harbor.

HEADLINERS



IN NEW YORK . . . Marlene Dietrich (above), who has two attractive reasons for favoring the short hem-line, showed up on a liner from Europe all bundled up in the "new look," drew hardly an ogle as she ankled down the gangplank.

IN KNOXVILLE, TENN. . . . Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, former Pearl Harbor commander, told how on December 7, 1941, he was struck above the heart by a spent Japanese bullet which only bruised him.

IN CINCINNATI . . . Susie, 21 years old, the only trained gorilla in the world, died in her zoo cage after a stroke which paralyzed her right side.

IN SHANGHAI . . . Military authorities looked long for three character witnesses to pay them for their testimony at a recent court martial, finally found two of them in jail in Shanghai, the third in jail in Peiping.

IN WASHINGTON . . . Mrs. Harry Truman, longing to return to the peace of Independence, Mo., announced firmly that she doesn't want to be President, doesn't want Margaret to marry a President, wouldn't raise her son to be President if she had a son.

FORMS
INCOME
Consider The Facts In Adopting A Child

HAVE you often thought about adopting a child and let the matter drop — just like that? Granted the first step is always the hardest but even that one can be easy if you know which way you're oing.

The first thing to do is consult the authorized adoption agency nearest you. Go prepared to answer questions—which are kept confidential—about your home life, your marriage and the type of child you want.

Is there a minimum income? No—Farm people for instance have small actual cash income, yet provide most of their needs from the land. Moderate means and good home environment are sufficient.

Authorized agencies in every state are listed in our latest Reader Service booklet "Adopting a Child" along with actual case histories, the tragedy of black market babies and how children are tested before being offered to you.

Puppet Sympathizers At Sumatra Funerals

At funerals in Sumatra, one of the most important participants is a life-sized wooden female doll, mounted on a low platform equipped with wheels, which is made to perform tricks by cords manipulated by an operator, says Collier's.

To placate the spirits of the deceased, the doll first goes through a ritual dance and then, to sympathize with the mourners, she approaches and puts her arms around each one, bowing her head, closing her eyes and shedding tears during the embrace.

Survey Shows Increase Of Part-Time Farmers

The trend is for an increasing number of people who are not full-time farmers to live on farms, a survey conducted by the Cornell, N. Y., agricultural experiment station shows.

In the survey district, representative of most farm areas, the report shows that half the farm occupants are either part-time or resident farmers. They occupy one-fifth of the land while the owners do 13 per cent of the farming business in this area. The part-time farmers utilize most of their land, while 60 per cent of the crop land on the resident farms is idle.

Greater concentration of land among a smaller number of farmers, making more small farms and homesteads available, may have helped bring about this trend. Many small farmers find that they can do better at other jobs and work their farms part time rather than compete with the larger farms, the survey points out. It also was pointed out that some people felt a farm would be security in case of another depression.

The housing shortage is another reason for people moving to rural areas and in some cases retired farmers still lived on the old homestead. Other residents found that buying a farm was cheaper than buying a city home. Better transportation and more non-rural occupations in the country have made it possible for more people to live there, the study points out.

Automobile Paint

The more permanent automobile finishes usually are obtained with baking japans or enamels, which are dried and hardened in ovens at high temperatures. These and other special finishes, which are fairly durable, can be applied only in factories. The materials sold for refinishing automobiles at home are usually colored pigments ground in japan for flat-finish undercoats and colored varnishes or enamels to be applied and dried at ordinary temperatures. Sometimes finishing coats of clear varnish are used, but a colored varnish usually makes a more durable finishing coat. Special heat-resistant paints for engine hoods and radiators and special preparations for tops are also on the market.

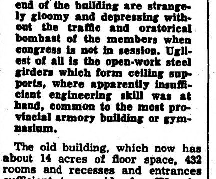
THE HOME TOWN REPORTER IN WASHINGTON

WALTER SHEAD, WNU Correspondent

Casing the Capital

WASHINGTON has been overrun with tourists this summer, the greatest influx of visitors in history of the capital. Main points of interest in the metropolitan area, of course, are the capitol building, the White House and the Washington monument. The Smithsonian institute, the Lincoln memorial, the scores of other points of historical interest and the beautiful government buildings keep the sightseeing busses filled to capacity.

Out on Capitol Hill, within the three-and-a-half acre capitol building itself, tourists troop through the otherwise deserted grandeur, in groups and singly, many of them with the letter-perfect guides who say their pieces about the various rooms, the paintings, the hall of statues, the huge cast iron dome, the figure of Peace, the old Supreme courtroom and, of course, the house and senate chambers.



AND THE CROWD IN THE FOREGROUND OF OUR BEAUTIFUL CAPITOL ARE TOURISTS, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, AND NOT TO BE CONFUSED WITH—BARTLOW

These large rooms at either end of the building are strangely gloomy and depressing without the traffic and oratorical bombast of the members when congress is not in session. Ugliest of all is the open-work steel girders which form ceiling supports, where apparently insufficient engineering skill was at hand, common to the most provincial armory building or gymnasium.

The old building, which now has about 14 acres of floor space, 432 rooms and recesses and entrances sufficient to provide for 679 windows and 554 doors, has stood there on the hill since the first cornerstone was laid in 1793. There were two original buildings, connected by a wooden passageway, which were partially burned by the British in 1814, but the original foundations were used to rebuild the present central structure, which was completed in 1829. The present house chamber at one end was completed in 1857 and the senate chamber at the other end was completed two years later in 1859.

Most interesting room in the venerable building to your Home Town Reporter is the old Supreme court room occupied by that body for about a hundred years until 1935, when the present marble building was finished across the street. The room was first used as a senate chamber in the early 1800s.

• • •

Most impressive things about Washington to the average tourist, aside from the points of historical interest, are the cleanliness of the city, the wide tree-lined streets and avenues, the beauty of the numberless parks, the magificence of the government buildings, the various embassies on Massachusetts avenue and 16th street and the "circles" scattered throughout the city, from which as many as six streets emanate in all directions.

The railroads are putting out reams of tear-jerking propaganda seeking to justify all sorts of things, including higher rates and freedom from restraint under the trust laws. Perhaps it is a fact that earnings of the railroads do not compare favorably with that of other public utilities. But if the public is unsympathetic it is because of past "public be damned" attitude of the railroads themselves.

Incidentally, another railroad lobbyist has registered recently. He is Donald D. Conn of the Transportation Association of America. His salary is $20,000 plus $8,000 for expenses. His address is 105 W. Adams street, Chicago, which is the address of the Western Railroads office.

Rural Electric administration has announced there are more than 2,250,000 American farms today without electricity. The administration has supplied 400,000 farms with electricity this year, bringing the total to 3,574,641 or 61 per cent.

Since coming to Washington to direct the program, he has lost five pounds.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Prissy's Got a Man! (Maybe)

Yesterday Sis Martin, our librarian, found an article cut from their file copy of the Clarion. When she compared it with another copy that I gave her she found it was my column on "How to Keep a Husband Happy."

Nothing unusual about that. Except the last person seen reading the paper was Prissy Hoskins (our town's proverbial Old Maid)!

Well, if Prissy has finally got a man, more power to her. And more tolerance to both of them . . . because that's what my column was about: Tolerance of a husband's taste for old hats, old pipes, old friends, and mellow beer. And tolerance on the husband's part of a wife's tastes and habits.

From where I sit, nobody begrudges Prissy taking that clipping from the Clarion. But I'd like to hint that if she'd just subscribe, she'd get my thoughts on tolerance firsthand. And in return I'll treat her to a glass of beer.

Ohio Water Cover

Rain and snow provide Ohio with an annual average of 38 inches of water over each foot of surface. Since weather records have been kept, the most water precipitated in Ohio in one year was 50.4 inches in 1890; and the least amount was 26.6 inches in 1934, when the deficiency compelled farmers in many areas to haul water for livestock, and to see their crops wither.

Word has been recieved here of the marriage of Oscar S. Norhe, son of Mrs. S. H. Nohre and Rosella Adamek, daughter of Mrs. Rose Adamek of Brockway, Nevada.

They were married at 8 o'clock August 28, in an impressive ceremony at Reno, Nev.

The bride was charming in a teal blue suit with white accessories. Her corsage was a spray of gardenias. Linda Mitchell and E. H. Beemer, both of Reno, were attendants.

Following a honeymoon thru Nevada and California the couple went to Powers, Oregon to make their home. Mr. Nohre is a partner in a business at Powers.

The Nazareth Luther League is sponsoring a Bible display in a downtown store window. In the big newspapers you're born, you're married, you bear children, you die. And all the time you're listed under Vital Statistics, as impersonally and as a sardine in a can.

In the hometown newspaper, every birth, every wedding, every death, is news. News to be written up in detail and with feeling. News to be avidly read by hundreds of friends and neighbors to whom each individual is a human being, known and respected and loved, not merely a vital statistics, noted and forgotten.

The difference between the metropolitan and the country press is the difference between a mere entry in the records and a living and breathing entity.

Be certain that November 27 is a day of Thankfulness by handling your gun carefully while hunting, warns National conservation Bureau. It's a grim fact that over 2,900 persons died last year as a result of accidentally discharged firearms. November was the most fatal month of the year.

Care with a gun doesn't end when the hunting trip is over, the Bureau said. Many of last year's accidents occured while guns were being cleaned or handled in the home.

To All Our Customers:

SHORTER DAYS . . . INCREASED USE OF LIGHTS . . . mean added loads to our lines during the evening peak. We, therefore, ask that care be exercised in the home, in the office and elsewhere in the matter of cutting down on the use of eleectricity as much as possible between the hours of 5:00 and 6:00 P. M.

Commercial Clubs in many of our towns are urging the business places to close at 5:30 P. M., and the business men have responded whole-heartedly. This relieves our evening peak considerably.

We regret the need for load curtailment, but please remember that it is only a temporary measure. By spring of 1948 we expect that all restrictions can be lifted.

Lac Sap Poisonous

Lac is produced much in the same manner as rubber. The lac tree, when the bark is cut or scored, slowly exudes the lac, a white resinous sap. It is highly poisonous and attacks the person much as does our poison ivy. The tree is cut but once in a day and then not again for four days. The first puncture is made near the base of the stem, while each successive cut is farther from the root. When the trunk has been tapped from stem to apex, the tree is cut down, but more lac may be obtained from the branches. The sap or lac is drawn from the tree during the summer at night, collected in shells and brought to market in a viscous state, or dried into cakes which become dark in color. The raw lac, after straining, is ground to crush its grain and give it a more uniform liquidity, then pressed through hempen cloth. After this, it is an evenly flowing liquid ready for the lacquerer's use.

Sod Crops Are Credited With Boosting Corn Yield

Corn yields on Ohio's Paulding county experiment farm were the highest when the land was in sod crops half of the time, according to tests conducted by Ohio State university. The corn yields declined as the proportion of sod crops was reduced.

Too much corn and other grains in the rotation "mine" out the soil's organic matter supply, causing the soil to pack down and lose its tilth. As a result the land is difficult to work. Crop yields decrease.

The key to restoring the organic matter supply and rebuilding soil structure deep enough to permit top yields from the land is the regular use of legume-grass mixtures in the rotation.

One of the important steps in getting good stands of legumes and grasses is use of lime as determined by soil tests. Regular use of barnyard manure, plowing down crop residues and use of commercial fertilizer to replenish the soil supply of phosphorus and potash so necessary to the growth of legumes are other needed steps.

The advantage of depending on all these soil conservation steps in promoting the growth of cover crops is that each works in combination to help the others. Once a good stand of deep-rooted legumes is established, it will open the soil to ventilate it and put mineralized organic matter deep down below the plow level.

Validity of Meson Theory In Atom Field Questioned

Doubt is cast upon the validity of the meson theory, which explains principally how the nucleus of the atom is held together, by cosmic ray investigations conducted by Prof. John A. Wheeler and his associates, Dr. T. Sigurgeirsson and Dr. A. Yamakawa at Princeton university.

The latter two have found that the mesons in cosmic rays are absorbed in different ways and at different rates by substances with different atomic weights, the elements heavier than aluminum being able to absorb the meson and hold their energy while the lighter elements become radioactive to increasing extents and emit decay electrons, in a way completely in disagreement with the predictions based on the meson theory of nuclear forces.

Professor Wheeler describes, in the "Physical Review," a mechanism in which atoms absorb mesons, leading him to conclude that there is a very low probability that these strange particles, mesons, will be knocked out of atoms by bombarding them with heavy particles. Extending this conclusion to cosmic rays, doubt is cast upon the currently held theory that the mesons in cosmic rays are produced by shattering atoms high in the atmosphere by heavy incoming primary particles.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Big Four Meet Awaited With Gloom Grain Men Ask 'Speculation' Probe; Congress Hears Aid Fund Request

Released by WNU Features.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

BIG FOUR:
Pessimism

With the imminence of the most vital international occurrence of recent months—the Big Four foreign ministers meeting in London on November 25—the mood surrounding the coming conference was predominantly one of pessimism.

That there was much justification for such pessimism, no one doubted. When the chief representatives of the U. S., Great Britain, France and Russia come together they will tackle the tough, deadlocked problems of writing peace treaties for Germany and Austria.

Deputy foreign ministers, in London to dispense with preliminaries before Marshall, Molotov, Bevin and Bidault put their heads together, said the powers were as badly split as ever on major issues.

If the conference fails, as it is very likely to do, the U. S. will have to face the question of whether or not it wants to conclude a separate peace with that portion of Germany outside the Russian-occupied zone. Such a treaty, not involving the Soviets, probably would precipitate a final split between this nation and Russia.

Nevertheless, sentiment has been rising in the U. S. favoring such an action if the Soviets refuse to cooperate in straightening out the problems of Germany. James F. Byrnes, former secretary of state, advocated that course, as have other responsible officials.

The corollary to that proposition is that the U. S. then must follow through by keeping itself strong militarily and economically, proving to the rest of the world that it has embarked on a definite policy course and that that course is the right one.

INVITATION:
Grain Battle

Three of the nation's major grain exchanges, smarting under President Truman's accusation that their "speculation" is responsible for prevailing high prices of cereals, have carried the attack into the enemy camp by requesting a special congressional investigation by the joint committee on the economic report.

The request was made by the Chicago board of trade, Kansas City board of trade and the Minneapolis grain exchange in a letter to Sen. Robert Taft (Rep., O.) and Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott (Rep., Mich.), cochairmen of the committee. Taft responded immediately with a promise of further hearings.

Countering Mr. Truman's repeated charges that gambling and speculation by grain exchanges have boosted food prices higher, the exchange officials contended that the real cause of the rise in grain prices is the administration's "extraordinary and ever increasing purchases of grain and flour export." Administration "bungling and lack of planning" also were cited by the grain officials.

Wherever the truth may lie—and it probably is somewhere midway between the government and grain exchange viewpoints—it should be recognized that a force akin to a minor economic law is operating in this particular controversy:

Normal government reaction, whenever grain prices shoot above what is considered a safe level, is to lay the blame on the grain exchanges, charging them with manipulating prices through speculation. That has occurred often enough in U. S. history to bear out the theory. Grain dealers, of course, invariably blame the situation on over-exporting.

From that standpoint, at least, an investigation at this time should shed some new light on the long-standing controversy. It might even provide some real information on why prices are so high.

BIG REQUEST:
Relief Funds

Even before congressmen from all over the country had lugged their suitcases back to Washington to open the special session on November 17, word went around that President Truman was fixing to ask them to appropriate about $1,155,000,000 in temporary European relief funds to tide the stricken continent through the winter.

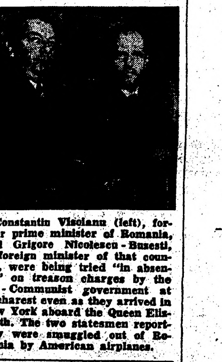
Part of that amount, it was thought, would be given as a direct grant for stopgap help, particularly the sums allocated to France and Italy.

Approximately 250 million dollars of the total appropriation would be earmarked to take care of the obligations Great Britain has failed to meet in her zone of occupied Germany. The British say they will be unable to carry out their half of the bargain in Germany because of their inability to get dollars to spend for supplies in the United States.

It all made for a confused and complex picture which well could be likened to the fantastic abstractions that pass for modern art—a jumble of weird forms largely incomprehensible to the eye of the average beholder.

But the interim relief, intended only as an oxygen tent to keep democracy in Western Europe breathing through the winter, was only part of the problem for congress. On top of that, it will have to consider the six or seven billion dollars to be requested in connection with the long-range Marshall plan for eventual recovery of 16 European nations.

They Escaped



Constantin Visoianu (left), former prime minister of Romania, and Grigore Nicolescu-Buzesti, ex-foreign minister of that country, were being tried "in absentia" on treason charges by the pro-Communist government at Bucharest even as they arrived in New York aboard the Queen Elizabeth. The two statesmen reportedly were smuggled out of Romania by American airplanes.

RED CZECHS:
Go Communist

Add Czechoslovakia to the list of Communist-dominated nations in Eastern Europe.

A man named Klement Gottwald, Communist premier of Czechoslovakia, has emerged as a new strong man, possessing complete authority from the national cabinet to rebuild the government of semi-autonomous Slovakia.

Rebuilding the government of the semi-autonomous nation will mean simply that Gottwald and his Communists will change Czechoslovakia from a nation whose people had at least a part measure of self-government to a nation under totalitarian rule.

Although the Slovak Democrats, predominantly conservative, are the majority party in the country, the Communists were able to place Gottwald, a former blacksmith, in complete power.

Thus Czechoslovakia has shifted from a position as a Soviet satellite with some will of its own to a lower position as a Russian dominated state with literally no self-determination. It has become another unit in the string of Soviet buffer states to the south and west.

HUGHES AND CRIES:
Inquiry Renewed

Howard Hughes had just barely snuggled his monster plywood flying boat back into its berth after making a tentative, mile-long flight in it over Long Beach harbor when the reopened congressional inquiry into the now celebrated wartime airplane contracts threw a fresh shower of sparks around the millionaire sportsman and industrialist.

Elliott Roosevelt, former air force brigadier general, was brought into the proceedings again because of his insistence that Hughes' F-11 photo reconnaissance plane be put into production for the army during the war.

A new issue was introduced in the form of a purported "tax deficiency" of almost six million dollars on the books against Hughes and his companies. Sen. Homer Ferguson (Rep., Mich.), chairman of the war investigating sub-committee, was quick to point out, however, that "no crime or fraud" was involved.

Scientists to Explore Bottom of World in Helicopter

"Bunger's Oasis," 300-square-mile, barren, rock-strewn area on the Knox coast of the Antarctic continent, will be explored by a group of scientists operating from a helicopter this winter.

The region deserves the term "oasis" only in that it is an ice-free region existing in a land otherwise covered with massive layers of glacial ice.

Since its discovery by Lt. Cmdr. C. E. Bunger last January, the oasis, largest ice-free area south of the Antarctic circle, has been the subject of much dispute. This winter's expedition, led by Cmdr. G. L. Ketchum, will travel aboard a navy icebreaker to within flight distance of the oasis, which has at least 10 open-water lakes.

It was first described as being located about 20 miles inland from the coast, with an elevation of about 200 feet and entirely cut off from the sea.

Minute Painting

An American whose hobby is making works of art in miniature has produced an oil painting, a winter landscape, only 1/65th of a square inch in area, or so small that it had to be painted with a brush consisting of a single human hair.

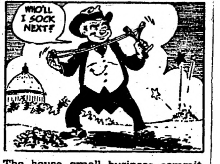
Threats to Freedom

EVEN as the Freedom Train, loaded with priceless documents of our democratic heritage, is touring the country, even as congress opens its special session to give aid and succor to needy in foreign lands and even as we fight in the United Nations for democratic ideals and democratic governments in other nations, evidences of intolerance and a breakdown of democracy's processes here in the capital of the world's greatest democracy indicate that it's time to give serious thought to the danger of thoughtless smear and gossip and the inquisitorial methods of governmental committee investigations.

The Howard Hughes inquisition by the senate war investigating committee was a farce and a travesty.



WHO'LL I SOCK NEXT?

The house small business committee charges of communism and socialism against farmer cooperatives backfired as a political boomerang.

The splendid report of the President's committee on civil rights, which came at a most opportune time, charged that the inalienable rights of American citizens were being trampled underfoot and cited instance after instance of violations of basic rights under the constitution, particularly here in Washington.

The house un-American affairs committee has given another flagrant demonstration of intolerance and smear in branding men and women Communists without a chance at defense or cross-examination. Even if these people are real Communists and, as such, guilty of treason, the constitution of our democracy gives them the right to defense and trial in open court.

Now the committee announces its next inquisition will be against the teachers in our schools.

Even Senator Taft of Ohio has not escaped the tendency to smear, for he was branded a Communist by Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate boards. His sin was to introduce a housing bill which the real estate board said is communistic.

Eric Johnston, one of the outstanding thinkers in this country and former president of the U. S. chamber of commerce, was treated like a police court character by this congressional committee when he said:

"Senator Taft is not going to worry about being called a Communist. But not every American is a Senator Taft who can ignore such an accusation. Most of us in America are just little people and loose charges can hurt little people. When just one man is falsely damned as a Communist in an hour like this when the red issue is at white heat, no one of us is safe."

* * *

A poll of World War II veterans made by the Army Times, the G.I. weekly, indicates that about 71 per cent of the ex-soldiers would vote for General Eisenhower for President if he were nominated by either major party. Their next popular choice was President Truman.

* * *

Vets Still Fighting

Veterans' organizations are preparing to fight anew in the next regular session for new legislation on everything from a bonus to technical amendments to pension laws. The senate appropriations committee made a tabulation showing that requests for veterans legislation already pending and carried over from the first session of the 80th congress would, if granted, cost 40 billion dollars.

A substitute for all these requests, backed by 19 senators and 6 house members, is a bill calling for a veterans' economic development corporation which would be capitalized at 500 million dollars through a government bond issue. It is intended to do for the veteran what the RFC has done for business.

* * *

Labor Battles Solons

Although the 16 million members of organized labor unions are out to beat members of congress who voted to override the veto on the Taft-Hartley labor law, these votes are so unevenly distributed geographically that organized labor has little strength in the districts of most of the congressmen involved. Labor has a reasonable chance of defeating about one-fifth of the 331 house members and the 28 senators who voted to override the veto.

Brain of Automatic Rat Memorizes Pathways

One of the latest and most amazing automatons is a "rat that learns." Started at the entrance of a maze, the metal animal moves along in search of its goal in the center, retracing its steps, like a live rat, when finding itself in blind passageways. As these mistakes register on its mechanical brain, the rat, after completing one experimental trip, is able to go directly from the entrance to the goal.

A THANKSGIVING FEAST

So long as harvests heap their bounties into baskets, so long as pumpkins turn golden on the vine, so long as turkeys strut their stuff and we prize our Pilgrim heritage, there will always be a Thanksgiving feast. There will be the traditional roast fowl with stuffing, savory sauces, harvest fruits in delicious combination, and puddings and pies festively rich far beyond the aspirations of puddings and pies for any other dinner of the year.

The table remains much the same from one Thanksgiving to another—but how strikingly different our modern kitchen looks from that of our grandmother's on Thanksgiving morning! Were the housewife of two generations ago a guest at our annual feast this year, she would stare at our kitchen in amazement, doubting there was to be any feast at all!

Modern Days and Simple Ways

For the modern feast is becoming more and more simple to prepare, and there are countless conveniences which make it possible to prepare much of it in advance. Thus the modern housewife, who is serving a dinner at one o'clock, can be prettily gowned, ready to receive and enjoy her guests even though they arrive informally before the noon hour. Her mind is already at rest as to the ultimate success of her dinner, and the last-minute touches can be done with ease.

Now for a peek into the modern kitchen. At twelve o'clock the only real sign of cooking is the turkey roasting golden-brown in the oven. Canapés have been prepared early in the morning ready for last minute browning in the oven. Sweet potatoes have been cooked the day before and are now already stuffed in orange cups waiting for their final few moments of browning. The consommé, cooked earlier, is ready for a few moments' simmering before serving. The refrigerator contains canned pears which have been pickled and chilled to be served with cheese balls, also ready for a final tossing into a crisp, delectable salad. The whipped cream on the refrigerator shelf will be the final touch to that delicious squash pie which was baked a whole day in advance.

Is it any wonder, then, that the modern Thanksgiving hostess is as carefree and gay as her guests as she announces dinner? Here is her menu—the recipes are tested and designed to serve eight persons:

Hot Pimiento Canapés
Olives Consommé Julienne
Mixed Pickles
Roast Turkey Oyster Stuffing
Giblet Gravy
Mashed Potatoes
Creamed Cauliflower
Sweet Potatoes in Orange Cups
Frozen Cranberries
Pickled Pear and Cheese Salad
Squash Pie With Honey and Whipped Cream
Camembert Cheese with Crackers
Spiced Nuts
Coffee

Tested Recipes

Hot Pimiento Canapés: Prepare as many toast circles as there are guests. Spread with butter and then a layer of mayonnaise. Cut circles of canned pimiento the same size as the toast circles and place one on each. Sprinkle generously with grated cheese and a few grains of salt, and press a whole stuffed olive in the center of each. Place under the broiler flame until the cheese melts and browns slightly. Serve at once with parsley garnish.

Consommé Julienne: Cut one-half cup of raw carrot and one-fourth cup of celery in match-like strips, and cut one-fourth cup of canned stringless beans in lengthwise shreds about an inch and a half long. Melt one tablespoon of butter in a pan, add the vegetables and cook slowly until the vegetables are slightly brown. Add the contents of four No. cans of consommé, and simmer until the vegetables are tender. Season to taste. Serve in bouillon cups with a few vegetables in each.

Sweet Potatoes in Orange Cups: Beat three cups of hot mashed sweet potatoes with one-fourth cup of butter, one teaspoon salt, one and one-half tablespoons sugar and three-fourths cup of crushed pineapple until the mixture is light and fluffy. Cut four oranges in halves, remove the pulp carefully (reserving it for salad, fruit cups or breakfast fruit) and pile the potato mixture lightly in the orange shells. Sprinkle one-third cup of chopped salted peanuts on top and brown in a hot oven.

Squash Pie with Honey and Whipped Cream: To one-half of a No. 3 can of squash (or two cupfuls) add one and one-half cups of thin cream or milk, three-fourths cup of sugar which has been mixed with three-fourths teaspoon ginger, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, one-half teaspoon cinnamon and one teaspoon salt. Then add three eggs which have been beaten not too light. Pour into the crust and bake like a custard pie, having the oven hot at first, and then reduce (450 degrees for ten minutes, 325 degrees for thirty minutes, or until the filling is set and a knife comes out clean). Cool. Spread a layer of honey over the top, cover with unsweetened whipped cream, and serve.

Contraceptive Literature

The federal law of 1873 classified contraceptive literature and instruments with pornographic literature and obscene devices, and prohibited their importation and their transportation by mail or (in interstate commerce) by common carriers.

On Thanksgiving let's all give thanks for the World's best living.

We should really set more places at that Thanksgiving table—places for a whole company of glorious guests. For Jefferson, quill pen in hand, writing the flaming words that define the rights and the dignity of mankind. For Samuel Adams stumping the streets of Boston and demanding freedom of speech and the press.

Let us say thanks, as we enjoy our plenty, for the pioneers who built the greatest country in the world, the mightiest industry and the most solid prosperity. But, most of all, say thanks for those pioneers of the spirit who made a people free.

Metropolitan Papers Please Copy!

Folks here were burned up over an article on Our Town I reprinted from a city paper. Made us sound like a bunch of "hicks" who whittled sticks and wore chin whiskers. (Last person I saw with chin whiskers was passing through on his way east.)

So I ran an editorial on how we spoke of city "slickers"—as over-dressed wiseacres, only interested in making money, and spending it in night clubs.

Fact is, if we got to know each other we'd probably find we're not much different, underneath. City folks work hard; like to come home at night to their families; and relax with a moderate glass of beer, like we do.

From where I sit, it doesn't matter if you live in an apartment house or on a farm—work in an office or a cornfield—the American tradition of quiet home life, temperate habits, and neighborliness is common to all of us.

Forest Air Cleaner

Forest air is much more free from bacteria of all kinds than is the air just outside the forest. According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, there are generally 23 to 28 per cent fewer bacteria in the forest air, since the foliage acts as a kind of filter, retaining dust and other particles in the air. The bacteria on the leaves are then readily killed by exposure to the sun.

Who Owns This Bank?

You probably know the answer, yet it's one of those simple, obvious facts that are often lost sight of. The stockholders who own this bank are your neighbors and ours—average citizens who take part in the home, social and business life of this community. They invested their money in our capital stock because they had faith in the community's future, and in the progressiveness of their fellow men. Often the money they invested was part of their hard-earned life savings.

This confidence on the part of our stockholders, who in turn enjoy the confidence and respect of of many others, is a good-will-building force which we value highly. To quote a familiar saying, it means that we are "of the people, for the people and by the people."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Marshall Fixes Deadline for Aid; 1947 Corn Crop Down 25 Per Cent; Britain Decides on Labor Draft

Released by WNU Features.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

THEIR DECISION . . . With these four men rests, in a large measure, the fate of Europe in 1947. They are: Rep. Charles Eaton (Rep., N. J.), chairman of the house foreign affairs committee; Secretary of State Marshall; Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (Rep., Mich.), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, and Sen. Tom Connally (Dem., Tex.), n influential Democratic voice in foreign affairs.

DEADLINE:

December 1

Apparently feeling that congressional approval of his request for 597 million dollars in stop-gap aid for France, Italy and Austria was assured, U. S. Secretary of State George Marshall sounded a new keynote—speed.

He suggested to the house foreign affairs committee that a deadline of December 1 be established for emergency relief to the three hard-pressed nations, and looked ahead to an early March deadline for his four-year, 20-billion-dollar plan for eventual European recovery.

State department witnesses backed up Marshall's plea for speed. They testified present funds would carry France and Italy only through December, beyond which looms the brink of chaos and confusion—political, moral and economic—unless additional help is rushed across the sea.

Also testifying before the house foreign group, Lewis Douglas, U. S. ambassador to England, offered a brief, pointed summary of the whole issue of immediate foreign aid: There can be no guarantee that the aid program will succeed, but it would be more risky to deny Europe financial help and watch despair and pandemonium spread across the continent.

Finally, it was the opinion of Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman that emergency European relief "can be substantially met," despite supply problems in this country.

China, Too

Virtually forgotten under the press of urgent affairs in Europe is the problem of China — ravaged, still contorted in war, constantly backsliding into greater political and economic corruption.

As a modicum of aid and comfort to that Eastern nation, Secretary Marshall has proposed a 300-million-dollar aid program to be administered in conjunction with the European phase of the Marshall plan.

At the same time, Marshall held to his stand that the suppressed report of Lt. Gen. Albert Wedemeyer on conditions in China would not be made public. He intimated that it drew such a dismal picture that to release the report would be harmful both to the U. S. and China.

CORN DOWN:

Semi-Finals

There was a smattering of bad news in the agriculture department's semi-final crop report of the year. It had to do with corn and winter wheat.

The 1947 U. S. corn crop now stands at an estimated 2,447,422,000 bushels, a decrease of 11,252,000 bushels from a forecast made a month ago. That is slightly below the 10-year (1936-45) average of 2,639,102,000, and far under last year's record yield of more than 3.2 billion bushels.

Hopes for another bumper wheat crop next year received a thorough dampening with the department's announcement that about 25 per cent of the intended winter wheat acreage in the important great plains area had not been seeded by November 1 because of dry weather.

Simultaneously it appeared that meat production had started a downward trend, impelled by the reduced corn crop and higher feed prices.

Department of agriculture spokesmen estimated that there will be a cattle population of only 77 million on January 1, 1948—8.6 million below the all-time high of 85.6 million on January 1, 1945.

As a result, consumers will be eating less beef, pork and poultry next year—there just won't be as much to go around.

Armistice Days

Now that the U. S. has passed through two world wars, what should be done about the nation's two armistice days, marking the ends of the conflicts?

In a recent survey, Dr. George Gallup said that a majority of Americans favor celebration of two Armistice Days—one on August 14, the other on November 11. This plan is favored because it would provide two work holidays instead of one.

Hungarian Fugitive

Zoltan Pfeiffer, leader of Hungary's anti-Communist Independent party, thought it likely that he would be arrested by the Communist-dominated Hungarian government. So, taking a leaf from the book of Poland's Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, he disappeared. He fled into Austria a few hours before a parliamentary committee was due to decide whether he should be brought to trial for allegedly sheltering Nazi SS members.

LABOR DRAFT:

Everybody Works

Great Britain's nationalization program, geared to extremities, has risen to the drastic level of a sweeping labor draft in the nation's desperate struggle for economic survival.

The battle of production, upon which Britain is depending for her life, had reached a crisis which demanded the efforts of every able-bodied worker in the land, the British Labor government decided.

So the "spivs," "drones," idle peers, hatcheck girls and others whose occupations come under the head of trivia in the nationalization regime will be rounded up and drafted for industrial labor by government decree starting December 8.

Men between the ages of 18 and 51 and women from 18 to 41 will be caught up in the conscription, with a possibility of a $2,000 fine and two years' imprisonment for those who refuse to register.

Conscripts have a choice, however. They will be given the alternative of going into the coal mines, agriculture, textile production or any other of the essential industries whose production must be boosted to stave off economic failure.

If a labor draftee refuses to take a proffered job he may be ordered into it.

RED ACTION:

Riots, Terror

Communist-borne trouble and terror was on the increase in France and Italy.

Spreading paralysis gripped the French port city of Marseille as workers responded to a general strike call by Communist labor leaders after a day of rioting in which one person was fatally wounded and six others seriously hurt.

In Milan, Italy, Communists sacked an anti-Red newspaper plant and attacked a police station in the course of rioting which gripped the city in a state of near terror. They demanded the immediate suppression of newspapers "which incite people to hate and vengeance," the suppression of "organizations of Fascist character" and the arrest at once of "all persons suspected for their activity against the republic."

In both Marseille and Milan, the Communists seized upon relatively unimportant incidents and managed to magnify them to a point where they could incite the more impressionable citizens of the cities to rioting and violence.

NO WAR:

Unless

In a snapping, snarling world, Henry A. Wallace continues to retain his unabating confidence in the possibilities of peace. His latest assertion, made in Cleveland, was that there will be no war between the U. S. and Russia "unless the United States sends troops to Greece."

Then, he said, war would come "when the American troops accidentally crossed the borders in the north of Greece"

Huge Ventilating System In New Brooklyn Tunnel

The Brooklyn-Battery Vehicular tunnel, now under construction in New York harbor, will have the world's largest ventilating system, says Collier's.

It will deliver 4,200,000 cubic feet of fresh air a minute, or 12 per cent more than the system in the Holland tunnel between Manhattan and Jersey City, and 68 per cent more than that in the Mersey tunnel between Liverpool and Birkenhead, England.

Cleaning Wicker

Wicker furniture can be cleaned with a brush, soap and water, or one tablespoon of baking soda to one quart of warm water, after the dust has been blown out with an automobile or bicycle pump or a vacuum cleaner. After it has been well cleaned, it can be painted or enameled. Care must be taken to work the paint or enamel into all the cracks. It is best to spray the color on the wicker furniture with a spray pump. Many prefer the stained wicker. "Peeled willow" should only be cleaned, not painted.

Paint Oil Value

Linseed oil is valuable as a paint vehicle because when it is exposed to the air it changes from a liquid to a transparent and flexible solid. China wood or tung oil, perilla oil, soybean oil and other drying oils may be used in the manufacture of paints after they have received special treatments. Linseed oil, however, is the oil commonly available for mixing paint on the job. Unless a paint oil is labeled "linseed oil" the chances are that it is not. "Pure oil" and "boiled oil" do not necessarily mean linseed oil.

Beans Left on Ground

Threshed beans lost behind the machine may mean that the rack speed is too high or too low, that there is overloading with straw or weeds, or overthreshing at the cylinder. It also may mean that sieves are closed too much or the openings clogged, or that the wind blast is too strong or improperly directed. Poor cleaning comes from too wide sieve openings, overthreshing at the cylinder, overloading sieves or not enough wind.

Fresh Food Travels Far

Most fresh fruits and vegetables now travel an average distance of 1,400 miles from farm to home. Development of the refrigerator car has made it possible for people to enjoy summer fruits and vegetables throughout the winter in all American cities, towns and villages. Work is progressing steadily toward even better refrigerator cars to deliver better products of the soil in quicker time.

First Mapped River

One of the first Minnesota rivers to appear on a map was Gooseberry river, on the north shore of Lake Superior, about 40 miles northeast of Duluth. Reviere des Groseiliers, which has been loosely translated as Gooseberry river, is found on French maps since 1670. It was believed to have been named after the great French explorer, Sieur des Groseilliers, who was on the north shore in 1660.

First City Telegrams

In 1844 the first telegram was sent over the wires from one city to another. The telegraph line was constructed by Samuel F. B. Morse with funds provided by congress and amounting to $30,000. The line went from Baltimore, Md., to Washington, D. C. In 1866 the United States and England began sending messages to each other.

No More Squinting

Orthoptic "squint" or cross-eyes now can be cured. It is now possible to give orthoptic and other coordinating exercises, so that the eyes may function together. In those cases where operation is necessary pre-operative and post-operative training greatly improve the functional results.

Orchids Not Rare

There are about 40 kinds of orchids in every state from Illinois to New England. Some of the most common are lady's slipper, twayblade, rattlesnake plantain, coral root, grass pink and pogonia.

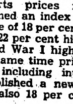
Jingling Jeans

WHEN the nation's farmers have sold all their crops at the end of 1947 they will be jingling something more than 29 billions of dollars for their year's work in their collective jeans — a record income.

The real nubbin of the situation, however, is what will the farmer have left to jingle once he gets all his bills paid for the year, for the test of any business or any income is "What is the net profit?" and not "What is the gross income?"

So wheat, bringing farmers an average of $2.43 a bushel, means no more in net profit this year than did $1 wheat with prices the farmer paid at a relatively lower index.

The department of agriculture's bureau of agricultural economics reports prices farmers received reached an index of 286 last month, a rise of 18 per cent since last March and 22 per cent higher than the post World War I high of May, 1920. At the same time prices paid by farmers, including interest and taxes, established a new all-time high of 237, also 18 per cent above a year ago and 17 per cent higher than the peak of 202 reached in 1920.



So despite the higher prices farmers received, the parity ratio, which is the average relation of prices received to prices paid, was only 121 as compared to the high of 118 'way back in 1917 and 1918, a difference of only three points. So what counts is the amount of money the farmer has left in his pockets and not the amount he receives for the results of his toil.

* * *

The groundwork for an enormous nation-wide program of publicity and advertising to tell the story of the American farmer to the American people and at the same time the story of industry as it pertains to the farm was laid by directors of the Foundation for American Agriculture at a meeting in Chicago. Objective is to create a better understanding between the farmers, the general public and industry. One of the points of a 16-phase program was approval of a national land policy to include soil conservation and erosion control made as a result of a nation-wide survey of land resources.

* * *

One good resulting from a higher farm income is shown by a government study in 25 states to the effect that farm families spent $82 per family in 1945 for medical services and supplies as compared to $51 per family in 1941. The report showed that the amount paid to doctors and hospitals almost doubled while a third more was spent on dental care, drugs and medicines. This adds up to better health in rural areas.

Education in Democracy

Here's a job for some patriotic organization. It could be very well taken over by weekly newspaper publishers since it's a fundamental grassroots job of education. The President's committee on civil rights in its recent report declared that its surveys revealed only one out of five Americans has a reasonably accurate knowledge of the Bill of Rights and one third of the people had never heard of it. And this revelation comes at a time when the American ideal of individual liberty and freedom is being challenged in the world by communism or other totalitarianism.

* * *

> One power which the government may get as a result of the gambling in food grains and the reluctance of the gamblers or commodity exchanges to police themselves is the power to fix margins and daily fluctuations in prices. That's almost a must, if not for the special, then for the next regular session of congress.

* * *

As far as we can judge, the inside story is that there will be more and more anti-trust suits against interlocking management and directorates of big companies which form monopolies. The suit against the 17 big Wall street investment bankers is a starter.

* * *

War Casualties

It has been costing American taxpayers, according to an estimate, 130 million dollars a year since V-E Day to maintain displaced persons in European detention camps. It seems it would be much cheaper and certainly more humanitarian and democratic to pass the Stratton bill admitting these war casualties as immigrants under the quota system. The bill calls for 400,000 in four years, or less than would have been admitted under regular quotas

FIRESTONE CHAMPION GROUND GRIPS
TAKE A "CENTER BITE"

CHAMPION Plowmen know that the performance of their tractor tires can "make" or "break" them in a plowing match. They must have tires that take hold and pull — on soft ground — on hard ground — on sod — on stubble. They must have tires that take a full, clean bite, a center bite — tires that plow right through under all conditions.

That's why winners in the three big national matches this fall (Big Rock, Wheatland, Illinois and Webster City, Iowa), plowed on Firestone Tires. They, like most other contestants in these big events, could not afford to gamble with a "broken center" tire that might let them down by clogging up with trash, slipping and spinning.

Firestone Champion Ground Grips will perform for you on every job just like they perform for champion plowmen. They will always take you through. And they will take you through faster, without slipping. That means time and money saved.

Specify Firestone Champions when you order a new tractor or when you buy replacements for your present tractor. See your nearest Firestone Dealer or Store today.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Metropolitan Papers Please Copy!

Folks here were burned up over an article on Our Town I reprinted from a city paper. Made us sound like a bunch of "hicks" who whittled sticks and wore chin whiskers. (Last person I saw with chin whiskers was passing through on his way east.)

So I ran an editorial on how we spoke of city "slickers"—as overdressed wiseacres, only interested in making money, and spending it in night clubs.

Fact is, if we got to know each other we'd probably find we're not much different, underneath. City folks work hard; like to come home at night to their families; and relax with a moderate glass of beer, like we do.

From where I sit, it doesn't matter if you live in an apartment house or on a farm—work in an office or a cornfield—the American tradition of quiet home life, temperate habits, and neighborliness is common to all of us.

LET'S TALK IT OVER

The famous Land O'Lakes Indian Girl is talking things over. She is telling you why thousands of dairy farmers market through Land O'Lakes. The reason is that Northwest farmers know Land O'Lakes is the farmers' own marketing organization . . . an organization that brings real benefits.

Land O'Lakes takes your products, processes them, packages them and sells them . . . all in the farmers' interest. Why don't you talk things over with Land O'Lakes? Enjoy the advantages of a marketing membership.

Confirmation Held Sunday

Eleven young people were confirmed Sunday at the Nazareth Lutheran church when they re-they renewed their baptismal vows. They received instruction from Rev. E. O. Urness and after he moved away Mrs. John Ness met regularly with them and very ably taught them. Rev. Sorenson officiated at the services after instructing them since he came. Are We Truly Thankful?

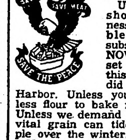
Millions of Western Europeans . . . men and women and children with the same hopes and needs and likes that we have . . . will not have enough to eat this winter unless . . .



Unless we show thankfulness for our own blessings in a substantial way NOW. Unless we set our minds to this job as we did after Pearl Harbor. Unless you and I use less flour to bake fewer cakes. Unless we demand less meat so vital grain can tide those people over the winter.

Here's what we can do:

Observe meatless and eggless days honestly.

Waste nothing. Save on bread.

See that all we do buy is eaten.

If we do this for just a few months . . . and we will . . . Thanksgiving will mean more . . . to more people . . . and so will our American way of living. Let's save wheat and save meat. It may well save the peace.

Your Friendly Village

Drop in to the Holt Creamery, where you are surrounded with a friendly feeling as you enter to ask for some of their products. Marles, Willard, Glenn or John can already call you by your first name altho they are rather new in the creamery here. Butter or cheese would make Ideal Christmas gifts.

Can you buy Christmas gifts in the bank? Just ask George, Alton Caroline or Delores. They will tell you that a U. S. Savings Bond will be tops. Friendliness is their password.

Inga, Walt, or Mary are ready at all times to sell you a book of stamps for Christmas gifts. By the way, they are always pleasant, but will give you an extra smile if you mail early to avoid the rush.

The Northland Grain Co. can supply you with a sack of flour to give for Christmas. Orlin and Olaf, always community minded, will be glad you drop in for a chat and show outstanding friendliness to everyone.

Why not phone someone, long distance, for Christmas. Hartley or Margaret will answer your call with a cheery hello.

Ernest, Carsten, Sydney, Rick and Lowell are the gas station men in Holt. They have that friendly gleam in their eye when you meet them. Well — you can give some gas for Christmas, can't you?

Harvey and Hilmer are our excellent blacksmiths in town. They have that happy disposition of having served you well when you needed them most and will wish you Merry Christmas with the friendliest smile.

New in our town is Mrs. Stella Johnson who has taken over the duty of feeding us when we are hungry. She has taken over Ma's Eat Shop and you can depend on friendly service as well as good eats.

Agnes and Iver give you that glowing feeling when members drop in at the Sportsmens Club. A fine Christmas gift would be a membership in that worthy club.

For those who so desire, there is always the friendly service in Kaski's tavern where Tony and Bill serve you. They have also gained many friends here since they came.

Thinking it all over, wouldn't you rather trade in Holt where the business people are your friends?

Oh, yes, what can you get at the News office to give for Christmas? A years subscription to the News is a reminder of your gift every week. We also have personalized hostess helps, Christmas cards, stationery ect. The able assistant George Fricker, Jr., sophomore in high school, star basket ball player, writer of the school news, will greet you with that calm disposition as he is setting type or getting out the issue or ten other jobs that have to be done at one time.

The village Election was held Tuesday. Re-elected were: Waltes Peterson, mayor, O. H. Nohre treasurer and O. T. Ness, councilman. Hilmer Moberg was elected Justice of Peace and A. O. Aspelin Constable. Judges at the election were J. A. Sorum and O. H. Nohre. A. O. Aspelin was clerk.

Peak Load Hour Heavy

Because of the necessity for reducing the use of electricity during the evening peak load from 2:00 P. M. to 6:30 P. M., Otter Tail Power Company states that it has received numerous inquiries as to whether Christmas decorative lighting may be used this season.

The Power Company states that it does not wish to hinder in any way the traditional observance of the Christmas season and that Christmas decorative lighting may be used. They ask, however, that all special holiday lights be kept off until after 6:30 P. M. each night. After that hour, electricity may be used as freely as desired.

Who Owns This Bank?

You probably know the answer, yet it's one of those simple, obvious facts that are often lost sight of. The stockholders who own this bank are your neighbors and ours—average citizens who take part in the home, social and business life of this community. They invested their money in our capital stock because they had faith in the community's future, and in the progressiveness of their fellow men. Often the money they invested was part of their hard-earned life savings.

This confidence on the part of our stockholders, who in turn enjoy the confidence and respect of many others, is a good-will-building force which we value highly. To quote a familiar saying, it means that we are "of the people, for the people and by the people."

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Ramadier Quits as French Premier, Vast Struggle for Power Develops; Marshall Hits Russian Accusations

Released by WNU Features.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

DIVIDED:
All France

All Gaul is divided into three parts—Communist, Socialist and DeGaullist.

Unable to make an impression on the turbulent French scene, Premier Paul Ramadier resigned his office in the face of widespread Communist - inspired strikes and France's elder statesman Leon Blum was given a mandate to form a new Socialist government.

Leon Blum

The situation in France had never been worse. It was touch and go, with the terrifying possibility of a civil war looming as a result of the present deep unrest.

Underlying cause of it all is France's prostrate economic condition and the prospect of a cold, hungry winter. Even if U. S. stopgap aid is rushed through immediately it will fall far short of being the oil needed to pour on the troubled waters. Superimposed on that situation were these political factors:

1. The Socialist government, trying to pursue a moderate course, was being squeezed between the stronger Communists to the left and Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Rally of the French People on the extreme right.

2. The Communists, true to the teachings of Marx, were trying to foment revolution by instigating the paralyzing strikes after their legal and political methods to overthrow the government had failed.

3. General De Gaulle, seeking the governmental reins for himself, has said he would deal with the Communists with a strong, authoritarian hand. De Gaulle is feared because he stands for totalitarianism.

The real struggle for France is being waged between the Communists and DeGaulle's followers. Moderate Socialism is simply caught in the middle.

FED UP:
With Russia

To his Chicago audience, it sounded as though U. S. Secretary of State George Marshall was full up to here with Russia's obtuse and exasperating tactics in the field of international relations.

He made it clear that the state of active resentment of the Soviet Union, to which Americans have been goaded by the obstructionist actions of Russian leaders, can in no wise be interpreted as warmongering.

It was one of the most angry denunciations yet made against Russia by a high U. S. official, and there was a distinct possibility that it was a reasonably accurate reflection of the temper of the times. Marshall's Chicago address, added to all the other recent expressions of disgust (including President Truman's) with Russian policy, indicated that perhaps a U. S. ultimatum dealing with Soviet obstructionism was not too far distant.

As a matter of fact, a strong possibility existed that Marshall might make just such a stand at the London conference of foreign ministers to discuss German and Austrian peace treaties. Awaiting the conference with utmost seriousness, the secretary of state told his Chicago listeners that:

"It is my purpose to concentrate solely on finding an acceptable basis of agreement to terminate the present tragic stalemate and to speed the advent of a new era of peace and hope for Europe and the world."

HEADLINERS

IN NEW YORK . . . The Duke of Windsor, arriving from England with his duchess (above) replied with some asperity, "It is a personal and family matter," to the question of why he had not been invited to the wedding of Princess Elizabeth.

IN YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO. . . . Preston Colley, 40, was back in the Massilon state hospital for the insane, from which he escaped last year, after police caught him trying to steal a loaded Detroit-Pittsburgh passenger train. He used to be a railroad engineer.

IN HOLLYWOOD . . . Dorothea Richmond, fashion expert, committed acute heresy against the female gender by declaring that women who wear large, idiotic hats have small, moronic minds and that such hats (or minds) are a major cause of divorce

FOURTH ESTATE
Editors Polled

America's weekly newspaper editors, the still, small voices from the grass roots, would make Harold Stassen of Minnesota their personal choice as the Republican presidential candidate in 1948, according to a straw poll conducted by Publishers' Auxiliary, newspaper publication devoted to the weekly field of journalism.

At the same time, with laudable objectivity, the editors expressed their belief that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York would be the one to receive the GOP bid.

President Truman, as virtually the only conceivable Democratic candidate, was chosen by the editors for that party's nomination. They also conceded overwhelmingly that the Democratic delegation would give him the nod at the national convention next year.

Publishers' Auxiliary distributed 500 ballots to country weekly editors in 48 states and tabulated the results on the basis of 218 completed ballots, representing a 43.6 per cent return.

Although the straw poll contacted a representative section of small-town editorial opinion, its results cannot be held entirely conclusive because of the unknown quantities present at the time it was conducted. California's Gov. Earl Warren had not yet declared his candidacy for the Republican nomination, and the MacArthur sentiment was barely a ripple.

According to the election forecast section of the poll, [illegible] per cent of the editors believe President Truman will be re-elected; 21.5 per cent think Dewey will be the next chief of state; 12.4 per cent favor Eisenhower; 9.5 per cent have confidence in Taft, and 5.4 per cent believe Stassen will be elected.

Editors polled were predominantly Republican. A GOP candidate was named as personal choice by 66.7 per cent and a Democrat by 30 per cent.

TARIFF FIGHT:
GOP Objects

True to the traditional credo of their party which holds that high tariffs are one of the foundations of a successful U. S. government, two Republican congressmen have raised their voices against the 23-nation reciprocal trade agreements, effective January 1, that will lower the tariff on a majority of this nation's imports.

Rep. Harold Knutsen (Rep., Minn.) said that the Geneva tariff agreements would threaten American living standards, and Rep. Richard Simpson (Rep., Pa.) described the pact as "a calamity" that will put American industry's back to the wall when foreign imports flow in volume into domestic markets.

WEDDING BELLS:
In London

And so they were married.

Even while bug-eyed correspondents feverishly were scribbling down hundreds of thousands of descriptive phrases, it was obvious that there actually was very little to be said about the wedding of Princess Elizabeth of England to Lt. Philip Mountbatten.

A million persons lined London's streets to watch the wedding procession, resplendent with the trappings and pageantry of 900 years of tradition, pass on the way to Westminster Abbey.

A couple of thousand chosen souls inside the abbey heard Elizabeth and Philip, newly named Duke of Edinburgh, Earl of Merioneth and Baron Greenwich, exchange their "I wills."

They saw Philip cast an eye filled with husbandly anxiety on his wife's 15-foot train as she left the church.

There was little to say about it. It was everybody's wedding, and everybody hoped that Elizabeth and Philip would live happily ever after.

ROYAL EXPENSE:
Going Up

Now that King George VI has a son-in-law, the cost of maintaining his royal family is expected to go up an estimated $200,000.

Before the wedding, parliament appropriated $2,100,000 annually for the king, his brother, sister, mother and eldest daughter. However, King George has announced that he will ask no increased allowance for Elizabeth and Philip, but will help the newlyweds out of his own pocket.

Drying Glasses

For drying glasses, the towel should be long enough to wipe both the inside and outside at the same time and to cover the hands so that no finger prints are left on the glass. A towel 28 inches long usually meets these requirements.

Students Shatter Myth

The ancient and timeless power of Arkaroo, a mythical creature who has been a legendary terror to aborigines living near the unexplored Gammon ranges in northern South Australia, has been rudely shattered by a group of four Adelaide university students. Rumbling noises which seemed to vibrate right through the ranges and which could be heard on nearby farms were, according to the frightened natives, Arkaroo's warnings that the sacred solitude of the Gammons should never be broken. The students returned from a complete survey of the ranges with the scientific explanation that the earth tremors were due to the geological formation of the ranges.

New Electronic Oven

The new "electronic oven" is not a home unit. It is limited to use in eating places where it is desired to serve hot pre-cooked frozen meals quickly and efficiently. The unit heats these meals in about 75 seconds to an average temperature of 160 degrees. This oven uses microwave radio energy similar to that used in operation of the "electronic canteen" for heating hot dogs, hamburgers and cheese sandwiches. The amount of power required to operate the new unit is the same as that used for a domestic range.

'Female' Passenger Trains

There are two passenger trains named for women, the "Ann Rutledge," running between Chicago and St. Louis, and "The Pocahontas," running between Norfolk and Cincinnati and Columbus. Ann Rutledge was a tavern keeper's daughter whose name is linked romantically with that of Abraham Lincoln. Pocahontas was an Indian princess who is said to have saved the life of Capt. John Smith. She later married John Rolfe.

Floating Fish Factory

A fishing vessel of the trawler type, completely equipped for processing fish at sea, has been patented. When the net is hauled and the fish are dumped on deck, edible fish are pitched down chutes to cutting tables where they are filleted and cleaned. Fillets are quick-frozen and packed for storage in the hole.

To Cook Means Bride

The word bride is believed to be derived from an ancient Teutonic word meaning "to cook." The ceremony used at the solemnization of wedlock among the Romans was called confarreatio, in token of a lasting union between the man and wife, with a cake of barley and wheat.

These Towering Oaks

More than 50 species of American oak attain the stature of trees, and about 20 of these attain a height of 100 feet or more. Five species usually equal or exceed 150 feet in height. Principal commercial use for oak is for flooring.

Homogenized Milk

Homogenization mechanically breaks up the butterfat and disperses it evenly throughout the milk. There is no cream line as the fat globules are held in suspension, producing a uniform flavor and a softer curd.

The Old Oaken Tree

A 500-year-old oak tree in Salem, N. J., has grown so large that its foliage covers one-quarter acre of land. Forty-six per cent of the total land area of New Jersey is forest land, more than two million acres.

THE HOME TOWN REPORTER IN WASHINGTON
WALTER SHEAD WNU Correspondent

Controversial Issue

ONE of the most bitterly contested issues likely to come before the regular session of congress in January is that of universal military training, and it appears to your Home Town Reporter that the folks along the main streets and the farm-to-market roads throughout the country must stand up and be counted to let congress know how they feel about this question which will affect almost every home in the nation.

Paradoxically, all polls show as high as 73 per cent of the people are in favor of UMT, but the leadership of such organizations as the Farm Bureau federation, the National Grange, the Farmers union, the CIO, the AFL, and such churches as Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians, Unitarians, Catholics, Friends and others are opposed. It would appear that would cover almost everyone as opposed—but look at the polls.

Then there are such organizations as the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Amvets, Kiwanis, Rotary, Chambers of Commerce, Elks, DeMolay, National Council of Women, Moose, Daughters of American Revolution and a score of other organizations, including the American Council of Christian Churches, which are on record in favor of UMT.

Somewhere along the line memberships in the organizations opposed and those favoring the military training program duplicate. So it would appear to be a question of how the rank and file of individual citizens and members of these organizations feel and not how the leadership is recorded.

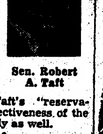
One thing definite, the American Legion with more than three million members is spearheading the attack with a tight organization favoring UMT. Those opposed are not organized and, generally speaking, are more interested in other legislation than universal military training.

* * *

When the last session of congress cut appropriations of the internal revenue bureau, 5,000 employees were dismissed. Now the bureau reports that there are several billions in taxes going uncollected for lack of personnel to check 73 million income tax returns. The budget cut was 20 million dollars—the loss in revenue "several billions." Where was the economy in that appropriation cut?

* * *

Can it be possible that the special session of the 80th congress will see history repeat itself with Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio playing the role of the late Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, who led the attack in killing the League of Nations and the Versailles treaty in the U. S. senate more than 25 years ago? Senator Lodge's "reservations" killed the league. Senator Taft's "reservations" could kill effectiveness of the Marshall plan equally as well.



Sen. Robert A. Taft

* * *

By the way, Senator Taft is the only avowed candidate for President opposed to universal military training. Governor Dewey, ex-Governor Stassen, Governor Warren of California and President Truman favor UMT. In addition, Generals Eisenhower and MacArthur are on record favoring the program.

Efficiency on the Farm

An interesting comparison between farming the American way and the communistic Russian way is contained in a report compiled by Herrell DeGraff, professor of agricultural economics at Cornell university for a national steel publication.

Russia has about the same harvested crop acreage as the U. S. but, based on prewar figures, this country harvested one and a half times as much agricultural production.

It takes a Russian farmer 330 hours to raise and harvest an acre of cotton. Americans do the same in 91 hours. Russian farmers harvest an acre of wheat in 47 hours, Americans in 9 hours. Soviet farmers work 265 hours to raise and harvest an acre of potatoes, Americans 68 hours; it takes a Russian 63 hours to produce an acre of corn, Americans 16 hours with double the yield.

Challenges Loans

David A. Olsen, contracting engineer, has sued President Truman and congress in court charging gifts or loans to foreign nations are illegal. He contends the constitution gives congress authority to regulate and borrow money but not to give or loan money belonging to the taxpayers. The same man filed suit in 1933 against Secretary of Treasury Mellon seeking 220 million dollars, claiming tax rebates had been illegally paid foreign steamship lines.

Attacked, Imprisoned Because of Whiskers

Between 1830 and 1840 in Fitchburg, Mass., a Joseph Palmer was the target of the strangest persecution in American history, says Collier's. Because he wore a beard against the protestations of the townsfolk, he was snubbed by his friends, sneered at by the tradespeople, stoned repeatedly by small boys and finally attacked by four men who attempted to cut off his whiskers by force.

Palmer put up a stiff resistance and finally escaped unharmed, only to be arrested later for fighting. When brought to trial, he was found guilty, but as he refused to pay his fine was sentenced to prison for more than a year.

Lean Sausage.

One part fat to three or four parts lean makes sausage of best quality which will fry itself and not be too dry. Add five teaspoons salt, four teaspoons sage and two teaspoons black pepper for each four pounds of mixed meat. For even distribution, sprinkle the seasoning over the meat before it is ground. Grind meat coarsely the first time and as finely as desired the second time. Double grinding thoroughly mixes fat, lean and seasoning.

Ma Hoskins Sneezed at Cats!

Ma Hoskins couldn't understand why she got a fit of sneezing every time Harpo, the cat, came in the room. Finally figured she'd have to get rid of Harpo altogether.

Then Doc Hollister explained she had an "allergy." Cat's fur made her sneeze like strawberries give some folks rash. He gave her an inoculation so she and Harpo could live sneezelessly together.

I guess a lot of us have "allergies" in the social sense. Some folks just can't stand movies, or radio comedians. Other folks don't go for beer. Myself, I enjoy a moderate glass of beer or two with friends . . . but it's up to them what beverage they choose.

From where I sit, the important thing is not to let our social allergies result in antisocial taboos. Let's not criticize the fellow who likes beer if we like cider. A little inoculation of tolerance can help us live-and-let-live happily together.

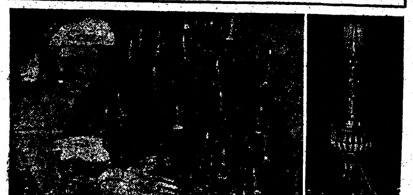
Why We Light Our Christmas Trees



New Santa Claus—New Christmas tree lights

The brilliantly lighted Christmas tree as we know it today originated late in the 16th Century. According to legend, Martin Luther became entranced one night with a starry Christmas sky and returned home to set up for his children a tree illuminated with numerous candles to represent the star-brightened sky.

The first written reference to a Christmas tree is found in the works of an unknown writer of the early 17th Century who said: "At Christmas they set up fir-trees in the parlours of Strasbourg and hang thereon roses cut out of many-colored paper, apples, wafers, gold-foil, sweets, etc. . . ."

But the relationship of light with the observance of Christmas goes all the way back to the birth of Christ when the brilliant Star of the East became the most universal symbol of the Nativity.

Even as the early converts gathered in the catacombs to observe Christmas during the dark days of the Church there were tiny oil burning lamps to brighten their somber surroundings. The interiors of the medieval cathedrals and churches always were banked with rows of flickering candles during the Christmas season, while later in English-speaking countries the dancing light of the Yule log burning in an open fireplace added cheer to the occasion.

This flickering motion of light, so long identified with the grave observance of early Christmases, was lost completely around the turn of the 20th Century when the electric light replaced the unsafe, outmoded wax candle. But now the electric light itself has reverted to that dancing light effect through its newest development—the Bubble-Lite.

For the first time it is now possible to obtain all the brilliancy and eye-arresting motion that was lost when use of the candle was discontinued in Christmas tree decorating. The Bubble-Lite consists of an "action" candle-shaped three-inch glass tube set in a two-toned translucent plastic base, which in turn houses a low-wattage bulb. This small bulb serves to light up the ornamental plastic base, as well as to generate sufficient heat to whirl the gayly-colored fluid in the glass tube upward in a continually bubbling spiral, while sending rays of light colorfully dancing through the upper glass "candle." Manufactured by Noma Electric Corporation, Bubble-Lites were available only in limited quantities last year, but more than 25,000,000 Noma Bubble-Lites are being produced for use this Christmas.

Virgil Larson, son of Leonard Larson, Making Good in Boxing

Fistic critics are singing praises to Virgil Larson, 17 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Laron at Tacoma, Washington, whose home town is Holt. He is grand son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Paskewitz and a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Paskewitz and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wegge.

Following is an account of his career received from Tacoma:

The youthful Larson has been confined to amateur boxing for 15 months. Virgils record shows seven ring engagements. Only one loss and that due to a slight mishap in an early High School contests. The last four contests he won by the knockout route.

Homer Amundsen, veteran manager and trainer, with 29 years of experience in the boxring profession is guiding the promising youngster along the rugged path in boxing. Amundsen who developed many of Tacoma's most famous ring names feels certain he has another prospect who may well carve his niche in Tacoma's Ring Hall of fame.

Virgil weighs 138 pounds and will no doubt develop into the middle-weight class. He has his ambition in going to the top of the fistic ladder in professional boxing.

Virgil is destined for sure fame and is a natural fighter. Nothing of the fancy dan stuff in his makeup. The 17 year old lad has power of punch, takes a blow well and posseses a good head on his shoulders.

In young Larson, Tacoma could come forth with another world champion according to his trainer, Homer Amundsen. Then too Holt would come in for a share of the glory.

Uncle Sam Says

Are you counting the days to Christmas? There's nothing comparable to the warmth of Christmas feeling. Second best perhaps is the feeling when you have the money to make dreams come true for you and your family. The most efficient and sure way to build up a healthy backlog of savings is through your company's Payroll Savings Plan for buying United States Savings Bonds or your bank's Bond-A-Month Plan. Every extra savings bond you add to your bond holdings is one more powerful stride toward security. The best Christmas gift you can give your family is to start a 10 year plan of automatic monthly bond buying. For example, your investment of $18.75 a month in a savings bond every month until Christmas 1957, will result in a nest egg of $2,493.94.

PAYROLL SAVINGS PLAN

United States Savings Bonds have made last minute Christmas shopping worries a thing of the past for wise Americans. In fact even though you thought about what to give members of your family or close friends for a month of Sundays you could not come up with a better idea than Savings Bonds. Think of Savings Bonds in terms of what they will do for the recipient. For example, bonds provide immediate funds in the event of an emergency and help to pay for education, travel, a new home or a dozen and one other things which members of your family dream about. Your gift of a bond makes you a partner in the realization of the fondest hope of someone you love. What more could you ask of a Christmas gift?

Who Owns This Bank?

You probably know the answer, yet it's one of those simple, obvious facts that are often lost sight of. The stockholders who own this bank are your neighbors and ours—average citizens who take part in the home, social and business life of this community. They invested their money in our capital stock because they had faith in the community's future, and in the progressiveness of their fellow men. Often the money they invested was part of their hard-earned life savings.

This confidence on the part of our stockholders, who in turn enjoy the confidence and respect of of many others, is a good-will-building force which we value highly. To quote a familiar saying, it means that we are "of the people, for the people and by the people."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

British Laborites Win Strength Test; Government Seeks Coal, Oil Ration; Hannegan Quits as Post Office Head

Released by WNU Features.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

LABOR TEST:
Clean Slate

In Great Britain the Labor party had been worried over the outcome of the by-election in the southern town of Gravesend.

Richard Acland, a rich baronet, was carrying the Labor party's banner against Frank Taylor, an ex-furnace stoker, the Conservative candidate. A seat in parliament was not the only thing at stake. The election was of major importance as a test of strength between the two parties.

It was a hard fought battle, and Acland, the Laborite, was elected to Parliament by a majority of 1,675 votes—a clear cut defeat for the Conservatives. The British people, the Labor party announced, retained their confidence in their government.

Nevertheless, the 1,675-vote margin of victory was considerably smaller than the 7,056-vote Labor party margin that had been piled up in the same district in 1945. Labor was still in the driver's seat, but clearly had lost something of its original strength. However, the party had kept its slate clean; it had not lost a single by-election since it first was swept into power.

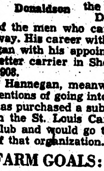
Perhaps one reason for the Labor party's continued popularity was that, despite all else, it was doing a good job of distributing equally what food and other goods were available in Britain. The food rations of the poorer people were approximately the same as those of the rich, and that fact continued to carry a lot of weight with the mass of voters.

POSTMASTER:
Hannegan Out

Robert E. Hannegan has eased himself out of the public political eye.

Little more than a month after he had quit his job as Democratic national chairman — because of ill health—he turned in his resignation as postmaster general.

To replace Hannegan as head of the nation's post office, President Truman named 62-year-old Jesse M. Donaldson, first assistant postmaster general, who has had 42 years in the postal service. It was the first time a president ever had dipped into the ranks of postal "career men" to fill the top job in the department.



Donaldson

Donaldson is one of the men who came up the hard way. His career with the service began with his appointment as a city letter carrier in Shelbyville, Ill., in 1908.

Hannegan, meanwhile, had no intentions of going into retirement. He has purchased a substantial interest in the St. Louis Cardinals baseball club and would go to work as head of that organization.

FARM GOALS:
Still Higher

Farm production goals for 1948, as announced by Clinton Anderson, secretary of agriculture, call for a continuation of high wartime levels of output in recognition of the desperate world need for food and this nation's own increased domestic consumption.

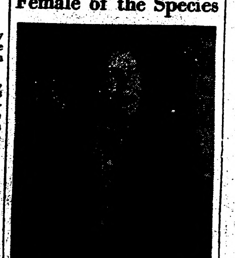
Anderson's report, which will serve as a guide for farmers next year, asks for nine million acres more of cultivated and noncultivated crops than the 347 million acres used to produce this year's near-record total of farm commodities.

Although aware of the need to give overworked land a rest from its heavy production burden of the past seven years, he said large domestic and foreign requirements dictated his decision.

Total production next year well might top the record set in 1946, but supplies of meat, poultry, eggs and dairy products are destined to be smaller in 1948 because this year's short corn crop left farmers with insufficient grain to maintain the volume of animal products.

Crops for which Anderson recommended increased acreages over this year include: Corn, 7 per cent; grain sorghums, 36; soybeans, 1; cotton, 3; potatoes, 5; oats, 2; barley, 4, and rye, 26. He called for a decrease of 3 per cent in wheat acreage.

Female of the Species



Ana Pauker, Communist firebrand, outlines Romania's foreign policy during a speech she delivered at her installation as Romania's foreign minister. It is the first time in Romania's history that a woman has held that post.

GENERALS:
Disability?

As a result of the sordid disclosures by the senate war investigating committee of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers' wartime money dealings while he was an AAF procurement officer, President Truman has ordered an inquiry of all army and navy officers who were retired on tax-free disability pensions and then obtained high salaried jobs in private industries.

Mr. Truman asked James Forrestal, secretary of defense, to submit a list of all officer disability discharges since V-J day. More than 350 generals reportedly are receiving such pensions, and a number of admirals also get tax-free incomes.

Meyers' disability pension, totaling $549 a month, was halted and he was stripped of his medals as a result of the revelation that he has used his air force post for personal gain.

There was a possibility that the President would ask congress to eliminate the tax-free status of officer pensions except in cases of actual combat disability.

Said Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, White House military aide, "I know of one officer who is receiving tax-free disability pay and is holding a $75,000 job in private industry. If a man is handicapped to such an extent that he gets tax-free disability pay, he's not worth $75,000 a year to private industry."

OIL RATION:
Anti-Inflation

When President Truman, in his celebrated "10 points against inflation" address to congress, asked for limited authority to impose ration and price controls on basic commodities, it was taken for granted that they were food commodities alone.

First indication that this might not be a correct interpretation of Mr. Truman's proposal came when the department of interior asked congress for power to fix price controls and rationing on coal and oil as part of the anti-inflation program.

Oscar L. Chapman, undersecretary of the interior, told the house banking and currency committee that grave shortages and price advances were threatened in the two basic fuels.

There was no way of telling, he said, whether such controls actually would have to be imposed, but he insisted that the government should have authority to do so, just in case.

It is not probable that congress will give the government power to control oil and coal, but the incident serves to reflect the current point of view of the administration that a return to wartime rationing and price controls is the quickest and most effective way to buck inflation.

President Truman disclosed the policy first in his speech at the opening of the special session of congress. The interior department's request for control of coal and oil probably was a planned follow-up. There was a likelihood that other evidences of the administration's new price control and rationing complex would be forthcoming before long.

BATTLE AGAINST CAPITALISM

Russians May Fight Marshall Plan With Gold

Under a cloak of secrecy as close as that which guards its atomic projects, Russia desperately is building up its huge gold reserve, already the greatest in the world outside of Fort Knox.

According to Dr. Charles Prince, specialist on Soviet economic affairs, writing in the magazine United Nations World, the Soviet gold hoard is "the hard economic reality behind Andrei Zhdanov's threat this September that the U.S.S.R. will do everything in its power to foil the Marshall plan."

With her currency pegged to gold, Russia could deliver a serious threat to capitalist economy by interfering with the present monopoly of the dollar in international exchange.

Base of Mexican Pyramid Larger Than All Others

There are several pyramids on the North American continent. One is the Pyramid of the Sun built by the Toltecs in San Juan Teotihuacan, some 28 miles from Mexico City.

It is 216 feet high and its base is bigger than that of the pyramids in Egypt, covering nearly two times as much ground.

One of the most vexing questions facing women shoppers every Christmas is: What shall I get for him? The perfect solution for every male is quite a problem—but so far this seems like a perfect choice. If he's a cigarette smoker, give him a carton of cigarettes. And if you wisely choose Camels —he'll be twice as grateful—for that's probably his own brand. All over America—more people are smoking Camels than ever before! Now, if his highness prefers a pipe —give him Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco—the National Joy Smoke. Special holiday gift wrappings make both Camels and Prince Albert particularly desirable choices. Camels are conveniently packed —ten packs of flavorful, mild cigarettes to a carton . . . Prince Albert is handsomely wrapped in one pound moisture-proof containers. Even a card is unnecessary for these gifts—space is provided for a personalized Christmas greeting. Your dealer is featuring holiday-wrapped Camels and Prince Albert now!—Adv.

Geneva Trade Agreements To Affect World Commerce

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON. — Recently there have been rumblings from congress reminiscent of the old Smoot-Hawley days. It was the warning from Senator Milliken (Rep., Colo.) and Representative Knutsen (Rep., Minn.) that the reciprocal trade agreements act would have a lot of strings attached to it when it comes up for renewal next year.

If that means that tariffs are raised again, history will be repeating itself.

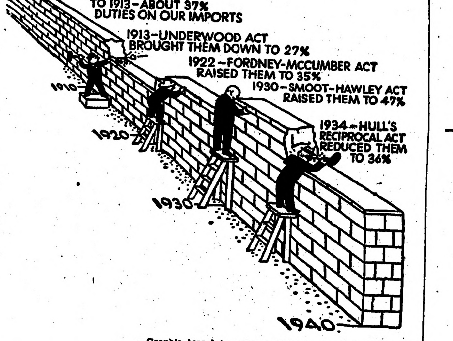
As the amusing illustration in this column reveals, the gentlemen have been busy building up and tearing down the tariff wall ever since 1913. What will the next section of the wall—built after 1940—look like?

Baukhage

The reciprocal trade agreements drawn up at the recent Geneva conference which resulted in a number of slashes in important duties and inspired the Knutsen and Millikin statements brought forth an even louder blast from the American Tariff league. At the present writing, however, there does not appear to be anywhere near the strength of sentiment in favor of building up the tariff wall that there was when the Smoot-Hawley act raised it to an all-time high (47 per cent) in 1930.

From the time of the Civil war the tariff wall had grown almost every time congress acted.

Then came Woodrow Wilson who demanded that the country be set free from conditions he thought "made monopoly not only possible, but easy and natural." The Underwood law which brought the import duties down from 37 per cent to 27 per cent, was his answer. Under Harding they went up about 35 per cent, reaching an all-time high under Hoover.



TO 1913—ABOUT 37% DUTIES ON OUR IMPORTS
1913—UNDERWOOD ACT BROUGHT THEM DOWN TO 27%
1922—FORDNEY-MCCUMBER ACT RAISED THEM TO 35%
1930—SMOOT-HAWLEY ACT RAISED THEM TO 47%
1934—HULL'S RECIPROCAL ACT REDUCED THEM TO 36%

It has been an exciting contest. Although Cordell Hull as secretary of state managed, with Roosevelt prestige, to pull them down again, they were still 1 per cent higher than the Fordney-McCumber act raised them under Harding. Under the agreements negotiated by Secretary Hull, our exports increased, but foreign competition for various reasons did not take advantage of the situation to any great extent. There was no avalanche of "cheap foreign goods" to contend with.

The high-tariff pleaders were able to present their cases armed with the best legal talent available, whole libraries of statistics and a thorough knowledge of the particular industries they represented. And they had another great advantage in the number and geographically diverse industries fighting for protection for their particular product.

Enough special interests needed enough help from other special interests so that log rolling was easy—there was usually a majority for everybody's gismo. That is why the only practical way trade agreements can be reached at all is to have them negotiated like any other international agreement, through the state department, which has no regional strings to tie it down.

Right now the consumer is being heard from in no uncertain terms, and any argument for lower prices wins a hearing.

That is evidenced by the speed with which congress tackled the anti-inflation suggestions presented both by the President in his message of November 17 calling for a 10-point program and those offered by Senator Flanders of Vermont and other Republicans.

Despite considerable influential opposition, the Democrats took for granted that at least four out of the President's ten points had a good chance to be adopted. In fact one, authority to ration certain foods, already had been suggested—by a Republican—Senator Flanders.

None of these points involves tariff cuts, however, and those cuts already made under the Geneva agreement are still largely academic because most foreign countries aren't in a position now to produce for export to any great extent.

Next session we can expect them to be debated.

So far there have been almost as many complaints from supporters of the reciprocal trade agreements act as from its opponents. Its most enthusiastic backers charged that it had not been pushed hard enough, that the state department had not used all of the power which it had for fear of arousing the animosity which would cause its repeal.

World's Prosperity Hangs in Balance

What happens to the as-yet-unbuilt section of the wall of the drawing will affect the entire set-up of world trade. It can make all the work of the international conference on world trade and employment go for nothing and destroy any benefits derived from a successful European relief plan.

The 62 nations now gathered at the trade conference in Cuba represent countries doing about 95 per cent of the world's trade, and the interesting thing is that although Russia and most of her satellites refused to attend, two of the countries under the influence of Moscow—Finland and Czechoslovakia—did turn up.

Thereby hangs a tale. It is believed by some keen observers that despite all efforts to kill the European recovery plan, the Soviet Union knows very well that, if it works, it may be to her selfish interests to get on the bandwagon, at least to the extent of lifting the iron curtain high enough to get some of the much-needed goods from Western Europe under it. And the way that could be managed would be to have some of the Soviet's "friendly countries" in on any advantageous trade deals that might be made. Western Europeans say that this would be the most effective way to break down the Communist grip on these countries.

Meanwhile it is realized in Washington that this country cannot carry out its far-flung foreign policy unless that policy is sold harder than Communist propaganda is selling its brand of bortsch.

Good salesmanship begins at home. And a lot of salesmanship is needed right here. I rode down on the trolley with a very intelligent secretary to a congressman who said to me: "I wish I knew what the Marshall plan was all about."

President Urges Savings Bonds

Speaking of salesmanship, the President is believed to have given the green light on an intensified sale of one of the important anti-inflation measures recommended in his speech when he said:

> "Another effective weapon against inflation is increased savings by the public. Every dollar that is saved instead of spent is a dollar fighting against inflation. In order to encourage additional savings, the government should intensify its vigorous efforts to sell savings bonds."

Congress in Action

Spectators at a recent Congressional inquiry guffawed. I hope that some of them got the point. A movie actor had just remarked, dead-pan: "I've heard people say that we would have a more efficient government without Congress." A very serious point was contained in that statement, which apparently struck spectators as a humorous jibe at lawmakers, present and not present.

It is somewhat of an American custom to poke fun at our elected officials. Some steam is released that way, like the blowing off of a safety valve. That's all right. But that any sane American should suggest doing away with Congress is no laughing matter. You might as well say that we ought to give up our democratic way of life, in the interest of greater efficiency. One would be equivalent to the other. But who wants an efficient tyranny?

Our Safeguard

I am going to say that I appreciate congress, I am not ashamed to say it. Moreover, I am concerned that there are those who fail to recognize the essential dignity and worth of this branch of our government. Out of the welter of political turmoil in Washington, I think there is still room for a healthy respect for what our Congress does. And we must never forget that Congress represents the will of the people, of the majority. Congress is a mighty safeguard.

When any Congressional session is over, try looking back over the record. It will usually surprise you how much was accomplished. Especially so, if you are one of those Americans who like to chant: "Why, oh why, doesn't Congress do something?"

Accomplished Much

When the recent Congress adjourned in late July, final action had been taken on at least 17 major issues. This was an array of achievements, when you recall that this Congress was the first new Congress following the war.

Action was taken on presidential tenure and succession, labor management relations, portal-to-portal pay, excise and social security taxes, National Science Foundation, continuation of the R.F.C. and the C.C.C., crop insurance, continuation of certain subsidies, Army-Navy unification, cashing of terminal leave bonds, executive reorganization, continuation of first class postal rates, rent control, and termination of existing credit regulations.

A Thankless Task

This Congress was also economy-minded. It should be credited with saving between $2 and $3 billion for taxpayers, despite widespread "scare" tactics of a powerful and well-mobilized bureaucracy. Considering the fact that the American people already spend more for government—local, state, and national—than they spend for food, we should be grateful to an economy-minded Congress.

Fateful problems will face this same Congress in its special session and the regular session to follow. Our sincere commendation should go to legislators for their efforts, and for their sincere public service. Their thankless but necessary persistence will remain necessary as long as we wish to maintain this Republic.

Marry Young? Marry Old?

When Jeb Crowell's daughter, Sue, married nineteen-year-old "Slim" Blake, a lot of folks (especially older ones) began to shake their heads. Young marriages! Tut, tut!

So I looked up some figures. It's true, young American girls and boys marry younger than in other countries. And where do you suppose they had the least chance? I won't name it, but maybe you've guessed. One of those countries that before the war suppressed all individual freedom and tolerance.

That's why I'm not worried about our younger married couples. They were raised in a country that respects one another's right—a country of tolerance and temperance (a lot of bridegrooms are ex-G.I.'s, and it looked to me like their favorite beverage was beer!)

From where I sit, it isn't when you marry that's important. It's the all-important spirit of tolerance and understanding that you bring to marriage.

What is the world's greatest railroad center?

Chicago enjoys this distinction. The city is served by 21 Class I railroads and 14 switching and terminal companies. These railroads—including some of the largest in the country, embrace more than two-thirds of the railway mileage of the United States. They own more than half of all the locomotives and cars and perform more than one-half of all the railway passenger, freight, express and mail service of the country. There are about 8,000 miles of railway trackage in the Chicago terminal district.

Foundation's Aim to Make Vets Happier

America has not forgotten, nor will it ever forget, the 125,000 more or less permanent patients in veterans hospitals through the nation.

That noble intent, held by grateful citizens everywhere, has crystallized into concrete and dynamic action during 1947 with establishment on a country-wide scope of the Hospitalized Veterans Foundation, Inc.

It is a non-profit, non-sectarian, non-political organization. Born in a spirit of thankfulness and altruism, it is designed to provide greater comfort and happier hours for men and women for whom the war will never end.

Specifically, the Hospitalized Veterans Foundation will furnish—

Individual bedside radio receiving sets of types best suited to the patients' needs;

Special network and transcribed radio shows designed particularly for their entertainment;

Television sets, phonographs and record-playing equipment to meet their special entertainment requirements;

Ceiling projectors for book reading by bed-ridden heroes; late phonograph recording releases; 16 mm projectors and films; other equipment which may be requested from time to time by chaplains at veterans' hospitals;

Traveling theatrical units to tour the wards after the wartime USO-Camp Show organization is disbanded on December 31.

The Foundation is in able hands to fill the needs of more than 140 veterans' hospitals and homes throughout the country, which treated so far in 1947 more than 500,000 veterans — about 125,000 of these permanent or semi-permanent.

It was incorporated early in 1947 by a group of prominent businessmen, industrialists, educators, veterans' leaders and top personalities of stage, screen and radio. The result is a balanced, efficient operation.

Local chapters of the Foundation have already been established in a dozen major states from New York to California. Other state chapters will be formed as suitable outstanding volunteer personnel can be brought together.

Nobody but the hospitalized veterans benefit in any way from the Foundation activities. No officer, director or member receives compensation for his work. These public-spirited men and women contribute generously of time and effort to provide greater comfort and happier hours for the nation's living martyrs.

Every contribution, donation and gift is deposited to the credit of the Foundation in the American National Bank & Trust Co., 33 North La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill.

Who Owns This Bank?

You probably know the answer, yet it's one of those simple, obvious facts that are often lost sight of. The stockholders who own this bank are your neighbors and ours—average citizens who take part in the home, social and business life of this community. They invested their money in our capital stock because they had faith in the community's future, and in the progressiveness of their fellow men. Often the money they invested was part of their hard-earned life savings.

This confidence on the part of our stockholders, who in turn enjoy the confidence and respect of many others, is a good-will-building force which we value highly. To quote a familiar saying, it means that we are "of the people, for the people and by the people."

Make Going To Sleep Good Habit For Baby

DON'T do this! Don't do that! Every mother knows the constant stream of "don'ts" that cascade on her from every side—from relatives and friends. It's true that each stage of your child's training and development brings with it a set of rules — things to avoid—but take your advice from your doctor or from a child expert.

Sleep habits are an important part of growth and they, too, have their "don'ts." Here are a few found most often in books by child experts and reports by pediatricians.

Don't pick up baby to show him off to visitors after he has gone to bed. Don't let the baby get the habit of sleeping with the bottle. Don't take baby out in the evening to the movies or for a ride. Don't leave the baby alone in the house at any time.

You will want to know about proper sleeping conditions, how to get the baby used to sleep routine, what to do when he cries. See our Reader Service booklet No. 203. Baby's health, food, bath, training and development.

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Everybody Talking About Inflation; CIO Reveals Wage Increase Drive; Arabs Riot, Pillage in Holy Land

Released by WNU Features.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

INFLATION
What's to Be Done?

Administration pressure to force the adoption of President Truman's proposed anti-inflation panacea involving wage and price controls was increasing steadily.

Latest in a procession of cabinet members testifying before congressional committees in favor of price controls was Clinton P. Anderson, secretary of agriculture.

He bluntly warned the house banking and currency committee that unless rising meat costs are halted price controls on that commodity would be necessary by early spring. Describing meat and grain as foodstuffs in which early shortages can be foreseen, Anderson pointed out the likelihood that early 1948 would see fantastically high prices of meat.

There was a profusion of thinking on the inflation problem which so far had done little except to promote widespread disagreement and uncertainty among the people.

The administration, congress as a body and private citizens remained at odds concerning what should be done. Robert S. Nathan, former government economist, called for an immediate 20 to 25 per cent rollback in prices and predicted a "bust" next year if the situation remains uncontrolled.

Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder issued a direct challenge to congress to come up with some workable idea of its own to combat rising costs of living.

Earl Bunting, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, epitomized the attitude of private business and industry in general by calling for greater production per man per day, reduced taxes and a curb on exports.

What it amounted to was this: You either were in favor of price and wage controls or against them. You pay your money and you take your choice; but in any event, with inflation a predominant condition of the economy, you pay your money.

HOLY WAR:
And Terror

In Cairo, Egypt, a group of Moslem religious scholars—the Alzahar Council of Ulemas — solemnly renounced the U. N. decision to partition Palestine and decreed a "jehad," which, in the Islamic tongue, means a holy war.

Thus was added the highest Moslem religious sanction to the decision of the Arabs to fight with every means at their command the separation of Palestine into independent Jewish and Arab states.

In the cities of Jerusalem and Tel Aviv the holy war was creating unholy terror. Jewish-Arab fighting resulted in 31 deaths, hundreds of injuries and countless cases of pillage and destruction amounting to damages upward of a million dollars during the first week following U. N. approval of partition.

Fear spread that Arab fury over the partition would erupt into a full-scale civil war. It was reported that King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia had promised to donate the 18 million dollars a year his state received from Middle East oil concessions (largely American-owned) to the support of Arab military forces.

What the Arabs didn't seem to realize, or were ignoring, was the fact that, in violently opposing partition, they were stepping in the face of the nearest thing to a united world opinion that has existed among mankind for a long time. From that standpoint their actions were something less than smart.

WARFARE:
Plastic Tanks

Tanks, as we know them, may be for the memory only in a few more years if the prediction of Maj. Gen. James M. Gavin is sound.

In the event of another war tanks made largely of plastic and light enough to be flown from one front to another will play a decisive role, the military expert said in a copyrighted article in the Armored Cavalry Journal.

Gavin, who commanded the parachute assault troops in the Normandy invasion, said the heavy tank of World War II is so outdated it "belongs in the Smithsonian institution."

"Either we develop the means that will enable us to fly everything we need for combat or another nation will," he asserted. "If another does—well, we've had it."

Grand Champion

Claude Millwee, 18, of Fort Cobb, Okla., poses proudly with his 1,180-pound shorthorn, "Big Boy," which was judged grand champion steer of the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago.

WAGE DRIVE:
Third Round

Since there apparently is no way of eliminating inflation in the foreseeable future, the CIO decided, the best thing American labor can do is to string along with it.

That was the philosophy behind CIO President Philip Murray's announcement that the labor organization would seek general wage increases for its six million workers in basic industries.

It presaged a new series of labor difficulties which probably will reach a crucial peak next March and April. More than that, it was the development most feared by economists frantically trying to combat inflation—official launching of the third general round of wage demands since the war.

Murray, seeking to justify the decision, claimed that since the war workers had suffered a net loss of 18 per cent in the purchasing power of their weekly earnings despite wage increases.

He added, in a tone of disillusionment, that the CIO's move for another pay raise grew out of his and other CIO leaders' moral certainty that congress would do nothing to halt inflation and its continuing and dangerous impact on the American worker. He hoped, he said, that "it won't be necessary to have strikes."

The decision was not entirely unexpected. Secretary of Labor Lewis Schwellenbach had seen it in the cards earlier when he predicted such a development and warned that pressure for general wage increases was mounting with rising prices.

Schwellenbach

Meanwhile, congress, dissatisfied with President Truman's 10-point anti-inflation program, continued working on cost-of-living problems with two cabinet officers under orders to draft specific bills to fight inflation.

BOGEY:
No Red, He

Humphrey Bogart, the film actor, is above all not a Communist, said Humphrey Bogart in Chicago.

He wanted it known definitely that the labels of Communist or Communist sympathizer tacked on him and his wife, "Baby" Bacall, by some segments of the press were groundless.

The actor found himself being given a pink wash after his recent trip to Washington, along with other film stars, "to preserve the first amendment" which they thought was getting roughed up during the Thomas committee's investigation of Communism in Hollywood.

"I detest Communism just as any other decent American does," he growled. And he added that the reason he went to Washington was because "I thought fellow Americans were being deprived of their constitutional rights and for that reason alone. As a taxpayer—a guy who pays more than $100,000 a year in income tax—I thought I had a right to have my say."

He sounded sincere. Tough, too.

RUSSIA:
Ruble Trouble

All was not serene inside Russia; the Soviets were having difficulties with their rubles.

A report broadcast by the U. S. state department's Voice of America said that Russians had begun wholesale runs on banks and stores in Moscow and other Soviet cities because of fear that the ruble is losing its value. If the report were true, the tightly controlled Soviet economy was in serious trouble.

Frightened by rumors that the ruble was about to be devaluated, crowds flocked to stores to buy any kind of durable goods they could get—jewelry, dry goods, rare books, anything with physical value.

At the same time, the Russians began a rush to withdraw money from savings bank accounts, but an order was issued forbidding withdrawal of more than 200 rubles a day, about enough to buy a fifth of a pair of shoes.

This was the bugaboo of too much printed paper money coming back to hound the Kremlin. During the war printing presses turned out rubles on everything except the backs of old envelopes.

Now, to prevent currency inflation, Moscow was going to issue a new currency, with values scaled down, and would order higher prices on consumer goods.

GAG BILL:
'Energetic'

True to his promise, Robert Schuman, premier of France, was doing something "energetic" to cure that nation of its internal complications, worst of which have been Communist-inspired strikes which paralyzed the entire economy.

The national assembly had completed passage of his program to jail violent labor agitators, gag Communist writers, curb sabotage and guarantee the "right to work." The bill empowered Schuman to crack down on Communist agitators with fines up to a million francs and prison terms up to 10 years.

Although the measure granted limited totalitarian authority to Premier Schuman, it will not affect France's basic economic ills.

Communists admittedly were the immediate instigators of the nationwide strikes in every field of industry and transportation, but in pushing the work stoppages they simply were capitalizing on the genuine grievances of French labor.

Wages, working and living conditions and production methods in France would have to be altered drastically before the nation could have any internal peace. This, according to the philosophy of the U. S. government, could be accomplished only through immense pump-priming with American goods and dollars.

LEAGUE:
For Politics

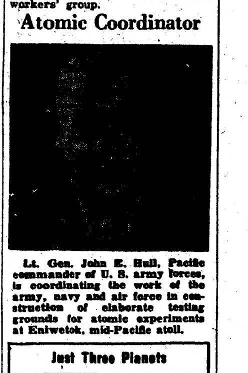
Ever since the Taft-Hartley act outlawed the spending of labor union funds for political purposes, the unions have been busy setting up special agencies through which they can apply political pressure in 1948.

Most recent such political league has been organized by the International Association of Machinists (IAM); it is called the machinists' non-partisan political league, and will "aid working people exercise their right to vote more effectively," according to Harvey W. Brown, IAM president.

"In 1948 it will "concentrate on replacing the pro-employer Taft-Hartley congress with one composed of those who will consider the interests of all groups in our country rather than the narrow interests of a single group."

Other leagues of similar political bent are the CIO political action committee, the AFL labor's educational and political league, the railroad unions' railway labor's political league and the communication workers' group.

Atomic Coordinator



Lt. Gen. John E. Hull, Pacific commander of U. S. army forces, is coordinating the work of the army, navy and air force in construction of elaborate testing grounds for atomic experiments at Eniwetok, mid-Pacific atoll.

Just Three Planets

The star of Bethlehem, which Christians believe heralded the birth of Christ, was not a star, but three planets, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn, arranged so as to appear as a single massive point of light in the sky.

Wagner Schlesinger, director of Adler planetarium in Chicago, advanced the theory that the rare astronomical event is responsible for our immortal legend of the star.

FIRST PRIZE 400 MILLION

Britain Ponders Staging International Lottery

So you'd like to win 400 million dollars? Well, oddly enough you might get the chance to do just that next year.

The British treasury department is considering a proposal for staging what would be the biggest lottery gamble in history to help get the nation back on its financial feet and out of its economic trouble.

Bankers sponsoring the plan say it provides for the sale of eight billion dollars worth of lottery tickets throughout the world. Cash prizes of four billion dollars would go to lucky ticket holders, while the treasury would keep the remaining four billion. First prize would be 400 million dollars—enough to bring on a heart attack.

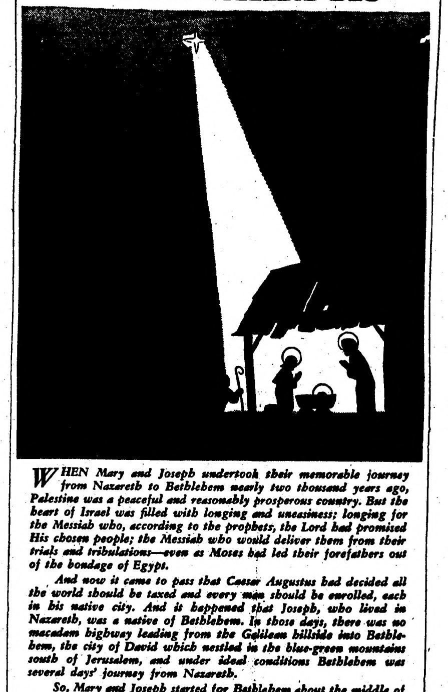
GLORIA IN EXCELSIS DEO



WHEN Mary and Joseph undertook their memorable journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem nearly two thousand years ago, Palestine was a peaceful and reasonably prosperous country. But the heart of Israel was filled with longing and uneasiness; longing for the Messiah who, according to the prophets, the Lord had promised His chosen people; the Messiah who would deliver them from their trials and tribulations—even as Moses had led their forefathers out of the bondage of Egypt.

And now it came to pass that Caesar Augustus had decided all the world should be taxed and every man should be enrolled, each in his native city. And it happened that Joseph, who lived in Nazareth, was a native of Bethlehem. In those days, there was no macadam highway leading from the Galilean hillside into Bethlehem, the city of David which nestled in the blue-green mountains south of Jerusalem, and under ideal conditions Bethlehem was several days' journey from Nazareth.

So, Mary and Joseph started for Bethlehem about the middle of December. They carried a little food with them for emergencies, a little extra clothing and some bedding. They traveled very slowly because of Mary—and when she was too tired to walk another step, Joseph took the packs upon his shoulders so Mary might ride the little donkey which trudged faithfully at his side.

THE little village of Bethlehem was about six miles from Jerusalem. Those last six miles were the longest and hardest for Mary: the mountain trail was steep and treacherous, the atmosphere was lighter than the travelers from Galilee were accustomed to, and they were very tired and travel-weary when they reached Bethlehem the city of David where Joseph's ancestor King David had ruled fourteen generations before Augustus and his census. It was early evening, but the inn was already crowded beyond its normal capacity with census-bound travelers; not even a corner was available where Joseph could have spread a bed for Mary.

In desperation Joseph pleaded from door to door and with those whom he passed as he raced through the narrow streets of Bethlehem in search of shelter. Finally, someone directed him to a stable which was really a cave hewn into the rocky ledge of the mountainside. The stable to which Joseph led Mary was well supplied with clean straw; and Mary was grateful for shelter and privacy: it was Holy Night.

There was no room at the inn that night, but over in Shepherds' field, about two miles south of Bethlehem, several Shepherds were keeping the "night watch" over their flocks when suddenly a great blaze of light appeared in the sky and seemed to descend upon the countryside. The Shepherds were very frightened and, devout men that they were, they called upon God to help them. When they raised their eyes from supplication, the glory of the Lord shone all around them and an angel stood in their midst assuring them there was nothing to fear:

"For, Behold, I bring you glad tydings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you, Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger." And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

THE Shepherds hurried to Bethlehem, there to find the Infant asleep in the manger—even as it had been foretold unto them. His "Stable" was filled with a heavenly radiance, and, having worshipped the Child, the Shepherds were filled with a wondrous feeling of peace. And the Shepherds wondered and told others concerning those things which they had seen and heard.

Several days later, a richly appointed caravan wove its way through the crooked streets of Bethlehem bearing Wise Men from the east who, following the Star of Bethlehem which they had seen from afar, had come to adore the new-born King. And the Star led them, until it came and stood over the manger where the Child was.

The Wise Men rejoiced when they saw the Holy Infant lying in the manger and they adored Him. They ordered gifts to be brought from their caravan: gifts symbolic of what Jesus was to become—gold for a king, myrrh for a great physician, frankincense for a high priest. All Bethlehem crowded around—awestruck and curious; but Mary pondered all these things in her heart and watched over the Child with great diligence.

And that is the way it came to pass that Jesus was born in Bethlehem: it could not have come to pass in any other way. Before the sacred manger all men are equal and only from a lowly stable could the Saviour draw unto Himself all who are weary and heavy-laden. And truly only the heavenly host could praise God that first Christmas night:

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

—Dorothea Waitzmann.

"Input" Needed to Build Your Soil For Big Crop Yields

CHICAGO—"Input" as well as "stop-loss" measures are a must if you want to make soil management pay its own way and give you dividends, too, according to a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"You can slow down water runoff, save some topsoil and plant food and hold back the march of erosion," says the statement, "by such Grass Waterway Is Good "Stop-Loss" Measure.

'stop-loss' steps as contour cultivation, strip cropping, terracing and building dams where necessary.

"These are key steps in soil-saving.

"But you need plenty of 'input,' too.

"That means organic matter from manure, green manure crops, deep-rooted legumes in the rotation and crop residues. It means the use of mixed fertilizers containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash as needed, to boost crop yields and the tonnage of organic matter returned to the soil.

"Among the 'input' steps, the growing of deep-rooted legumes is especially important. The tap-roots of well-fed legumes will push organic matter deep into the soil and improve the tilth in the top 18- to 25-inch soil layer. The legumes will open up tightly-packed soil and admit oxygen down under. By improving tilth and building organic matter, they will make the soil a better water reservoir for thirsty crops."

Next week the paper will be printed Tues. Send news early.

Here is the X-ray unit which has made history not only in Minnesota, but in the nation. Purchased in 1943 by the St. Louis County Tuberculosis and Health Association with Christmas Seal funds, it has X-rayed nearly 200,000 residents of that county. This unit inaugurated the first county-wide X-ray survey in the country. Minnesota now has six mobile and portable units for mass X-ray surveys, and it is expected that all of the residents of the state will have a chance to be X-rayed in the next few years.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

"Turrible, Turrible, Turrible!"

Ben Ryder is back! After twenty years in Capital City, Ben has retired and come to enjoy life in the family house on Maple Street.

First thing Ben does is write us complaining how Our Town has changed. "Why, there's no mud in the streets to sink up to your ankles in!" he says. "No pistol feuding in the town square! No moonshine liquor or Saturday night brawls! Nothing to do but settle for a temperate glass of beer in a law-abiding tavern!"

"Turrible, turrible, turrible," Ben says, "how a town can get run down in twenty years!" And then Ben takes his tongue out of his cheek and tells us how proud he is of the orderly, law-abiding atmosphere he finds here.

And from where I sit, you can point to that growing preference for a moderate, wholesome glass of beer as one reason folks in Our Town are so temperate, and neighborly and well-behaved.

Christmas Wishes

At this time of the Holiday Season we should all remember our friends and neighbors with some kind of greeting, let it be in person or in writing. With Our Holt High School Students at Newfolden

As reported by George Fricker, Jr.

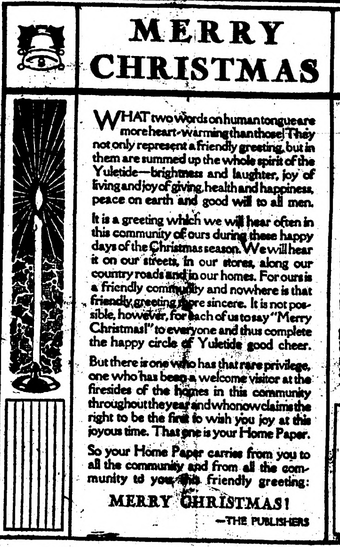
The 1947 basketdall season came to an end Friday December 19 as Newfolden bowed to an inspired Karlstad team. The game was very close until the remaining four minutes of the game. The scoring was opened by Karlstad and from there on continued to change hands. The half score was 15 to 16 and third quater 20 to 21 with Karlstad leading. The final score ended with Karlstad taking a 25 to 35 victory.

A very big schedule has been planned for the remainder of the season. The Nordics will open the new year by playing Argyle at Newfolden on January 9. Other teams as Stephen, Badger, Roseau, Karlstad, Strandquist, and Lake Bronson will be played at Newfolden during the months of January and February

First Woman President

For the first time in its 41 years' history, the Minnesota Public Health Association, the state Christmas Seal organization, has elected a woman as president. She is Mrs. J. A. Thabes of Brainerd, for more than 25 years an active leader in the fight against tuberculosis. She is one of thousands of women, who annually give volunteer service in the Christmas Seal campaign.

Mr. Irvin Tostad from Rolette N. D. spent a few days here visiting his brother-in-law and sister Rev. and Mrs. Sorenson and family.



MERRY CHRISTMAS

WHAT two words on human tongue are more heart-warming than those! They not only represent a friendly greeting, but in them are summed up the whole spirit of the Yuletide—brightness and laughter, joy of living and joy of giving, health and happiness, peace on earth and good will to all men.

It is a greeting which we will hear often in this community of ours during these happy days of the Christmas season. We will hear it on our streets, in our stores, along our country roads and in our homes. For ours is a friendly community and nowhere is that friendly greeting more sincere. It is not possible, however, for each of us to say "Merry Christmas!" to everyone and thus complete the happy circle of Yuletide good cheer.

But there is one who has that rare privilege, one who has been a welcome visitor at the firesides of the homes in this community throughout the year and who now claims the right to be the first to wish you joy at this joyous time. That one is your Home Paper.

So your Home Paper carries from you to all the community and from all the community to you this friendly greeting:

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Service Improvements On Ottertail Power Co. System

The Otter Tail Power Company has made many improvements the past year. On December 10th 1947 a 1000 KW Diesel powered generator was put into service at the Hallock Plant which will improve the general service and voltage in all of the towns in the area of Northwestern Minnesota and Northeast North Dakota. This includes the following towns: Argyle, Stephen, Donaldson, Kennedy, Karlstad, Hallock, Northcote, Humboldt, Halma, Badger, Strandquist, St. Vincent Noyes, Pembina, N. D., Neche, N. D., Bathgate, N. D., Hamilton, N. D., Lancaster, Lake Bronson, Greenbush.

During the weekend of December 13th and 14th, the new line between Pembina and Hallock was changed over to operating voltage of 41,600 volts. The previous voltage was 23,000 volts New substations were cut into service at Humboldt, Northcote and Hallock.

Also, the line between Argyle and Hallock was changed from 23,000 volt operation to 33,000 volt operation. New substations were cut into service at Kennedy Donaldson, Stephen and Argyle. The changes in substations included new transformers with greatly increased capacity.

Operating conditions will be improved and interruptions due to trouble and transmission maintenance will be greatly reduced by installation on new oil switches at Argyle and Hallock.

The company wishes to thank all the customers served on this system for their patience during the short periods of interruption of service, which were necessary over the week end of December 13th and 14th while the work was going on. These interruptions were reduced to a minimum through the use of a portable 150 KW Diesel powered generator which served the towns in the hours during which the substations and lines were changed over.

TRAINING YOUR DOG

THERE'S a great difference in dogs. So if you are going to own a dog, give time and thought to what kind of a dog it should be. If you have lots of room — fields, woods, lawns — the working class dog is for you. Collies and Belgian Sheepdogs are included here and they have proven their value in herding sheep and cattle.

The German Shepherd dog is another breed outstanding for herding ability and an excellent watch dog to boot. Working dogs are a dignified, powerful, serious lot, yet they will smother you with affection if treated right. Other breeds of dogs, as classified by the American Kennel club—their health, diet and training—are discussed in our booklet No. 78.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Senate Ratifies Zonal Defense Pact; Administration Offers Inflation Bill; French Labor Crisis Comes to End

Released by WNU Features.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

HEMISPHERE

Defense Treaty OK'd

This is, as Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (Rep., Mich.) told his fellow senators, "a significant moment to demonstrate the solidarity of this hemisphere."

And with the knowledge of that certain fact uppermost in their minds members of the U. S. senate voted 72 to 1 to ratify the inter-American defense treaty agreed to by 21 American republics at the Rio conference last summer.

The hemispheric agreement for mutual defense of nations in the Americas embodies three main points:

1. In case of armed attack from outside the hemisphere, all nations have the automatic right to meet the attack with military force.
2. If attack occurs inside the hemisphere, American nations may go voluntarily to the aid of the victim, with consultations to follow.
3. If attacks occur both inside the hemisphere and outside the security region immediate consultations will be called.

Virtually unanimous approval of the treaty by the senate was a good indication that congress was fully aware of the cardinal principle of successful foreign relations that commitments abroad are worse than useless unless the nation forms strong and lasting alliances to support those commitments. The hemispheric treaty had in it the makings of a good foreign policy.

Meanwhile, President Truman had some thoughts on how inter-American defense could be advanced from theory to the realm of actuality. He proposed to congress that the Panama canal be converted into a sea-level waterway (see map), and that a unified command be established in the Atlantic area with Adm. H. P. Blandy in authority over army, navy and air forces from Iceland and Greenland to the Caribbean.

CHALLENGE:
Accepted

Republican leaders had issued a direct challenge to the administration to offer a bill incorporating President Truman's ration-and-control recommendations for combating inflation, and the measure which the administration finally proposed was neither more nor less than anyone had expected.

Handed to the senate judiciary committee by Averell Harriman, secretary of commerce, the specific bill called for expansive powers to ration food, gasoline, steel and other scarce commodities.

Theoretically it was a bill to allocate materials to essential users, control business inventories and continue export controls; but administration spokesmen admitted that the allocation powers provided for would authorize the government to impose consumer rationing and even to buy up entire grain crops if it saw the necessity for such action.

And through the welter of the administration-Republican melee over what to do and how to do it there came at least two charges of "socialization" from top U. S. businessmen leveled at the government's avowed program.

J. O. McClintock, president of the Chicago board of trade, said:

"Mr. Harriman's statement that the entire grain crops of the U. S. should be purchased to effect more even distribution certainly would be regarded by the producers of America as another step toward the socialization of agriculture and from that point of view obviously be considered by the farmers as discrimination against their freedom of enterprise which they always have cherished."

Edward E. Brown, chairman of the First National bank of Chicago, declared that proposals to restrict bank credits were an attempt to "socialize" the banking industry.

CRISIS ENDED:
France Wins

France, as nearly as could be ascertained in these times of mercurial events, apparently had broken the threat of immediate economic disaster and was making ready to stage a comeback.

Major focal point of the crisis—the Communist-led strikes of more than a million French workers—had been dissolved by Premier Robert Schuman.

The Communist controlled general confederation of labor (CGT) had yielded to Schuman's ultimatum and ordered nearly a million workers still on strike to return to their jobs. The action climaxed a spreading back-to-work movement on the part of the workers themselves.

With its strike front disintegrated by new stringent laws, Communist leadership accepted Schuman's "final" offer — a $12.60 bonus living allowance for all workers who returned immediately.

While it might be too early to predict with certainty, it appeared as though the breaking of the nation-wide strike marked the end of the direct Communist menace to the French government. At least it was a serious setback for the Reds.

Supporting the theory that Communist power in France is on the wane was the fact that, on the same day the strikers agreed to return to work, the Soviet Union broke off trade talks with France aimed at bringing sorely needed grain into the country from Russia. The Russians also threatened to terminate the 1944 Franco-Russian alliance.

This was taken to mean that the Russians do not intend to do anything to aid France if the Communist party there has no chance of success in its efforts to take over the government.

On the other side of the political balance, Schuman's achievement in breaking the strike was believed to have postponed, perhaps for months the return to power of Gen. Charles DeGaulle and his extreme rightist party, Rally of the French People.

HONORED GLORY:
Unknown Soldier

Within the span of a few years a new monument will be erected next to the Unknown Soldier memorial in Arlington national cemetery.

On it will be inscribed words with an import similar to those appearing on the older monument: "Here rests in honored glory an American soldier, known but to God."

It will be the tomb of the Unknown Soldier of World War II.

The army already is making plans for selection of an unidentified body to be placed there. The ceremony probably will be similar to that followed in selecting the Unknown Soldier of World War I.

It is likely that it will involve the selection of the remains of one unknown soldier from those of nine unidentified men who fell in combat in the nine major combat areas.

Selection of the Unknown Soldier still is a long way off, however. It will not be done until the program for returning 250,000 World War II dead from overseas is completed in about three years.

OIL FOR THE MIDWEST

Lake Waterway Would Furnish Supply Route

Advocates of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway plan are insisting that the Midwest oil and fuel shortage would not be as serious as it is today if the proposed waterway were built and operating.

With congress making ready once again to vote on the project, the acute threat of underheated homes and idle factories in mid-America this winter highlights one of the potential new uses for the seaway: To relieve the nation's over-taxed railroads.

The Midwest fuel oil shortage is caused by demand which has grown bigger than the present capacity of railroad tank cars and Midwestern refineries, industry surveys point out. But there is no shortage of ships to carry oil from overseas sources of supply.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

If a small amount of vaseline is rubbed on the hinge of a new umbrella before using, it helps prevent rusting.

Dip hooks to be used on walls or doors in paint. This helps to prevent rusting and gives a more finished appearance to the room.

When using scotch tape, fold over the end on the spool. Then the next time the tape is to be used, cut off the folded part, and it's ready for use.

When placing a heavy wet article on a hanger to dry, pad the hanger well by wrapping a towel around it. This gives better shape to the article as it dries and prevents it from being marred by rust.

A piece of fine sandpaper dampened, will help remove lint from mohair or felt. Rub lightly.

Improvise a sleeve board by taking the kitchen rolling pin and wrap it with several clean towels. This forms a firm padded surface to slip into the sleeve and iron over.

Do not wash the bag of your vacuum cleaner. Washing removes the special finish that makes the bag dustproof. Brush the bag instead.

Turn the broom from time to time when sweeping so the bristles wear evenly.

That's Ambition

It was the job of Joey, the village dullard, as "Keeper of the Cannon," to polish the antique cannon in the village square. During a celebration, the mayor commented on the brightness of the brasswork and suggested the crowd give Joey a rousing vote of thanks. Joey beamed all the way home. "Maw," he boasted to his wife, "the mayor said what a nice job I been doin' on the cannon. Everybody gave me three cheers!"

"You know," said his wife, "I've been thinkin'. You been on that job more'n 40 years and got no place. Why don't you buy a cannon and go into business for yourself?"

Kidneys Must Work Well—
For You To Feel Well
24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.
Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

JUST JESTING

Aimed Right

"Jimmy!" his mother exclaimed. "How dare you kick your little brother in the stomach?"

"It's his own fault, Ma. He turned around."

Shop Talk

A jeweler's assistant, an absent-minded fellow, was being married. He was presenting the bride with the ring when he hesitated.

"With this ring," prompted the minister.

"With this ring," said the bridegroom, "we give a written guarantee, reminding the customer that the price will be refunded if it is not as represented."

Should Stop It

He was about to leave for the office when his wife handed him a small parcel.

"What's this, dear?" he asked.

"A bottle of hair tonic."

"That's very nice of you, but—er—"

"Oh, it's not for you!" she replied. "It's for your typist. Her hair is coming out badly on your coat."

That Clinched It

"Why didn't you say 'Get thee behind me, Satan?' " asked the clergyman when his wife told him she'd bought a new dress because the devil tempted her.

"I did," she answered, "but he said, 'My dear, it fits you beautifully at the back.' "

A wit says: "You never can tell about women, and if you can you shouldn't."

Her Reputation

A woman on holiday posed for a snapshot in front of the classic ruins of an ancient temple in Greece.

"Don't get the car into the picture," she begged, "or my husband will think I ran into the place!"

Trend Toward Religious Christmas Indicated

People are placing greater emphasis this year on the religious significance of Christmas. This is indicated by the popularity of Christmas cards featuring whimsical angels, snow-covered landscapes about village churches, the traditional Bethlehem scenes and similar religious themes.

Many of this year's greetings recall the first Christmas with passages from the scriptures and famous prayers, illustrated by colorful Nativity scenes and reproductions of famous Madonnas. Present-day religious practices are emphasized by congregations streaming to church on Christmas morning, families praying and choir boys singing "Noel."

comrades of the cross

I cannot think or reason,
  I only know He came.
With hands and feet of healing
  And wild heart all aflame.

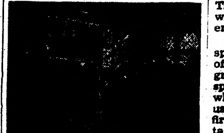
With eyes that dimmed and softened
  At all the things He saw,
And in His pillared singing
  I read the marching Law.

I only know He loves me,
  Enfolds and understands—
And oh, His heart that holds me,
  And oh, His certain hands.

The Man, the Christ, the Soldier,
  Who from His cross of pain
Cried to the dying comrade,
  "Lad, we shall meet again."
—By Willard Wattles.

English Schoolboys Originated Cards

The basic idea for today's expressive Christmas greetings traces back to an old English custom. More than 250 years ago, English school children demonstrated their penmanship by drawing elaborate "Christmas Pieces" using large sheets of special paper with engraved borders picturing the year's important events.

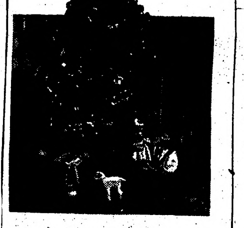


Character of Santa Claus Leads Others

No other Christmas symbol has a greater hold on the youth of the world than the character of Santa Claus. He probably originated in Holland and was imported to America by the early Dutch settlers. While his character has been changed in different countries and regions he remains in spirit the same Santa that came from Holland.

Our Favorite Trees For Christmas

FIR and spruce are the predominating favorites among Christmas trees. Balsam fir always has been an American favorite. The story goes that the Lord sent three messengers—Faith, Hope and Love—to find a tree as high as Faith, as eternal as Hope, and as wide-spread as Love, and which bore the Sign of the Cross on every bough. They brought back the balsam fir. Three varieties of spruce, blue, white or Norway, also are big sellers in the tree markets.



If your tree is neither fir nor spruce, you may have some variety of pine or cedar. Almost any evergreen makes a Christmas tree, the species being dictated largely by where you live. In Colorado folks use the lodgepole pine because the firs grow too high up in the mountains to be cut and shipped easily. Tennessee uses white cedar, and in California you may even get a redwood.

Burning of Greens Is Ancient Festivity

The Burning of the Greens has formed a central part of Twelfth Night festivities in England since the Middle Ages. Large fires were held to purify the fields and to assure bountiful crops. Everyone in the district gathered together to sing the Wassail Song and to drink from the Wassail Cup.

The ceremony was revived in America in 1930, when George M. Haushalter held a Burning of the Greens at Rochester, N. Y., and since has become an annual event there as well as in other communities. Discarded Christmas trees and wreaths were held for the New Year's celebration, then collected and burned at a gala community bonfire. It has been accepted as the end of the New Year's celebrations.

Object to Christmas

To the Jehovah's Witnesses, a Christmas tree in one's home "signifies that one is willing to worship the evil descending all the way from Nimrod."

The Witnesses also believe that Christmas should not be celebrated because it is an admixture of a Christian idea and a pagan setting. The older Witnesses still observe Christmas because the founder nowhere spoke against it.

Spanish Matador Poses Unarmed to Fool Bull

Spain has recently revived a dangerous form of bullfighting, according to Collier's, in which the matador is unarmed and does not fight, but attempts to make the bull believe that he is a statue as he poses, dressed in white clothes, on a small white pedestal in the center of the ring.

Out of every 10 bulls engaged, approximately 7 are fooled at the first glance and walk away, while the others are not deceived until they push the statuesque matador down off the pedestal and see his body motionless on the ground. Occasionally, a bull is not duped at all and the matador has to run for his life.

Astride Lion

Among the rare circus acts which are now being performed in this country is that of a wild-animal trainer who makes a full-grown lion gallop around a ring while he rides on its back, steadying himself by clutching its mane.
